

ANOTHER CASE OF MAUD.

Maud Muller went on a summer day To try the old racket of raking hay. She'd heard how it snared a Judge, and thought There might be another to be caught. And off she glanced down the lanes long course To see if he came on his piebald horse. But the Judge came not, nor a sleek court Clerk, Nor a constable to get in his work. Not even a chronic juror came To ask her to snare his oft-called name. Yet she raked away with a tireless will, For Maud was a stayer from Stayerville! Great blisters rose in her hands so fair, And hayseed lodged in her wind-tossed hair.

But nary a Judge came riding by, And her swollen bosom was filled with a sigh.

One sparke of hope in said bosom burned, That maybe the court hadn't yet adjourned.

Or he might have halted to beer his face With a lawyer who'd got away with a case.

And yet she raked with untiring zeal, The damp sweat trickling from heel to heel.

The spur-grass pricked at her zebra hose 'Neath the Southern bonds of her Sunday clothes.

The breezes blew on her bloomin' cheeks And scattered the sweat into criss-cross streaks.

The sun sank lower adown the west, And the hope-star dilted in Maudie's breast.

One last glance fired she along the lane, Then sank on the stubble with a moan of pain!

But she rose again with impromptu spring, For the stubble was sharp as a hornet's sting!

Then cried, as to splinters she stamped the rake; This hay-field racket's a bloomin' fake!

The feller that writ that portry ought To be taken out and fatally shot!

'Don't think no gal ever made a play To rake up a feller this a-way!'

And she said as she limped to her home again, Her accents keyed to a not of pain:

'Of all darned suckers that ever bit, I've a sneakin' idea that I am it!'

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, May 6.—When the house met yesterday Mr. Flint introduced a bill to amend the Canada Temperance act (Scott act). His purpose is to give more latitude with regard to penalties and more power with respect to search for liquor.

The budget debate was then resumed, Sir Charles Tupper being the first speaker. He was not present to hear Sir Richard Cartwright last evening, but that did not deter him from, at the very outset of his remarks, calling the minister of trade and commerce a mischievous demagogue. The opposition merely laughed at the leader of the opposition, no one taking the trouble to call him to order. Sir Charles Tupper repeated his old story about unrestricted reciprocity, how Blake went back on the Liberals and how Cartwright had spoken of distant provinces as "rags and tatters" of the dominion.

Sir Richard (laughing)—"I don't think I said that."

Somebody told Sir Charles Tupper what Sir Richard Cartwright said and then he diverted a few moments to the abuse of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"Nothing," said Sir Charles, "would have made me leave my position in England in 1891 but for the fact that British institutions were at stake" (Laughter) He went on to sympathize with the city of Quebec because it did not get a fast steamship service and denounced the extension of the Intercolonial railway. He was pleased to see the minister of finance becoming an admirer of confederation.

Mr. Fielding said it was methods by which confederation has been carried that he had opposed.

Sir Charles Tupper devoted some time to the praise of the national policy and in connection with the running of the Intercolonial he said that the Liberals were blundering and did not show sound political economy.

Mr. Blair asked where political economy came in the case.

Sir Charles continuing, pitched into the management of the post office department and in referring to the iron industry, said that Canada would soon be able to build ships cheaper than any other country.

When the house resumed work at 8 o'clock Sir Charles Tupper, imitating Mr. Foster and Sir Hibbert Tupper, was not present. He made his speech and ran away.

Mr. Paterson continuing read Hansard to prove that Sir Charles not only read but endorsed the statement that by 1890 the sale of the Northwest lands would have recouped the country for expenditure on account of the C. P. R. He denied the claim that the Liberals had increased taxation because the amount of revenue they collected was larger than that collected by the Conservatives and as rate of taxation and not amount collected was the proper test. The preferential tariff affected a reduction on our British imports of 41 cent. on the rate of taxation collected by the Foster tariff. Finally form of cold and so on through the entire list of remedies. At all druggists, 25 cents a trial. If you need medical advice write Dr. J. C. Munyon, 1506 Arch st., Phila. It is absolutely free.

