Buctouche Notes.

Oct. 5.—Preparations for the near at hand races are being rapidly carried forward. If the weather continues fine, there is no reason why the opening of the Jubilee Park should not be a memorable event in the history of Buctouche. A large amount of success is certainly due the young men who took such an active part in adding the park to the list of the town's attractions.

Scarcely secondary, at least in the young folk's opinion, to the races, is the coming basket social. Unlimited fun, a dainty lunch, and a moonlight walk home, are prospects that are apt to make this particular social irresistible to the majority of mankind.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hutchinson returned last week from a very enjoyable trip to Minneapolis.

Mrs. Roberts is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Irving.

Miss Serena Doherty and Misses Gladys and Eunice Irving of Milltown, are in town.

Miss Maie Smythe, of Notre Dame, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Tho. Burns and Miss Mary McInerney, of Kingston, paid a flying visit to Buctouche to-day.

Dr. H. H. Chandler, of Coacaine, is spending a few days here.

Miss Gertrude McDonald, who has been visiting her friend Miss Ella McPhaden for the past week returned to Kingston, to-day.

Mrs. Edwin Peterson (nee Hanning-ton) of Boston, is visiting the Misses Douglass.

The advanced department of the superior school has been closed for a few days, owing to illness of the teacher, Mr. H. S. Goddard.

Mrs. A. J. Gorman, who has been quite ill for the past three weeks, is recovering under the skillful treatment of Dr. Ferguson.

Mr. Arthur Smith, of Notre Dame has moved to Buctouche and opened up store in the building lately occupied by Mr. Matthew Smith.

Among the commercial men in town are Messrs. De Hurtle, B. H. Barnes, Comeau, and Farrand.

CUPID AND PHYCHE.

Malou River Notes

The fine weather of the past week has been of great advantage to the farmers. The larger part of the late grain is now safely in the barns.

Miss Hattie Warner has gone to Peabody, Mass.

Mr. James Dargavel is and has been for some time very poorly.

The threshing mills are now all running. The oats though light are a much better crop than one could have been expected.

The wonderful Bertrine phonograph owned by a gentleman well known in Kent has been astonishing and delighting the people of the parish. As being the only one of the kind in N. B., it is regarded as a great treat. Songs have been rendered by it so loud and clear as to be heard distinctly over half a mile away.

There is a prospect of a lively Municipal contest. It is said that the following tickets will be in the field: R. Murphy and Alex. Murray, Joseph Miller and James Barnes. As all of these gentlemen are well known and some of them very popular, a lively contest may be expected. As they are all men of good temper and it is said all personal friends, it is quite likely that we will see a contest largely devoid of personal feeling.

The deplorable condition of Kent Co. roads will engage per force the attention of our next board to a greater degree than before. And it were well that our people should divest themselves of prejudice in the selections of men and send only the very best.

There is a strong feeling in the parish from end to end as to the way the present Provincial Government has conducted the affairs. Were there a strong man leading the opposition, one in whom the people had confidence the government standard bearers would have a poor chance, as it is with the one man who stood for honesty and fair play to all classes and of politics they are likely to have a walk-over in the coming fight.

It is only when leaders die or retire that we know their value. Thousands all over New Brunswick, who while he was in politics, opposed Mr. Phinney, would now gladly see him Premier of N. B. C. C. C.

Railway to Klondyke.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The construction of a railroad from Vancouver or from some point east of that place on the Canadian Pacific to Dawson City and the Klondyke country in general will not be a very difficult or expensive undertaking in the opinion of Collingwood Schreiber, of Ottawa, who is now in this city. He arrived yesterday with a party of Ottawa people, including E. Newcomb, Deputy Minister of Justice.

In discussing the building of a road to Dawson Mr. Schreiber says two surveys are now being made from different points on the Canadian Pacific. The latter company is making one of the surveys and the government is making the other. It will be necessary to build only ninety miles of railroad to make a good rail and water route from the Canadian Pacific line to Dawson City. The railroad can be operated the year around, but during the winter months the water route will not be open for steamboats. The chief object of Mr. Schreiber's western trip is to inspect the progress of the work on the Crow's Nest Pass railroad, which virtually means another Canadian transcontinental rail way. The government has granted it a subsidy of $10,000 a mile. It is to be built by way of Nelson, on Lake Kootenay, and will run through the Rossland mining district. It is undecided yet whether the new overland will be extended west to Tidewater or join the Canadian Pacific at Hope, which is eighty-eight miles east of Vancouver. The total length of the line will be about six hundred miles.

SEATTLE, Oct. 4.—George Stanley, who is mining in Eldorado Creek, in the Yukon, writes to his father in this city that claims owned by his father and partner, Warder, on Eldorado Creek will pay out half a million in gold nuggets this winter. The letter predicts that claims on Bear Creek will turn out as rich as those of Bonanza and Eldorado Creeks, past averaging five dollars each. Stanley also writes that the Canadian government is exacting a royalty of 25 cents per cord on coal to be used in thawing the gray ice this winter. During the summer forest fires have destroyed a large amount of woodwork. Owing to the scarcity of water out little sluicing has been done.

Vice Regal Party At Antigonish. ANTIGONISH, Oct. 3.—Lord and Lady Aberdeen, accompanied by Lieut. Governor Daly, arrived here to-day, enroute for Cape Breton. The town corporation presented an address, which was read in English, Latin and French and secured the assistance of an interpreter to respond in Gaelic.

Mrs. JOSEPH NORWICK, of 88 Sorauer Ave., Toronto, writes: "Pyny-pectoral has never failed to cure my children of coughs after a few doses. It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. BARNOR, of Little Rock, N. B., writes: "As a cure for coughs Pyny-pectoral is the best selling medicine I have, my customers will have no other."

