THE WHOLE THING.

(Recently Mr. Monk, M. P., stated that the present prosperity was really due to the Conservatives.)

- Who was it caused the crops to grow? Tupper.
- Who made the seasons come and go? Tupper.
- Who shaped the current of events? Who regulated elements? Who took the place of Providence? Tupper.
- Who made it rain when it was dry? Tupper.
- Who shaped demand, also supply? Tupper.
- Who caused the Indian famine, which raised wheat and oats to such a pitch it made the farmers all get rich? Tupper.

- Who gave the people industry? Tupper.
- Who made the world's prosperity? Tupper.
- Who placed the gold down in the ground and then got out and scratched around 'Till Roseland and Cape Nome were found? Tupper.
- Who is the source of every good? Tupper.
- Who wants it fully understood? Tupper.
- If any benefit befall Somewhere upon this mundane ball, Who has the monumental gall To claim the credit for it all? Tupper.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30, 1900.—The threatened trouble over the Alaskan boundary seems to have been only a flash in the pan. The Democratic papers have printed a few editorials denouncing the President for sacrificing American interests and territory and making the point that he is "scuttling" there while standing so firmly against the Filipinos, but the country has refused to get excited on the subject, and it has already been nearly forgotten. It is thought unfortunate that the Porcupine mining district, which has always been supposed to be American, should have fallen on the Canadian side of the provisional boundary, but it only illustrates the unsettled character of Alaskan geography, where the maps are often more than a hundred miles out in locating even important points. It is remembered that the Canadians are not any better satisfied with the provisional boundary than are the Americans. When the provisional line was agreed upon between the British and the American governments October 21 of last year there was prompt and vigorous complaint from Ottawa that Canadian rights had been ignored and that the Dominion's interests had been sacrificed by England in order to come to an amicable understanding with America. Canada, both before the High Joint Commission and in the subsequent negotiations, contended strongly for a port of entry on the Lynn Canal, but this was not conceded. As it does not seem possible to please everybody,

A. & R. LOGGIE.

The governments concerned will probably do the next best thing by pleasing themselves in adhering to the provisional boundary until such time as the subject can be re-opened with some reasonable hope of success in a final settlement.

Captain Cushing of the revenue cutter Rush has telegraphed to this city from Ounulaska that a very fatal disease said to resemble the grip exists in the seal islands in Behring Sea. There have been fifteen deaths already and others are probably dying. It is assumed that these deaths are principally among the natives, as there are only about ten whites on the islands.

For many years United States laws have provided for a tax of ten per cent on all bank notes, other than those of national banks, which circulate in this country. The intention of the law was to tax out of existence the old state bank currency, which was often worthless and lent itself to all sorts of frauds, but it has been decided that it applies to all foreign bank notes as well. The law has been brought to notice by the fact that the Bank of Clallam Co. in Washington State, had paid out $1,750 in Canadian bank notes and was much taken aback at being assessed $175 on them. In reply to a protest, the internal revenue office in this city responded that whenever Canadian bank notes, or the notes of any person, firm, corporation, association, or company, whether foreign or domestic (other than a national banking association), were passed from hand to hand anywhere in the United States, and that any bank receiving these notes so used and paying them out again in the United States is required to pay the tax of 10 per cent on the amount of the notes thus paid out or sold. Canadians should take notice and avoid sending their bank notes to the United States.

United States Consul Halstead writes from Birmingham, England, in regard to the electric lighting of British cities. He says, in part: "A few of the main thoroughfares of London will soon be electrically lighted, some poles having recently been put into position. Piccadilly had a few as long ago as the fall of 1896, and no doubt the success of that experiment is regarded as warranting extension on careful lines. Birmingham is still a gas lighted city, and there seems to be no street electric lighting movement, though on January 1 last the corporation took under its municipal wing the small electric lighting company. New mains are now being put in, and the question of electric street lighting must come up within a year or two, as must also the question of cost to consumers. Cork is one of the smallest towns with electric service and gets its electricity as cheaply as any city."

Lord and Lady Pauncefote and Miss Audrey Pauncefote were the Washington guests at the large dinner given by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at Newport on Saturday evening. Both Lord and Lady Pauncefote are extremely popular at the summer metropolis, while their young daughter and Miss May Golet are the leading belles of the smart cottage set.

E. G. Siggers, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C., reports the following patents granted to Inventors in Canada, July 17, 1900. He will mail copy of specification and drawings at any patent for 10 cents in stamps.

