

Kouchibouguac Notes.

The harvesting is now well on, many of the farmers have their grain in. Wheat is up to the average with oats and buckwheat especially good.

The W. S. Luggie & Co., factories at Point Sapin and Kouchibouguac Beach have closed for the season. All the fishermen were paid off and have returned to their respective homes. The season's operations proved fairly successful.

The bridge on the south side of the river opposite Mr. Geo. Jardine's mill, has undergone considerable repairs. The Potter built on the east end of the bridge has been graded. Mr. Geo. Jardine has had the contract from the Local Government. The work has been well looked after by the contractor.

Miss Annie Patterson who has been home with her parents for the last year, returned to Boston on Wednesday last. Miss Patterson has accepted a position as stenographer with a firm in that city. Her many young friends wish her success.

Weddings seem to be the order of the day. In your last issue we reported the marriage of a popular young couple. In this issue we have no less than two to report. The first occurred on Wednesday the 5th when Miss Gertrude McLeod and Mr. William Smith were united in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Meek, of Richibucto. Miss Janie Smith assisted the bride, and Mr. Angus McLeod did like honors for the groom. After the marriage followed a reception and tea at the home of the bride when a very pleasant time was spent by all present. The second occurred on Wednesday the 15th when the Roman Catholic Church was filled to its utmost capacity with friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The occasion being the marriage of Miss Mary Kelly, eldest daughter of John Kelly Esq., to Mr. P. Mannex of Boston. The bride was very becomingly attired in light grey silk dress trimmed with pearl silk, white hat with long white tips, white kid slippers and wore pearl ornaments. The bride was attended by her sister and the groom was ably supported by Mr. C. Kelly. Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple drove to the home of the bride's parents where a reception and dinner followed. Mr. and Mrs. Mannex will remain here a few days before returning to their future home in Boston.

To Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Mannex, THE REVIEW extends congratulations.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the residence of Mr. Geo. The usual games and amusements were indulged in during the evening. The party returned home about midnight, all having spent a most enjoyable time.

Many rumors are afloat with regard to the approaching Municipal election in this Parish. Our old Conneiller, Mr. Thomas McMaster, who has served the Parish faithfully for the past few years, is compelled to decline nomination on account of ill health. The names of several prominent gentlemen have been mentioned as among the possibilities for municipal honours. Among them being Mr. Geo. Jardine, Mr. Wm. M. Tweedie and Mr. Clifford Atkinson, etc. Your correspondent was informed by Mr. Atkinson that he and another gentleman—whose name I did not learn—from Point Sapin, would form a ticket and that there would be no contest.

Mr. Geo. Raymond has returned from St. John, whither he had gone to take in the Provincial Exhibition.

Pain in the Back.

Mr. M. P. Halpin, Brookville, Ont., makes a statement as follows: "For two years I suffered from kidney trouble, causing severe pain across my back, dizziness, headache, sleeplessness, etc. I had often to lean on the counter when serving a customer, so intense was the pain in my back. On taking Doan's Kidney Pills I improved from the very first, and now after using three boxes am all right; all my pains, aches and dizziness having disappeared, thanks to Doan's Pills."

Acting Secretary Roosevelt, who has been making an investigation into the reports that the battleship Indiana was seriously injured in docking at Halifax, says that the injury sustained consisted in the slight buckling of some of the plates, nowhere amounting to an inch and a half. DAN'S PRIVATE MARK

FOUND ON A MOSQUITO, IT SAVED HARDIN'S LIFE.

Neither Knife Nor Branding Iron Was Used on That Ranch, as the Owner Was a Pretty Fair Shot and Always Kept in Practice.

"There was pretty good shots," said the old sheep raiser when the boys had finished telling about some glass ball shooting they had done at the gun club tournament, "but folks nowadays don't do no shootin like they did a few years ago. There was Dan Hardin now, who ran a sheep ranch in west Texas in 1881: he could shoot."

"Pretty good shot, was he?" asked the boys, to draw the old man out.

"Well, he was a good, fair shot for them times and locality. A Colt's 45 was Dan's favorite. He run about 6,000 sheep and a good many cattle and horses. The ranchers all marked the ears of their stock, each man in a different way, to distinguish their property. Dan's mark was a hole in the left ear and an underbit in the right, and he never allowed a knife to be used on his ranch. He marked every animal himself with his six shooter, and he never made a mistake. It was a sight to see him galloping across the prairie on his mustang after a bunch of lambs or a round up of spring calves, a-placin his marks with his 45 and never varyin a sixteenth of an inch from where they belonged. Dan marked more mavericks than anybody else in the country put together."

"From practicin so much Dan got to be a first rate shot. He used to ride along in his pasture and put his mark on the coyotes and jack rabbits just to keep his hand in. It got so that nine times out of ten when a man killed a deer with his Winchester he would find a hole in its left and an underbit in its right ear, and he'd always send Dan over a quarter of venison when he got it home. I seen Dan win a bet of $50 one day from a tenderfoot. We was ridin along the road and we seen the ground a-humpin up where a mole was shovin along out of sight under the earth. Dan made his proposition, the tenderfoot took him up, and Dan's old 45 went off a couple of times. We dug the mole up, and there was the marks in his ears right where they belonged. After awhile I don't think there was a living thing on Dan's ranch except his wife's that didn't have his mark in its ears."

"This habit of Dan's got him out of a pretty bad scrape one time. Along about 1882, when free range commenced gettin scarce, the fence cutters got to cuttin the wire fences around the pastures and give the sheep men lots of trouble. Dan's had been cut half a dozen times, and he was mad. One day he rode out without his gun and saw a low down rustler named Tompkins slidin his wires like fiddlstrings with a pair of nippers. Tompkins got on his horse and let out, and Dan rode back to his ranch and got his gun. He struck out on Tompkins' trail and overhauled him about sundown in the little town that was the county seat. Dan shot him quietly and was about to get a cup of coffee and start back home when he was surprised by the sheriff's arrestin him. You see, that was about the time the law and order gang got to raisin Cain in the west and tryin to set down on promiscuous shootin and personal liberty. They scared up a judge and a jury somewhere and held a kind of court right away to try Dan. Tompkins had a lot of friends in town, among the horse thieves and fence grassers, and they came in by the dozen and swore that Tompkins hadn't been out of town for a week, and that Dan's story about his cuttin the fence didn't go. Dan had no witnesses, and it began to look kind of funny for him. They had Tompkins laid out on a table in the courtroom.

"Directly Dan went over and looked pretty sharp at Tompkins, and then he asked one of the deputies to go out to a little jewelry store across the street and bring a magnifying glass. The deputy went and got it, and Dan handed it to the judge and asked him to step down and look at something a minute. There was a mosquito with his bill fast in Tompkins' ear, and Dan a ked the judge to take a good look at it with the glass. The judge did so, and blief if that mosquito didn't have a hole in its left and an underbit in its right ear, as there as I'm sitting here. Everybody knew Dan's mark, and the court was convinced that Tompkins must have been growlin round his ranch. It was what you would call good circumstantial evidence, and ten minutes afterward Dan was on his way home."

There was a little silence among the boys, and then the one who had broken 45 glass balls out of a possible 50 suggested that some lemonade be handed round at his expense. — Washington Star.

From the cathedral tower at Antwerp 40 bells have, for over 200 years, rung out music for the benefit of the people living on the green fields which border the Scheldt. Once a year, in the month of February, the authorities select the music, and the organ plays every hour from the old masters of Christian song.
