MUST HAVE THAT SUPPER.
(Tit Bits.)

A gentleman has a bright little boy who behaves for all the world like other children, which in a child is a virtue, not a vice. The other afternoon he played so hard that he fell asleep, and was put to bed without his supper.

The next morning Harry got up very much refreshed by his long rest, and came down to his breakfast as smiling and happy as could be.

"You were a good boy, last night, Harry," said a lady. "You went to bed without your supper."

Harry looked at her for a moment in painful surprise, and then all of a sudden his face clouded, and he asked his nurse:

"Did I go to sleep without my supper last night?"

"Yes," said the nurse.

"Well," said he, between his tears, "I want my last night's supper now."

And he had it.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just what every weak, nervous, run-down woman needs to make her strong and well. They cure those feelings of smothering and sinking that come on at times, make the heart beat strong and regular, give sweet, refreshing sleep and banish headaches and nervousness. They infuse new life and energy into dispirited, health-shattered women, who have come to think there is no cure for them.

Read the words of encouragement in this letter from Mrs. Thos. Sommers, Clifton, New London, P.E.I.

"Last fall I was in a very serious condition suffering from nervousness and weakness, I got so bad at last that I could hardly move around, and despaired of ever getting well. Seeing Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills highly recommended for such conditions I purchased a box.

"Before I had taken half of it I could notice an improvement in my condition and when I had used two boxes I was completely cured.

"It was wonderful how these pills took away that dreadful feeling of nervousness and gave me strength.

"I recommended them to my neighbor who was troubled with nervousness, and they cured her, too. We all think there is nothing equal to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

HINTS FOR FRUIT GROWERS.

POINTERS ON PICKING AND PACKING APPLES.

(Charlottetown Patriot.)

In writing on the subject of picking and packing apples I do not expect to be of any assistance to the professional fruit grower, nor to those who have a special trade, and who sell in specially designed boxes, but my object is to give a few hints to the amateur pomologist, who ships to the general market, and has to take whatever that market will give him.

HINTS ON PICKING.

Much can be said in regard to picking, but I will limit myself to a few of the principal rules which should be observed when gathering choice fruit. To begin with, I know of no mechanical picker that does the work as good as ordinary picking by hand. True, there are many kinds of mechanical devices (good, bad indifferent) on the market at the present day, but most of them pay the manufacturers better than the users.

One of the handiest of these can be made by any man who is adept with tools. It consists of a V-shaped trigger at the top of a pole, which is directly over the mouth of a long, narrow canvas bag; the apples drop into this bag or tube, and run down to the picker, who is on the ground. This way is slow and tedious, as only one apple should be allowed to go through the bag at a time; but it could be used to advantage where the trees are very high and the apples not easily reached.

A LIVELY BOY THE BEST.

The best method is a nimble half-grown boy, who is not afraid to climb (and work when he does get there), and a man to go round the outside of the trees with a long, light stepladder; or if the trees are not very large, most of the work can be done with the ladder.

Care should be taken to see that these pickers do not "pinch" the apples or it will show several bruises, made by the fingers, before it is even in the basket.

As in everything else, there is a right and a wrong way to pick apples and I guess nearly ninety per cent. do it wrong.

They usually do what is erroneously called "pulling apples"—that is, catching the apple and pulling it directly from the tree. This has the tendency to bend the branch, and when the apple and it part company, it usually springs back and shakes off what apples are left, if it does not also shake the whole tree. The proper way is to grasp the apple firmly, with the thumb in the calyx end, and the stalk just in front of the first finger, (holding it firmly with the rest of the fingers), then turn the apple upwards and backwards. By backwards I mean against the curve, which the stalk has made by the apple turning downwards usually, if this method is followed the apple will come off quite freely and does not wrench the tree, or break the twig. In fact if there are several in a bunch they can be all picked this way individually without falling to the ground. GRASP THE APPLE, NOT THE TWIG.

GO TO THE NEXT THING.

