FAIR CANADA.

Let others sing of sunny climes,
Of lands beyond the sea,
There's not a dearer spot on earth,
Than Canada to me;
Dear Canada, lov'd Canada,
Wherever I may be,
There's not a land on all the earth
Shall win my heart from thee.

Her sons will ne'er submit to crouch,
Beneath a tyrant's sway;
The stag that roams her forest glades,
Is not more free than they.
Dear Canada, lov'd Canada,
Wherever I may be,
There's not a land on all the earth
Shall win my heart from thee.

The red cross flag our fathers raised,
We hail it as a friend,
And should that flag be assailed,
Its glories we'll defend.
Fair Canada, brave Canada,
No land on earth more free,
And his would be a coward's arm
That would not strike for thee.

The Scot may boast his heather hills,
The Englishman his rose,
And Erin's sons may love the vales,
Where Erin's Shamrock grows;
But Canada, lov'd Canada,
Is dearer far to me,
No other land, however grand,
Shall win my heart from thee.

The sun that tints her maple trees,
With Nature's magic wand;
Shines down on peaceful, happy homes,
In our Canadian land.
Fair Canada, lov'd Canada,
My heart is wed to thee,
Be thou the land of noble deeds,
And Empire of the free.

PROROGATION OF DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE LONGEST SESSION FOR FIFTEEN YEARS IS ENDED.

OTTAWA, July 19.—The lengthy session of the parliament of Canada, during which some very important measures have been enacted in the interest of the growing greatness and development of the Dominion, closed yesterday with the usual ceremonial observance. A large assemblage was present when His Excellency Lord Minto delivered the prorogation speech as follows:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate,
Gentlemen of the House of Commons.
Relieving you from further attendance I desire to thank you for the diligent attention which you have given to the labors of an exceptionally protracted session.

THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

When parliament opened in the month of February last the thoughts of the whole empire were centred on the war which was then raging in South Africa. They marked successes which have since attended the British and in which our Canadian volunteer soldiers have taken a conspicuous and glorious part to justify the hope that peace will be soon restored in that distant land.

The large number of private bills with industrial objects, considered and passed is a good indication of the great expansion of the business of the country.

I desire to congratulate you on the buoyant state of the revenue. The large imports have enabled my government to provide liberally for the public service and to maintain Canada's strong financial position.

A marked feature of the session has been the adoption of many important measures which must beneficially affect the future of the Dominion.

The improvements in the act relating to banks will tend to perfect a system of which Canada has reason to feel proud.

EXTENSION OF BRITISH PREFERENCE TARIFF.

The extension of the British preference in our tariff will tend to reduce the burden of taxation and stimulate the growth of our trade with the mother country.

The measure you have passed respecting the admission of Canadian inscribed stock to the list of securities which trustees in Great Britain may invest in is being followed by similar legislation in the imperial parliament which will in due course, consummate this very important improvement in the financial affairs of the Dominion. There is reason to believe that the legislation of this session will have important and favorable results.

I particularly congratulate you upon the passing of the conciliation act which it is confidently hoped, will not only improve the condition of the industrial classes but will also better promote the relations which ought to exist between capital and labor.

Gentlemen of the house of commons: I thank you for the liberal provision which you have made for the public service.

Honorable Gentlemen of the senate, Gentlemen of the house of commons: It affords me much pleasure to observe that the prosperity of Canada continues unabated and I pray that divine providence may continue with favor upon this Dominion.

It was the longest session, except one, that of 1885, on record.

LIEUTENANT BORDEN KILLED IN AFRICA.

ONLY SON OF THE MINISTER OF MILITIA FALLS BEFORE A BOER BULLET—TRIBUTE PAID IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

OTTAWA, July 17.—"Lord Roberts to Lord Minto. "Pretoria, July 17. "Regret to inform you that Borden's son was killed in action yesterday. (Signed) "ROBERTS."

Such was the despatch which sent a chill through the hearts of the people of Ottawa late this afternoon. That the tall, handsome, dashing young officer, the only son of the Minister of Militia, should be thus stricken almost at the close of the long and arduous campaign in which he has rendered such signal service to his country and the Empire, was a severe shock to the Capital City, where he was well known and had a host of friends.

