

SLOW STARVATION.

THE COMPLETION OF THOSE AFFLICTED

Flatulency, Sick Headache, Offensive Breath and Eructations, Irritability and a Feeling of Weight on the Stomach are among the symptoms.

Dyspepsia, or indigestion, as it is also frequently called, is one of the most serious ailments that afflict mankind. When the stomach loses its craving for food, and the power to digest it, the person so afflicted is both mentally and physically in a condition of wretchedness. The symptoms of the order are manifold, and among them may be noted, a feeling of weight in the region of the stomach, sick headache, offensive breath, heartburn, a disagreeable taste in the mouth, irritability of temper, disturbed sleep, etc. The condition is in fact one of slow starvation of the blood, nerves and body, and on the first symptoms treatment through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be sought. Mr. William Birt, a well known blacksmith at Pisquid, P. E. I., is one who suffered for years, and relates his own experience for the benefit of similar sufferers. Mr. Birt says:—"For many years I was a victim of indigestion, accompanied by nervousness, palpitation of the heart and other distressing symptoms. My appetite was irregular, and what I ate felt like a weight in my stomach; this was accompanied by a feeling of stupor or sleepiness, and yet I rarely enjoyed a night's sound sleep. When I would retire a creeping sensation would come over me, with pains and flutterings around the heart, and then when I arose in the morning, I would feel as tired and fatigued as I did before I went to bed. It is needless to say that I was continually taking medicine, and tried, I think, almost everything recommended as a cure for the trouble. Occasionally I got temporary relief, but the trouble always came back, usually in a still more aggravated form. All this, of course, cost a great deal of money, and as the expenditure seemed useless I was very much discouraged. One day one of my neighbors, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, advised me to try them, and I decided to do so, thinking never theless, that it would be but another hopeless experiment. To my great gratification, however, I had only been using the pills a few weeks when I felt decidedly better, and things began to look brighter. I continued taking the pills for several months, with the result that my health was as good and my digestion better than it had ever been. One of the most flattering results of the treatment was my increase in weight from 125 pounds to 155 pounds. It is more than a year now since I discontinued the use of the pills and in that time I have not had the slightest return of the trouble. We always keep the pills in the house now, and my family have used them for other ailments with the same gratifying results."

These pills may be had from any dealer in medicine, or will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GEN METHUEN MAKES AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Lord Roberts reports that Methuen routed a Boer Convoy at Harts River, recaptured the fifteen pounder lost at Colenso, and also captured twenty-six wagons and eight thousand cattle, four thousand sheep, twenty thousand rounds of ammunition and twenty-eight prisoners. Halyard occupied Nieben, turning out the Boers from a strong position. British casualties are few. Clery has captured one Vollaude, an American, belonging to Theron's scouts, who confirms the report of Theron's death.

Spavins, Ringbones, Splints, Curbs, and All Forms of Lameness Yield to

Works thousands of cures annually. Endorsed by the best breeders and horsemen everywhere. Price, 25c. per bottle. As a liniment for family use it has no equal. West Lanes, Ontario, Can., Dec. 14, 1898. DR. B. J. KENDALL CO. Dear Sirs:—A year ago I had a valuable horse which got lame. I took him to the Veterinary Surgeon who pronounced it spavin and gave me a little bottle, although he applied a sharp blister. This made matters only worse and the horse became so lame that I could not stand up. After trying everything in my power I went to a neighbor and told him about the case. He gave me one of your bottles and I applied it carefully and being resolved to do the almost in favor of my own, went to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of your Spavin Cure and applied it strictly according to directions. Before the first bottle was used I noticed an improvement, and when the seventh bottle was about half used, my horse was completely cured and without leaving a blemish on him. After ceasing treatment I gave the horse good care and did some light work with him, wishing to see if it had effected a cure. I then started to work the horse hard and to my entire satisfaction he never showed any more lameness through the whole summer. I can recommend Kendall's Spavin Cure not only as an excellent, but as a sure remedy, to any one that is afflicted with lameness. Yours truly, SAMUEL THURTELL. Ask your druggist for Kendall's Spavin Cure, also "A Treatise on the Horse," the book free, or address DR. B. J. KENDALL COMPANY, HENNING FALLS, VT.

