Fighting
the Fires.

Hard life the plucky firemen lead; out in all sorts of weather, —losing sleep, catching cold and straining their backs.

Hard to have strong, well kidneys under such conditions.

That's why firemen, policemen and others, who are exposed to the weather, are so often troubled with Weak, Lame Backs and with Urinary Troubles.

DOAN'S Kidney Pills

are helping hundreds of such to health.
Mr. John Robinson, Chief of the fire department, Dresden, Ont., says:
"Prior to taking these pills I had kidney trouble which caused severe pain in the small of my back and in both sides.
I had a tired feeling and never seemed to be able to get rested. However, I commenced the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking three boxes am completely cured. I have now no backache or urinary trouble, and the tired feeling is completely gone. In fact, I am well and strong."

RAISING BABY BEEF.

In producing first-class, young beef, the breed of cattle selected is a very important point, writes M. C. Thomas. The three leading breeds are: Shorthorns, Polled Angus and Herefords. There are a few others that some recommend, but wherever they have been tested they have not proven equal to the breeds just mentioned. The beef qualities of some of our cattle have been greatly reduced by being mixed up and crossed so much with the dairy breeds. There is no use trying to raise beef from dairy cattle. If you want to run a dairy get a dairy breed but if you desire beef, procure a beef breed. Study the qualities of the leading beef breeds and select the one that nearest suits your fancy. If you choose a breed that you do not naturally have a liking for, you will not make a success with it. Because your neighbor breeds Shorthorns is no reason why you must.

After the breed has been selected, pay particular attention to the feed and care.
When it is possible, I prefer to have the calves come in February or early in March.
If the cows are in good flesh when winter sets in, and are not giving a full flow of milk, they will not need so much extra care to keep them in first-class order until calving time. Until they have calved, good clover hay and corn fodder can be their principal diet, but when they begin to give milk, they should be given in addition to the hay and fodder, some oil-meal, bran, middlings, etc. This will produce a heavy flow of milk and will keep the calf growing rapidly until it gets old enough to stand pushing. When grass comes the cow will give a large quantity, thereby causing the calf to make rapid strides.

As soon as the calf is old enough to eat, begin feeding it a little oats, bran and shelled corn, and when it is about four months old, gradually increase the feed and decrease the amount of milk. By the time it is five months old, have it entirely weaned and on full feed of corn, oats and bran. Be very careful about making these changes too rapidly. They should be so gradual that the calf will not notice them. Always have plenty of good clean water and salt in easy reach. If they cannot have all the water they want their growth will be greatly retarded. When the grass begins to fail in the fall supply green corn fodder and clover hay, and as cold weather approaches, if possible, provide a shed where they can go in and out as they like. Never fail to let them have all the grain and hay they will eat.

By caring for them in this manner they will weigh from 900 to 1,000 lbs. at one year old, if of good stock to begin with.
I prefer to sell at that age. Some may prefer to keep them longer, but I believe it pays to sell younger and keep more cows.

THE FLOCK IN AUTUMN.

The critical time of year in the management of the sheep is here, the fall. What you do now is like the laying of plans for the year. If you sell all the best lambs and keep the poor ones your reward will come. If you keep the best you will also reap that which you sow. If you breed to a poor ram your product will be bad, no matter how much you toil and plan.
Feed itself, the greatest of all helps, cannot undo the damages an inferior sire produces. Remember from a breeding standpoint the ram is half of the flock.

Do not let anyone make you believe that breed is the most important thing, though it is always well to breed in straight lines. A good, rugged ram is what you want, something strong, something fixed, that your lambs may be what you expected, and plenty of them. Do not breed to any ram that you would not say to him, "He is a good one, and a good one at both ends." Plan all sorts of ways to give your sheep plenty of good feed early in the fall, and keep it up all winter. Do not neglect the sheep.

BURNING WEEDS.

