"OOM PAUL'S" RIDE.

(Chicago Times-Herald)
No faithful steed was held at the door
Awaiting his master's need,
But out on the track was held the roar
Of a stronger and swifter steed:
No spurs were buckled upon his feet,
No stirrup was there to clutch,
But there was a train, well-stocked with meat
And flour and gin and such.

No foam was wafted upon the wind
As he mounted and sped away,
But a streak of smoke faded out behind,
While the rails that were gleaming lay;
No cannon's roar shook the hills around,
No foemen were there to scout,
No sabres flashed, and the only sound
Was the whistle's mournful shout.
He pierced no flanks and he used no goad
To add to the awful pace;
He just slid over the smooth, firm road,
With a pipe-stem stuck in his face!
He waved no cowardly strugglers back
To help bear the battle's brunt,
But dozed, as the wheels hummed over
The track,
With his feet on the seat in front.

He clutched no pommel, he stroked no mane,
Nor plunged into rushing streams;
He merely filled his good pipe again
And went on dreaming his dream!

But, clutching his whiskers after a while,
And twisting them up in a bunch,
He said, with a sort of sorrowful smile,
"Vill, mudder, it's time for lunch!"

Editor Review:

That we are likely soon to have changes in our Provincial government seems now almost assured. While we will almost all, if not all, feel regret at losing such an energetic and successful premier as we have had, yet we must not prevent a man doing what in his opinion is best. Even in our age of prohibition a line is drawn at the point of personal advancement. We may freely ask, and even command a man to lose, wealth, health, friends, liberty and even life for his country's good, but we must not ask him to forgo the opportunity of advancing in life's pathway. And so far custom is right. The law of progress is the law of life. In any case Hon. H. R. Emmerson has left his mark on N. B. in the shape of the proposed flour mills and the cheese factories and creameries being erected, the mines being opened, and the care taken of our forests and public roads. That such a man should meet opposition and jealousy goes without saying. It is only in accordance with human nature and the traditions of the past.

He was, however, assailed on a point in which the plain, sensible, practical people of N. B. knew how to support him. For years and years officialdom in N. B., as well as in other places has been under the lean of red tape. Red tape, that miserable refuge of imbecility in all countries cost The British Empire, America. Nearly lost her the fruits of Wellington's victories in Spain and latterly came near losing us India. Emmerson in a small Province and Chamberlain at the head of an Empire both save the fallacy of red tape, and both to a great degree dispensed with it. Results—Britain owns all worth having of Africa, and N. B. has two or more new industries started of great value, and the prospect before us of soon becoming a great mining country, and of raising at least her own bread.

In these things the plain men of N. B. can see through the smoke of bridge charges, and other efforts at detraction, but there is yet another point. Hon. Mr. Emmerson has departed from the unwritten but seldom violated compact that assigned the important departments of Government to only four or five counties. He has given Restigouche an energetic head of an important department in the case of Hon. C. H. LaBillois, a man who has shown the eminent wisdom of Messrs. Blair and Emmerson.

Now coming to our own case. It is a well established fact that Kent has sent to Frederickton some men of fine abilities who have been grossly overlooked in the formation of past Governments. We can also claim that she has sent at this time a man peculiarly capable of filling one at least of the most important offices in the province. Time was and even now is with some people, when all a man required to fill any office was eloquence. The power of speaking not thinking, and doing. We find to-day a tendency to a more correct estimate of men. It is felt now that in all departments of life's activity that we need something like specialists in medicine. We want men specially fitted for special work. In view of this the peculiar fitness of James Barnes, M. P. P. for the office of Chief Commissioner of Public Works cannot be denied. Not only has Mr. Barnes a respectable theoretical knowledge of civil engineering, but during his long career as a contractor he has by patient and painstaking personal work familiarized himself with the practical side of construction and grading, and all the details that go to make the practical civil engineer. It is well known to many that if his advice had been followed, a saving of some thousands of dollars, coupled with better work would have been accomplished in more than one instance. Not only that, but Mr. Barnes has shown himself a successful business man, a contractor who himself knows how to both estimate and accomplish at a small cost, large results. To no one in the same degree does these qualities belong who is likely to come under consideration in view of a reorganization of our Provincial Government. Again Mr. Barnes will bring an element of personal and Provincial strength to the Government. He is as well known and as popular in Queens, Sunbury, Charlotte and Westmorland as in Kent. The writer was assured by men knowing Queens well that all Mr. Barnes need do was allow himself to be nominated for Queens Co., and they would return him.

Now none of the propositions here given can be successfully contradicted, and they constitute a claim of great force. Added to that we have the fact of the scurvy neglect of Kent in the past, and these together constitute a claim of imposing magnitude.