STARTLED THE WATCHERS.

A Weird Incident That Occurred at the Bier of Schopenhauer.

A very curious story by Guy de Maupassant has come to light in Paris. According to Maupassant's manuscript, with a friend, spent the night in Schopenhauer's funeral chamber. The great German philosopher had died during the day, and his two admirers prepared to watch over his remains during the dark hours.

Said the German: "Schopenhauer had just died, and we two had decided to stay in his room until morning. Two lights were burning on the table. At midnight our watch began, and after the two others who had remained with the body till that hour had gone away we took up our position at the foot of the bed. The face of the dead man was unchanged. It smiled. The wrinkle which we knew so well was firmly marked, and the countenance looked altogether so natural that it would not have surprised us if our dead friend had opened his eyes and laughed at us. Yet the memory of his profound thoughts weighed upon us, and we felt ourselves surrounded by the atmosphere of his genius. The body of such a man may be stilled by death, but the man himself remains, and not without fear can one remain in his presence. We spoke about him softly; we recalled those wonderful maxims of his which threw such a clear light on many of the dark problems of life.

"I can almost fancy I hear him speak," whispered my companion, and at the mere thought we became still more uneasy, as we sat quite still, our eyes fixed on the motionless, smiling face. Suddenly we felt weak and as though something oppressed us. I stammered, "I don't know what is the matter, but I assure you I am sick." Thereupon my companion suggested that we should go into the adjoining room and leave the door open, and I took his advice. Taking with us one of the candles, we sat down at the farther end of the other room in such a manner that we had a full view of the bed and of the dead man.

"Still, however, a strange uneasiness possessed us. It seemed as though we were wholly enthralled by the disembodied genius of the dead philosopher. All at once we heard a slight noise in the death chamber. We looked toward the body, and then quite distinctly both of us saw something white roll over the bed, fall on the carpet and vanish under a sofa. At the sight we sprang to our feet, terrified beyond measure. Our hearts beat wildly. I spoke first.

"Did you see it?" "Yes, I saw it." "Isn't he dead, then?" "He must be."

"What are we to do?" "We must see what it means," was my companion's hesitating reply.

"I took our light, led the way into the death chamber, and then cast a hasty look around. Nothing stirred, and I approached the bed. The next moment, however, a great terror seized me, for I saw that Schopenhauer was no longer smiling. His face, on the contrary, presented a horrible appearance, for his lips were tightly pressed together, and in his cheeks there were two great hollows. I stammered, "He is not dead," and I stood staring at him as though bereft of my senses.

Thereupon my companion took the other candle and stooped down, and in a moment or two he touched my arm, but did not utter a word. I looked where he pointed, and I saw on the ground beside the sofa something white that gleamed strangely on the dark carpet, and I saw at once what it was. It was Schopenhauer's false teeth, and they seemed to be in the act of biting. As the body had decayed the fastening that held the teeth in position had gradually become so loose that they dropped from the mouth and rolled from the bed on to the floor."

No Waste in the Ox.

It is remarkable to what an extent the ox, when slaughtered, is utilized. Not so very long ago fully 40 per cent of the carcass was wasted. It may be said that today nothing is wasted; everything, from the horns to the tail, is turned into money. The blood is used in the refining of sugar, or is hardened and employed in the manufacture of doorknobs and handles; the skin goes to the tanner; the horns and hoofs are turned into combs and buttons, the shins into backs of clothesbrushes. The bones of the fore feet are worth $25 a ton, being made into collar buttons, umbrella handles and various novelties, after the marrow has been boiled out of them. The small bones are burned instead of coal. From each foot a considerable quantity of oil is extracted; the tail is made into soap. The hair goes to the mattress maker and upholsterer; the fat to oleo makers; the intestines are used as sausage wrappers or are sold to goldbeaters. Even the undigested stuff in the stomach is turned to account, being made into paper. If anything is left over, it is turned into glue or is put on land as a fertilizer.

His Asssets.

The badgering lawyer sometimes succeeds only in affording the witness an opportunity to show off his own wit at the lawyer's expense. And then the spectators are happy.