After the apples are packed it should be carefully laid in a basket which is hung conveniently. Of baskets there is a diversity of opinion, but the main facts to be borne in mind, is that they should be soft, so that the apples will not be bruised against their sides. If willow baskets are used they should be lined on the inside with burlap, or some soft material that will keep the apple from bruising against the coarse willows.

Our own experience is that the ordinary sixteen quart basket gives the best results. These, I think, are sold in the market as "splits," and are not expensive, costing about sixty or seventy cent a dozen. The only objection to them is that the handles sometimes break, but this can be avoided by reinforcing before it is used.

A convenient method we find for holding the basket handy, is to have hooks made in the form of an S. These are usually made from quarter-inch round iron, and are very satisfactory as they can be hooked over a convenient limb. We usually provide the boy who climbs the tree with a rope of suitable length with which, when fastened to the hook he can let baskets down from any part of the tree, without necessitating climbing part way down to hand down every basketful. The basket is usually unhooked and a fresh one put in its place. This does away with pouring the apples from one basket into another. One fact that must be borne in mind when packing apples or any kind of fruit, is to handle it as little as possible.

NOT TO BE SHAKEN OFF.

Too much cannot be said against the common methods of shaking apples, or even any fruit from the tree. It is a slovenly practice, and only worthy of a careless fruit grower, and yet it is a fact that a great quantity of apples that go into the market have been shaken from the trees.

It is impracticable to grade, or sort such fruit, because the jammed or bruised ones are so great that the samples of first quality are found to be very few.

It is an axiom in fruit marketing that only the best fruit pays for careful packing, and that the poor fruit is rarely worth the trouble of grading. The better the fruit therefore, and the more carefully it is packed, the more profitable may be the attention which is given to sorting and packing.—N. E. JACK.

Off The Track.

This means disaster and death when applied to a fast express train. It is equally serious when it refers to people whose blood is disordered and who consequently have pimples and sores, bad stomachs, deranged kidneys, weak nerves and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla puts the wheels back on the track by making pure, rich blood and curing these troubles.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills. 25c.

WHY IS THERE SO MUCH MORE TEA USED NOW THAN A FEW YEARS AGO?

Mr. T. H. Estabrooks in reply to this question says the per capita consumption is not increasing, but the business of handling tea here has increased enormously and this has been brought about by importing direct from where the tea grows and making a careful study of the science of tea blending. A few years ago every wholesale and a very large number of retail dealers imported their teas from London. This now is the exception rather than the rule. The large buyers know they can save money by importing direct and the smaller buyer soon profits by their example.—St. John Telegraph.

AWFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

BY BLAZE IN A SALVATION ARMY NURSERY.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.—An old four storey tenement at 403 East Front street, used as branch nursery of the Salvation Army, burned Monday evening and its occupants were so imprisoned that five were suffocated to death and others seriously injured.

On account of the cold weather on Monday a fire had been started in the stove of the little tots who are cared for there during the day while their mothers are engaged at work elsewhere. It is thought this caused the fire through some defect in the flues.

Most of the mothers knew nothing of the calamity until they were through with their day's work. At the morgue and at the hospitals as well as about the burned building the scenes were indescribable.

The firemen made heroic efforts to rescue women and children but most of those on the upper floors were beyond hope. The patrol waggons dashed with all possible speed to the hospitals with those that were rescued, and their cries were heard along the streets. All of the hospital physicians were called in and the nurses did their utmost to relieve those suffering from burns.

The first floor of the building was used as a church, the second floor as headquarters for the destitute and for cooking and the upper floors for the nursery. The women and children could be seen from these upper storeys pleading for help when the stairways were enveloped in flames. The fire was soon controlled, but not until many had died from suffocation and others were seriously burned.

The fire occurred near the river front, the most densely populated part of the city. The nursery is near the old Spencer House, and children from that tenement were in the burned building.

Captain Lodge was suffocated while carrying children from her floor.

John Hawkins lost his life while endeavoring to save his children.

The mission was in charge of Staff Captains Erickson, Anderson and McKenzie, who conducted a kindergarten for the little ones while their mothers were "working out." Captain Erickson recently arrived from New York to superintend the institution.
