THE REVIEW,Richibucto, N. B.*COVERED WITH SORES.

D.D.B. cured little Harvey Deline nine years ago and he has never had a spot on him since.

It is practically impossible to heal up sores or ulcers, especially the old chronic kind, with ordinary remedies. No matter how large or of how long standing they may be, however, they heal up readily and stay healed permanently when Burdock Blood Bitters is used.

HARVEY DELINE.

Mrs. E. Deline, Arden, Ont., proves this in the following account she gave of her little boy's case: "When my little son Harvey was one year old he broke out in sores all over his body. They would heal up for a time, then break out again about twice a year, till he was past four; then he seemed to get worse and was completely prostrated. When doctors failed to cure him I gave him Burdock Blood Bitters, and besides bathed the sores with it. "It is nine years ago since this happened and I must say that in all this time he has never had a spot on his body or any sign of the old trouble returning."

SENTENCED FOR LIFE.

DULLMAN, WALSH AND NOLAN GET THE EXTREME PENALTY OF THE LAW.

WELLAND, Ont., May 25.—The trial of the canal dynamiters was concluded today, Dullman, Walsh and Nolan being sentenced to imprisonment for life. At today's proceedings several experts and other witnesses gave evidence including Superintendent Thompson of the Welland canal who swore that the damage to the locks was $1,000 or $1,500 and that if the explosion had been successful it would have caused loss of life as well as property. The hearing of evidence then closed and Mr. Germain, Q. C., counsel for Dullman, addressed the jury for an hour and a half, using everything possible in favor of his client. He asked the jury to drop from their minds all rumors and reports they had heard and weigh the evidence carefully and give even handed justice. He went over the ground from the time the three men arrived in Buffalo and contended that not even a suspicious circumstance connected Dullman with the case, his being in the company of Walsh and Nolan, assuming them to be guilty, was not sufficient to convict. He traced Dullman's actions up to the time of his arrest. Had he been guilty Mr. Germain asked, why didn't he leave the country and escape arrest? All his actions proved his innocence and positive evidence connecting Dullman with the case had not been produced. He asked for his acquittal.

Mr. Johnson, Q. C., for the Crown addressed the court for an hour and a quarter, confining himself chiefly to connecting Dullman with the crime. Walsh and Nolan, he said, were the victims, tools of a crafty, cunningly designing hand of an assassin. We want this to continue a free country and have no room for dynamiters. The hands that touched a fuse were traitors of the state. Mr. Johnson's arraignment of the prisoners was a strong one showing the chain of evidence which implicated the three during all the time they were under surveillance and urged the jury to do their duty regardless of the consequence and have the dynamiter's hand paralyzed in Canada now and forever.

His Lordship Chancellor Boyd in his charge to the jury was most fair and unimpassioned, saying this was fortunately the first dynamite case in Canada. He carefully went over the evidence, impressing upon the jury the important points and charged that if Dullman was found to have been the guiding hand to have been instructing them or to have been paying their way or assisting them he was according to the law equally guilty.

The jury retired to consider their verdict and half an hour later returned when amidst a most impressive silence the verdict of "Guilty" as to all three were rendered. His Lordship in sentencing the prisoners said he found no mitigating circumstances. The prisoners, he said, came here with an evil intent, they had planned the deed long, seriously and deliberately Dullman as the leading spirit deserved more even than Walsh and Nolan. The sentence of court is life imprisonment for all three.

PERRY DAVIS & SON.

Thrown Out of Court.

"In the good old days of Kentucky," says The Bar, "there was a court composed of three magistrates to try certain cases appealed from a single justice of the peace. The three magistrates were backwoodsmen. A case was being tried one day that was very important, and several hours of listening to the reading of depositions and the arguments of counsel, pro and con and pro and con again, had so nearly entangled the court in a labyrinth of perplexing questions of law and fact that they doubted their ability to blaze their way out. So they whispered to the leading lawyer at the bar, who was sitting by as a spectator, and asked him what he thought ought to be done with the case.

"I think it ought to be thrown out of court," was the prompt and emphatic reply.

"That settled it."

"Mr. Clerk," said the chief magistrate, "pass up them papers."

"The papers, which made quite a large bundle, were handed the chief magistrate."