A certain actor was before the poor debtors' court in New York and testified that his only assets were his salary as a member of the Blank company. "But you must have something else," said the prosecuting counsel. "Tell the court what else you have." "That's all." "What—no personal property?" "Oh, yes, a dog—and a watch!" "Now think hard. What else?" persisted the attorney, believing he was on the right track. "And a case of rheumatism," said the witty witness.

An Earthquake Alarm.

The Japanese are said to have discovered that a few seconds previous to an earthquake the magnet temporarily loses its power, and they have ingeniously constructed a light frame supporting a horse-shoe magnet, beneath which is a cup of bell metal. The armature is attached to a weight, so that upon the magnet becoming paralyzed the weight drops and, striking the cup, gives the alarm. Every one in the house then seeks the open air for safety.

There are some faults slight in the sight of love, some errors slight in the estimate of wisdom, but truth forgives no insult and endures no stain.

The disgraceful person generally prides himself or herself on not being a hypocrite.—Indianapolis Journal.

MATRON AND MAID.

Mrs. Howard Gould has collected one of the finest libraries of works on the English drama extant in this country.

Mrs. Russell Sage says she wasn't a "good fellow girl," yet she had a good time. She finds that women as well as men can overdo the "good fellow" business.

Miss Alice Serber of New York is the first woman lawyer of that city to be admitted to practice in the United States district courts and the first to make a specialty of criminal law.

Miss Lillian Houghtaling of Ansonia, N. Y., is the architect of her own 23 room Queen Anne house, as she planned the dwelling with a rule and lead pencil. The drawings were shown to builders and none could find a flaw in the measurements.

Despite the statement recently made that Liliuokalani, the deposed queen of Hawaii, was rapidly failing in health and had gone back to Honolulu to die, a Honolulu newspaper notes the arrival on the steamer Australia of an automobile for her use.

Mrs. E. S. Starr, horticultural editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, has on the window sill next her desk a beehive. The bees rifle the neighboring candy stores and flowers of the public squares for sweets. Forty pounds of honey have been taken from the hive in one year.

Miss Florita Williams of New York is the sixth woman to receive the medal of the United States Volunteer Life Saving corps. Miss Williams saved the life of Miss Edith Harris at Long Branch last summer under circumstances that showed her to be possessed of remarkable bravery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton does not approve of the recommendation made by several New York magistrates that wife beaters should be punished by flogging. She says, "The real cure for wife beating is to be found not in disciplining an occasional brute, but in teaching men to respect women."

Mrs. Glessner Moore Brady of Nevada, Mo., has been nominated for a second term as circuit clerk of Vernon county. Mr. Brady, her husband, who had held the position previously, died two years ago and was succeeded by his wife. Eighteen out of the 20 townships of the county, as well as every ward of the city, voted for Mrs. Brady.

Miss Terry's one superstition is said to be a fear of the single number 3. She will not enter a hotel room numbered 3 nor a car, nor a berth in a sleeping car. She will not sit three at a table; she declines to go on the stage by the third entrance. Once when an enthusiastic Englishman proposed three cheers for her, she put her hands to her face and ran away.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The Prince of Wales has the right to decorate himself with no fewer than 50 foreign "orders."

The Princess of Monaco, the smallest kingdom in the world, is the first Jewess to sit on a European throne. She was a Miss Heine and was first married to the Duke of Richelieu.

The young king of Spain always insists on having his pockets filled with coppers before going for a drive, and scatters the coins among the many beggars that crowd around his carriage.

Queen Victoria, in her earlier years though perhaps not being, strictly speaking, a gourmet, was fond of good things and plenty of them. But of late she has had to reduce both quality and quantity, till she is almost on the verge of being a vegetarian.

The children of the kaiser are all exceedingly fond of their mother. The story is related that when one of the young princes was receiving religious instruction the clergyman told him that every one sinned, that no one in the world was sinless. "You are mistaken," cried the little prince. "My mother has never sinned."

POULTRY POINTERS.

Sprinkle the nests with diluted carbolic acid. It will help to keep down vermin.

Boiling the milk that is fed to fowls will increase its value and lessen the risk of disease.

