"And let us not be weary in well-doing for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."-Galatians 6: 9.

A church silent on the question of temperance discredits itself as much as a church silent on the question of dishonesty .- Joseph Cook.

The church of to-day, but much more ing from a weakness of the kidneys and the church of the future, must take to its heart the duty of combining and massing delay. Neglect may entail a lifetime of its forces against that gigantic atrocity of suffering and misery. christian civilization that mothers ninetenths of the woes and sorrows that blight and curse our modern age-the traffic in intoxicants, which hides its deformity under forms of law. Are we reduced to strengthen the kidneys and bladder, then the shame of admitting that a civilization that has grown up around our altars is impotent to cure the evil? If ever the pulpit had the right, the duty to flame with unsparing rebuke, it is here .- Bishop

Members of the church of God most pure, bear it in mind that intemperance in our land, and the world over, stands in the way of the gospel. It opposes the progress of the reign of Christ in every village and hamlet, in every city, and at every corner of the street. It stands in the way of revivals of religion, and of the glories of the millennial morn. Every drunkard opposes the millenium; every dram drinker stands in the way of it .-Albert Barnes, D. D.

The church of Great Britain loses, on an average, one member excommunicated or slaughtered by intemperance; and as there are thirty thousand churches, thirty thousand of God's people are annually the victims of the cup.-Newman Hall, D. D.

I have seen no less than ten clergymen with whom I have sat down at the Lord's TRAIN FROMBUCTOUCHE connects at Humphrey's with I C. R. for Halifax. and at Moncton with C. P. For one really converted christian as the fruit of missionary labor, the drinking practices of the English have made one thousand drunkards. - Andrew Jeffries after 31 years spent in India.

For every African who is influenced for good by Christianity, a thousand are driven into deeper degradation by the gin trade.—Joseph Thompson, F. R. G. S.

Nine tenths of our poverty, squalor, vice and crime spring from this poisonous taproot. Society, by its habits, customs, and laws, has greased the slope down which these poor creatures slide to perdition .-General Booth.

Can it be imagined for a moment that this great commercial country, so wise and so skiliful in all finance, in all investments, and with its eyes open can go on, year by year, wasting a hundred and thirty millions of money in the production of intoxicating drink, which when drunk is gone? Can there be a more complete waste? Expend it in the drainage of England and the culture of the land, and there would be bread for the hungry mouths of the people. Expend it in manufacture of cloth, and there would be no man and no child without a coat upon his back. Expend it in the building of houses fit for human habitation, and there would not be a workingman and his family without a roof over his head. We talk of profitable investments, and then waste a hundred and thirty millions in the most unprofitable investment that can be conceived by the imagination of man. Nay, I will go further. It is not only a waste, it has a harvest. It is a great sowing broadcast and what springs from the furrow? Deaths, mortality in every form, disease of every kind, crime of every die, madness of every intensity, misery beyond the comprehension of man, sin which it surpasses the imagination to conceive .-Cardinal Manning.

THE COMING STRUGGLE.

While it is lamentably true that vast numbers of the Christian churches are but slowly awakening to the fact that ere long they must take sides in the battle between the church and the saloon, between Christ and Bacchus, institutions considered by the church as godless are coming to the front in favor of righteousness. Business corporations are demanding that men working for them shall keep from the smell of the saloon, and soulless railroad bodies are inflexible in their rule to employ only such as abstain from in toxicants, and even some of the great daily newspapers hesitate not to declare the saloon an unmitigated nuisance.

If the church does not quickly come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty, the curse of meroz will rest upon it .-Nat. Advocate.

DARING MUTINY.

