A BIT ABSENTMINDED.

There have been a great many stories about absentminded men, where one forgets his house address, another what business he is in and where another has to refer to the mark on his handkerchief before he can remember his own name.

There is a farmer named Rogers in the north who possessed a Jersey cow, which he used to drive, morning and evening, to and from the pasture, not far from his home.

One morning, as one of his neighbors was passing along the road, he met Mr. Rogers walking in the middle of the lane, his mind apparently engrossed with some weighty question. The neighbor called out:

"Good morning, Mr. Rogers. Where are you going?"

"Why," said Mr. Rogers, in a surprised way, "I'm driving the cow to pasture." And he waved his hand toward where the cow ought to have been.

"Well, where is the cow?" asked his friend.

"I suppose I forgot to let her out of the barn," answered Mr. Rogers, humbly, as he realized his position. And he had.

THE YACHT RACE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—At a joint meeting of the committee of the New York Yacht Club on challenge of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club with the committee of that club, held last night, the conditions of the sailing of the races made September 6, 1898, were modified. Sir Thomas J. Lipton and C. Oliver Iselin also signed the following conditions to the original agreement: "Inasmuch as we are of the opinion that the America's cup races are no less a test of the strength of construction of the competing vessels than of their sailing qualities, and it is deemed advisable to avoid the embarrassment in which a vessel finds herself when called upon to decide whether to withdraw from a race upon the occurrence of an accident disabling her competitor, it is agreed that in the race between the Shamrock and Columbia each yacht shall stand by consequences of any accident happening to her and that the uninjured vessel shall sail out the race."

When the body of the Shamrock came into view in dry dock yesterday it was seen that in comparison with the Columbia the Shamrock is fuller bodied, especially amidships, about a foot more beam and with a draught about ten inches greater. She is higher sided than the cup defender. She has a rocker keel like the Defender. It is about as thick as the Columbia's, but not nearly so deep. The Shamrock carries more sail than the Columbia, as her mast is stepped about two feet further aft, giving her more headsail while the mainsail is also larger than the cup defender. When the hull of the Irish cutter had been well scrubbed the crew commenced putting up a staging about the craft and will use electric polishers on her metal sides.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Strawberry plants from an old bed lack vitality.

The matted row system is the best for strawberries.

Apple trees should be sprayed just after the bloom has passed.

The grape is adapted to a wider range of country than any other fruit.

Prompt use of the knife is the most effective remedy for black knot on plums.

In order to have a full supply it is usually best to have several varieties of the different kinds of fruits.

One advantage of dwarf pears is their early fruitings and their habits of bearing from the ground up. They occupy little room.

The borer, when inside the tree, can hardly be reached by outside washes. Use the knife or a piece of wire. Look often for them now.

If pear trees are in the orchard, the only pruning that should be attempted is that of keeping the head open, so as to admit plenty of sunshine.

WHAT TO DO WITH POTATOES.

Potatoes that have been left over from dinner or breakfast may be utilized in many ways. Boiled potatoes may be fried brown in butter in which a teaspoonful of minced onion has first been fried until yellow, then season with salt, pepper and parsley.

Cut in slices and browned in hot fat, or stewed in milk with parsley.

Cut in half inch dice and warmed in milk, seasoned with butter, salt, pepper and parsley.

Mixed with drawn butter or white sauce, seasoned with chopped celery, or with crumbled cheese, covered with buttered cracker crumbs and baked until the crumbs are brown.

Or mixed with sliced beet, yolks of hard eggs, parsley, onion and lettuce, and served with French dressing.

Sweet potatoes may be browned in butter, or sliced, buttered, or sugared, and browned in the oven.

Cooked potatoes admit of such a variety of methods of re-serving that not a scrap ever need be wasted. Left over portions of mashed potatoes should be packed closely in a cup or small bowl, directly after the meal, then cut in slices and browned in hot butter or lard. They may be mixed with beaten egg, made into balls and browned in the oven, or used as a crust for a small pie of warmed over meat or fish.

LESSONS IN WINTER WHEAT CULTURE.

The wheat crop is a matter of much interest, as the preparation of the seedbed and time of seeding has much to do with the ability of the plant to withstand the low temperatures of winter, writes David P. Forney. The matter of protecting the plant is of first importance. A liberal amount of snow is an important factor, but there is a possibility of too much snow, which may keep the wheat growing and tender and leave it in a poor condition to withstand the freezing and thawing of early spring. The way to counteract this is to give the fields such protection as will not disappear with the snow. The most useful idea to be kept in mind is to have your wheat fields, as nearly as possible, in the fall, in the condition they would be in if the wheat had been left to die down on them without removing any part of the crop, and reseed themselves. Nature shows the right way if we will only follow.

The way to do this is just to sow early as nature would, and thereby have a heavy mulch from the strong growth in the fall before it freezes. Second, the proper nutriment must be supplied in the soil, for plants, like animals, must be fed or they will starve. I have seen during the past spring more than one field of starved wheat. The third and perhaps most important factor in the making of a crop is good drainage. Where there is no regular system of underdraining it can often be best assisted by plowing parallel with the inclination of the ground, but where ground is naturally too wet it is wisest not to sow wheat on it. Failures will always be the rule. A majority of the failures are found in wet fields and the man who will always sow clover with his wheat will find himself the gainer by it.