It is a mistake to let weeds go to seed in the garden or around the farm, under the impression that they can be destroyed if gathered in the fall and burned. In the first place the job is apt to be forgotten until most of the weed seeds have been scattered. Even if a weed is burned its seeds may not be destroyed unless a hot fire of brush is first made and the weed seeds are thrown on a mass of burning coals. If weeds are piled in heaps they burn slowly, and as the seeds fall to the ground it is protected from burning by the strata of carbonic-acid gas that is found at the bottom of all slow-burning fires.

GROWING WHEAT.

Wheat is grown all over the world in the southern as well as in the northern hemisphere, and as the winter in half of the world occurs when the other half has its summer, the Chilians and Australians are sowing and reaping wheat while the northern hemisphere is wrapped in snow.
In so many countries is wheat grown and under such diverse conditions, that there is no month in the year during which wheat sowing or a wheat harvest is not going on somewhere.

A CHANCE FOR EXPORTERS.

The following letter from H. R. Emmerson is self explanatory:—

I have received from Mr. Hammond Watson, Curator Canadian Section Imperial Institute, Imperial Institute Road, London, S. W., a communication stating as follows:—

1 A Midlands firm, with a large Provincial connection, wishes to hear from exporters of Canadian turnkeys.

2 A Scotch firm is seeking a Canadian manufacturer of wood pulp who can export regularly. They would either be willing to act as representative for the whole of Scotland, or purchase the pulp themselves.

3 Asking names of Manufacturers of mouldings wishing to export, for the reason that there are plenty of buyers there.

If there are any person who desire to avail themselves of the above inquiries, they would do well to write to Mr. Watson, whose address is as above, or they could address Mr. C. A. Duff Miller, Agent General of New Brunswick, 17
Leather Market, London, S. E.

Yours truly,

Barbers of Austria.

Austrians are very methodical in many things, and they take no chances with their barbers. The Barbers' and Wigmakers' union of Vienna sees to it that only competent persons are admitted to practice. Barbers must, of course, have a thorough knowledge of the practical side of the subject, and they are questioned as to keeping razors, brushes, etc., clean, and the general idea of antiseptics must be well understood by them. When the barbers appear before the committee, they have their razors dulled on a pine plank, and they must then sharpen them and proceed to shave a subject.

These subjects are recruited from the poor and from among those who are fond of getting something for nothing.
If the apprentice performs his work to the satisfaction of the judges, a certificate is issued to him, and he must serve as an apprentice for two years before he can open a shop of his own. Provision is also made for women barbers who desire to carry on the business of their husbands. To do this the women have to be enrolled as apprentices for three years, and they must exhibit a great proficiency before they are allowed to open an establishment of their own. The barber business in Austria is not particularly lucrative, as one can be shaved for 5 cents and have one's hair cut for about 8 cents.—Scientific Amer-

How Queen Bess Dined.

The setting out of the dinner of Queen Elizabeth was a ceremonious function. First came a gentleman with a rod, followed by a gentleman carrying a tablecloth, which, after they had knelt reverently three times, was spread upon the table. Then came two others, one with a rod, the other with a salt-cellar, a plate and bread. They knelt three times, placed the things on the table, knelt again and retired. Next came a lady in waiting, followed by a second. The first lady, dressed in white, after kneeling three times, approached the table and solemnly rubbed the plates with the salt.

Then entered 24 yeomen of the guard, clad in scarlet, and each carrying a dish of gold. These dishes were placed upon the table while the lady taster gave to each of the guards a taste from the dish he had brought in, for fear of possible poison. These guards were selected from the tallest and stoutest men in all England. At the close of this ceremony a number of unmarried ladies appeared and with great solemnity lifted the various dishes and carried them to the queen in her private apartments. The queen dined and supped alone, with few attendants, and it was seldom that any one was admitted at this time and then only at the intercession of some one in power.

She Got the Money.

