FALSE IN MARRIAGE, MURDERER, SUICIDE

ROBERT FULFORD, A CHICAGO CONTRACTOR, KILLS THE MOTHER OF HIS SECOND WIFE.

LONDON, Ont., June 13.—After proving false to his first wife and becoming the husband of his cousin, Robert Fulford, a prosperous Chicago contractor, became a murderer and a suicide. The woman whom he took as his second wife, now refuses to have anything to do with his body.

Fulford came to London searching for his young wife, who deserted him three weeks ago, and not finding her at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCord, in London township, he upbraided his mother-in-law for secreting his wife and killed her. Before any one could reach him he shot himself in the head.

Fulford met Gertrude McCord, who was his cousin when she was a young girl of sixteen at the home of her parents, near Exeter, Ontario. He told her his wife would be overjoyed to meet her, and that she would have a good chance to pursue her musical studies in Chicago.

The McCords were grateful for his kindness, and gladly sent their daughter to Chicago. Mrs. Fulford welcomed her, but within a few months her mind changed, and she wished Gertrude would return to her family home.

Mr. Fulford objected, and the court of Cook judiciously separated Robert Fulford and his wife. Within a year there was another Mrs. Fulford, when Gertrude McCord became the eighteen-year-old bride of her cousin.

Their married life was happy for a time, and then Mrs. Fulford says, her husband ill treated her. She left him and went to her father's home.

Fulford wrote to Robert McCord, threatening violence unless his wife returned to him. His wife, fearing trouble, left her parents' home and went to St. Marytown, three miles away. Yesterday Fulford arrived. He went directly to the barnyard, where Mrs. McCord was seated on a milking stool.

The two conversed for a few seconds, then, drawing two revolvers Fulford shot the woman. As her husband rushed to her assistance the murderer turned his second revolver on himself and fell dead across her body.

Hay Fever Can Be Prevented.

Don't seek other climes at "Hay Fever season," don't destroy your stomach and nerves by drugs—prevent the disease. Hay Fever is caused by germs that float about in the air and finally find lodgment in your throat and lungs. Medicine won't reach them there, but Catarrh-ozone will. Catarrh-ozone is sure death to germs. Start now to use Catarrh-ozone. Inhale it into the throat, lungs, nasal passages and bronchial tubes; it goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and it will prevent and cure Hay Fever. Endorsed by not less than one thousand doctors in Canada and U. S. Sent to any address for $1.00 forwarded to Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S., or Kingston, Ont.

For sale at R. O'Leary's General store, Richibucto.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

DOMINION NEWS.

TORONTO, June 12.—It is stated prospectors, operating in Northern Ontario in the Clergue interest, have discovered another great iron ore body similar to the Helen mine in Michipicoten district. If the statement is confirmed it means plenty of ore for a generation for Ontario furnaces.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 13.—A large number of counterfeit one-dollar Dominion notes were found here Tuesday afternoon by the banks and stores, and it looks as if somebody had come to town with counterfeit money. The counterfeit is an excellent imitation of the new Dominion issue and several bank tellers never noticed that the bills were counterfeits when deposits were made. The printing on the face was rather poor and the paper was different from the genuine. A casual glance at the bills would lead any one to suppose they were the genuine article.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Mother dead, son dying, with bullet wounds in their heads was the terrible discovery at the residence of Mrs. John Redpath, Sherbrooke street, to-night. Montreal's high society is terribly shocked, the Redpaths being leaders in society. Nothing definite is known as to how the terrible tragedy occurred. Mrs. Redpath was a widow. The shooting occurred at dinner hour to-night. Both were found in a dying condition in Mrs. Redpath's room. A revolver was found in the room. Mrs. Redpath died soon afterwards and the son was removed to the hospital. He is not expected to recover. Mrs. Redpath was about 45 years of age and her son about 25.

LATER—Clifford Redpath died at the hospital without regaining consciousness. The tragedy remains a mystery.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Nothing was said at the annual meeting of the Dominion Coal Company this morning regarding amalgamation with the Dominion Steel Co. The directors elected were: R. B. Angus, F. S. Pearson, H. F. Dimock, James Ross, L. F. Forget, W. B. Ross, Hon. D. McKeen, Sir W. C. Van Horne, J. S. McLennan, H. M. Whitney.

The financial statement shows that during the fiscal year ending Feb. 28th the sales increased 200,000 tons. The delay in the delivery of machinery, increased cost of supplies and advances in wages not only interfered with increased demand, but lessened profits on the quantity shipped. Since the close of the fiscal year the sum of $95,743.30 has been added to the sinking fund, which, with interest on reserve sinking fund, is sufficient to retire $90,500 of the company's bonds, thus reducing the bonded indebtedness by a total of $2,704,500.

CHATHAM, Ont., June 13.—Andrew Epperson, a prisoner who had just been convicted of stabbing a woman and remanded for sentence, made a desperate attempt to murder the judge and county crown attorney in the county court this afternoon.

