EXTRACTS FROM THE WRITINGS OF LATE SPEAKER EDGAR.

The late Sir James Edgar was favorably known as a poet, some of his writing being particularly pleasing. The following poems of his may be of interest, as showing his style:

CANADIAN CAMPING SONG.

A white tent pitched by a glassy lake,
Well under a shady tree,
Or by rippling rills from the grand old hills,
Is the summer home for me.
I fear no blazes of the noontide rays,
For the woodland glades are mine,
The fragrant air and that perfume rare,
The odor of forest pine.

A cooling plunge at the break of day,
A paddle, a row or sail;
With always a fish for a midday dish,
And plenty of Adam's ale.
With rod or gun, or in hammock swung,
We glide through the pleasant bays;
When darkness folds our canvas walls,
We kindle the camp-fire's blaze.

From out the gloom sails the silvery moon,
O'er forests dark and still;
Now, far, now near, ever sad and clear,
Comes the plaint of the whip-poor-will;
With song and laugh and with kindly chaff
We startle the birds above;
Then rest tired heads on our cedar beds,
And dream of the ones we love.

THE CANADIAN SONG SPARROW.

From the leafy maple ridges,
From the thickets of the cedar
From the alders by the rivers,
From the bending willow branches,
From the hallow and the hillside,
Through the lone Canadian forest,
Comes the melancholy music,
Oft repeated—never changing—
"All-is-vanity-vanity-vanity."

Where the farmer ploughs his furrow,
Sowing seed with hope of harvest,
In the orchard, white with blossoms,
In the early field of clover,
Comes the little brown-clad singer,
Flitting in and out of bushes,
Hiding well behind the fences,
Piping forth his song of sadness—
"Poor hu-manity-manty-manty."

MISS BESSIE NASON, CLOVER HILL, N. S., says: "I gladly recommend Laxa-Liver Pills, as they cured me completely of Constipation before I had finished the third box."

Mrs. James Constable, Seaford, Ont., writes:—"Ever since I can remember I have suffered from weak action of the heart. For some time past it grew constantly worse. I frequently had sharp pains under my heart that I was fearful if I drew a long breath it would cause death. In going up-stairs I had to stop to rest and regain breath. When my children made a noise while playing I would be so overcome with nervousness and weakness that I could not do anything and had to sit down to regain composure. My limbs were unnaturally cold and I was subject to nervous headaches and dizziness. My memory became uncertain and sleep deserted me.
"I have been taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and as a result am very much better. I have improved in health and strength rapidly. The blessing of sleep is restored to me. My heart is much stronger, and the oppressive sensation has vanished. I can now go up-stairs without stopping and with the greatest of ease, and I no longer suffer from dizziness or headache. It seems to me the circulation of my blood has become normal, thereby removing the coldness from my limbs. I can truly say that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done me a world of good."

LAXA-LIVER PILLS CURE CHRONIC CONSTIPATION AND DYSPEPSIA.

EMMA ABBOTT.

THE SWEET SINGER'S LAST SONGS WERE SUNG IN A DEATH CHAMBER IN DENVER.

One night in the city of Denver, located at the foot and in plain view of the Rocky Mountains, Emma Abbott was billed to appear in Faust. In the same city a most attractive and beautiful 18-year-old girl, belonging to one of the wealthiest families, lay in the last stages of that fell enemy of the human race—consumption. Some weeks before the arrival of the company she said to those around her: "Oh, I hope the sun will shine and the weather be warm and genial, so I can hear Miss Abbott sing once more. I think I could then pass away peacefully and without one single regret."

But there came with the queen of the lyric stage a northern hurricane, with the very air charged with icicles, which penetrated her lungs. Some one told Miss Abbott of the previous disappointment of the dying girl. She went to the opera house and never sang more sweetly, and as soon as it was over, and the audience dismissed, called her carriage and directed it to drive to the home of the young lady.

The scene which followed was worthy of the finest brush ever wielded by the grand old masters. There lay the dying earth angel, with pallid lips, hectic cheeks and lustrous eyes and the light of immortal beauty shining upon her face. Standing beside her, in one of her richest robes (the one she had worn that night), sparkling with pearls, rubies and diamonds stood the almost divine mistress of earthly melody.

The first piece rendered was "The Old Folks at Home," and then followed "I Know My Redeemer Liveth." The finale of this wondrous scene was

"Rock of Ages cleft for Me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

and then Miss Abbott bent over the frail form and kissed her an eternal farewell.

Soon after the spirit passed into the wild winds which rang through the wild mountains near by, set sail for that haven from which the first homeward bound barque is yet to be seen—the stainless soul waited to the stainless heavens by the sweetest music ever heard on earth—into the melodies of paradise birds.

Miss Abbott returned to her room at the hotel and retired. Sometime during the night she awoke with a pain in the left lung. It rapidly grew worse. A physician was summoned. Then another and another, who applied every remedy they could command. All to no purpose. It was typhoid pneumonia in its worst form. The black camel was kneeling at her door. Angels of the heavenly choir had that night listened to her voice in the sick room and sent for her to come home to them.

In three days the voice which had so often raised the souls of men and women to the noblest, the grandest heights in holy ecstasy, was forever stilled in death—gone forth into—the night.

So fades the summer cloud away,
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er,
So gently shuts the eye of day,
So dies the wave along the shore.

—H. C. Stevenson in Atlantic Constitution.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The reason that a cake sometimes falls on taking it out of the oven is that it was not done. To ascertain when the cake is done press the cake gently with the finger. If it is firm to the touch, and leaves no dent, it is done; or the surer way is to hold the pan close to the ear, if there is no noise inside the cake is done.