FIREFLY FLASHES.

The Method by Which the Insect Emits Its Beautiful Light.

"By what process do fireflies produce the beautiful flashes of light?" That is a question frequently asked, and as entomological books fail to give a satisfactory reply the following explanation may be interesting:

I have made a special study of the light, and carefully examined the mechanism of the illuminating segments in both male and female specimens. The light emitted, when tested by the spectroscope, gives a brilliant spectrum, which is continuous through all the colors from the red to the violet rays. The illuminating organs consist of distinct spherical cells, each one of which is about 1,200 of an inch in diameter, and the beetle has power to illuminate one or many of these cells at will, producing light of corresponding intensity. The cells contain a fluid saturated with phosphorus, and the covering of the cell is so thin that atmosphere coming in contact with it may affect the contents.

It has been suggested that the beetle produces the flashes of light or renders the phosphorus suddenly luminous by electricity—by the injection of warm fluids—or by friction. But it is certain that the flash of light is made in another way. We may clearly trace a connection between the spiracles and trachea (spiral air tubes) of the beetle and each of the illuminating cells, and find that the little creature renders the phosphorus contained in the cells luminous by forcing air upon them. The cells when thus excited emit light from their surface.

We may imitate the act of the beetle by dissecting one and placing the illuminating organ under a microscope, covered by a thin glass cover. When the cover is lifted so as to admit a little air, the cells become luminous.

We may add that the name "firefly" is a misnomer, as the "lightning bug" is a true beetle, belonging in the natural order coleoptera, and in the family lampyridae.—D. K. Winger in Detroit Free Press.

A Millionaire's Extravagance.

An example of extravagance by a well known millionaire who built himself a castle in one of the English midland counties is reported by The English Illustrated Magazine. The water of the place was pure and sufficient, but a case of scarlet fever occurring in the village at a little distance from his residence he took a dislike to the local water supply and at a cost of over $400,000 provided himself with a fresh supply from a distance of 18 miles. Without children or wife and a great traveler, he does not inhabit his own country place for more than three months in the year. Although he drinks no wine, his water is an expensive beverage. Allowing only 2 per cent on the money, with 1 per cent sinking fund, his water costs him $250 for every day he visits his castle. This supply, it should be added, is limited to the one house. There is really no reason why it should be shared with others, for the local supply is ample and of good quality.

Life in Small Cities

"The higher salaries of the larger cities is, perhaps, what attracts young men more potently than any other factor," writes Edward W. Bok in the October Ladies' Home Journal, pointing out "Where Success awaits Young Men"—in the smaller cities. "But, unfortunately," he says, "as thousands of young men have found for themselves, these salaries are not so high as they were led to believe nor will the city income buy as much in the metropolis as they bargained for. A salary of two thousand dollars a year in the big city will not bring the young man the comfortable living which one thousand dollars a year means to him in a smaller community. With a far more moderate salary the rising young clerk, manager or business man in the small city live like a king in comparison to the man of equal position in the large centre. If he earns a thousand or two a year he has his own little home by lease or purchase. For twenty-five dollars per month he can have his own pretty cottage, with God's pure sunshine on four sides of it. His children have their own grass-plot for their play-ground. His porch is his evening pleasure and his Sunday delight. Trees shade his street, cool his rooms, and make living a comfort. His friends live all around him. He knows the man who lives next door. His neighbor's children are his children's playmates. His social life has a meaning to it, it is a joy and an exhilaration to him. When he goes out in the evening it is into a home gathering where every face is familiar, and where he is known and welcomed. He has time to read, something which the man in the larger city, whom he envies, has not. His church is to him like a family gathering every Sunday morning. The man in the pulpit is his pastor, who, perhaps, has baptized him, married him, and will baptize and marry his children. Respected in his circle of friends, every step of progress in his business is known to them, and it is the cause for congratulation. He is within easy walking distance or trolley ride of his place of business. To his wife his home is her joy, and not her care. She has time for her children, her home her social duties, her reading and her church. The blood of health rushes through the veins of his children as they sleep and play in an unpolluted atmosphere. Life means something to such a man: it means happiness—the true measure of all success."

Breach of Promise Suit

A unusual breach of promise suit is being tried at Auburn, Me. The plaintiff is Arthur S. Melcher, a harness dealer, of Auburn, formerly a shoe merchant of Lewiston, aged about 50 years. The fair defendant is Mrs. W. E. Hadley, of San Diego, Cal., daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Dingley, Jr. of Augusta. She is about 30 years of age. Mr. Melcher was a widower and declares that from the time of his wife's death Miss Dingley made love to him and on more than one occasion proposed marriage, doing so at her own home in the presence of her mother. He demanded that they wait until his wife was dead for a year. In January last the wedding was set for June and Mr. Melcher gave his intended an engagement ring. He went to considerable expense fitting up a home and in making preparations for the marriage; all under the direction of Miss Dingley, who also made preparations for the event. Just before the date of the wedding Miss Dingley took ill, but as she convalesced she went driving with her attendant, and one night just before leaving for Boston was most affectionate, hugging and kissing him. The next Mr. Melcher knew was reading of her wedding to Mr. Hadley in the Lewiston paper, which published scare headlines, "Melcher Jilted," etc. Mr. Melcher asks $25,000 damages for his wounded affections. He says when Miss Dingley made love and proposed to him, he told her he was a poor man, and people would say he was after her riches, to which she replied that she didn't care about that, for she loved him and that she would marry him: that she had other chances and that she would throw them over. Several of Miss Dingley's love letters have been submitted in evidence.