It will be remembered that when the cloud of reverses to the British arms hung most darkly in Africa, Harold, for so he is known by his friends from Toronto to Halifax, was one of the first to offer his services to his Queen. There was a great rush for commissions, and the young officer, though an exceptionally well qualified major in the Canadian militia, and the acting commanding officer of the King's County Hussars, offered to go to Africa if necessary as a trooper in the ranks. As matters fell out, urgent requests made to the Minister from men who were going made this unnecessary, and Harold went out as a lieutenant. His gallant conduct at the front has frequently been referred to in the letters of his comrades in arms, and a conspicuously brave act at the crossing of the Zand River caused him to be specially mentioned in despatches, and was greeted by an ovation in the House of Commons.

HE WAS WELL QUALIFIED.

Harold Borden, whose blood now stains the sands of Africa, was the only son of the Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia and Defence for Canada. He was twenty-three years of age, stood six feet three inches in his bare feet, and weighed 198 pounds. His tall, graceful, strongly-knit figure and frank, handsome face, made him a particularly fit-looking officer, and his attractive disposition and energetic temperament made him exceedingly popular in social and athletic circles.

EDUCATED AT MCGILL.

Harold was educated at Mount Allison College, Sackville, N. B., and subsequently at McGill University, Montreal, where he was a third year medical student and a most promising and popular undergraduate, when he left college to enlist in the second Canadian Contingent. Indeed, herein lies one of the most painful features of this heroic death. For four generations the young man's family have been physicians of note. Like his father, he was to have been a doctor of medicine. But it was not to be. Harold's sisters are now at Sackville, N. B., and the Minister of Militia, who was in his seat in the Commons five minutes before the sad news reached the Capital, left immediately with Mrs. Borden in order that the family may be united in their hour of trouble. Deep and general is the sympathy which goes out to them from the people at Ottawa.

To the Premier fell the delicate task of breaking the news to his colleague and friend. The cable message was forwarded by Lord Minto to Lieut. Colonel Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia. After a brief consultation it was decided that the great sympathy and kindness which had always been marked in the actions and utterances of Sir Wilfrid on occasions where the deepest feelings are concerned, eminently qualified him for the sad office. Hon. Dr. Borden was summoned to the Prime Minister's private room off the library, and there the bereaved father learned of his great and irreparable loss. With as little delay as possible Hon. Dr. Borden hastened to Stadacona Hall. It was then that the mother, who has herself recently passed through a critical illness, learned that the noble, handsome youth who had so worthily sustained the family honor, a gentleman, a Borden, had fallen with his face to the foe of his country and his Queen.

THE PREMIER'S TRIBUTE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in moving the adjournment of the House, referred to this sad event. He said:—

Before this motion is put, I am sure the House will agree with me that I am not going out of my way if I take this opportunity to confirm the sad rumor which has circulated through the corridors of this House, that Lieut. Borden, son of the Minister of Militia, has met death in South Africa. The rumor is unfortunately too true. This afternoon, His Excellency, the Governor-General, received a telegram from Lord Roberts, informing him that yesterday, near Pretoria, Lieut. Borden was killed in action. Lieut. Borden who was one of the young men who enlisted recently to go and fight for the Queen in South Africa. He was a young man of great promise, only 23 years of age, athletic in form, bright, intelligent, a model boy in every way. He had, as I am informed, already made a mark in his career, gaining the regard of his superiors by his coolness under fire, daring and courage; winning the affection of his comrades by his genial disposition. All this life has been cut short by the uncertainty of war. This news I am sure has touched the heart of every member of this House. He was the only son of a prominent old and popular member of this House. Whatever strifes there may be I am sure that before such misfortune all such have disappeared and on both sides of the House friend and foe will unite in offering to the bereaved father and bereaved mother that sympathy which will be the only consolation for such a loss on this side the grave.

Mr. Davin, on behalf of the Opposition, said:—

I could wish, sir, the leader of the Opposition were in his place in order that he might re-echo the sentiments so fittingly expressed by the Prime Minister. A great statesman, belonging to Athas said of a great man who died, "The whole earth seemed to be his mausoleum." I think it might be said of the humblest hero who fights now under modern conditions on the battle field that the whole earth seems to be his mausoleum, because the civilized world seems to be in evidence, watching what is going forward, and I am sure not a man in Canada but will have heard of the death of this young man, just twenty-three, with the hopes of budding youth, with regret. His death was untimely, and yet was grandly heroic, and the sympathy of this House will be felt for his distinguished father. I am personally, and I think I may say for this side of the House, express our great regret, and yet mixed with that regret our congratulation and pride that the son of one of our own body and one of our own government, fighting for the empire, although his family is bereaved and his country has lost his valuable life, yet has won the great pride of death in battle."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17, 1900.—