In Berlin they tell a pretty story about Frau Blumenthal, the popular wife of the witty playwright and director of the Lessing theater. Herr Blumenthal it appears, had great misgivings regarding the success of his new piece, "Zum Weissen Roesse." One day, when he was nearly ready to throw the manuscript aside, his wife, who did not share his view, said to him "If I had only 20 marks ($5) for every 1,000 it will bring you I should be quite content."
"All right, you shall have them," said Herr Blumenthal.

"Zum Weissen Roesse" (White Horse Inn) met with an immense success. Every night the frau director—for in Germany the wife shares in her husband's titles if not in his tin—went to the cashier and levied on her 20 marks per 1,000. On one occasion, after the piece had been running some months, bad weather caused a falling off in the receipts below the $1,000 marks, and consequently Frau Blumenthal was not entitled to her "tantieme" of 20 marks.
"How much have you taken?" she asked the cashier.
"Only 997 marks," was the reply.
"Well, give me a seat at 3 marks, then," said Frau Blumenthal, laying down the coin. "Now you have 1,000 marks, give me my 20." She got them.

Both Helped.

Zimmerman, the eminent physician, was sent from Hanover to attend Frederick the Great in his last illness. One day the king said to him, "You have, I presume, sir, helped many a man into another world?"

This was rather a bitter pill for the doctor, but the dose he gave the king in return was a judicious mixture of truth and flattery.
"Not so many as your majesty, nor with so much honor to myself."

Where the Czars are Buried.

It is not generally known that the remains of all the czars of Russia since Peter the Great lie in a memorial chapel built on one of the islands of the Neva.
All the cenotaphs are exactly alike, each being a block of white marble, without any decoration whatever. The only distinction by which one is marked is the name of the deceased emperor.

Men Who Wear Corsets.

More men wear corsets than is generally believed. A certain London corset maker states that he makes hundreds every year and recently had in hand one pair of pink satin decorated with flower-de-luce and another of Nile green satin adorned with lotus flowers, one of these being for an officer in India.

Important Statement From A Postmaster.

Paine's Celery Compound
Saved His Life Years Ago.

HAS NOT BEEN ILL A SINGLE DAY SINCE HE WAS CURED.

If there are doubters who in the past have questioned the efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound in saving life, they must, after carefully reading Mr. Kil-bride's second letter, come to the conclusion that the great medicine is worthy of closer thought and attention than they were disposed to give it weeks or months ago.

Mr. P. J. Kilbride, postmaster of Inverness, P. E. I., is no idle theorist or speculator, neither has his important testimony been unduly obtained. This second letter, vouching for a permanent and lasting cure, is allowed to be made public for the advantage and weal of thousands of sufferers who are anxiously looking for new life and freedom from the power of disease. Mr. Kilbride says:

COULDN'T STAND HIM.

AN INTERESTING LITTLE STORY FOR CE-LID'S VICTIMS.

"Why did I break off with him?" echoed the stylish young lady who had stepped upon a Woodward avenue car in a way to delight the conductor. "Well, it was a little hard, for mamma was his staunch supporter from the beginning. But I simply couldn't endure him."

"But he's smart, handsome and well off," objected the other girl, who was a party to the conversation.

"Yes, and he knows it. He's a marked example of what the boys call a good fellow. His manner with me was simply unendurable. If I expressed an opinion on any important subject, he'd give a look that said: 'Why she positively assumes to have intelligence. There is something like a power of coherent thought in her mind.
Can she really be one of those women who think she thinks?'"

"That would be rather aggravating."

"Aggravating? I was angry enough to swear like a sailor, call him names or tell him to get out and stay out, but I knew that he wouldn't understand. He's one of those men who think that a woman should be nothing more than an automaton in the domestic and social world. If it hadn't been for creating talk, I'd have carried a gun or a big bowie knife and done something to shock him."

"Oh, Mame!"

