

Kouchibouguac Notes.

Mr. Jas. Clary, of East Kingston New Hampshire U. S., is visiting at his old home here.

Mrs. Dale and two children, of Coes, New Hampshire are visiting at the home of Mrs. Dale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Clark.

Miss Bella Carter and Miss Janie Kingston, of Portland Me., are home for a few weeks vacation. Their many young friends are pleased to welcome them back again.

Mr. Edward Clark, of Lisbon Falls, U. S. arrived home Thursday on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tnos. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Graham, of Coes, New Hampshire are here on a visit to parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham Sr.

Mrs. Fred Thibedeau and three children, of Lisbon Falls, U. S., are here visiting he mother of Mrs. T., Mrs. McNaught.

Mr. C. J. Sayre Q. C., of Richibucto, spent Thursday of last week in the village while here Mr. S. was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson. Mr. S. enjoyed a few hours fishing on our beautiful river and succeeded in landing a trout weighing 3 lbs 3 ozs. His many friends in this vicinity were pleased to meet him and delighted to see him looking so hale and hearty. Your correspondent has been very creditably informed that Mr. S. has located a new Klondyke on the banks of the Kouchibouguac.

Mr. Finlay Anderson, of Chatham, was in the village on Thursday.

Miss Besie McLeod, who has been visiting friends here returned to the Beaches on Thursday last.

Mrs. Curren, of Boston has been visiting here for some days.

On Wednesday evening a very happy event took place at the residence of Mr. Jas. Smith, when his eldest daughter Miss Cynthia, was united in marriage to Mr. Jas. Carter. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. Both young people are deservedly popular in the community and all unite in wishing them a long and happy wedded life. The Review extends congratulations.

On Sabbath last Mr. Basiel Johnston, Collector of Customs, Richibucto, conducted the musical part of the service in the Roman Catholic church here. In the afternoon he assisted the Rev. Father Pattencaude at St. Margrets.

Dr. Bourque, of town spent some hours in the village on Sunday. In the afternoon he drove to Pt. Sapin, on professional business.

Mrs. Robertson and her daughter Mrs. Thos. McMaster, of Bay du Vin are here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Grogan.

The funeral of late Mr. Fred Williams and Mr. Hugh Stewart, victims of the fatal drowning accident at the mouth of the Black River, as mentioned in your last issue, took place on Monday week, and were the largest ever seen in this place. Upwards of one hundred teams were in the sad procession. The Rev. Fr. Pellies, of St. Louis, assisted Fr. Pattencaude in performing the last rites of the church.

Mr. Cliff. Atkinson has returned home after enjoying a week's well earned vacation to his old home in Sackville. While away Mr. Atkinson visited friends in Buctouche, Shediac and Dorchester.

The Trustees of the Tweedie Brook school have received the services of Miss Robicheaud for the ensuing term.

Messrs. Jas. Flannagan of Moncton and Roger Flannagan of Chatham were the guests of Mr. Atkinson on Monday last. Misses Grierson and Mr. David Grierson of Richibucto were visiting friends here last week.

Miss Lizzie McCafferty of McLeod's Mills is visiting relatives in this place.

Miss Anireaux, of Boston, spent a few days here last week as the guest of her sister, the teacher in the village school.

Misses K. Tweedie and L. Michaud, of Portland Me., are visiting at Mr. John Beattie Jr.

Mr. Cliff. Atkinson drove to Kingston on Monday to inspect the work on the Kingston bridges, now undergoing repairs.

Mr. H. B. Wood Sr., has purchased the house and land at present occupied by him. He is erecting a barn on the rear of the lot.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Grogan are pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his recent serious illness.

Mr. Robinson returned home on Saturday very much improved in health. On Sunday he conducted service in the Presbyterian church and at McLeod's Mills. The service in the morning at the church was very largely attended.

Mr. J. R. Little Sr., shortly after his return from church service on Sabbath was taken suddenly ill, causing his relatives and friends much anxiety. At the time of writing he has much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Jardine drove to Kingston on Saturday.

To the memory of our dear sister Leovina who died 11th August 1897.

Little hands, like rose leaves folded
On our darling's loving breast!
Snowy buds, her palms between
Sweetly sleep, our little Vene!

Found so soon, the Heavenly gateway
Wearied of the struggle here;
In God's gardens, fair and green
With the angels, walks sweet Vene!

Loving eyes, that gaze forever
On the unveiled Face of God!
O to see what you have seen,
Blessed eyes, of little Vene!

He so loves his lambs to gather;
To the shelter of his arms,—
In Thy Paradise serene,
Waiting for us,—dwells our Vene.

Melon Thieves Poisoned

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 28.—Meagre particulars of a wholesale poisoning have reached this city from Calloway county. Eight persons are reported to have been poisoned by eating a melon stolen from a neighbor's patch. Seven of the number are dead and the eighth is in a serious condition. The names of the victims have not been secured.

Father and Son Killed.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—D. Beaudin and two sons were killed by lightning at St. Chrysostome. Their farm buildings were burned to the ground.

Wrong end up

Monsieur Calino have taken a farm, he is very careful to instruct his assistants to take the proper and systematic course in all they do. 'Be sure you begin your work at the bottom,' is his favorite maxim and he repeats it whenever he sets his men at work.

