The action of the Canada Life Assurance company directorate in deciding to remove the head office from Toronto to Hamilton has aroused some stockholders and the policy holders to action. They will apply to parliament for legislation to so amend the company's act of incorporation as to give them more influence and to limit the powers of the directorate.

Prominent scientists from Toronto, Queen's and McGill universities, met at Ottawa in the office of Prof. Prince to report at the request of the government and the British Association on the advisability of establishing a marine biological station for the dominion for the purpose of studying all species of marine life. It was decided to recommend the government to establish such a station near St. Andrews, N. B.

A militia general order provides: "Officers and non-commissioned officers holding the rank of sergeant attached to Royal Schools of Instruction for special course of not less than seven days or for an equi-vation course for officers of dismounted units not exceeding 28 days shall, if they successfully pass the required examination, receive pay for such days as they have been in attendance at the rate of $1 per diem for officers and 50 cents per diem for sergeants."

The Ontario Lord's Day Alliance executive has decided to broaden its scope to take in the Dominion instead of confining its operations to Ontario. It also will join with the Ottawa branch of the Alliance in endeavoring to defeat the movement for Sunday cars in the capital. The Ottawa Lord's Day Alliance has decided not to take any further steps at present to fight Sunday cars, but to leave the matter in the hands of the Lord's Day Alliance in the Legislature. If the Toronto people, however, desire any assistance, delegates will be sent from Ottawa.

WRITE THIS MAN.

Mr. J. F. Markie, 257 Lansdowne Ave., Toronto, bridge contractor, was cured by Milburn's Rheumatic Pills of a bad attack of Rheumatism which laid him up in bed for weeks. He will tell you all about his cure if you write him.

Sniffins—Caderby is wearing a look of importance lately. Has he been made a member of the firm he works for?
Koffner—No; but he's been given a position which carries with it the privilege of bossing the office boy.—Roxbury Gazette.

"How did it happen that Miss Singleton refused to marry the young clergyman?"

"Why, when he proposed to her, she, being a little deaf, thought he was asking her to subscribe to the organ fund. So she told him she had promised her money to some other mission."—Harper's Bazar.

First sweet girl—Is that Mr. McMurphy? Why, he's as ugly as a stump fence! You said he was handsome.

Second sweet girl—(repentantly)—I—I thought he was. You see, I met him at Exclusive Beach, and he was the only man there.—New York Weekly.

Housekeeper—I ordered a dozen oranges to-day, Mr. Titefist, and you only sent me 11. How was that?

Grocer—Well, ma'am, one of them was bad, and I didn't think that you'd want it.—Philadelphia Catholic Standard.

"I suppose," she said, "that you are a close student of literature?"

"No," answered the young man with black-rimmed glasses. "I am a student of illiterature. I like dialect stories."—St. Louis Republic.

She—What makes you think he loves me so desperately?

Simplex—Oh, a thousand things! He always looks pleased, for instance, when you sing and play.

"Do you realize fully, sir, that you have called me an ass?"

"No, sir, not fully. I haven't known you long enough."—Town Topics.

Proud mother—Oh, John, the baby can walk!

Cruel father—Good. He can walk the floor with himself at night, then.

A small boy at his first concert innocently asked, when the soprano was called back. "What's the matter, mother? Didn't she do it right?"

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

Customer (at restaurant)—I say, waiter, I've dropped a sixpence. If you find it, let me have it back; if you don't you can keep it.

A New Departure.

Dr. Marschand, the celebrated French physician, has at last opened his magnificently equipped laboratory in Windsor, Ont. There is a large staff of chemists and physicians at his command, and the men and women of Canada may now procure the advice of this famous specialist free of charge.

Dr. Marschand has a world-wide reputation for successfully treating all nervous diseases of men and women, and you have but to write the doctor to be convinced that your answer, when received, is from a man who is entitled to the high position he holds in the medical fraternity.

Why suffer in silence when you can secure the advice of this eminent physician free of charge.

All correspondence is strictly confidential and names are held as sacred. Answers to correspondents are mailed in plain envelopes.

You are not asked to pay any exorbitant price for medicines, in fact it rarely happens that a patient has expended over 50 cents to one dollar before he or she becomes a firm friend and admirer of the doctor.

A special staff of lady physicians assist Dr. Marschand in his treatment of female cases. Always inclose a three-cent stamp when you write and address The Dr. Marschand Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

When you write mention THE REVIEW.

A Shoemaker's Accounts.

There was a shoemaker I met not long ago, says a writer in Chambers Journal, who had a most elaborate method of keeping his "books." Against the wall of his workshop he had a large board erected, which he painted black. Into this board he used to drive hobnails, tacks, brass and steel rivets and other nails used in his trade to represent work done. For instance, the selling of a pair of boots would be represented by a small piece of leather tacked on to the board by means of a brass rivet, but if the boots were hobnailed then a hobnail was used instead of the brass rivet. A steel rivet indicated a patch on the sole, and a patch on the upper was shown by the addition of a piece of thin leather. New boots were shown drawn in chalk, as were also the hieroglyphics representing the customers' names.

