SHE KEPT THE SECRET.

(Collier's Weekly.)

A newly married couple were honeymooning in the country, when the first batch of letters from home arrived, and the husband, teasingly, proposed to open one addressed to his wife.

"Certainly not," she said, firmly. "But, Phillippa," he pretended to remonstrate, "surely you are not going to have any secrets from me, now that we are married!"

"I shall not have any secrets from you, but Phyllis might," his wife said. "That letter is hers, not mine. I shall probably let you read it after I have, but not until I am sure that Phyllis has told me nothing but what she would be willing for you to know."

"Still, doesn't it imply a lack of confidence when a wife won't show her letters to her husband?"

"Not at all. The lack of confidence is shown by the husband when he demands to see his wife's letters."

This was unanswerable, and the husband sank back in his chair with amused delight in his wife's perfect unconsciousness of having said a good thing.

Presently she added: "I told you so!" Here is something Phyllis wouldn't want you to know."

"Then, why are you going to tell me?"

"I'm not going to tell you what it is. You are only to know there is something you don't know—at present."

"Phyllis is engaged," he remarked.

"And what if she is? You are not to know to whom."

"To Radcliff," hazarded her husband.

"I didn't say so."

"But you don't say she isn't."

"How could I say she isn't, when she—"

"Is! I really think, my dear, you might as well have let me read the letter."

The excited caller dropped into a chair. "You're a lawyer, ain't you?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"I want you to sue a feller fer me."

"What for?"

"Damages. I want to stick him for $5,000."

"What has he done?"

"Called me a shyster."

"What did he do that for?"

"I don't know. That's what I want to find out. I'm going to make him prove it."

"And he called you a shyster, did he? Havin' you any witness to testify to that?"

"More'n a dozen."

"H'm, do you know what a shyster is?"

"No, I haven't the least idea."

"A shyster is a cheap lawyer."

"Gosh! Sue him for $10,000!"

"Experience is the Best Teacher."

We must be willing to learn from the experience of other people. Every testimonial in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the voice of experience to you, and it is your duty, if your blood is impure and your health failing, to take this medicine. You have every reason to expect that it will do for you what it has done for others. It is the best medicine money can buy.

Hood's Pills are non-irritating, mild, effective.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The formula is simple and safe. It is on every wrapper.

The three great vital factors of this body of ours are the heart, the nerves and the blood. It is because of the triple power possessed by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills of making weak, irregular beating hearts strong and steady, toning up run down, shattered, nervous systems and supplying those elements necessary to make thin, watery blood rich and red, that so many wonderful cures have been accredited to this remedy.

Here is the case of Mrs. R. J. Arnold, Woodstock, N.B., who says:

"I was troubled for some time with nervous prostration and general weakness, feeling irritable, debilitated and sleepless nearly all the time. My entire system became run down. As soon as I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I realized that they had a calming, soothing influence upon the nerves. Every dose seemed to help the cure. They restored my sleep, strengthened my nerves and gave tone to my entire system. I think them wonderful."

CONTENTMENT.

Napoleon when at the height of his power happened to be at Amiens and as he was crossing the public square to leave the city, amidst the acclamations of the people, who had run in crowds and almost blocked up the passage, he cast his eyes over the immense multitude, and discovered in one corner of the square, a stonecutter, whose attention had not been drawn one moment from his labor by all the splendor of the spectacle. The singular indifference of this man excited the curiosity of the emperor, he desired to know something of him, and spurred his horse onward, and stopped directly in front of the man.

"What are you doing there?" asked the emperor, with the pleasant tones which distinguished him on such occasions.

The workman raised his eyes and recognized the emperor.

"Sire," said he, "I am hewing this stone as you see."

"You have been in the army have you not?" said the emperor, who recognized in him an old soldier. "You made the campaign of Egypt—were you not an under officer?"

"It is even so, sire."

"And why did you leave the service?"

"Because I had served out my time, and obtained my discharge."

"I am sorry for it—you are a fine fellow—I am desirous of doing something for you—speak, what do you wish?"

"Only that your majesty would allow me to hew this stone. My labor procures me all I want, and I have no need of anything."

BLIGHTED CELERY NOT WORTH-LESS.

It is a mistake to suppose that blighted celery is not worth putting in for winter use, judging by the following experience with badly blighted crops related in American Agriculturist. About the 1st of October I trim up the plants, leaving only the heart leaves. A shallow trench in the cellar is well watered and the roots with as much soil as can be conveniently left on, are placed in the trench; more water is given, and sand or other light and dry soil is worked carefully in and about the plants, leaving only the tips exposed. Finer celery I have never had than such roots furnished in January or February. If the long white brittle stalks are cut off squarely—not too close—a second crop has been ready by April. This is lighter, of course than the other, but a dainty luxury for the season.

Now about the advantage of having a cream separator of your own. First, you get all the cream out of your milk there is in it. In the other way of setting milk in crocks or pans and having the cream to rise at leisure, if the temperature is just right, you will get nearly all the cream from the milk, but if the weather is too hot the milk will get sour too soon, and you don't get all the cream. If the weather is too cold, you don't get all the cream. Second, the skim milk from the separator is entirely sweet, and is worth a great deal more for feeding calves and pigs than the sour milk. Well, how about hauling your milk to the creamery? That is all right if you want to save work for the women, but it will make a difference of from 5 to 8 cents a pound in favor of running your own private creamery. In this way you will get 4 or 5 cents more per pound for your butter by selling and delivering it direct to customers than you could get from the creamery. You would gain about one-sixth in the amount of butter produced, as you are only allowed for butter fat at the creamery.