Mr. Patterson read from the tariff and Mr. Foster admitted he had made an error in saying that the duty on manufactured articles was increased.

Rufus Pope had a kick at immigration, and said that Canada had been attracting the off-scourings of the earth.

Mr. Heyd made a rational speech, dealing principally with the tariff.

This ended the budget debate, and the house adjourned at 11.50.

Pain in The Back

"I suffered with a pain in the back for over a year and could not get it cured. Three bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil removed the pain entirely." Marshal Miller, McGregor P. Q., Man.

GEN. LAWTON'S CAMPAIGN.

MANILA, May 6.—Major General Lawton's column advanced to a position two and a half miles north of Baling to-day. Before making a forward movement General Lawton sent back to Manila two wounded men of the Minnesota regiment and one of the Oregonians, who were hurt in yesterday's fight, besides twenty sick men. They were sent by way of Malolos. General Lawton's advance has met with but slight opposition outside of Maasan; two thousand rebels who occupied an entrenched position were routed in short order. Many corpses of rebels have been discovered in the river at San Thomas. Scores of rifles and other arms have been recovered from the river, into which they were thrown by the retreating rebels. Major General MacArthur's division is resting at San Fernando, making in the meantime extensive reconnaissance.

10,000 SORRY HEARTS.

La Grippe Has Made Them So—But Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart Will Bring Joy and Health.

La Grippe has left many a heart weak and diseased. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, because of its great merit as a heart remedy, the magical quickness in giving relief, and the almost incredible cures it performs, is snatching from death's door many who had been given over as hopeless cases. It's a wonder worker; it's a specific for all heart derangements, and no matter how acute or seemingly hopeless, will give relief inside of 30 minutes. Sold at Short's Drug Store.

LATEST IDEAS PATENTED.

A sewing machine using two needles at once was patented February 1st, by John Kerr, of Dayton, Ky.

HER SEX WAS NOT SUSPECTED.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD EMILY SHULL ROAMED THE COUNTRY FOR SIX MONTHS IN BOY'S CLOTHING.

St. Louis, May 6.—The arrest of Emily Shull, aged 15 years, in this city has revealed a sensational story of romantic interest. Six months ago she disappeared from her home in Newport, N. J., a small village.

The gossips of the town had it that Emily's home life was far from pleasant and that she was cruelly treated. Foul play was hinted at, and the woods surrounding her home were searched without avail. In male attire she roamed the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, working as office boy, glass worker, clerk, and at many odd jobs. Not one of her employers or companions suspected her sex.

When arrested in a wine room at Fifteenth and Pine streets she wore a light spring suit, patent leather shoes, and a derby hat. When given into the care of Matron Kuitzing she declared positively that she would continue to wear male attire, saying it was an ideal dress for comfort and style. To the matron she told this story:

"I was born in Bridgeton, N. J., and lived there until six months ago, when I started out to see the world. I had read a great many novels, and one of them made a big hit with me. In this story the heroine dressed in boy's clothes and made a tour of the world. She had a good time, made a barrel of money and was none the worse for her experience.

"I just thought I would try that plan myself. I went over to Philadelphia. I had $10 in my pocket when I started. I went to a barber shop and had my hair cut like a boy's. Then I bought a suit of boy's clothes. I tried to part my hair on the side, but it wouldn't stay, so I let it go in the middle.

"I associated with boys and men mostly, but none of them ever suspected that I was a girl."

CORSETS ARE PROHIBITED.

DRESDEN, May 6.—The Minister of Education of Saxony, Dr. De Seydewitz, has stirred up a hornets' nest in the feminine world by the issuance of a decree yesterday whereby all girls and young women attending the public schools and colleges in Saxony must abandon the practice of wearing corsets and stays.

The wearing of corsets by girls of tender age and the habit of tight lacing have become so prevalent, particularly in Dresden, that the State foresees in the corset a grave menace to the well-being of posterity. Although girls and their mothers protest against the measure, and even threaten to boycott the schools, the officials stand firm.