The best wheat undoubtedly can be raised by sowing it on inverted sod, especially clover sod, and there are some indications that farmers will return to this, which was the custom of our fathers in agriculture. The very best way to do this is to cover the sod during the fall or winter with the manure directly from the stables instead of letting it rot in the barnyard. Or if this cannot be done, then haul it on the sod from the yard as early in spring as possible, spread it evenly and then mow the grass from the field at the regular time for hay, and after that plow the sod as soon after hay making as possible. This will take the 'lodges' out of the manure and put it into the grass, just where you want it, and keep it out of the wheat. In other words, it will prevent the lodging of the wheat which is so apt to follow the use of fresh yard manure upon it. I am convinced we are all losing much by letting our manure lie on the yard all summer.

A few words now as to varieties. I can look back to two or three distinct periods of change on the part of farmers from bearded to smooth varieties, and the reverse, during my experience, and it amounts to about this: Whenever bearded varieties are regularly sown, the wheat gradually gets stronger than its enemies, and when smooth varieties are regularly sown, the enemies gradually get stronger than the wheat, and finally compels its abandonment. We do not as yet probably understand the precise function of the awn or beard on wheat, but there is no doubt that its absence is a sign of weakness in the plant.

A CASE OF CONSCIENCE.

It was an Ohio man who, when a terrible storm set in one night, rushed into the house of a neighbor and cried out:

"Jones, this is the ending up of the earth!"

"I'm afraid so—I'm afraid so!" was the reply.

"And what shall we do?"

"Make our peace with Heaven."

The wind blew still stronger, the house began to shake and the excited man exclaimed:

"Jones, you lost five bushels of wheat last fall!"

"Yes."

"And you have your suspicions?"

"I have. The man who took my wheat had better own up."

"Can you forgive him?"

"I can."

"Well—"

Here the wind suddenly dropped, and after a look through the window the conscience-stricken man turned and finished:

"Yes, if ever I meet him I'll advise him to call around."

THE PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN.

AMERICANS CAPTURE PORAC IN HALF AN HOUR—INSURGENT TRENCH DESTROYED.

MANILA, Sept. 28.—The movement against Porac, about eight miles from Bacolor, in Pampanga province, which began at daybreak this morning, is conducted personally by General MacArthur. General Wheeler, with the ninth regiment and a battery, is advancing by two roads, while General Wheaton, commanding the twelfth and seventeenth regiment, is moving to the north. The thirty-sixth regiment accompanies General MacArthur.

Firing has begun near Angeles. Two Filipino majors came to the American lines last night with messages requesting the American prisoners, who were to arrive this morning. They also requested permission for Gen. Alejandrino, one colonel and two lieutenant colonels to visit General Otis. They were refused entrance to the American lines until noon Friday, on account of to-day's fight, and Gen. Alejandrino alone will be allowed to visit Gen. Otis.

The insurgents recently entrenched and garrisoned the town of Paete, on Laguna de Bay, in the province of Laguna. Subsequently Captain Larsen, commanding the gunboat Napidan, landed for a conference with the citizens. As he was proceeding up the main street of the town with a squad he was received with a volley from a hidden trench. The party retreated to their boat under cover of the buildings and regained their vessel. The Napidan then bombarded the trench for an hour, completely destroying it.

General MacArthur entered Porac after half an hour's fighting. The American loss was slight and the insurgent loss is not known. The enemy fled northward. When the Americans entered the town they found it entirely deserted. The attacking party moved on Porac in two columns. The Ninth infantry, with two guns, from Santa Rita, was commanded by Gen. Wheeler, and the Thirty sixth infantry, under Col. Bell, with one gun, accompanied General MacArthur from San Antonio. Both columns struck the town at nine o'clock and opened a brisk fire, which was replied to by the enemy for half an hour. Then the insurgents fled, and the Americans marched over their trenches and took possession of the place. Just before the fight Smith's command at Angeles made a demonstration by firing artillery up the railroad track. Liscum reported one casualty and Bell reported four men of his regiment wounded. The artillery did not have any men injured.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—Diplomatic and ecclesiastical circles are much interested in the appointment of Archbishop Chappelle, of New Orleans, as apostolic delegate to the Philippines, as well as to Cuba and Porto Rico. The Pope named Archbishop Chappelle as delegate to Cuba and Porto Rico about a year ago, but no appointment was then made for the Philippines the Archbishop of Manila continuing in control. Despite the latter's co-operation with the military authorities at Manila, a delegate sent from this country will be, it is thought, a distinct gain. Owing to the large property interests of the church in the Philippines and the influence of the clergy over the natives, the advent of an American prelate is likely to prove an important factor in bringing peace.

Mgr. Chappelle is well equipped for his delicate mission. He is a master of the Spanish language, and has long been regarded as an able church historian, two qualifications very necessary in this work.

THE WAY IT WAS DONE.

A boy was summoned to testify in a case of assault, in which one man hit another with a shovel, relates Tit-Bits. A host of witnesses had been called, who "beat about the bush" in the most tedious and provoking manner. This annoyed the lawyer for the prosecution, who broke out as follows:

"Here, boy, we've been going around and around this case for hours, and yet have no evidence to convict the prisoner. Now, sir," he savagely continued, "do you hear me? I want you to come to the direct point. Did you see the blow struck?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ah, ha," chuckled the lawyer, rubbing his hands, "we have something to work upon. Here, my good lad, take this cane" (handing him his walking stick).

"If you saw the blow struck, you must know how it was given."

"Yes, sir, I—"

"Now, then, no words about it, I tell you!" thundered the interrogator. "I'm the complainant and you are the prisoner. Now just raise the stick and show the Court."

The bewildered lad did "raise the stick," and the next moment it came down upon the bald head of the astonished lawyer, and sent him staggering to his seat.

"That's the way it was done, sir," said the boy, amid the shrieks of laughter of the whole courtroom. The discomfited counsel, with a ghastly attempt to smile, said that he had done with the witness—the evidence was direct.