Now let us as men wishing to see the best men in the places they are by nature and education fitted to fill, unite and see that we are not again overlooked when it comes to a reorganization of the Government. Let us drop our party sabbatals for a moment and catch some of the inspiration of our great poet who sang:

Oh for a man with heart, head, hand,
Like some of the simple great ones gone
Forever and ever by.
Aristocrat, autocrat, democrat none
Whatever they call him.
What care I—
One who can rule and dare not die.

LOST HIS POSITION.

A compositor on an Arkansas paper lost his position for making up the forms in a hurry and getting a marriage notice and a grocer's advertising reader mixed up so that it read as follows:

"John Brown and Ida Grey were united in the holy sauerkraut by the quart or barrel. Mr. Brown is a well-known young codfish at 10 cents per pound, while the bride, Miss Grey, has some nice pig's feet which will be sold cheaper than at any other store in town."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11, 1900.—The wood pulp situation in Canada is attracting considerable attention in the United States where the price of paper is steadily rising and the newspapers are kicking vigorously about it. Of course, now that Congress has adjourned nothing can be done to change the tariff laws until next December or January and probably nothing will be done then unless Mr. Bryan should win, though there will undoubtedly be a strong effort to secure action. Charles Kurtz, a manufacturer of Toronto, who is in this city, has been discussing the situation in an interesting manner. He thinks that if Canada holds out, the United States will give in on the pulp question. Said he: "Ontario has passed what is known as the manufacturer's restrictive tax, providing that all Ontario timber must be manufactured where cut. We could not very well make an export duty, but this answers the same purpose. Formerly it was the practice to take Canadian logs to American mills and have them sawed on this side. This was a good thing for American manufacturers, but did not develop the districts from whence the logs were taken. Now we insist that the logs be manufactured where cut, and this will force the building of cities and villages. This law raised a terrible row on the American side. Americans had purchased the right to cut these logs with the understanding that they could be taken to American mills and it was said that the restrictive act was practically a confiscation of property. I am not able to discuss the legal points, but the law is certainly a good thing for Canada. There is no activity in our lumber business now because we are shut out of the American markets. Our own markets will grow, and if we only keep our nerve it is only a question of time until the Americans come to us. They need our lumber."

Apocryph of this subject, Consul Shotts, at Sault Ste. Marie, has reported to the State Department that Ontario has recently granted to the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company the right to select as a reserve fifty square miles of spruce and other woods suitable for pulp, with the further privilege of cutting pulp wood on territory five miles on either side of the Spanish River and tributaries. This gives the company control of over 2,500 square miles of territory. Another grant for 40 square miles was given to the Blanch River Pulp and Paper Company, and an additional right to cut pulp wood on the Blanch River and tributaries. A grant was also given to the Nipigon Pulp, Paper and Manufacturing Company, on the Nipigon River, near the north shore of Lake Superior. All the above companies agreed to erect costly mills.

A good deal of attention is also being paid to Canadian mining by the United States papers. The mineral region lying north, northwest and northeast of Lake Superior, has been believed for a long time to be one of the most diversified, if not of the richest, in the world. Why it has never been systematically prospected is not easily explained, except upon the theory that great gold discoveries, especially of placer deposits, have been usually due to accident rather than to systematic search. It is claimed that gold bearing quartz ledges have been discovered which bid fair to rival the South African gold field, and American miners are already turning their eyes hungrily in that direction. At Winnipeg a chamber of mines has been established. A London corporation this summer will begin dredging the Saskatchewan river. Hundreds of tests of the river have revealed that the sands which form its bed, in some places to a depth of twenty-five feet, carry over 25 cents' worth of gold to the cubic yard.

The Princess Aribert, granddaughter of the Queen, who has been visiting Lord Pauncefoot here for some time, left on Sunday night for New York, whence she will go to Niagara Falls. The Princess was accompanied by her lady in waiting, Fraulein von Chappins. Lord and Lady Pauncefoot went with them to the Pennsylvania depot, where a special car was reserved for the royal tourist.

A fraud order has been issued by the Post Office Department against "Credit General de Cuba" and against "L. Levesque," both of Montreal, Canada. These parties are said to be conducting a lottery and advertising it in the United States. All letters addressed to them will be held by the Post Office and returned to writers, marked "Fraudulent."

THE WAR.

OFFICIAL DESPATCH RECEIVED FROM LORD ROBERTS.

LONDON June 14.—Lord Roberts reports to the war office, under date Pretoria, Wednesday, as follows:—"Methuen advanced to Honingspruit yesterday and found all quiet. Kroonstadt is strongly held. Methuen returned to-day to Rhenoster river; where the railway is being repaired. We were engaged all yesterday with Botha's army. The enemy fought with considerable determination and held our cavalry on both flanks; but Ian Hamilton, assisted by the Guards brigade of Pole-Carew's division pushing forward, took the hill in his front which caused the enemy to fall back on their second position to the eastward. They are still holding. It is slightly higher than the one we have captured. The great extent of the country which has to be covered under modern conditions of warfare renders progress very slow." The details of the casualties have not reached me, but I understand they are moderate in numbers. The only further casualties reported to date are two officers wounded.