The pullet is so called for 12 months, or until the year in which she was hatched is closed.

The symmetry of the stock and the size and color of the eggs can be influenced largely by care in selection of the eggs for hatching, using only those which are large, dark and from well formed hens.

Poultry is an important branch of farm stock, and no farm is well stocked without a good variety of it. Have good fowls if you have any, and keep a sufficient number of them so that you can give them proper attention.

There are three ways of improving your fowls and the profit from them—by introducing new blood, by better care and by better feeding. A combination of all is necessary if the best results are obtained.

THE BLACK DRAGON.

The guns that the Chinamen are fighting with were sold to them by England and Germany. Why not let the Britons and Germans now fight in the front ranks?

It has been well said that if Cavour, Bismarck, Metternich, Gladstone and Gorchikov were all put down at a table with a free hand to settle China's business, their experienced brains would be sorely racked to decide on the wise and sure thing to do.

There will be a reckoning with Prince Tuan, the leader of the murderous Chinese Boxers, when he is captured. It may be impossible to make the punishment exactly fit the crime in his case, but there will be some vigorous hustling to prevent any glaring misfit.—New York Mail and Express.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Unbleached cotton flannel makes good dishcloths.

Save the paper bags. They make good gloves for the cook to clean the stove with.

When the water in the outside vessel of a double boiler refuses to boil, hasten the operation by salting the water.

Fill dirty saucers with hot soda till there is time to wash them. This means a great saving of time in the end.

Limewater will clean jars and jugs which soap and water have failed to cleanse. It is admirable for cleaning out milk receptacles and nursing bottles.

McLEAN'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP. Safe Pleasant Effectual. HAIR AND CHARACTER. Some of the Things a Barber Claims to Have Noticed.

Did you ever notice that people of very violent temper have always close growing hair? It is a fact that every man having close growing hair is the owner of a decidedly bad temper. It is easy enough for me to note at a glance how a man's hair grows. Then I know how to handle him.

Men of strong temper are generally vigorous, but at the same time they are not always fixed in their opinions. Now, the man with coarse hair is rooted to his prejudices. Coarse hair denotes obstinacy. It is not good business policy to oppose a man whose hair is coarse. The eccentric man has always fine hair, and you never saw a man of erratic tendencies who at the same time had a sound mind who was not refined in his tastes.

Fair hair indicates refinement. You may have noticed that men engaged in intellectual or especially in aesthetic pursuits, where delicacy is required, have invariably fine, luxuriant hair and beards. The same men, as a class, particularly painters, are always remarkable for their personal peculiarities.

The brilliant, sprightly fellow has generally a curly beard. If not, his hair is curly. It's easy to bring a smile to the face of the man whose hair is curly. He laughs where colder natures see nothing to laugh at.

There is a great difference between coarse hair and hair that is harsh, though it requires an expert to distinguish it. For example, a man's mustache may be as fine as silk and yet cannot be trained to grow into a graceful curve. That's because the hair is harsh. Now, people whose hair is harsh have amiable but cold natures. They are always ready to listen, but it is difficult to arouse their feelings. In men of this disposition the hair of their heads is generally—in fact, almost always—of a shade darker than their beards.

When the beard is full, covering the entire face, the color varies from a dark shade near the roots to red, which colors the ends of the hair. These men have very rarely a good memory. They forget easily and often leave a cane or an overcoat behind them in the barber shop. They are great procrastinators and are bad at keeping appointments.

Think over your acquaintances and see if the man who is habitually slow has not a mustache or beard of a lighter shade than his hair. It's always the case. These are the men who come in late at the theater and get to the station just in time to miss the train.—Scottish American.

B.B.B. Cures Ringworm. "I had ringworm on my head for nearly a year. I consulted three doctors but derived little or no benefit from their treatment. I then commenced to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Besides taking it internally I washed the affected parts with it and when the bottle was finished I was completely cured." Elsie Slaght, Teeter-ville, Ont.

Burdock Blood Bitters cures sores, ulcers, boils, pimples, eczema and all skin eruptions of the most chronic type. It makes the blood rich and pure, drives all foul material from the system and builds up the tissues of the body.
