DYSPEPSIA CURE

RICH COPPER MINE.

THE INTERCOLONIAL COPPER CO.'S PROPERTY AT DORCHESTER.

DORCHESTER, Sept. 25.—Favorable reports of the richness of the ore in the Intercolonial Copper Co.'s mine, at Dorchester, and its extensive operations in the near future have reached here. Fuller, Tilton & Co., bankers, of Boston, offer for subscription at $3.50 per share 20,000 shares treasury stock of the company, capital stock 2,500,000 shares, per value $10 each, full paid and non-assessable. Twenty thousand of the shares will be sold at $3.50 per share (a recent raise of $1 per share), after which the price will be $5 per share and thereafter to par, $10 per share. The officers of the company now are Hon. H. W. Ladd, R. I., president; Hon. H. A. Stearns, R. I., vice-president; J. W. Phillips, R. I., treasurer; T. J. Edwards, R. I., secretary; Hon. R. W. Bierback, R. I., and Hon. H. R. Emerson, Dorchester, counsel; Federal Trust Co., Boston, registrar; A. W. Chapman, Dorchester, manager at the mine. Some $200,000 stock has been subscribed by New England capitalists, and the owners have expressed a belief that this mine is to become one of the greatest producers in the world. In addition to previous reports from Assayists of the ore—which show wonderful richness of the property when contrasted with other mines—Mr. L. S. Griswold, mining expert, who recently examined the mine, says of the property: "The ore bearing formation has been prospected for about 450 yards. The mine is situated in a stratified body of gray sandstone and conglomerate belonging to the carboniferous age. The richest ore consists of coal seams impregnated and replaced by copper. A sack of this gave an assay of 20-72-100 per cent copper. The sandstone and conglomerate adjacent to the coal is commercially good ore, and samples of them yielded 18-62-100 per cent. copper, and the sandstone gave 11-62-100 per cent. The highly siliceous character of the ore renders it favorable to smelt down to a low per cent, and perhaps even as low as 3 per cent. can be utilized." Mr. A. W. Wood, of Fuller, Tilton & Co., who visited the mine in August, pronounces the ore, from samples of his own selection, the best he has ever seen. The natural conditions are perhaps unequalled at any copper mine in America. The best miners are employed at $1.50 per day; laborers $1; wood, delivered at the mine, $1.35 per cord; coal, $1.50 per ton; mine timber and general supplies can be obtained at low prices. The cost of mining is believed to be one third that of western mines. The property is situated exactly two miles from the main line of the I. C. R., and about the same distance from tide-water, and 1,000 feet above the level of the sea. The company has ordered the most efficient mining machinery known, and are preparing plans for a reduction plant which will be placed at the line of the I. C. R., where the ore will be brought from the mine by a gravitation rail to be constructed. Two hundred feet of the tunnel under water has been driven, and the contractors are working day and night shifts to expedite completion of the tunnel to the shaft, which at present is filled with water. The company has secured from John J. Foster the valuable property formerly owned by and Mr. W. J. Gilbert and shown as the Widow Foster upon which a superior that will cost in the vicinity of $100,000 will be built. The firm will also construct a dam with the operating of the mining property.

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who loves her infant but should keep on hand during the hot weather a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. There is no remedy so safe and so effective for the diarrhoea of infants, and none has the endorsement of so many Canadian mothers who have proved its merits, and therefore speak with confidence. One of these is Mrs. Peter Jones, Warkworth, Ont., who says: "I can give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry great praise, for it saved my baby's life. She was cutting her teeth and was taken with diarrhoea very bad. My sister advised me to get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and it cured the baby almost at once."

GOOD THING THEY'RE SMALL.

If Ants Were Much Larger, They Would Own the Earth.

If ants were large enough, they would rule the earth. As it is, they predominate the politics of their own sphere and have many human characteristics. The longest time for which an ant sleeps is three and a half hours. On awakening, they stretch their legs, yawn and then curl fully clean themselves by applying their legs to their mouths and rubbing them over their bodies, very much in the style of a cat washing her face, after which they comb and brush their heads and bodies with the natural comb which nature gives them.

The most remarkable thing about this is that almost every necessity for which we are obliged in our case to employ more or less complicated mechanical contrivances is provided for by the physical structure of the ants.

Ants clean themselves both before and after sleep, and also after eating. Frequently one ant will lick and brush another all over, limb by limb, the ant operated on sprawling on her back, relaxing her muscles and abandoning herself to the enjoyment of the operation.

They are great hunters, attacking snakes, lizards, rats, mice, centipedes and beetles. They even kill the great African python. It is said that if a python has killed an animal he dare not gorge himself with it till he has made a wide circuit and satisfied himself that there are no driver ants in the neighborhood. If, however, he meets with any he abandons his prey to them and discreetly retreats. A certain species actually keep cows—in other words, plant lice. When the ants are hungry, they actually milk the aphides by tapping them briskly on the sides of the abdomen with their antennae till the fluid exudes, when it is at once sucked up by the ants. They shut them up in cow-houses and use them for days.

