DO YOU FEEL TIRED IN THE MORNING?

Does Sleep not bring Refreshment?

Do you feel wretched, mean and miserable in the morning—as tired as when you went to bed? It's a serious condition—too serious to neglect, and unless you have the heart and nervous system strengthened and the blood enriched by

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, collapse is almost certain to ensue. Mr. Fred. H. Graham, a well-known young man of Barrie, Ont., says:—"I have had a great deal of trouble with my heart for four years. I was easily agitated and my excitement caused my heart to throb violently. I had dizziness and shortness of breath, and often arose in the mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was terribly nervous. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done wonders for me. They have restored my heart to regular healthy action, giving me back sound restful sleep, and making my nervous system strong and vigorous."
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25 at all druggists or by mail. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RECIPES FOR TROUBLE.

If down with the blues read Psalm xxiii. If there is a chilly sensation about the heart read Revelations iii.

If you do not know where to look for the next month's rent read Psalm xxvii. If lonesome and unprotected, Psalm xxvii.

If the stovepipe has fallen down and the cook gone off mad, wash your hands and read James iii.

If losing confidence in men, 1. Corinthians iii.

If pelted with hard words, John xvi. and Psalm ii.

If discouraged about your work, Psalm xii, and Galations vi, 7-9.

If out of all sorts read Hebrews xii. These recipes have been tested and can be relied on always to turn out well.

IN OTTAWA VALLEY.

Reuben Draper, of Bristol, P. Q., Reports that He is Cured of Gravel by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Passed a Large Stone One Week After Commencing Dodd's Kidney Pills—Now Completely Free From This Trouble—Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to All Sufferers From Bladder Complaints.

BRISTOL, P. Q., June 25.—The people on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River are fully alive to the boon they have in Dodd's Kidney Pills as is witnessed by the large number who are publicly testifying to the merits of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the press. One of those is Mr. Reuben Draper, of Clarendon, near here.

Mr. Draper was troubled with that painful and dangerous bladder complaint known as gravel. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Gravel, and when it is remembered that a surgical operation was formerly the only means of assailing this disease, the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills is apparent. Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to Mr. Draper, and he tried them, with complete success, as the following letter will show.

Jan. 3, 1900.

Dodd's Medicine Co.
Gentlemen,—About three years ago I was taken ill with what I thought was gravel. I was suffering great pain, so I sent for a doctor. He gave me some medicine and said he would call again. He came twice more and charged me fifteen dollars. I was a little better but not well. A short time after I had another attack, so I tried another doctor with the same result, only I was getting weaker all the time. Then a man advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, for he said they had cured his mother. So I thought I would try them, and in just one week I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and in four days after I passed another about the size of a grain of barley. This gave me great relief and I commenced to feel better and to gain strength.

That is two years ago, and I have not had any trouble that way since. I have the stones still in my possession, and can show them to anyone who doubts this story. Hoping this may be of some benefit to someone suffering as I did,
I am yours truly,
REUBEN DRAPER.

PLAIN SAILING.

A.—You say that the cashier is mysteriously missing?

B.—Yes.

"And that $10,000 of the bank's funds is also gone?"

"Yes."
"Then where is the mystery about it?"

PAT'S REASON.

One day I observed, in a crowded horse car—
A lady was standing. She had ridden quite far,
And seemed much disposed to indulge in a stroll,
As nobody offered to let her sit down.
And many there sat who, to judge by their dress,
Might a gentleman's natural instincts possess,
But who, judged by their acts, make us firmly believe
That appearances often will sadly deceive.
There were some most intently devouring the news,
And some thro' the windows enjoying the views;
And others indulged in a make-believe nap—
While the lady still stood holding on by the strap.
At last a young Irishman, fresh from the "sod,"
Arose with a smile and most comical nod,
Which said quite as plain as in words could be stated
That the lady should sit in the place he'd vacated.
"Excuse me," said Pat, "that I caused you to wait
So long before offerin' to give you a seat,
But in troth I was only just waitin' to see
If there wasn't more gintlemin here beside me."

ROBBERS' TORTURE.

KNOCKED SENSELESS BY MASKED MEN WHO WERE FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO GET $400.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 23.—Four desperadoes, who committed one of the most dastardly assaults in the history of this county, have been corralled, it is believed, in a house fifteen miles from here. An armed posse of farmers has surrounded the place and is keeping a sharp watch to see that the men do not escape. The farmers are afraid to take the house by storm as the men, who are all heavily armed, have already shown they do not hesitate to shoot or kill.