Schmidt, Lowden, Calculator for educational purposes; Wm. A. Sears, Mechanicsville, Ankle-brace; Thos. Thompson, Jewell, Stock-barrier; Jas. C. Wilken, Cedar Rapids, Firearm.

The Health Problem

Is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. Its cures of scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

Lot of Land For Sale.

Lot No. 2, on the Harley Road, east of Molus River, bounded easterly by the grant to Elsie Babineau, and containing 100 acres, being recently surveyed and all the boundaries set.

The above lot is 80 rods wide and 200 rods long. Twenty acres of cleared land, and a never failing brook running through the lot, and one new barn 30x40. For particulars apply to

TOTAL ABSTAINER—WHY?

In the monthly bulletin issued by the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Pittsburgh, Father Lambing replies to the question, "What made you take up the cause of total abstinence?" as follows:

"For the principle, and to me sufficient reason, viz.: John 10: 11 et seq. Then, it has always appeared to me that man does not live to eat and drink, but eats and drinks to live. Why, then, should he needlessly drink what tends to steal away his brains, ruin his reputation and usefulness, and damn his soul? It is true, I feared none of these things; but what slave of drink or occupant of a drunkard's grave ever did? Then, too, I never loved work so well as to allow any one to make it needlessly for me, if I could help it. Catholics sweat and groan under the burdens the saloon and drink impose upon them in the way of providing for its victims, when our energies, money and time could be much better employed, if we had not these victims to support. Mindful of the poet's words:

"Hereditary bondsman, know ye not Who would be free themselves must strike the blow."

"I struck, and determined to lead as many as possible to do likewise."

THE UNION SIGNAL.

STEADY GAIN.

From the days of Noah down to the present enlightened age intemperance has been regarded as an evil. But until recent times it was the drunkard alone upon whom fell the odium of the drink business. To-day one of the many encouraging indications of the efficacy of the temperance battering rams is the fact that public opinion is shifting the blame from the drunkard to the drink seller.

"Step by step since time began, We see the steady gain of man."

We do not need to look back to the beginning of time to see the steady gain of the temperance cause. Nor does it need the art of the seer to discern what the future has in store for the liquor traffic. The handwriting on the wall is so distinct that he who runs may read.

And what has brought about this change of the popular attitude toward not only the abuse but the use of strong drink? The persistence of the "temperance crank." It is due to the "doggedness" of the fanatics that the responsibility of the evils of intemperance is being transferred from the rum-drinker to the rum-seller. More than this. The public—the voting public—is beginning to realize that the man who stands behind the bar, culpable as he is, must not in justice bear all the stigma of the liquor curse. It is beginning to transfer the proper proportion of the burden of blame from the saloon to the power behind the saloon. All progressive and aggressive foes of the saloon will not hesitate to place the guilt where it justly belongs, for only by so doing is it possible to strike at the root of the liquor evil.

"THE TWO WAYS."

BY VIOLA MASON, BOSTON, MASS.

Life is a journey; there are two ways in which to walk, an upward road and a downward one. We are each of us travelling one way or the other. The upward path leads to all that is noble, grand, and elevating. The downward to everything which tends to lower and debase our standing in life; intemperance, for instance, and all other forms of sin. So much then depends upon our influence, let us not be the means of turning any one from the upward way, or by example be the cause of helping any one to start on the road to ruin. Many have gone down, down, till they were lost forever. Sad indeed! What we ask was the cause of the awful fall? Drink did it. Little do we realize the influence we have upon those with whom we come in contact.

Perhaps to-day you have performed a kind act, or spoken an encouraging word, which may help some one to take the first step on the upward way, for the poet has said, "Count that day lost whose low descending sun, sets from thy hand; no worthy action done." There are many ways by which we may help our fellow-men, by training the young in the paths of sobriety, particularly by encouraging them to unite with any of the various societies organized for this purpose. The friends of temperance who are doing this are engaged in a grand work. At times you may become discouraged, and feel in despair but remember you are training those young travellers, in the upward way they are being armed for the battle of life, and with the armour of temperance, the enemy shall be defeated. If you do but help one to start aright, you shall not have lived in vain. Yes, 'ere long those young heroes will be tempted to enter those brilliantly lighted taverns, you pass them every day. Ah! Satan is smiling around many of our streets, he is gratified to know that he is dragging many down the road of misery, he well knows that if once they enter the snare, the way of escape is hard. The invitation is just a social glass no harm in that. Heed not the tempter, if persuaded you are taking the first step on the downward way. The rum seller has no lack of customers, his trade is always good, for he claims the gold of the wealthy, and the hard earned coins of the working man. Drink is the first consideration of those who indulge in the poisonous glass, regardless of home and its comforts. Oh! consider the awful consequences of drink, retrace your steps ere it is too late, and start upon the way where the temperance flag is waving. The way of life is beset with many clouds. What makes it bright? Temperance organizations. Those who are addicted to drink are in an ocean, surrounded by temptation, the awful waves of intemperance sweep around, and threaten to swallow them up. One way of rescue remains. The good ship Temperance is coming to save them. Hoist the flag of temperance high, let its colours float over every land. Let us cheer for the good it has done, and for what it is doing to-day. For remember there floats at the entrance of the upward way the flag of temperance, and at the starting point of the downward way the sign of the rum-seller