"Now, Mr. Sheriff," said he deliberately "open that window."

"The sheriff opened the window and the case was thrown out of court."

"The feud that followed lasted for 15 years."

What It Might Have Cost.

In a certain town in Vermont, said the Boston drummer as he chewed away at a pepsin tablet, I picked up a wallet containing $500 in cash. In it were papers bearing the owner's name and he proved to be the mayor of the town. I at once hunted him up and handed over his lost cash and as he received it he looked me over and scratched the back of his head and said:

"I shall reward you, of course. How much do you think you ought to have?"

"Nothing whatever, sir. I am glad to restore your property."

"But you expect something?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't look for me to give you a cent?"

"Not a red."

"It don't seem possible," he went on as he looked me over again, "but I'll have to take you at your word. Do you know what it might have cost me, sir, had any one else found this wallet?"

"I can't say, of course."

"I'd have had to hand over at least 10 cents, sir, and he might have struck for 15 or 25."

A Close Estimate.

Speaking about close estimates, General John M. Wilson, chief of engineers, made one some time ago. Congress called upon him to make an estimate of the cost of an addition to the government printing office. As it was near the close of the session and congress was hurriedly getting through its work, little time was given General Wilson to consider the matter, but he submitted his estimate, and the appropriation was made accordingly. He estimated that the proposed building, according to the plans and specifications which had been drawn, would cost $121,121.90. The building was completed, and there was $9.16 surplus covered back into the treasury. General Wilson was put in charge of this work, and he took a great deal of interest in it. He always gave credit, however, to Lieutenant Sewell of the engineer corps, who had the immediate supervision of the work, for the care with which the building was erected and the fact that the cost did not overrun the estimate and appropriation.—Washington Cor. Portland Oregonian.

How Will 45 and 15 Do?

Here is an odd little piece of doggerel which appeared in The Gentleman's Magazine 15 years ago, which gave rise to considerable discussion. Correspondents seem to have been pretty evenly divided between those who claimed that there were several answers and such as maintained that the problem was unsolvable:

When first the marriage knot was tied
Betwixt my wife and me,
My age did hers as far exceed
As three times three does three.
But when ten years and half ten years
We man and wife had been
Her age came up as near to mine
As twice four is to sixteen.
Now, tell me, Captain David Gray, I pray,
What were our ages on the wedding day?

(David Gray was a noted writer on mathematical subjects who lived at that time.)

A Compliment.

Appropos of the late Lord Watson's predilection for interrupting counsel and the story of Lord Bramwell's exhortation to his learned brother to cease worrying a certain arguing barrister, a correspondent tells how on one occasion Lord Watson justified his in veteran habit of interposition.

"I ventured," he says, "once out of court to complain to him of his too frequent interruptions from which I had suffered in court."

"He answered: 'Eh? Man, you should not complain of that, for I never interrupt a fool.'"—London Globe.

Misfortune of a Poet.

"James has been quite unfortunate of late," said the poet's wife gloomily.

"Had another poem declined?"

"No; worse than that. You know, he has a habit of looking at the ceiling for inspiration, and last night, just as the inspiration came, a yard of plastering fell square on his head, knocking all the inspiration out of it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

In the Japanese temples there is a large drum used in worship. It is called kagura-talko, and it gives a tone much like a gong.

You Cannot Secure Health, Strength and Happiness Until You Use PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

A HOME MEDICINE THAT MEETS THE MOST URGENT CASES.

Reliable! Prompt! Effective!

If up to the present you have failed to get rid of nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, heart palpitation and unsightly skin diseases that arise from impure blood, it is because you have not used Paine's Celery Compound.

What this greatest of all modern medicines has done for sufferers in your condition may be learned from your friends and neighbors who have been made well by it.

The discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound was no idle theorist. Professor Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth Medical College, has positive proof of the great virtues of his wonderful discovery before he offered Paine's Celery Compound to his fellow practitioners and to the public.

For absolute reliability in banishing obstinate diseases from the system there is nothing that approaches Paine's Celery Compound. At this season of the year it should be used by everyone who is trying to get rid of nerve and blood diseases, dyspepsia, neuralgia, rheumatism and liver and kidney troubles. If you desire a certain and rapid cure, take nothing less than Paine's Celery Compound.
