A STAUNCH ALLY.

M. B. Connick, of Middle ton, P. E. I., an unwavering friend of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills-Always eager to Bring Remedy to the Notice of Others-Copy of His Recent Letter.

MIDDLETON, P. E. I., Jan. 22 .- One of the gamest friends that wonderful medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, ever bad in the province of Prince Edward Island is Mr. M. B. Connick, the well-known blacksmith of this place. Mr. Connick recentwrote to the Dodds Medicine Company expressing undving gratitude for his cure, and parts of his letter are so much to the point that with his permission we reproduce them here.

"Yours of the fifth to hand," it commences, "and was glad to hear from you. As for using my name you have my, permission to do so, for what I stated to you. at first (fe cure of Bright's Disease) is al right. I would not be working now only Dodd's Kidney Pills. . . All the country knows my case and there have been hundreds come to ask me about it, and, of course, I told them the whole thing, just as it was. . I told a man and a young lady in Charlottetown last summer and when I last saw them they were feeling much better. I told them to keep on taking them.

"There is a man here now while I am writing this letter and I have got him to start in and take Dodd's Kidney Pills. He is in the same way that I was. There is no use in a man taking one or two boxes and then stopping. He must take enough to make a cure and so I told him.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are coming into great favor here as I suppose you must have noticed by their sale." M. B. Connick, of Middleton, P. E. I., had Bright's Disease for fifteen years. Five different doctors attended him in vain. A few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him completely.

BURIED IN A COAL MINE.

POTTSVILLE, Pa, Jan. 18 .- The body of Wm. Galloway, fire boss at the Kaska William mine of the Dodson Coal Co., who was entombed on Dec. 18, was recovered to-day. The search for Galloway alive was persistently continued until after a lapse of days it was concluded he must have died. His entombment was due to a fall of coal while he was inspecting the mine workings.

Galloway wrote on a plank on the side of the chute on which the fall occurred the following words:

"I am in the chute No. 111. (Sgd.) Wm. Galloway."

This was a clue to his whereabouts, and the rescuers worked more diligently than ever, and before the body was found these words were discovered written on sheet iron on a brattice door. They were addressed to his wife:

"I think I am gone. Good-bye, Janie. Be good boys, Guy and Willie. I don't think you will see your father any more. I think this is Wednesday."

The figures 7, 2, 5 follow. What they have reference to no one can conjecture. It is believed he lived but three days. His body lay prostrate in the chute.

B. B. CURES ABSCESSES.

"I had a large Abscess under my arm as well as sores in various parts of my body. Being advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters, I did so with the result that the abscess and sores all went away and have never bothered me since. Mrs. Philip Rice, Villa Nova, Ont.

Some idea may be formed of the mildness of the present winter weather when we point out the fact that Miss Dora Hagerty has presented us with a bunch of beautiful pansies, picked in her garden Thursday, and which appears as frail and as beautiful as if they were picked in September. She informed us that while picking the pansies she saw a handsomely spotted caterpillar, full of life and vigor, crawling on the garden shrubbery. ### Dr. Evans' First Patient.

THE STORY OF A YOUNG WOMAN PHYSI CIAN AND A YOUNG MAN PATIENT.

It was a proud day for Martha Evans when, after four years' hard work in a instruments, and seating herself beside the celebrated medical school, she returned to | couch, she said quietly. her native city, rented and furnished a tiny office on the main street, hung a gilt symptom of disease about you. I will give aer to impress the world with their mental superiority, but a holy desire to relieve is out." She gave him the perscription mankind of a few of the "ills that flesh is heir to" made her voice soft with womanly sympathy.

Dr. Evans spent the first three days in arranging and rearranging the little office into which she had gathered numerous tokens of love received from friends and admirers, and the place wore a decidedly feminine appearance.

On the morning of the fourth day, just as she was entering the office door, a loud ring at the telephone made her heart leap with expectation. She fairly ran to the Greengo entered. instrument and received this message:

"Please call at once at the residence of Mrs. Greengo. Mr. Greengo is ill."

In her haste to answer the call she almost forgot her medicine case. The Greengo residence was only a few blocks distant, but the short walk gave Martha time to compose herself, and when old Mrs. Greengo greeted her the youthful life was an old story.

"You remember me, don't you my dear?" asked Mrs. Greengo, extending her hand, and Martha replied:

"To be sure I do, but who is Mr. Greengo? I thought you were a widow."

"I am a widow, my dear. Mr. Greengo is my nephew, a very brilliant young lawyer, but somewhat given to melancholy. He seemed well enough when he came down this morning, but a few minutes ago became ill and asked me to call you."

So saying, the old lady led the way into the sitting room, where Mr. Greengo, clad in dressing gown and slippers and with eyes closed, lay stretched at full length on a great couch before the fireplace. "Here is the doctor, Paul, my together every morning thereafter, and dear," announced Mrs. Greengo, and then | little Dr. Evans amused her big patient she seated herself on the couch at his

The patient opened a pair of large, melancholy brown eyes, looked her squarely in the face and laying his hand over his left breast, said: "For a long, long time I have had a strangely numb, empty feeling right here and a pain, not an ache, but such a pain as I used to have in childhood when my mother had punished me. I feel like weeping sometimes, and lately, on several occasions, my heart has palpitated so wildly that it made me faint and ill."

He looked so helpless and miserable, this great giant with the melancholy eyes, that Martha answered readily:

"I will Mr. Greengo, for I am very anxious to help you."

And so it came about that they drove with merry conversation, and he began at once to mend.

The days and the weeks flew by, and Martha's patients increased in number, but not in importance.

One morning in June Paul entered the little office on Main street with a curious twinkle in his eyes. "Doctor," he said, "I wish you would