Ants act as soldiers in a very real way, and it is no stretch of language to call them pitched battles between ants of the same species and raids of one species upon the nests of another, sometimes to carry off the larvae and pupae as food (a modified form of cannibalism) and sometimes to supply their own nests with slaves. Certain ants are agriculturists, and allow a few to grow up in a circle round their nests, while every other plant is carefully cut down as fast as it appears. They sow the crop regularly, tend it and harvest it. When the seeds fall, they are carried into the nest, and the stubble is cleared away. When the grain in the nest gets damped by rain, these ants carry it out into the open to dry.

Snakes Do Swallow Their Young.

I met with a curious incident some years ago while hunting snakes in the swamps at Melrose. I came across a male and female, striped, with numerous young ones. The parents were near each other, the family crawling over and around them. I was going for them, when on second thought I concluded to watch them. They did not appear frightened, but went on gambling about for some time. I went a little nearer, when both snakes turned toward me, making a faint noise, and placed their heads flat on the ground. It was a curious sight to see these young snakes, not long born, some of them a foot or two away, stare at the noise and instantly seek refuge in their parents' wide open mouths. I am certain it was a note of warning of danger. I caught both snakes and put them in separate bags. The female had ten young, and the male had swallowed five. This is the first instance of any notice of a male snake performing this affectionate duty for its young. I placed the whole family in a box, where they lived peacefully a long time.—Forest and Stream.

Too Cultured.

A writer in The Critic speaks somewhat scoffingly of the requirements of "Boston culture" as applied to all walks of life. Of course her tone is satirical, and she gives humorous illustrations, the best of which is this: Learning, like religion, has in all ages its martyrs. Its Galilees, its Giordano Brunos. Visiting in Nebraska a few years ago, I was told the following story: A brakeman from Boston was employed on the line of railroad running from Nebraska City to Beatrice. When it became his duty to call out the name of this last station, he pronounced it in the most approved Tuscan, "Bay-ah-tree-chay."

The passengers, simple souls, were at a loss what to do. They rose from their seats and hesitated. Some sat down again, and so were carried past their destination. This sort of thing continued, the brakeman was complained of, and he lost his place.

Not Hiding Her Light.

Rosalie, kneeling beside her little bed, saying her prayers at evening, always murmured, after a devout little "amen," some soft word, whose meaning her aunt could not catch. One evening she questioned the child: "Rosalie, what is it that you say every night after you have finished your prayer?" "Aunt," said Rosalie solemnly, "I just say, 'Dear Lord, this is Rosalie Pittman praying now.' You see, so many little girls pray at just this same time, and I thought I'd best say which was me."

The Way of the World.

"So you went into the stock market yesterday and made several thousand dollars," said the young man's uncle. "Yes, sir." "That shows how one may, with proper pluck and promptness, succeed if he will only take advantage of his opportunities." "But I lost that and several thousand more today." "Young man, how often have I told you that such transactions are merely gambling, and that you are bound to come to grief sooner or later if you dabble in them?"

A Grateful Woman

SAYS DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS SAVED HER LIFE.

Confined to Bed for More Than a Month and Wholly Unable to Move—Food Had to be Administered to Her as to a Child—Thankful Words of Praise.

From the Tribune, Deseronto, Ont.

Mrs. Wm. Duxter, whose husband works on the Rathbun farm, Deseronto, is well known in the town and surrounding country, her home having always been in this vicinity. Mrs. Duxter has passed through a more than usually trying illness, and as it was said she ascribed her cure to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a reporter of the Tribune was sent to investigate the case. It appears that Mrs. Duxter's illness dates from the birth of a child on Feb. 16th, 1899, when the attending physicians found it necessary to administer chloroform. The shock was greater than she could stand and the result was partial paralysis, during which her life was despaired of. Mrs. Duxter gives the particulars as follows:—"Previous to the birth of my child I had enjoyed very good health, but following this my health gave way entirely. I was in bed for over a month, and had two doctors attending me. I was so weak that I could not turn myself in bed and had to be moved like a child. The little nourishment I took had to be administered by my friends. During this time I suffered great pain especially in the hip joints, and one side was paralyzed from the shoulder to the foot. The doctors could not tell me what my trouble was and the medicine they gave did me no good. I became despondent and thought I would surely die. I got into a highly nervous condition and sleep was almost impossible. Just as I would fall asleep I would start up as though in a fright. This was the state of affairs when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I can never tell how thankful I am that I took that advice. After I had used the third box I was able to leave my bed and move a round the house a little. By the time I had used six boxes I had gained greatly in strength and was able to do my own housework. I could eat my meals with relish. I sleep and am still constantly gaining in strength. My friends were surprised at my speedy recovery after beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I believe that but for them I would not be alive to-day. I will be glad if my testimony is the means of pointing to some other sufferer, the road to health."

People who are run down, weak or nervous will find renewed health and strength through the fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They enrich and build up the blood and stimulate tired and jaded nerves. Substitutes should always be refused as they never cured anyone. The genuine pills may be had from all dealers in medicine, or from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont., at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50.