"Yes, I would. He made me desperate.
When he expressed admiration for me, it was as though he was approving a fine picture or a good cigar. I just told him one evening that he must be mistaken in me, for I had a soul, a mind and a whole lot of womanly aspirations. It frightened him so that he left his umbrella, and I've never seen him since."—Detroit Free Press.

"He Mistakes the Effect for the Cause."

That is what the person does who tries to cure rheumatism or any other disease by relieving the symptoms. Hood's Sas-eases. It neutralizes the acid in the blood and thus permanently cures rheumatism.

It tones and strengthens the stomach, restores its natural digesting fluids and permanently cures dyspepsia.

Missionary circles in Canton, China, are in a high state of agitation and indignation over the approaching marriage of Susan L. Haverson to an illiterate, unattractive Chinaman, formerly her cook.
Miss Haverson, until a year ago, was connected with the American mission of the United Brethren in Christ. She was dismissed from the Canton mission on account of her persisting in receiving the attentions of this Chinaman. The marriage will be according to Chinese custom, the missionaries refusing to countenance it.

PRICE OF HER HAND.

Miss May Goelet, says London, has put a price upon her heart and hand. Neither wealth nor high estate may win her, but only the insignia of bravery in battle—the glory of Mars. The modern knight who has set out to strive for the prize and emulate the brazen-voiced god of mythology is the Viscount Crichton. Just before he sailed for the Transvaal last Saturday he called on Miss Goelet to say goodbye. What else he said can only be surmised from what she said to him at the very last, when she placed her hand in parting in his. It was this: "Come back with the Victoria Cross, and I am yours." The handsome young soldier's face flushed with high resolve, and for an instant he held up his hand. "I swear it," he said.
The viscount is playing for high stakes.
Not every man can win the Victoria Cross.
It is the Queen's badge of great distinction for martial service. But the viscount is in the Guards and people say he is brave.
Miss Goelet is the only daughter of the late Ogden Goelet, who died on his yacht in Cowes, in 1897. Her mother is a daughter of Mrs. R. T. Wilson. She is twenty, a fair-haired, delicate slip of a girl, most of whose life has been spent abroad. She has sweet and winning ways, and is a social favorite. At various times she has been reported engaged to Prince Francis, of Teck, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Dukes of Roxburghe and Manchester, and Capt. Oswald Ames, the Adonis of England.

Miss Goelet will in five years inherit $20,000,000 from her father's estate. Now she has the income of $5,000,000.

CHILD'S TONGUE PULLED.

LITTLE ROSE BINOWITZ MAY LOSE SPEECH
AS RESULT OF BUNGLING DENTISTRY.

Rose Binowitz, ten years old, of New York, is seriously ill and may become speechless as the result of what her mother says was the bungling attempt of two students at the Good Samaritan Free Dispensary to extract a tooth. The child's tongue has been badly torn, and the removal of part of it may be necessary. The doctor was out when Mrs. Binowitz took the child to the dispensary. Two young men in the office said they were students, and offered to extract the tooth. They placed the child in the dentist's chair and, according to Mrs. Binowitz, one held the girl's hands while the other used the force-ps. "As the young man who had the forceps pulled," said Mrs. Binowitz, "I noticed that Rose seemed to be in agony.
She tried to scream, but could not. In trying to free her hands she twisted out of the chair and fell to the floor. Her mouth was bleeding. Before I could interfere they had replaced her in the chair and were again pulling. Then I saw the instrument was fastened to the child's tongue. Her clothes were saturated with blood. I ordered the young man to release her. When I lifted her from the chair she fainted."

Mrs. Binowitz carried the girl to the office of Dr. Lewis E. Siegelstein, at Orchard and Rivington streets. He feared at first that the child would bleed to death. "The condition of the girl has been critical until to-day," said Dr. Seigelstein Friday night. "It had been almost impossible to stop the bleeding. It may be that she will lose part of her tongue, and if so she will be practically speechless.
How dentists or even novices could have made such a serious blunder I cannot understand."