Captain Richard Dixey of the ship

Robert H. Dixey of Boston had an un enviable experience with a mutinous crew in the winter of 1854, which is now told in detail for the first time. Having taken a cargo from Mobile, Ala, to Havre, France, his ship was chartered by the French government to take stores and provisions to the French Army, then at the Crimea. A new crew was shipped, consisting of 16 men, half of whom were white and the others negroes. Besides the captain and three officers, there were four boys, making a total of 24 persons on board to man the ship. There was also a clergyman who went as a passenger

The boatswain was a negro. This fact alove was sufficient to cause dissatisfaction among the white men. Before the ship ruary I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills left Havre there were mutterings of discontent. Some of the crew were loud in the expression of their determination not cause of the benefit my child has received to be ordered around by a negro.

The voyage proceeded in comparative quiet, says Samuel Rhodes, jr., in the Boston Globe, until the destination, a port in Crimea where the French army was encamped, was reached. A large number of Frenchmen-of-war and several American merchant ships were in the harbor.

While the work of discharging was go-Henry G Rush, a farmer of Lancaster ing on the day after the arrival the men obtained liquor, and that evening most of them were drunk. Captain Dixey was engaged in entertaining Captain Lavender Sir Isaac Newton and scientists in general of the ship Lady Suffolk, who was on are wrong in their fundamental concepboard as a visitor. Third Officer Horace Broughton had charge of the deck. The If Mr. Rush loses his wager, the $1,first and second officers were below sleep-000 will be promptly paid to the cham-

Several times during the evening noises were heard coming from below which seemed to indicate trouble, but it was thought best for the time to ignore them.

The noise continued to increase, however, and at a little before 9 o'clock Mr. Broughton concluded to go forward and look into the port forcastle, where the white men were quartered. He saw enough to convince him that summary action must be taken or wholesale murder would be committed. Lying in his bed stabbed to the heart was one of the very The application of the circular principle worst of the men, while two others were is farreaching. It not only invades the standing over him brandishing sheath astronomical field, but also that of light,

As Mr. Broughton went to notify the captain and other officers the men rushed out and went on to the deck of the top gallant forecastle, where they made a changes wrought in higher mathematics stand. There were seven desperate men, all armed with large knives, sharpened on both sides and ground to a point like "I am well aware," he said, when seen

> In a few moments Captain Dixey and Captain Lavender appeared on the deck. Mr. Broughton was ordered to go forward and stop the disturbance. As he went on to the forecastle two of the men sprang at him with their knives, but he eluded them and succeeded in reporting to the captain. Captain Dixey and his visitor went to the cabin and returned armed with pistols.

> By this time the whole ship's crew were awake and on deck. The negroes, who were badly frightened, were attacked as soon as they appeared on the scene from the starboard forecastle. The fight then became general. One negro was killed and thrown overboard.

Officer Broughton and the boys then went to the assistance of the mate, who was having a hard time. Two of the men had forced him back into the cabin and knocked him to the floor. He was gra! bed by the throat, and the men were attempting to stab him. At this moment Captain Lavender appeared on the scene and, seizing a wooden bucket as a weapon knocked both men to the deck.

All this time the fight was continuing men knocked down by Captain Lavender recovered almost instantly and went to the assistance of their comrades. The boatswain, with the aid of two or three negroes, succeeded in keeping the assailant at bay until re-enforced by Officer Broughton.

Captain Lavender stood guard over the cabin doors while lanterns were obtained and strung along three sides of the ship in

By the light thus obtained the officers were enabled to do better work, and in a short time the mutineers were driven for ward. But this was only for a moment. The officers had made a stand at the main hatch foward the mainmast, with three or four negroes as their allies, when a rush was made at them.

Two of the men were captured. Officer Broughton and the boatswain placed them in double irons and returned in time to assist in resisting a second rush. This time two other men were secured, one of whom when taken aft was found to be badly injured about the head and to have one rib broken.

The remaining three men then fell back and were easily overpowered.

After the fight was over one of the negroes was found lying by one of the spars dangerously wounded. He died three days afterward. Another negro, who was cut in the wrist and had received internal injuries, lived about ten days.

As the ship was under protection of the French government the mutineers were placed on board a French man-of-war and sent to Constantinople, where they were turned over to the American con-ul. the intention being to send them to the United States for trial.