NO FAVORS TO DREYFUS.

THE COURT REFUSES TO GRANT AN ADJOURNMENT.

RENNES, Aug. 16.—Labori hopes to appear in court next week in time for the summing up of the case.

At the opening of the court this morning M. Demange, Dreyfus' counsel, asked for an adjournment until Monday on account of the condition of his colleague, M. Labori. Carrier, the Judge advocate opposed the motion and the court unanimously refused to grant the respite.

Gen. Roget testified insisting that Dreyfus and not Esterhazy wrote the Bordereau as internal evidence demonstrated it was the work of a staff officer. He cited as proof of the guilt of Dreyfus his denials of knowledge of a secret hydraulic robin shell which he certainly knew.

Dreyfus was permitted to speak when Gen. Roget concluded but he replied passionately "after listening for two hours to such abominable things my heart is wrung and I am incapable of thinking."

Dreyfus is in a worse condition than at any time since the beginning of the trial and showed impatience, lack of nerve in marked contrast to his manner of Saturday.

RENNES, Aug. 16.—Emil Zola has telegraphed Labori saying: "On learning of the outrage I send you the expression of my indignant 'ogre.' My heart is full of tenderness and admiration for you."

M. Demange had a long consultation this afternoon respecting to-day's session of the court martial, the gravity of which is fully recognized. M. Demange is much upset by the loss of his assistant, M. Labori, as the latter had prepared a special set of questions for Roget, and the absence of this, together with the fact that Labori's secretary was compelled to be away put Demange at a great disadvantage.

Counsel for the defence, however, will take Roget in hand the first thing to-morrow. The great disappointment of the Dreyfus family and M. Demange is the refusal of the court to adjourn when applied for this morning. This is considered of grave portent and is taken as an indication that the members of the court martial have already made up their minds unfavorably to Dreyfus. To-night it is understood that M. Demange will to-morrow repeat his application for adjournment in consequence of a hint that the government commissioner has received instructions not to oppose.

M. Moindard, who represented Madame Dreyfus in the revision proceedings before the court of cassation, has been summoned to replace Labori until the latter is able to return to his post. M. Moindard is expected to appear in court to-morrow. He is, however, a poor substitute for Labori.

Miles Akerly, a young man working in Reudy's brewery, at Fairville, St. John, was badly hurt Thursday afternoon by the elevator. He was standing underneath it and in attempting to raise it pulled the wrong cord, with the result that the elevator fell upon him, crushing him to the ground. The ambulance was sent for and he was taken to the hospital, where last night he was resting in a much easier condition, although suffering great pain.

This is the second accident which has happened to Mr. Akerly in a short time. A little while ago his right arm was amputated on account of injuries that he had received.—Sun.

DOCK'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

THOS. H. HOURIHAN KILLED WEDNESDAY IN A RAILWAY ACCIDENT A FEW MILES FROM ST. JOHN.

ST. JOHN, Aug. 17.—About half-past four yesterday afternoon, three cars of a gravel train left the track at Lawlor's Lake, and Thomas H. Hourihan of 289 City road, was thrown under the wheels and crushed to death.

A gravel train leaves the city twice every day, carrying car loads of stone and dirt from the excavations at the new I. C. R. works. On the first trip in the morning, the train carries, besides the shovellers, among whom Mr. Hourihan worked, a gang of men who are employed ballasting the road with the material brought out by the train. On the second return trip in the evening these men are picked up and taken into the city.

About three o'clock yesterday afternoon the gravel train of ten loaded cars, went out on its second trip in charge of Conductor Reuben Hunter and Engineer Theodore Wilkins.

After discharging its load it started on its homeward journey, with the crew aboard, the engine pushing the cars. As the train neared Lawlor's Lake speed was reduced to about six miles an hour, and it had reached a point slightly above the bridge when the second, third and fourth flat cars from the end left the rails. Conductor Hunter, who was standing on one of the cars near the engine, saw the train leave the track and immediately gave the order "down brakes," shutting down the brake nearest himself at the same time and running to the next one to do the same thing, but before he had reached the second brake the train was brought to a stand still.

But the shock of the train leaving the track must have thrown Mr. Hourihan off his balance and down between the wheels, which passed over his body, completely dismembering it and disfiguring it beyond recognition. Joseph Connel of Main street was also thrown off, and his arm badly hurt. Some of the other men jumped, but most of them remained sitting and were unhurt.

The cars which were derailed were only a few feet from the tracks, and the train crew was able to replace them unaided, and the train was taken to the siding at Coldbrook, none of the cars being damaged and no rails displaced.

News of the accident was immediately telephoned to the city, but only the barest details were given. Station Master Ross quickly got a wrecking crew together, and he himself went out to Coldbrook on the regular passenger train. Coroner Berryman was also notified and went out to that station. From there they were taken in the van of the gravel train to the scene of the accident, where Dr. Berryman viewed the remains and gave permission for their removal to the city. Mr. Connel's injuries were also looked after. The train, with the body of Mr. Hourihan aboard, reached the city about seven o'clock, and a large crowd, attracted by wild rumors of the accident, had gathered. N. W. Brennan, the undertaker, was at the station and took charge of the body.

Thos. H. Hourihan was a man about thirty-five years of age, and had been employed, at various times, as a printer in the different job offices. He married Miss Whelly, daughter of John Whelly, 289 City road. Mrs. Hourihan died some months ago, leaving two small children. Mr. Hourihan was a man of quiet disposition and was liked by every one with whom he came in contact. He was a member of the choir of Holy Trinity church, and only Tuesday he attended, with his fellow members, a picnic at the Kennebecasis. His sudden taking off will be a cause of grief to many.
