PRESERVING SURPLUS SUMMER BUTTER.

About the most convenient way of preserving a small quantity of butter for future family use is to wrap each lump of butter by itself in a clean and moistened piece of thin muslin and then pack in stone jars. Tubs will do if perfectly sweet and not leaky. Keep the butter covered with a clear brine made by bringing to boiling point and holding for some minutes a solution of salt in water. It should be made of good butter salt, free from odor, and pure water, and the solution should be saturated, i. e., there should be as much salt added as will dissolve. After boiling slightly for eight to ten minutes, set in a cool place and when thoroughly cooled the brine may be poured over the butter.

Be sure to keep the butter well under the brine by means of a slight weight placed on top of it. If the butter is allowed to float it will come in contact with air and be injured. The boiling removes the air from the brine and destroys the ferments which may be present in the salt or water. Keep the jars covered and on the bottom of the cellar or other cool place. If tubs are used put them on a board or a stone to prevent the hoops rotting off. It ought to be understood that butter for long keeping must have the buttermilk very thoroughly removed at the time it is made. Treated in the manner indicated there should be no difficulty in preserving the summer butter surplus for the following winter and spring consumption.

TAINTS IN MILK.

Education is still needed among farmers to tone up their ideas in methods of producing pure milk. The thought with many people is that milk is contaminated only by the introduction of foreign bodies directly into the milk. It is true this is a prolific source of bad-flavored butter and cheese, but not the only one. It does not occur to these farmers that taints may be introduced to these products through the organism of the cow by her breathing an impure and tainted atmosphere. Well authenticated instances are on record where cows at pasture, breathing air polluted by carrion, carried the taint to their milk and seriously affected the whole product of the factories to which the milk was sent.

The modern barn with close tie-up and cellar used as a depository for the accumulation of manure through the winter is more than suggestive of tainted milk, when cows are confined in such quarters. The old, lax notions of allowing cows to stand and lie down in their ordure six months of the year accepting the conditions of filthiness the cows take on in consequence as a matter of course, are not yet all obsolete. And yet these farmers think they are targets for persecution if the factory management insists upon a reform in their practice on penalty of exclusion from the factory.

I USED TO KILL BIRDS.

I used to kill birds in my boyhood. Bluebirds and robins and wrens, I hunted them up in the mountains, I hunted them down in the glens. I never thought it was sinful—I did it only for fun—And I had rare sport in the forest With the poor little birds and my gun. But one beautiful day in the spring-time I spied a brown bird in a tree, Merrily twining and chirping, As happy as bird could be, And raising my gun in a twinkling, I fired, and my aim was too true; For a moment the little thing fluttered, Then off to the bushes it flew.

I followed it quickly and softly, And there to my sorrow I found, Right close to its nest of young ones, The little bird dead on the ground! Poor birdies! For food they were calling; But now they could never be fed, For the kind mother-bird who had loved them Was lying there bleeding and dead.

I picked up the bird in my anguish, I stroked the wee motherly thing That could never more feed its dear young ones, Nor dart through the air on swift wing. And I made a firm vow in that moment, When my heart with such sorrow was stirred, That never again in my lifetime Would I shoot a poor innocent bird!

NOTES FROM NORTHFIELD.

It is when we consider the mighty influence for good or bad which our university men will exert as rulers throughout the world, that the proper direction of their minds while in the formative state becomes so important. While it has been true that university men have exerted the greatest influence for good, it has also been true that they have exerted the greatest influence for evil. The propagators of Nihilism, the instigators of the Armenian massacres, the hindrances to the progress of China were university men. The realization of these facts led to the "Student Young Men's Christian Association Movement" of the United States and Canada, which now unites nearly six hundred Y. M. C. A.'s in institutions of higher learning in these two countries. The complete organization of this movement has led to wonderful development in all lines of christian life; spiritual life in colleges has been greatly deepened. The Bible Study department now has an enrollment of 12,000 students in systematic daily Bible study. A wonderful Christward tendency among students of all faculties. The Student Volunteer Movement, founded in 1886 and which has already furnished 1,363 student missionaries. A great increase in the study and giving to missions.

The wonderful success of the movement on this continent led to the formation in 1897 of the "World's Student Christian Federation." From its world-wide scope this is limited to three representatives from each country. At the Federation meeting at Eisenach, Germany, last year, twenty-four nations were represented. French and Germans sat in harmony, and even when the Spanish-American war was at its height, delegates of these nationalities could overlook their political differences in the unity of their christian purposes.

I have mentioned these facts that any of your readers who may have sons to send to college may rest assured that in the college Y. M. C. A. he has a well organized and powerful moral ally.