People say Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all other preparations fail to do any good, and you run no risk in giving it a fair trial.

Mr. Gibbs went to an entertainment and by mistake sat on his neighbor's silk hat, reducing it to a shapeless mass. The owner of the hat was naturally indignant, and breathed threats of vengeance.

'Sir,' said Mr. Gibbs, calmly, 'I am very sorry, and must admit that I was awkward.' 'But,' he added, complacently, 'it might have been worse.'

'I don't see how it could have been,' roared the victim.

'Oh, yes, it could!' said Gibbs, 'I might have sat down on my own hat.'

"She Carries Her Heart on Her Sleeve"

What a boon to many a man or woman if this were literally so—How many spirits are broken because this particular organ is shackled by disease—and yet how many times has Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart brushed against the grim reaper and robbed him of his victim.

Diseases of the heart are by far the most treacherous of ailments which afflict humanity—ruthless to old and young alike—not insidious but violent, for when the heart fails the whole system suffers violence. Discussing cases here will not console the suffering one. The one great yearning of the heart-sickened patient is how to get relief and a cure. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart stands prominently to-day as the star of hope to sufferers from heart trouble, and so far past the experimental period that thousands to-day proclaim, in no uncertain sound, the belief that there was not for this great remedy they would have long ago passed into the great beyond.

Most eminent doctors, whom heart cases have baffled, have tested Dr. Agnew's claims, and to-day they prescribe it in their practice as the quickest and safest heart remedy known to medical science. What are the symptoms? Palpitation, fluttering, shortness of breath, weak and irregular pulse, swelling of feet and ankles, pain in the left side, chilly sensations, fainting spells, uneasiness in sleeping, dropsical tendency and as many more indications that the heart is deranged. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is a heart specific; and no case too acute to find relief from it inside of thirty minutes—a powerful cure.

Mrs. Jno. Fitzpatrick, of Cananogue, Ont., after having been treated by eminent physicians for heart disease of five years' standing, was discharged from the hospital as a hopeless incurable. She suffered from acute pain, palpitation, her feet and ankles swollen, and there was every tendency to the dropsical form of heart disease, but the lady procured Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart as she declared, as a last hope. One dose relieved her of a very acute spasm in less than thirty minutes, and three bottles cured her—not a symptom of the trouble remaining.

CONDUCTOR WILLIAM G. LUGAS, of the N. & W. R. R., and living at Hagerstown, Md., suffered for years with acute valvular form of heart disease—cost him many a "lay off" from his daily duties on the road, and he spent a small fortune in remedies and treating with heart benefited, recommended Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. He tried it, and found it gave him relief and comfort almost immediately. He continued its use until a few bottles were taken, and to-day he's well and strong, and says, "Tell all heart sufferers that I can highly recommend this great remedy."

A WOMAN WANTS NOTORIETY.

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, May 9.—Mayor John Cassidy was horsewhipped yesterday by Miss Minnie Crawford, a milliner on Main street of that city. Miss Crawford had recently been subpoenaed as a witness in the mayor's court and had failed to respond. She became angered at the mayor and drawing a whip from under her cape she lashed the mayor over the head and shoulders, forcing him to take refuge in a drug store.

SEVERE SALT RHEUM.

"Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of Salt Rheum 3 years ago, and I have had no return of it since. I was so bad with it I could not sleep. It only took two bottles of B. B. B. to effect a cure." Mrs. Welch, Greenbank, Ont.

The story goes that the father of a certain barber in Nova Scotia died while out West on a pleasure trip. An undertaker sending the announcement to his son asking for instructions for preparing the body to be sent home, stated that he would have it embalmed for $150 or frozen for $50. A telegram came back promptly; Freeze him from the knees up for $35; his feet were frozen last winter."—Wolfville Orchardist.

As Willie Porter was walking along the sidewalk at the Cove near St. Stephen the other evening he noticed a salmon leap from the river up among some rocks on the beach. He made his way to the spot and successfully headed off several gaudy attempts of the fish to return to the water. The fish weighed twelve pounds, and the young lad's family had a meal or two of hand picked salmon.
