

The Best of Advice.

TO THOSE WHO FEEL SICK, WEAK OR DEPRESSED.

Miss Belle Cohoon, of White Rock Mills N. S., Tells How She Regained Health and Advises Others to Follow Her Example.

From the Acadien, Wolfville, N. S.

At White Rock Mills, within sound of the noisy swish of the Gaspereau river, is a pretty little cottage.

In this cottage there dwells with her parents Miss Belle Cohoon, a very bright and attractive young lady who takes a lively interest in all the church and society work of the little village. A short time ago an Acadien representative called upon Miss Cohoon for the purpose of ascertaining her opinion of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—which remedy he had been informed she had been using. He was very cordially received and found both Miss Cohoon and her mother most enthusiastic and ardent friends of this great Canadian remedy which is now so universally used throughout the world. We give below in essentially her own words, Miss Cohoon's story:

"Three years ago this spring my health was very much run down. I had not been feeling well for some time and when spring opened up and the weather became warmer my condition became worse. The least exertion exhausted me and was followed by an awful feeling of weakness and a rapid palpitation of the heart. I seemed to lose my ambition and a feeling of languor and sluggishness took its place. My appetite failed me and my sleep at night was disturbed and restless. In fact I was in a very sorry condition. I suffered in this way for some time. Then I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they soon began to work a change for the better. My strength and spirits improved wonderfully, and the old feeling of tiredness began to leave me. My appetite returned and my weight increased steadily. By the time I had used less than half a dozen boxes I felt stronger than I had done for years. Since that time whenever I feel the need of a medicine a prompt use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has always brought me speedy relief, and in future when ailing I shall never use anything but these pills, and strongly advise others to follow my example."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves, and thus drive disease from the system. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines have failed, thus establishing the claim that they are a marvel among the triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.

Spavins, Ringbones, Splints, Curbs, and All Forms of Lameness Yield to KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE. Works thousands of cures annually. Endorsed by the best breeders and horsemen everywhere. Price, 40c. per bottle. As a liniment for family use it has no equal. West, London, Ontario, Can., Dec. 14, 1898. DR. B. J. KENDALL CO. Dear Sirs:—A year ago I had a valuable horse which got lame. I took him to the Veterinary Surgeon who pronounced it a spavin and gave me a little bottle, although he applied a sharp blister. This medicine cured my horse and the horse became so lame that it could not stand up. After trying everything in my power I went to a neighbor and told him about the case. He gave me one of your bottles and I used it carefully and being resolved to do the utmost in favor of my horse, went to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of your Spavin Cure and applied it strictly according to directions. Before the first bottle was used I noticed an improvement, and when the second bottle was about half used, my horse was completely cured and without leaving a blister on him. After ceasing treatment I gave the horse good care and after some time with him, wishing to see if it had effected a cure, I then started to work the horse hard and to my entire satisfaction he never showed any more lameness through the whole summer. I can recommend Kendall's Spavin Cure not only as an excellent, but as a sure remedy, to any one that may be concerned. Yours truly, SAMUEL TRITTON. Ask your druggist for Kendall's Spavin Cure, also "A Treatise on the Horse," the book free, or address DR. B. J. KENDALL COMPANY, ENDSBURG FALLS, VT.

As usual, the American marines were among the first of the "white devils" to be slain when the fighting began near Tien-tsin. The reckless bravery with which the American marines go forward to be killed is only paralleled by the effectiveness of the work he does and the amount of damage he inflicts upon the enemy.

It is announced that the American silk exhibit at the Paris exposition is to be awarded the gold medal, even over the French display. This is a triumph indeed for American manufacturers and will prove an eye opener to the French, who ridiculed the idea of Americans coming into competition with them, especially in silk.

THE DRESS MODEL.

Next to plaits, tucking and insertion bands, cording is perhaps the most fashionable feature of dress trimming for this summer season.

Pretty and novel effects are produced this season with the colored wash braids on suits for country wear, made of linen, pique, drill and duck.

The newest traveling costumes of summer weight cloth are trimmed with linen appliques, edged with a very narrow finish of cluny, or are merely corded.

Toile d'acier, the new open meshed veiling, made up over liberty silk or peau de sole, forms one of the smartest, most attractive and at the same time comfortable of the demidress toilets of the summer.

Cluny laces decorate both summer gowns and fine sheer lingerie. English court modistes and Parisian ateliers have used them prodigally on garments designed for garden parties, fetes, receptions and fashionable watering place wear.

Mohair, gypsy cloth, eolienne and the English serge that retains its fine color and silky finish, through storm and strongest beach or mountain sunshine, have been the favorite fabrics this season in preparing utility costumes for vacation wear.

Beautiful transparent wool toilets in cream or lily white (especially those with a craped surface) are much used for afternoon teas and garden parties. Velvet or satin ribbon, silk lace or black and white striped or dotted silks are used variously for accessories.

Transparent materials continue to hold a very prominent place among summer "dress" toilets. Costly and beautiful gowns of India muslin, Italian crepe, mousseline brillante, barege, grenadine, etamine, silk, mull, crepe royal, crepe de chine and watered gauze are all greatly in evidence.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Italian blankets are very popular for portieres, couch covers and mantels.

The inexpensive organdies make dainty bedspreads, but must be lined with silena of a solid color.

For a cunning match scratch cut a pig from sandpaper and fasten it to a piece of cardboard and write underneath the legend "Scratch My Back."

The various shades of denim, ornamented with white braid and medallions applied with white silk in fancy stitches, are very popular for sofa pillows.