The Chinese situation in the view of administration officials here, is rapidly resolving itself. The powers are lining up either for or against the partition of that empire, on the one side being France and Russia and on the other the rest of the world. That is to say, it appears that the powers, instead of working loyally for suppression of what is undoubtedly a terrible danger to the whole world have already begun to split into factions over the chance for territorial spoils, heedless of the fact that they have first got to make sure that there will be any spoils to divide—to catch their hair before cooking him. Minister Wu, in this city, declares that the powers have intentionally delayed going to the rescue of the endangered diplomats in order to let their murder furnish an excuse for partition. This is, of course, absurd, but it serves to call attention to the fact that the allies at Tientsin are more occupied in keeping their hands on their hip pockets and watching each other than they are in moving forward loyally to the suppression of the Boers. Even by concerted action, the powers will certainly not have a walk over. For instance, it is known beyond doubt that 400,000 German rifles and no one knows how many more were imported into China within the past year. Twenty thousand Europeans and Americans, besieged in Tientsin are gradually losing ground although fighting behind entrenchments. The Boer war has shown how difficult it is for the bravest men to capture trenches defended by arms of precision. How large an army, then it is asked will be required to turn the tables and drive the unnumbered Chinese from their defenses? It is believed here that this will be done sooner or later but when it is accomplished, what then? Will Russia and France attempt a grab game. If Europe cannot settle the Chinese problem without war among the powers our civilization is but a sham and pretence.

C. S. Hamlin, of Boston, formerly an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has been conferring with the Treasury officials in opposition to the proposed action of the department in establishing certain points along the Canadian frontier at which immigrants may enter the United States. It was represented that the Canadian steamship lines would gladly cooperate with the department in keeping out immigrants of the prohibited classes, and to that end would allow United States Government officials to inspect the foreign ports of embarkation all immigrants bound for the United States.

It also was stated that the Canadian steamship lines would deport all immigrants destined for the United States who would fail to pass the United States inspector at the Canadian port of arrival. The matter will be left open for the present. Assistant Secretary Taylor will have a conference with the officials of the Canadian steamship lines at Quebec during the next month or two, when a definite understanding on the subject will likely be reached.

The Board of General Appraisers has decided a customs question of great interest to Canadian importers and exporters, holding that merchandise imported from one country, having been produced in and exported from another country, is lawfully appraised at its actual value in the principal markets of the country from which immediately imported, unless it appear that it was in good faith destined for the United States at the time of original shipment, without any contingency of diversion. The case at issue was one where certain articles of China and glass manufactured in Germany and Austria were exported thence to Hamilton, Ontario and were then brought to this country. The valuation of the goods, as ascertained by the appraising officer at the port of importation, was based on the market value of similar goods in Canada, on the ground that that was "the country from whence imported" within the meaning of the customs administrative act. The importers claim that duty should have been assessed only in the value of the goods in Germany and Austria from which they were originally exported, which was the value declared in the invoice made out at Hamilton. The Board decided that there was no evidence which would justify the conclusion that this country was the ultimate destination of the goods at the time of original shipment although they remained in bonded warehouse while in Canada and paid no Canadian duties, and that consequently the Canadian valuation must be taken as the basis for estimating the duties.

CRITTENDEN MARRIOTT.

EIGHT CARLOADS OF TEA.

ENORMOUS RECEIPTS OF INDIAN AND CEYLON TEA BY T. H. ESTABROOKS.

A week or two since the Telegraph stated that T. H. Estabrooks the North Wharf tea importer and blender, had just received 92,084 pounds, or nearly five carloads of India and Ceylon Teas. On Saturday he received 80,420 pounds more, making total receipts of 172,504 pounds within a couple of weeks. This is by far the largest quantity of Indian and Ceylon Teas ever received in so short a time by any St. John house. It illustrates the wonderful growth in popularity in these Provinces of British grown teas.—Telegraph.

The following is a true story of a child who was cured by Castoria.

A LOUD WHISTLE.

A clergyman in Scotland desired his hearers never to call one another "liars," that when any one said "the thing that was not" they ought to whistle.

One Sunday he preached a sermon on the parable of the loaves and fishes, and being at loss to explain it said the loaves were not like those nowadays—they were as big as some of the hills of Scotland.

He had scarcely pronounced these words when he heard a loud whistle.

"What's that ca'me a liar!"

"It is I, Willy Macdonald, the baker."

"Well, Willy, what objection ha' ye to what I ha' told you?"

"None, sir, only I want to know what sort of ovens they had to bake those loaves in!"

Pimples on the face are not only annoying, but they indicate bad blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them by purifying the blood.
