Mrs. H. H. James accompanied her husband to the shiretown on Monday. Mrs. John O'Leary is visiting friends in New York.

Sept. 28 -An interesting event took place yesterday morning which called forth manifestations of enthusiasm from almost everyone in town. Buctouche's most popular young lady, Miss Louise Cameron was united in marriage to Mr. John Cormier The seventeen year old bride, who is a decided brunette, was attired in brown and wore a very becoming hat. On returning from the church the bridal party was saluted with a discharge of guns, and the schooners in the harbor were decorated with flags in honor of the occasion. The bridegroom and his girl bride took dinner at the "Central."

A number of small social gatherings marked the past week as a very interesting one for the young people. Now dullness has settled over the town again and will probably be dispelled only by the coming off of the horse races. At a meeting of the park share holders on Saturday it was decided that the races will take place the 14th of October and that on the preceeding evening a basket social will be held in the hall, the proceeds to go towards thd park.

Sincerest sympathy is felt here for Mr. Jude LeBianc, Collector of Customs, in sorrow for the death of his only son Armand. The deceased was a bright merry boy of sixteen and a favorite with everyone. He died Saturday of apendecitis, after an illness of three days. His funeral which took place Sunday afternoon, was laigely attended. Misses Mamie and Josie Sutton left fo: Boston the week before last. Miss Josie will return before Christmas.

Mr. J. A. Irving who has been taking in the St. John Exhibition returned Friday evening.

Misses Alicia and Mary Dysary and Mr. Hugh Dysart of Cocagne were at the Vic toria Sunday.

Mr. Croake and his son Will, of the Moncton Transcript staff, spent severa days in Buctouche last week.

Mr. Guy McKinnon of St. John who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. John Smith, for the past two weeks returned home to-day.

Miss Alexander, of Kingston, was in town Sunday the guest of Mrs. A. J Gorman.

Mr. W. Johnson is spending a few days in Buctouche.

THE QUEST.

Upon my lips there fell when first the night Pales in the highest heaven, seeing day Far down the fathomless eastern depths

Pales with a fearful joy, a dread delight-Upon my lips, with wakeful watching white There fell a kiss. One instant's space it lay Soft as a roseleaf that the west winds fray, And then my eyes awoke to dazzled sight. The warmth, the tender impact and the thrill Burnt on my lips, and the calm pulse of sleep Awoke and quivered quick in soft surprise. From that day forward knew I love!

By day I search and nightly vigil keep For her revealed to me in such strange wise. -The Late H. C. Bunner in Scribner's.

THE BOER AT HOME.

He Does Not Hate All Englishmen, Only Some of Them.

Bryant Lindley met a Boer and asked the way. He received a surly answer which amounted to "Go to the devil!" Upon this he protested angrily, and the Boer rejoined in equal bad humor. At length the Boer shouted, "What's your name anyway?" and when he heard it his manner altered at once, and he exclaimed, "What, and are you the son of the great American missionary Daniel Lindley?" My friend gladly pleaded guilty to this charge, and the surly Boer became at once the most hospitable friend and begged forgiveness for his rudeness. As they rode together toward the road which my friend was seeking the Boer recounted with grateful satisfaction the many good deeds performed by the elder Lindley, but of them all the best to him was that represented by a sound thrashing he had once received at the hands of this venerable missionary. For it appeared that this particular Boer in his youth had been sent to a school taught by Lindley; that the Dutchman was noted for his size and strength and had bragged of his capacity to down the teacher, and had actually sought the opportunity by refusing obedience. But he soon learned that he had made a gross mistake, for this particular missionary was also a noted athlete and gave him such a hiding with a bullock whip that the young giant roared for mercy before the whole school. And for this and similar deeds the Boers loved the elder Lindley, and this particular Boer venerated his memory.

On the evening in question, when the two men were about to part, the Boer, who had been so uncivil at first, begged Lindley, with tears in his eyes, to grant him a great favor for the sake of his conscience. "Your father," said he, 'did me a service so great that I can never repay it-he gave me the worst thrashing I ever had-he saved my character, and I am a better man today, thanks to him."

My friend cheerfully promised to grant the request, puzzling his head as to what was going to be required of him. The Boer was mounted upon an excellent horse, which he prized beyond anything he owned. He dismount- for plaintiff and Wm. D. Carter for deed, put the reins in Lindley's hand and then ran away into the black forest as though the devil were after him. Here was no Indian giving. This Boer had put it out of the power of the American to discover the name or whereabouts of the strange giver.

It is a story typical of the Boer and serves to illustrate many apparent contradictions in his nature. He does not hate Englishmen in general. He hates for two hours, failed to reach an agreeonly those who seem to threaten his peculiar quality of independence. - "The Dutch Feeling Toward England," by Poultney Bigelow, in Harper's Maga-

The Old Sandbox.

"Blotting paper," said a man of mature years, "has been commonly used for only about 40 years. Before that we used sand, which was poured from a sand box out upon the paper. Enough of it adhered to the wet ink to keep it from blotting. The rest was poured back into the box. I think I liked the old sand bex better than I do the modern blotting paper. Sometimes when you opened a letter you would find sand in the envelope, which had rubbed off the letter in transit. But that didn't do any hart, and the letter itself was more sightly to look at than the letter of today. It did not shade off pale, where fresh ink had been taken from the lines bodily by the blotter-it was uniform in color. And the lines, fine and coarse, were just as the writer made them-not blended or blurred or softened or spread out, more nearly uniform. They were clear and precise and characteristic of "Some time ago," he said, "a large policy holder in my company was run over by a Brooklyn trolley car and his right leg painfully crushed. He remained conscious after the shock for three minutes, during which time be pulled out his watch and called the attention of the crowd to the fact that it was just 15 minutes of 12.