Corduroy and denim make excellent draperies. The former is durable and fades less than most goods, and the latter comes in excellent shades and is inexpensive.

Huge green melons, oval shaped, in natural sizes and also of tinted velvet are prepared in pairs for uncommon head rests, tied together at the top with ribbons.

Black, embroidered in varying shades of coarse yellow silk with a lavish use of gold thread, makes a royally gorgeous pillow. Wide black ribbon, on which have been sewed rows of narrow yellow ribbon, forms the ruffle that finishes the edge.

SIBERIA.

The czar of Russia has abolished banishment to Siberia, with all its attendant train of horrors. By the time the world is a century or two older there may be quite a complete system of civilization reigning upon earth.—Baltimore American.

Siberia is no longer to be a penal colony, the synonym of exile and despair. The imperial decree abolishing the former status is not so much a witness to the czar's humanity as it is a tribute to the railroad and the pioneer.—New York Post.

A JAPANESE INTERVIEW.

The Reporter Is Polite, but Is an Inexorable Questioner.

"Before I went to Japan," said a prominent western railroad official who has recently returned from a visit to the mikado's kingdom, "I used to think that our American reporters were the most inquisitive class of men in the world, but this idea was very soon dispelled from my mind when I arrived in Tokyo. Four interviews for the vernacular press called upon me before I had been five hours on Japanese soil, and when I succumbed, after vainly pleading privilege, it was I find that the alert minded Japs had simply taken the American system of interviewing and reduced it to its simplest terms, not to say absurdum. With them interviewing is business from the start, like pulling a tooth or boring a hole. They waste no time over pleasant introductory remarks about the weather or your voyage.

"The operation is as follows: You receive a card bearing a series of cabalistic marks, and, uncertain whether your visitor is a minister of state or a guide in want of a job, you go down stairs and discover a dapper little gentleman, in appearance about 19, dressed in faultless foreign fashion—tennis shoes, flannel trousers, white vest, blue coat, flowing necktie, spectacles and pith helmet—and speaking English with the accuracy and impressiveness of a copybook.

"Good morning. Are you Mr. Blank?"

"Good morning. I am."

"Well, I am the reporter of the and so newspaper of Tokyo. Will you permit me to interview you?"

"With pleasure."

"The interviewer then takes a seat, produces a notebook and pencil and begins with the directness of a census taker: 'How old are you, and where were you born?' And when you tell him that you were born of poor but respectable parents in the year 1, let us say, he gravely commits the unfamiliar phrase to paper.

"How long will you stay? How long since you started? Where have you been? What is the circulation of your paper? How do you like Japan? What do they think of Japan in America? These are a few of the questions that are pressed upon one with the relentless persistence of a pile driver.

"At last, when you have been compelled to draw liberally upon your imagination for your facts and the notebook of the enemy of traveling mankind is full, you suppose that the interview is over. But nothing could be further from the interviewer's idea, for he settles himself in his chair, resharpens his pencil, produces a new notebook and asks, 'If anything of interest has ever befallen you upon your travels at home or abroad, please give me full information now.'

"The interview over, the Japanese reporter takes his departure and never seems to realize that to cross question a solitary and ill informed individual upon the policies of all nations and the details of his own obscure life is really a huge joke. Next day you receive a copy of the so-and-so newspaper containing the interview with 'top' solemnly written on one side of it, so that you may know which is the right way upward."

A Sherlock Holmes in Utah.

It is pleasing to note that Utah, where the fictitious Sherlock Holmes displayed some part of his wonderful detective ability, has produced in real life the prototype of Conan Doyle's great character. A few days ago a drug store in Salt Lake was entered at night and robbed. In addition to tapping the till the burglar stole a dozen bottles of hair restorer, several bottles of Florida water and a large bottle of violet perfume.

The list of articles stolen was given to a member of the staff of detectives. Other information was meager. No one was suspected, and, contrary to the usual custom in such cases made and provided, the detective announced that he had no clue. He did this because he is a real Sherlock Holmes. For he had what other lesser sleuths would call a clue. This wise young man reasoned that the burglar was baldheaded, else why steal hair restorer; that he liked the odor of Florida water and that he had a sweet tooth with a fondness for the perfume of violets. Having made this mental picture of the malefactor, he started out in search of him.

At latest reports the burglar was still at large. The detective nosed his way all over the city, but was unable to detect an odor of Florida water exuded by a baldheaded man accompanied by a girl perfumed with violet. Hopes are entertained of the detective's success, however, as an extravaganza, with ballet, is to be played there shortly, and it is believed the guilty wretch will surely be taken in an orchestra chair.

Presence of Mind.

Dr. Siddale, the well known London physician, during his vacation a few years ago was fishing one evening in a Scotch loch when a man approached, caught him by the shoulders and shook him violently. A glance told the doctor that the man was insane. He was a huge fellow; the doctor was small and possessed of little physical strength. No one was in sight.

"What are you going to do?" asked the doctor calmly.

"Throw you into that water!" shouted the man.

"Certainly," said the doctor; "but I'll have to go home and put on a dress suit. Dead men always wear evening dress."

The madman stopped, looked at him doubtfully and said: "So they do. Make haste, I'll wait."

Dr. Siddale walked slowly up the bank and then ran for his life. It required calmness and courage of a rare quality to cope with the vagaries of a disordered brain.

The Water Spider.

There is nothing new in the diving bell. Long before man thought he invented it the water spider knew all about it. The water spider crawls down a reed, dragging his diving bell with him, and anchors it under water on a level keel, so that the air it contains keeps the water out.