C. O. M.

Mr. John R. Mott, Student Secretary of the International Committee, addressed the conference on "Reality in Christianity," saying in part as follows:

"In reading the life of Jesus Christ recently, I have been impressed as never before with the reality of Jesus Christ, how his life corresponded with his words, how he practiced as he preached, how he did what he said. In looking over the acts of the Apostles, we must have all been impressed with the prominence of testimony or witness bearing as the agency for the propagation of the gospel; so we might take the epistles, and we should find there that special stress is laid upon the propagation of the gospel by conduct. The Apostles did not minimize the importance of testimony and witness bearing, but they placed the chief stress upon the life which makes the witness-bearing irresistible; and we are living in times and we have colleges and universities where the need to-day is so great of the propagation of the gospel by means of conduct which will give the testimony of the gospel its irresistible power.

"Wherein should Christians cultivate reality and be Christians of reality? We should be Christians of reality in our speech; and here let us all be ashamed together. There are so many evidences of unreality in the speech. And then there is that matter which we call cant, the saying of things in meeting and in conversation which we do not mean. There is often unconscious hypocrisy in this matter of conversation and silence. That is, often when we are in conversation with others we allow the conversation to be determined by the character of those with whom we are.

"We should be Christians of reality also in our thoughts. And here the substance of our thoughts so often cannot be the substance of the thoughts of Jesus Christ and the real Christian is the man through whom Christ is thinking, the man, in other words, who has the mind of Christ.

Not only the subject matter of the thought, but the intellectual processes themselves often are not those of Christ.

"We should be Christians of reality also in our battle with temptation. How many students we find that are totally indifferent to this matter of temptation. I find not a few students who are not making any resistance to temptation. They are not resisting it. They are dallying with it even, playing with it, not resisting, and how few, indeed, do we find in the college who are making a scientific battle against temptation.

"Let us be Christians of reality, moreover, in our prayer life. And here there may creep in, even into this holy place, so much of sham and spurious spirituality and shoddy and unreality. In the substance of the prayers, for example. Selfish prayers are not prayers that are prayed by the Spirit of Christ in a man. It enters also into the spirit of the prayers. If, when I come to my knees, I come there with the knowledge that some other man has aught against me, I had better keep off my knees until that matter has been made right so far as in me lies. It is mockery to proceed to prayer unless it is prayer to be willing to do this thing.

"Let us be Christians of reality in building up the spiritual life. Are our lives further up the mountain path of Christian attainment this year than a year ago this summer? Surely that should be the case with a real Christian. The real Christian is not still or going down the hill. Are the truths of God as revealed in the Bible having right of way in the life day by day, and are they being appropriated? If not, it is not the characteristic of a real Christian who feeds upon the Word of God and meditates thereupon day by day. Do we have larger achievements in prayer this year than we had last? If not there is something the matter with the genuineness of the life of Christ within us. It is not the life of Christ within us. There is something the matter with the genuineness of our own life.

"And yet, once more, we should be Christians of reality in relation to the great work of extending the kingdom of Jesus Christ in the world. This is the work for which Christ has placed Christians in the world. If we are Christians of reality, the great facts about the world's need and of Christ's desire to have this need met will become a commanding principle in our lives. A few words as to how to cultivate reality in life. Recognize the awful sinfulness and the deadly hypocrisy of unreality, that has a large part in leading to some of these other things. And if a man doesn't realize it, I know of no better way than to write on three or four sheets of paper all that Jesus Christ has said about hypocrisy, and it will burn in his conscience and move the springs of his will. Put energy into it. And it takes not only time and energy, but it takes thinking, thinking. If a man, before he would pray, would stop for a moment to think, he might not pray so long, but it is well to remember that our prayers are not measured by their extent, but by their content.

"It takes thinking and application and appropriation. Guard thy heart, above all that thou guardest, for out of it are the issues of life." If a man wants reality in his speech and in his prayers, and reality in his actions, he must have reality in his heart. And then the obedient and attentive study of the Bible is one of the best means of cultivating reality. If Christ is formed in a man and is expanded as the result of right habits of prayer and Bible study, that man will have the mind of Christ, he will be speaking the messages of Christ, he will be showing forth the excellencies of Christ, who called him forth from darkness into his marvelous light. He will be engaged in the work of Christ, who sent us to do his works and even greater works. Let us be Christians of reality.

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who loves her infant but should keep on hand during the hot weather a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There is no remedy so safe and so effective for the diarrhoea of infants, and none has the endorsement of so many Canadian mothers who have proved its merits, and therefore speak with confidence. One of these is Mrs. Peter Jones, Warkworth, Ont., who says: "I can give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry great praise, for it saved my baby's life. She was cutting her teeth and was taken with diarrhoea very bad. My sister advised me to get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and it cured the baby almost at once."

CURED OF EPILEPSY.

THE STORY OF A ST. CATHARINES LADY WHO IS RESTORED TO HEALTH.

She Suffered Severely, Sometimes Having as Many as Four Spasms in a Week—Several Doctors Consulted Without Benefit.