Lately he had occasion to dis a well on the place, and put to this duty a couple of men experienced in that line of work. 'And be sure,' he said to them, as they got their picks and shovels ready, 'that you begin your work at the bottom!'

It was still more curious reversal of things, perhaps, which led one of Monsieur Calino's servants, a good woman, to come running to him one day with the announcement:

'Quick, monsieur, come here! Your little Jean has fallen into the ditch, and he's into the mud up to his ankles!'

'Up to his ankles?' said Calino. 'Why, that's nothing.'

'Oh, but I forgot to tell you,' said the woman, 'that he's in head first!'

—John B. Forster, warden of Dorchester penitentiary, was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with perjury. Mr. Forster and Robt. Cook traded horses recently and as a result Mr. Forster had Mr. Cook arrested on a charge of fraud in that he represented that his horse was sound, while as a matter of fact it was suffering from the heaves. Mr. Cook was committed for trial and now has Mr. Forster arrested, alleging he committed perjury in swearing that he had only traded horses twice since he became a resident of Dorchester.

HE FORESAW THE FUTURE.

James G. Blaine's Prophetic Words About His Political Career.

I first made the acquaintance of Mr. Blaine during the congress session of 1865-6. He was then beginning his second term in the house. At that time I owned and edited a country newspaper in General Garfield's district. One day in the fall of 1865 Garfield wrote me to come up to his hilltop home in the little college town of Hiram. He told me that he thought it would be a good thing for a young newspaper man to study national politics in Washington and get acquainted with national men, and that he would undertake to get me a clerkship in the house of representatives. In due time he spoke to his old friend, General Robert C. Schenck, who was chairman of the committee on military affairs, and the result was I was given the clerkship of that committee.

Colefax was speaker of the house, and for some reason or other he seemed to have little liking for the ambitious young member from the Augusta district of Maine, for he appointed Blaine to a position near the foot of that committee. Now, Blaine had not served in the army and had no knowledge of military legislation and no taste for that kind of work. He used to be a country editor himself, and he appeared to take a fancy to the young clerk from Ohio. He would often drop into the committee room, and, standing before the wood fire, would talk freely to me about his newspaper and political career and his plans and hopes for the future.

I remember that he said one day: 'I do not like this military committee business and ought not to be here. Next congress I am going to be on the committee on appropriations or ways and means. Financial questions will soon be the dominant ones in congress. Two years later I expect to be chairman of my committee. Then I think I shall be speaker of the house and after awhile I hope to go to the senate.'

Everything came about exactly as he planned. He had wonderful prescience concerning his own future, as well as in relation to political events. When he was a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1880, he said to me: 'My career has thus far closely paralleled that of Henry Clay. He was speaker of the house and then senator. His party refused to nominate him as long as it had any chance of electing a president. When it had no longer any chance, it gave him the nomination he had so long sought. I believe that is going to be my fate.'—Chicago Times-Herald.

ANCIENT CORPORATIONS.

Trade Monopolies That Were Almost Savage in Their Operation.

Apprentices became no better than serfs and slaves. They were not merely pitilessly fined and brutally punished, they were often left in ignorance of the craft that they had purchased the right to learn. In that frightful social and moral revulsion following the long and devastating wars of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the corporations became more determined than ever to maintain their industrial aristocracy and monopoly. They refused to admit any trade less ancient and honorable than their own to the rights and privileges of the law; they soiled themselves by contact with no person of illegitimate birth; and in their savage and relentless pursuit of persons engaged in unauthorized traffic they invaded the homes of contraband workmen, confiscating both their tools and the hidden products of their toil, leaving them and their families destitute and starving.

To such absurd lengths was the creation of corporations carried for the production of new taxes and new places for court favorites that occupations like the teaching of dancing, the selling of flowers and the catching of birds were organized, and homogeneous occupations like the hatmakers' and carpenters' were divided and subdivided beyond the comprehension of the modern mind. But despite the ingenuity of lawyers and the vigilance of armies of inspectors the lines of demarcation could not be drawn so sharply as to avoid conflicts of interests. The makers of felt hats quarreled with the makers of cotton hats. The spinners who had purchased the right to use hemp quarreled with those that had purchased the right to use flax. The shoemakers fought with the cobblers that reproduced more than two-thirds of an old shoe. The cutlers that made the handles of knives fought with those that made the blades. The relations of the makers of wooden porringers and the makers of wooden spoons were equally belligerent.—Franklin Smith in Popular Science Monthly.

The Struggling Young Author.

'I have always read, and always with interest,' said the struggling young author, 'what literary men had to say concerning their habits of work. In many cases productiveness appears to depend upon mood—sometimes a man can write and sometimes he can't. A man's feeling in condition can do any sort of work, no doubt, better than when he is out of condition, but a man may be mistaken in himself. I find that it is a good thing to make a beginning. 'Often the mere effort of making a beginning is enough to dispel clouds that had seemed to be heavy, but which are shown to be mere films, and one touch of concentration is enough to bring back fancies that you had thought were wandering far from home, but were really leading about right near, waiting only to be called.'—New York Sun.

A Coincidence.

'The man who brought this in,' remarked the editor's assistant as he unrolled half a yard of manuscript, 'told me confidentially that he needed the money for it.' 'Yes,' was the melancholy answer. 'It's a strange fact that the longest poems seem almost invariably to be written by the shortest poets.'—Washington Star.