But, though they merited severe punish. ment, they never received it. Captain Dixey, who was a very kind hearted man and perhaps influenced somewnat by the clergyman passenger, concluded not to make charges against them, and they were discharged.

Paine's Celery Compound excels all other combinations and preparations as a spring medicine because it works directly on the shattered and unstrung nerves to d impure and poisoned blood, from which so many diseases have their origin,

Paine's Celery Compound must not be confounded with deceptive, worthless and shortlived remedies such as sarsaparillas, nervines, tonics and pills that have little or no power over disease.

Paine's Celery Compound has virtues and strengthening powers that quickly brace the nerves, cleanse the blood and restore perfect circulation and digestive vigor. The special mission of Paine's Celery Compound is to accomplish what thousands of doctors fail in-the banishment of old and obstinate disorders from the system, such as kidney and liver troubles, neuralgia, rheumatism and dyspepsia. #### A CHAMBERLAIN STORY.

Many good stories with reference to the present Colonial Secretary's Favonite flower have been told. Here is one. Some visitors had passed through Mr. Chamberlain's orchid-houses at Highbury one morning, when a very valuable plant was discovered broken. Mr. Chamberlain, it is said, almost lost his temper, and declared that sightseens should no longer be w lcomed. Then he interrogated the gardener in charge of the houses.

The man appeared confused, but protested that he did not do the damage. "I was very sorry when I saw it done,

"You saw it done? Then, of course, the visitors did do it?" "No, sir, the visitors didn't either," said

"Speak out, man!" cried Mr. Chamberlain. "I am resolved to discover the culprit." Then the gardener spoke: "You did it yourself, please sir, for I saw you. You were walking up an' down an' rehearsing something. I heard Lord Salisbury's name sir, an' Mr. Gladstone's, an' then you struck out with your right arm sudden-like, and down went the orchid."

The Colonial-Secretary smiled, and sight-seers were not forbidden the orchid healing of Catarrh has received the unbounded eulogy from people in high positions, socially, publicly or professionally, as Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder is a specific for catarrh. It gives almost instant relief, not only in the acute form but chronic cases of many years' standing vanish under its persistent use. It will break up a cold in the head in almost quicker time than it takes to tell it. It is a pleasant, powderful and potent protection against the almost constant climatic changes to which this northern world is subject.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder is the permanent eradicator and perpetual exterminator of this most insidious and vet common foe of humanity generally. If you are a sufferer take counsel of the thousands to who it has been a sovereign balm-the beacon to show the way to health and the heaven of health.

Mrs. J. H. Harte, of 233 Church street, Toronto, in telling of her faith in and cure by this wonderful remedy, says: "1 cannot speak too highly of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. For years I suffered intensely and constantly from catarih in its worst form. I took everything I could purchase that promised me a cure without any permanent results until I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application of it-and it's so simple to apply-gave me great relief. persevered in the use of it for eight months, and to-day I am fully restored not the slightest symptom of the malady remaining, and I am thankful to be able to give this testimoney for so worthy a remedy after trying so many so called catarrh cures, only to add disappointment to disappointment."

Is the breath foul? Are you losing flesh? Do you ache all over? Do you take co'd easily? Is the nose stopped up? Does your nose discharge? Do crusts form in the nose? Do you cough sometimes until you gag? Is there a pain in the back of the head? Is there a pain across the eyes? Is there tickling in the throat? Is your sense of smell leaving you? Are you losing the seuse of taste! Is there a dropping in the throat? Is there a burning pain in the throat? Any and all of these symptoms indicate the presence of catarrh, and while some of them may seem but trivial, you cannot afford to treat them lightly, for, remember, dire consequence may result from neglect, for all victims of throat and lung troubles have been subject to catarrh.

Have you a cough? Is the voice husky?

Dr. Agnew's Ointment puts out the fire from distressing skin troubles, such as Eczema, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Tetter, and will cure piles in from 3 to 5 nights. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives relief from the most violent spasms in heart diseases in 30 minutes. It saves life.