Some peculiarity of manner, dress or surroundings was chosen to indicate whose account it was. The parson's account was placed under the rough drawing of a church; the curate, who wore glasses, was represented by a sketch of them; a couple of circles, one blank and one with a dot in the center, stood for the postman, who had lost one eye. A beer barrel was the innkeeper's sign; the village pump did duty for the milkman, while the schoolmaster was personated by the drawing of a cane. The old man was a great wag, but he never had his accounts challenged in spite of their quaintness.

Concerning Appendicitis.

Dr. H. R. Lemen of Alton, Ill., says: "I often meet people who have such a wholesome fear of appendicitis that they do not eat grapes, tomatoes, figs or fruits containing little seeds because of a fear that these seeds will lodge in the appendix and cause appendicitis."

"Whenever I hear a person say he denies himself fruits because of this fear I take occasion to assure him that it is useless to take any such precautions. If you like fruit, eat it, for appendicitis, seven in ten instances, is due to other things than seeds. Little particles of food of any kind can lodge in the appendix and produce appendicitis, even a bread crumb being capable of it. In addition, a great many cases are caused by something entirely outside the appendix, something causing the inflammation."

"To all I would say, 'Go ahead and eat anything you like, for all precautions you may take are not going to save you from appendicitis if you are going to have it. The inexplicable things to which the majority of cases are attributable cannot be guarded against, and it is useless to fight the minority."

Sam Hodgkins' Will.

"Sam Hodgkins," says the Lewiston Journal, "was in his day and generation a much respected citizen of Bangor, and like his son 'Dudley,' better known as Uncle Dudley, was well known all over the eastern portion of the country. An amusing story is told by some of his old acquaintances to an eastern Maine paper of how he once made his will. It happened to be done at a time when the old man was in one of his happiest and most generous moods, and, realizing no doubt the uncertainty of human life, concluded that he would bequeath to his seven sons—Dudley, Zachariah, Moses, Sam, Shem, Gee and Elliot—his worldly goods and possessions."

"He was very anxious that the will should be legal, and was careful lest any of his children might be left unmentioned in some way. So the old man drew up the instrument, in part like this: 'Half to Dud, half to Zack and all the rest to Moses. Shem is blind. Sam is poor. Gee has moved to the Falls (Sullivan Falls) and Elliot is the baby.' As the will was never probated it answered the purpose just as well as any."

Bismarck and the French.

Bismarck had no great opinion of the French. He believed that they are too easily swayed by popular catchwords. "Talk to a Frenchman about liberty, equality and fraternity, tell him that his nation is the greatest in the world, and you can do anything with him. You can impress the French more than any other people if you tell them it is done in the name of freedom."

Asked his opinion in the case of a certain French spy, he said "It's a sad case. You've got to hang him, but do it with the utmost politeness, so as not to hurt his feelings."—Exchange.

Equal to a Fairy Story.

Bilkins was seated in an easy chair enjoying his paper while his wife was busy with fancy work. Bobby, the 4-year-old son of the household, on the floor was fighting a battle with tin soldiers. Presently the little fellow tired of his play and exclaimed:

"Mamma, won't you please tell me a fairy story?"

"I don't feel like it tonight, Bobby," said Mrs. Bilkins. "Go and get your papa to tell you what detained him down town so late last night."—Ohio State Journal.

Missed the Combination.

He is one of those gushing old beans who think flattery the key to favor with the gentler sex. The other evening he was at a reception with his wife, and they met the handsome Miss Blank, at whom he fired a whole battery of compliments. Then turning to his wife he said: "It's a good thing I didn't meet her before I married you, my dear."

"Indeed it is," she smiled sweetly. "For her I congratulate Miss Blank."—Exchange.

A Delicate Distinction.

"How much does your position pay?" asked the rural relative.
"I don't know as I could figure it up offhand," answered Senator Sorghum.
"You surely know your own salary?"
"Yes, but that isn't what you asked me."

HIS VIEW OF IT.

"My dear," said Mrs. Henpeck, "I'm positive that our George is thinking seriously of matrimony."

"Well, I only hope so," returned Henpeck with unusual spirit; "I wouldn't want any boy of mine to be so unfortunate as to regard it as a joke."—Philadelphia Record.

PLEASED TO OBLIGE.

Mr. Jimson—Won't you sing something for us, Miss Skylark?
Miss Skylark (modestly)—Wah, I'll try, Mr. Jimson.

Mr. Jimson—Suttlingly, Miss Skylark, suttlingly—dat's wot I meant!—(Puck.)

SUCCESSFUL MEN

MANY OF THEM ARE HANDICAPPED WITH CATARRHAL DISEASES.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THEIR AID.

Success in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from catarrh; sometimes from catarrh of the stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from catarrh somewhere, and catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.