For a good many years I have fed my hens salt regularly every day in the mash. My reasons for so doing are that the salt seems to make the mash more palatable to the hens, and when my hens have food they really relish they generally do well. I believe a proper quantity of salt aids digestion in the hen as well as in animals and human beings. I do not know how large a quantity can be safely fed. A very little is sufficient.

If too much is fed it interferes with digestion, causes looseness of the bowels, and in some cases death by chlorine poisoning. Fed properly, I believe it tends to ward off disease by keeping the fowls strong and vigorous; at any rate we have never had a case of roup, cholera, or any other contagious disease among our hens.

Salt should never be sprinkled in the mash or mixed dry with the ground grain as it cannot be evenly distributed in that way, and some of the fowls would get too much and others none. Always thoroughly dissolve salt in the hot water with which the mash is moistened. We feed eight ounces daily to our laying hens.

PRESERVING EGGS.

The most common way of preserving eggs is to lime them. By this process they can be kept for twelve months, or longer, but then the shells are so affected by the lime that they invariably crack. For all other purposes of cookery a limed egg is about as good as a fresh egg. There is, however, a prejudice even against eggs that have been perfectly preserved. For all culinary uses an egg must be above suspicion. Nothing is more delicious than a perfectly fresh laid egg; nothing more repulsive than one that is at best doubtful. Many grocers sell limed eggs all winter as fresh, and the number of such eggs used in New York in the winter season is enormous. Eggs packed with the small end in dry salt and bran about half and half, will keep several weeks. If they are dipped in linseed oil before packing they will keep longer. To prepare a mixture for preserving eggs with lime, add a pound of quicklime to a gallon of water and let the preparation cool for twenty four hours. Pour it into a jar or covered bucket where it will not be liable to be stirred, and drop into it perfectly fresh eggs. Be careful not to stir the mixture when removing the eggs. A French method which has commenced for preserving eggs is the following: Dissolve four ounces of beeswax in eight ounces of olive oil, and brush every portion of the egg with the mixture. When the substance hardens pack the eggs carefully, the small end down in bran. It is said eggs will keep in a cool place two years by this process, and it is certainly worth trying. The object in all cases is to exclude the air from the shell.

GENERAL LORD ROBERTS.

"BOBS."

There's a little, red-faced man,
Which is Bobs;
Rides the tallest 'orse 'e can—
Our Bobs.

If it backs or kicks or rears,
'E can sit for twenty years,
With a smile round both 'is ears—
Can't yer, Bobs?

Then 'ere's to Bobs,
Bahadur—little Bobs, Bobs, Bobs!
'E's our pukka Kandahader—
Fightin' Bobs, Bobs, Bobs!
'E's the Dook of Aggy Chol (1.);
'E's the man that done us well,
An' we'll follow 'im to 'ell,
Won't we, Bobs?

If a limber's slipped a trace,
'Osk on Bobs,
If a marker's lost 'is place
'Dress by Bobs,
For 'e's eyes all up 'is coat,
An' a bugle in 'is throat,
An' you will not alay the goat
Under Bobs.

'E's a little down on drink,
Chaplain Bobs;
But it keeps us outer clink—
Don't it, Bobs;
So we will not complain
Tho' 'e's water on the brain,
If 'e leads us straight again—
Blue-light Bobs.

If you stood 'im on 'is 'ead,
Father Bobs,
You could spill a quart o' lead
Outer Bobs.
'E's been at it thirty years,
An' amassin' souvereigns
In the way o' slugs and spears—
Ain't yer, Bobs?

What 'e does not know o' war,
Gen'ral Bobs,
You can ast the shop next door—
Can't they, Bobs?
Oh, 'e's little, but 'e's wise;
'E's a terror for 'is size,
An' 'e—'e—does—not—advertise—
Do yer, Bobs!

Now they've made a bloomin' Lord
Outer Bobs,
Which was but 'is fair reward—
Weren't it Bobs?
An' 'e'll wear a coronet
Where 'is helmet used to set;
But you know you won't forget—
Will yer, Bob?

Then 'ere's to Bobs,
Bahadur—little Bobs, Bobs, Bobs!
Pocket-Wellington an' arder (2)
Fightin' Bobs, Bobs, Bobs!
This ain't no bloomin' ode,
But you've 'elped the soldiers' load,
An' for benefits bestowed,
Bless yer, Bobs.

(1) Go ahead.

"500 ACRES FOR MY HEALTH."

Piles Were Sapping the Life from Him
Dr. Agnew's Ointment Cured.

Mr. M. Beemer, of Knotmoul, Mich., says: "For seven years I had suffered from itching and protruding piles. I tried all kinds of cures, but got no relief until I used Dr. Agnew's Ointment. One application did more for me than any remedy I had ever tried. I have been such a sufferer that I would willingly give my 500 acres of land rather than have a return of my suffering from those tormenting things. 35 cents. Use Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills for liver ills. 20 cents. Sold at Est. W. W. Short.

Nearly every person employed in the great woolen industry in New England was made happy on New Year's Day, when an advance in wages took place. This increase takes effect in eleven of the mills owned and operated by the American Woolen Co., which are situated in six of the Eastern States. It is estimated that Friday's advance will directly effect 40,000 hands, and indirectly nearly 200,000 persons.

SCALDED HAND.

Mrs. T. Wannamker, Frankford, Ont. states: Eight years ago I scalded my hand very badly and took cold in it. My hand swelled and was very painful but one-half a bottle of Haygard's Yellow Oil cured it.

E. L. Pease had been appointed general manager of the Merchants' Bank of Halifax with headquarters at Montreal. At the next session of parliament applications will be made to change the name to the "Royal Bank of Canada."