FOUR WIDOWS CLAIM HIM.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23.—Recent arrival from Dawson City say the Yukon capital is enjoying a sensation caused by the death of a rich miner, who bore a common English family name, viz., that of William A. Sutton. The man died Feb. 1, 1899, in Forty-Mile district, in United States territory, and is reported to have left an estate a snug fortune in gold and nuggets, in addition to various rich mining claims. Sutton was said to have left behind with his fortune and estate no less than four women, who claim the deceased miner was their lawfully wedded husband and what is very much more important to them that they and their children are entitled to the Sutton money.

In addition to the quartette of widows after Sutton's money, there are several alleged male relatives, among whom is an Oklahoma man. Women claiming to be Sutton's widows are: Mrs. Hilda A. Sutton, Anoka, Minn., but who writes from Chicago; Mrs. L. L. Sutton, Ottawa, who has a daughter, and who has employed an attorney; Mrs. Josephine Sutton, Chicago, who also has a daughter; Mrs. Donna Grace Sutton, of Chicago, who has several children. It is claimed that Sutton at one time resided in Winnipeg.

The popularity of card playing in England is evidenced by the fact that stamp duty was paid during the last financial year on 1,852,456 packs of cards. Including the sum received in payment of duty on imported cards, the exchequer received $29,780 sterling from this source alone.

SONG OF THE TRAIN GANG.

The brakeman sat in the dim caboose. Nor smiled at a careless joke. His heart was breaking because, alas, The brakeman had gone dead broke! But the switchman said, "Cheer up, old friend! In life there's many a hitch, And I've been so blue in my life ere now I didn't know which was switch." Up spoke the fireman, a cheerful man: "Of this life I often tire. I never know when my job is safe: I'm constantly near the fire." And then the conductor had his say As he finished up his lunch, "If I had my way, it's passengers, And not the tickets, I'd punch."

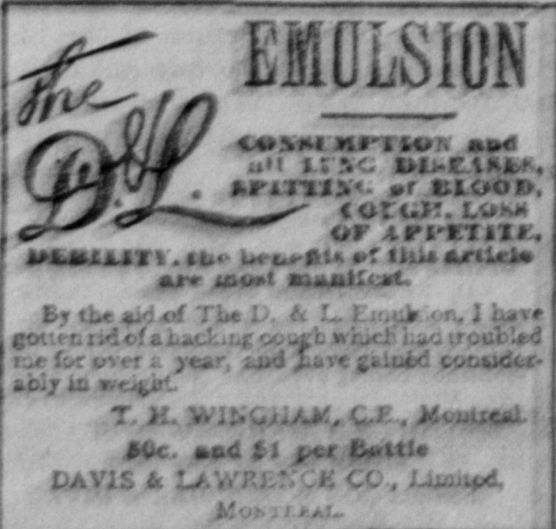

A BURGLAR PROOF SAFE.

The Scheme Which Made Secure Against Assault by Thieves.

"I've been in the fire and burglar proof safe business for 20 years," remarked the veteran drummer, "and I know I have sold my goods in nearly every state in the Union, but until I visited a western town of 6,000 people I had never seen a really safe safe—one that was proof against any and all forms of assault. It was the first time I had struck the place and I went there because I had learned they had opened a new bank, and I'm always on the lookout for that kind. I got into town about 5 o'clock, and without stating my business, I strolled around before supper to where the bank was located. It was quite a modern building for the size of the town, and the builders had put in a boiler and engine to give the power for water and electric light and steam heat. "There was nothing remarkable about this, but at the rear of the building I found something that was at least novel. It was a plain brick addition 20 feet high, with large windows on its four sides, giving a full view of the interior, and right in the center, between heaven and earth, five feet below the ceiling and ten feet above the floor, hung a big safe suspended to a heavy anchor chain. It was an entirely new wrinkle to me, and after studying it awhile I went back to the hotel determined to ask a few questions before retiring, one, I knew what I was there for. The hotel clerk, after the manner of his kind, knew it all, and when he had finished his elucidations I had learned that the bank people, instead of spending their money on a high priced, time lock, longer proof, stone walled vault and safe that might be dynamited full of holes, had simply bought a good cheap, big safe and having put it in the high room they had built for it, had rigged a chain and pulleys and attached the combination to the engine down below. "At closing time the safe was drawn up between floor and ceiling out of reach from above or below and left to swing until time to begin business again next morning. The steam was down by 11 o'clock, and then the only possible way to get at the safe was to raise steam and let it down within reach, a job the most skillful burglar could not perform without detection, because steam engines are not run on a silent schedule as a rule. The next morning, after I had taken another look at the working of the arrangement and saw how easy it all was, I never said a word about having safes to sell or even that I was in the business, but slowly and slyly packed up my traps and got out at town."

—One day this week as the outcome of a wager, Mr. C. A. Thompson, of Oxford, drove his mare from Pugwash to Oxford, a distance of between fifteen and sixteen miles in exactly one hour. The wager only called for the performance of the journey in one hour and five minutes, but the wonderful piece of horseflesh that Mr. Thompson owned, only wanted an hour. That the mare did not run, men were placed all along the road to watch, and she only made one break. It was certainly a wonderful performance. The bet was $50 a side.—Amherst Press.