From the Star, St. Catharines.

Mrs. S. B. Wright, of St. Catharines, has for a number of years been a severe sufferer from epilepsy, from which dread disease she is now happily free. To a reporter who recently called upon her to ascertain the manner of her cure, she said:—"It is to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I owe my release. It is some years since I had my first attack. At the time I did not know what the trouble was, but the doctor who was called in to attend me at once said it was epilepsy, and that the disease was incurable. After this I had the spasms as often as two, three and four times a week. I had no premonitory symptoms, but would fall no matter where I was. I always slept heavily after an attack. Finding that the local treatment was not helping me my husband took me to a doctor in Hamilton. He also said, that he could not cure me, but that he could give me medicine that would prolong the period between the spasms. This he accomplished, but I longed for a cure rather than for relief, and I finally consulted a specialist, who told me that he could cure me, but that I must have patience. I asked him how long he thought it would require to effect a cure and he replied at least six months. He gave me medicine and I took it faithfully, but instead of getting better I was surely growing worse. After following this treatment for some months without avail, I felt that I could not hope for a cure and was about resigning myself to my fate.

My sister, however, urged me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People a trial and reluctantly I decided to take her advice. For a time after beginning to use the pills I continued to have the spasms, but I felt that gradually they were less severe and my strength to bear them greater, and I persisted in the treatment until the time came when the spasms ceased and I was as well and strong as ever I had been. I took in all twelve or fourteen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although several years have elapsed since I discontinued their use, I have not in that time had any return of the malady. I owe this happy release to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and will always have a good word to say for them.

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood or shattered nerves, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy from a dealer who for the sake of the extra profit to himself, may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail.

CHILD BLOWN FROM A TRAIN.

LITTLE BOY DROPS PORTER'S HAND ON PLATFORM BETWEEN CARS AND IS THROWN OVERBOARD.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 14.—John P. Bowen, formerly of Newark, N. J., but now of Memphis, Tenn., has suffered the loss of his son, Arthur, four years old, by the little one being blown from a train.

Mr. Bowen, having removed his business to Memphis, went there ahead of his family. Mrs. Bowen, with Arthur and a little daughter, started yesterday to join him. When the train was near Perryman, on the Pennsylvania road, Mrs. Bowen and the children started from the dining car to the sleeper. The train was going fifty miles an hour. The porter was taking care of the boy, who dropped the man's hand while on the swaying platform between the cars. The wind picked up the child and he was blown from the train.

When Mrs. Bowen learned of the accident some minutes later she became almost frantic, and other passengers had to keep her from jumping from the train. The train was stopped and a telegram sent back to Perryman directing a search for the child, who was found lying beside the track terribly injured. The little one was brought to Baltimore on a special train and taken to the Johns Hopkins hospital, where he died early this morning.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP was the first and original "pine" preparation for coughs and colds. All others having the name "pine" are simply imitations some of them worthless.

If men wound you with injuries, meet them with patience; hasty words rankle the wound, soft language dresses it, forgiveness cures it, and oblivion takes away the scar. It is more noble by silence to avoid an injury than by argument to overcome it.

An Empress' Pen.

I heard an interesting fact regarding the former empress of the French the other night which shows in what direction her thoughts run. Whenever she has occasion to write anything about her lamented husband, she always uses the diamond pen which signed the treaty of Paris. All those who participated in this historical occasion wanted the pen as a memento. But so keen was the empress on possessing it that she begged that only one pen should be used, which she thought she had a right to retain as a souvenir. This was agreed to. The pen takes the form of a quill plucked from a golden eagle's wing and richly mounted with diamonds and gold.—Woman's Life.

The Collier and Amen.

I once witnessed a phase of prompt evolution of practical and of devotional religion in Scotch sheepdogs on a communion Sabbath among the mountains. The churchyard was crowded with shepherds, accompanied by their dogs, which lay quietly asleep at the feet of their masters. The sermon was finished, the psalm had been sung, the final prayer was being offered, and there was no sign of impatience, but the moment the benediction commenced the devotional doggies all roused themselves, and before the "Amen" they were in marching order.—"Newman Hall," an Autobiography.

Dr. A. W. CHASE Triumphs over the Worst Forms of KIDNEY... DISEASE

The wonderful success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills adds to the fame of the great doctor whose name is familiar in almost every home as the author of the world famous Recipe Book.

Scores and thousands of grateful men and women have been rescued from the miseries and dangers of kidney disease by this greatest of all kidney cures.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabec, Ont., writes: "My kidneys and back were so bad I was unable to work or sleep. My urine had sediment like brick dust. I was compelled to get up four or five times during the night. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and concluded to give them a trial. I have only used one box and am completely cured. I was a great sufferer for 18 years, but my kidneys do not bother me now. I enjoy good rest and sleep and consider Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a boon to suffering humanity."