A LETTER FROM ACADIEN.

The French Acadiens of Fitchburg are going to hold a meeting on August the 7th to choose delegates to represent them at the general convention of the Acadiens to be held the 15th of August next at Arichat, C. B., as there are no delegates to represent the Acadiens of this city.

As there are three individuals who are trying to have that honor, we beg those gentlemen to wait until they are chosen by the people. I tell you Mr. Editor that it does not pay to appropriate titles that do not belong to us, and that we don't even deserve, for this is a matter of great importance, and the intelligent people of Fitchburg would not like to be thingly represented there.

It is a matter of patriotism and not of brass selling.

MAIN RIVER NOTES.

AUG. 2.—As I have never written for our little paper of large circulation, I presume an introduction is necessary. But as I am an old subscriber my breach of etiquette may be overlooked.

Riding three in a carriage with peanuts to keep one company is the order of the day.

The Misses Crystal of Harcourt, visited friends in Main River last Saturday. While here they took in the amusements at St. Ann's and returned home Monday morning.

Messrs. Pat and Joq Murphy, and their cousin, Mr. Jim Shortell, drove up Main River.

Mr. Larry Plum, Mr. Osie McFadden and Miss Gifford, also Mr. M. McMichael visited Upper Main River Sunday.

Mr. W. Walker, of Buctouche, is the guest of Mr. Hugh McKay. Mr. Walker paid the latter a visit last summer, and those who were happy enough to make his acquaintance, welcomed him warmly.

There is a happy re-union at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Shea. The sound of young voices pervade the air around their dwelling.

Mr. James T. McLeary, who has been sojourning with his brother in Greenville, Me., was welcomed home Sunday morning by his sisters, who arrived here a few weeks ago. After a separation of eleven years, Miss Vernetta who has been residing in Detroit, Mich., joined her sisters Miss Maggie and Miss Lena in West Newton, Mass. In company with the latter young lady, she came to the home of her birth where she was cordially welcomed. It is rumored that the happy three will proceed to Greenville, Me., where they will be joined by their sister Miss Maggie, and a happy family re-union take place. It is needless to say Mr. and Mrs. Shea's joy at the presence of their nieces and nephew cannot be imagined.

A quiet little dance was held at the home of Peter McDermott. The company broke up at the wee hours of morning. Many gentlemen were present but the weaker sex were few in number.

Hoping you will ask me to write again! I bid you adieu, wishing you success with your hay.

STARLIGHT.

AUG. 1st.—As the New Moon asked me what I was dreaming of, I thought I would be sociable and inform the public. Haying is the order of the day, and dancing the order of night.

Since the picnic at the New Bridge came too late for the New Moon, I will have to tell what a nice time we had. It was held under the auspices of Messrs. Lawson and Sullivan, while Mr. Thos. Hanrahan acted as clerk.

Miss Eva Wilson, of Harcourt, was the guest of Mrs. Frank Target.

Mr. Thos. Welsh, of Bass River, who has been in the States for the past two months, spent Sunday of last week in Main River.

Main River people would like to know what has become of the young gentleman who broke his bicycle one Sunday recently, which, by the way, seems to be the latest fad.

Big Cove was the centre of attraction Sunday. Over two hundred persons drove around to the Indian Village. The ceremony was very interesting, and the behavior of the Indians during the services was very edifying. The swings were in constant motion.

Mr. Sheb Sherley has returned from Greenville to the bedside of his sick father. Were it not for the illness of Mr. John Sherley there would be a happy family at his little home, for his eldest son, Mr. Alfred, who has been a resident of the States for fourteen years, returned to the extreme joy of his aged parents.

The Misses Hanna of Boston, Mass., are the guests of Mrs. Hanrahan.

The rain is over, so I must attend to the hay while the sun shines. You will hear from me again.