BOERS WITHDRAW FROM LAING'S NEK.

LONDON, June 14.—The war office also issues the following from Roberts under date, Pretoria, Tuesday afternoon:—"The enemy evacuated their strong position during the night and have retired to the eastward. Buller's force and mine have afforded each other mutual assistance. Our occupation of Pretoria caused numbers of Boers to withdraw from Laing's Nek, and Buller's advance to Volrust made them feel their rear would shortly be endangered." Buller reports to the war office as follows:—"Headquarters at Laing's Nek, Thursday morning. General Littleton yesterday received the formal submission of town and district of Wakkerstroom which the enemy is believed to have completely evacuated."

CANADIANS FORCED BOTHA TO RETIRE.

TORONTO, June 14.—The Telegram's special cable says the Morning Standard's correspondent at Kroonstad, cabling yesterday, says at Yester Nek the Canadians were ordered to advance towards the enemy with long range fire. The Canadians advanced under a heavy shell fire from three guns over a dead level plain and gained the foot of a slight ridge before the main range held by the Boers and took cover behind a stone wall. All the time they were pouring a steady, well aimed fusillade on the enemy, and finding themselves outflanked, the Boers left during the night. According to the Standard's correspondent, the Canadians figured prominently in forcing Botha to evacuate his position near Pretoria.

GENERAL CRONJE'S SON SURRENDERS.

LONDON, June 15.—The peaceful occupation of Klerksdorp is announced by Roberts. He seems to have gained a strategic position of some importance as the town is not only the terminus of another railroad to Johannesburg, but is within easy despatch of the Kroonstad, Vierfontein railroad. Cronje, who surrendered the place, is the son of the famous General Cronje now a prisoner at Helena. The former was a prisoner during the siege of Mafeking.

Apart from the fact that Roberts' despatch comes from the direction of Pretoria showing the telegraph line has been reopened, the only point of interest being that the Boers who were reported to have been utterly routed have sufficiently recuperated to attack the railway construction train. A despatch from Kimberley reports the capture of the well known pugilist, Jim Holloway, who was an adjutant in the Boer army and who blew up a bridge at Fourteen Streams. Holloway was among a body of Federals and captured in the western part of the Transvaal.

KLOERKSDORP HANDS IN HER SURRENDER.

LONDON, June 15.—The war office has issued the following despatch from Roberts:—"Pretoria residency, Thursday evening.—Kloerksdorp surrendered on June 9 to an armed party sent by Hunter. Kitchener reports that the Boers attacked a reconstruction train early this morning a few miles north of Rhenoster river. He sent out more troops and drove off the enemy before they could do any damage. One man was killed and eleven wounded including two officers. A messenger from Kloerksdorp reports that Cronje, who commanded them, determined to surrender as soon as he knew for certain Pretoria was in our possession. His example has been copied by many in the vicinity."

No amount of brilliant advertising will make a fraud finally successful. Men are fools to try it. As for us we merely tell a tame truth and say Adamson's Botanic Balsam is splendid for coughs. 25c. all Druggists.

A PROMISE FULFILLED.

As we promised the author of Modern Dancing a few words, we must redeem the promise. In reading Modern Dancing we are led to understand that the author is a minister. We would say that a minister's place to preach to his people, is from the pulpit, not through the newspaper. If he has resource to the latter mode for the purpose of giving other congregations a portion of his sage advice, we would suggest the signing of his name, and will add the old saying, "Be a man or be a mouse." The author reminds us of a lady that said our Saviour did one thing she considered very wrong whilst He was on earth, and that was furnishing the wine for the marriage feast when the guests were well drunk. Of course she concluded that well drunk meant that they were drunk, and we are certain that your opinion of dancing is so low that you think in your wisdom that the Lord should have made one commandment: Thou shalt not dance. If it is what you describe it to be, the Lord would never have said there is a time to dance. Remember, rioting, revelling and obscenity are not dancing, nor does the refined accomplishment of our mode of dancing lead to those things nor to one impure thought. Keeping time to music is an innocent and much abused amusement. Now, on behalf of our young ladies that have enjoyed quadrilles this winter, and whom you have in your own way, tried, conderaned, and extinguished, we will say that positively and without the shadow of a doubt there are as many good, pious, and moral young ladies who have done and are doing as much for the Lord as those in this vicinity that did not dance. We could pick many paragraphs of your continuations to atoms, but will refrain from doing so as the subject is worn threadbare and "The candle is not worth the wick." In conclusion we will say "Evil communications corrupt good morals," and never write or speak evil that good may come of it. You requested us to search the scriptures. We have done so and find therein: "He that is without sin cast the first stone."