Edward Moore, who is eighty-three years old, and his wife two years his junior, were tortured by the men, who broke into their house, on Kitchen's Creek, an isolated farming district, at two o'clock Thursday morning, in the hope they would tell where they had hidden $400 received by them a few days before. The couple, however, had deposited the money in a bank, and $20 and a gold watch were all the booty secured by the robbers, who wore masks.

Mrs. Moore was beaten and kicked until she was unconscious, and her husband, after being tortured, was knocked senseless. The torture consisted in rubbing the muzzle of a revolver along his forehead until the flesh was raw. Then, in exasperation, one of the robbers knocked him senseless.

The robbers thought they had to deal with only the old couple, but they did not know that sleeping upstairs was ten year old Mabel Tubbs. She was awakened by the noises and heard the cries of the Moores.

Instead of screaming she kept quiet as a mouse, climbed out of her window and managed to swing herself to the ground by the limb of a tree. Then, with only her nightdress on and in bare feet, she ran to the nearest neighbor, James Harman, about half a mile away, and aroused him.

With William Franklin, Harman started off for the Moores' home, and near there met the four men on the road. Harman and Franklin, who were armed with rifles, called on the robbers to throw up their hands. The only reply was four shots, one ball grazing Harman's head. A fusillade of shots then followed, each side taking shelter behind trees, and when Harman and Franklin exhausted their ammunition they went on to the Moore house.

Moore and his wife who were unconscious were revived and soon afterwards a party of men started on the trail of the robbers. They found that one had been badly wounded, for the others had carried him, and the ground was speckled with blood. This trail they followed three miles to the home of a notorious character, and there they have since been watching.

The Moores are in a precarious condition, the shock owing to their advanced age, having been very severe.

TABLE MANNERS.

At a dinner to which guests are bidden the gentlemen help to seat the ladies before taking their own places. If a clergyman is present it is customary to request him to ask blessing.

One should sit so as to bring the body about a foot from the table, and say a few words at the earliest opportunity to both neighbors whether one has been presented or not. "The roof is an introduction.

The napkin should be folded to half its amplitude and laid upon the lap, and the ladies remove their gloves. It is extremely bad form to put these in a glass, as some do, or tuck them in at the wrist; leaving the arms covered, a form of laziness that is not according to the usages of good society.

The oysters come first and are eaten with the appropriate fork; otherwise one may find oneself obliged to ask for another, the oyster fork being useless for anything else.

If one does not take wine, it should be sufficient to say to the servant, "No wine, thank you," but one should be on the alert to prevent its being poured, if one's preference is forgotten later on. Out of consideration to one's host one would not waste what is supposed to be choice and costly.

Soup must be taken from the side of the spoon, unattended by the slightest sound, and the plate may be tipped away from one, never towards one. If one is very anxious to secure the last spoonful.

No one uses a knife with fish unless silver ones, made for the purpose, are provided. A bit of bread is usually sufficient as an auxiliary to the fork.

Entrees are eaten with the fork alone. The roast imposes no special etiquette. If a vegetable is served as a separate course according to French fashion, each has its own punctilio.

Asparagus may be held in the fingers if the stalks are not too slender and pliant or divided and eaten with a fork. In England one who would eat peas with a spoon would be regarded as a barbarian. Artichokes may also be eaten with the fingers, plucking the leaves to be eaten at the base of each.

The game follows with the salad, which last, if composed of lettuce, should be dipped in a sauce and the tiny morsel eaten with a fork alone, which may fold the leaves to a convenient size.

Ice cream is eaten with fork or spoon, as one prefers, never with both.

Fruit must never be bitten, but cut in small pieces and eaten in either the hand or with a fork.

One dips only the ends of the fingers in the finger bowl, after which, at a signal from the hostess, the ladies arise, placing the napkins, still unfolded at the side of their plates, as implying that they, of course, will not be used again, and withdraw from the room. The men rise and remain standing, while the one nearest the door holds it open for the ladies to pass through.

It is customary, upon leaving the table, to set one's chair closer to it or far enough away to enable others to pass without inconvenience.—Table Talk.