Epperson suddenly leaped from the prisoner's dock, seized a razor and dashed towards the judge.

Constable Cape endeavored to stop Epperson but was brushed aside like a featherweight. Attorney Douglas then tackled the prisoner and was knocked senseless to the floor. Lawyers and spectators finally overpowered Epperson after a desperate fight.

VICTORIA, June 13.—The Miowera, from Australia, brings these advices:

From New Guinea news was received via Sydney of the massacre of the Rev. James Chalmers and B. F. Tomkins and 14 native teachers by cannibals. The whites were eaten. The place of the cannibal orgy was seen by the troops sent out to investigate the massacre and a portion of a jaw and thigh bones of the missionaries were found, together with their hats and portions of trousers which belonged to Chalmers. The expedition punished the natives, destroying their villages and canoes.

Some prisoners taken during an attack made by the natives on the troops told the tale of the massacre and cannibalism.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Regarding the rumor sent out from Sydney last night that the C. P. R. were after the Dominion Coal Company as well as the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., with a view to inaugurating a fast Atlantic service between England and Sydney by having vessels for the same built at Sydney, President Shaughnessy said to-day there was nothing in the rumor.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 14.—The Leyland line steamer Assyrian, ashore off Cape Race, went to pieces during the night and this morning is a total wreck. The centre part of the vessel is under water and the hull is broken asunder. A heavy sea is raging and the cargo is being partly washed ashore and partly carried seaward. Owing to the fury of the gale and the tremendous sea, little of the cargo has thus far been salvaged.

The tug Petrel, which was forced on the rocks while engaged in attempting to assist the Assyrian, has also become a total wreck. The crews of both vessels escaped safely to the shore and are housed in the Cape Race light house.

thurs Sturgis Hardy, ex-premier of Ontario.

Mr. Hardy died of paralysis of the heart following upon an operation performed last Saturday night for appendicitis. He had been unconscious for some time before his death.

Descended on both sides from United Empire Loyalists, ex-Premier Hardy was born at Mount Pleasant, Ont., on Dec. 14, 1837. His father was Russell Hardy, a merchant of Brantford, Ont. In 1870 ex-Premier Hardy married a daughter of the late Justice Morrison, of Toronto. In 1865 he was called to the bar and appointed a Q. C. in 1876. In 1873 on resignation of the sitting member he was returned to the legislative assembly and re-elected in 1873. He was appointed to the executive council and became provincial registrar in 1877. He was then re-elected in 1879, '83, '86, '90 and '94. He was commissioner of crown lands from 1889 to 1894 when, on the resignation of Sir Oliver Mowat, he became premier and attorney general of Ontario. In dominion politics he was a Liberal.

OTTAWA, June 14.—The following cablegram was to-day received from Lord Strathcona: "Lloyds informs me that two systems of wireless telegraphy have been developed by them which they believe will be utilized at Lloyds signal stations and think they are superior to any yet brought forward to determine the relative merits of the two systems. Exhaustive experiments are proposed and if you like to delegate any officer to witness them, I would be happy to afford every facility. Lloyds asked to communicate this information to you." This has been forwarded to England to the Minister of Marine by Deputy Minister Gordeau.

An order-in-council has been passed transferring all payments of bounties on steel and iron from the customs to the trade and commerce department from July 1st next. It is also likely that bounties on lead will be handled by trade and commerce.

SYDNEY, C. B., June 14.—There was a serious stabbing affray at the coke ovens yesterday afternoon. Frank Pepperis, an Italian, owed another Italian named Cosco a sum of money. Cosco in company with two friends, visited Pepperis' house and demanded the money. The debtor refused to pay whereupon Cosco and his friends attacked Pepperis. Knives were brought into play and as a result Pepperis is now lying at his house in a precarious condition, suffering from wounds in the face and thigh. Policemen Scott and Morrison arrived at Pepperis' house after the attacking parties had fled. The officers followed the Dagoes for three miles up the Sydney River before their capture was effected. The three are now at police headquarters.

BELLVILLE, June 14.—The steamer Hero was burned at the dock here last night. Loss, $15,000. The crew and the few passengers on board had a narrow escape, some jumping into the water.

HAMILTON, June 14.—James Henigan, while riding a bicycle at the corner of York and James streets, was struck by a trolley car and died two hours later.

MONTREAL, June 14.—The investigation by the coroner's jury to-day put a new light on the Redpath tragedy of yesterday. The evidence showed that Mrs. Redpath had been shot twice, once in the back of the head and the second time in the right shoulder, while the bullet had entered young Redpath's head to the right of the left temple. The jury brought in a verdict that the young man had killed his mother while in a fit of temporary insanity, brought on by an epileptic fit, and then taken his own life. The first story given out by the family that the shooting had probably been done by the mother was due to the fact that the young man was still alive.

MONTREAL, June 15.—At Verdun, near Montreal, last night, two young women lost their lives. A party of two young men and two young women were out boating when the boat capsized and the women were drowned. Their names are Helen Brast, of Perth, Ont., and Rachel Muldoon, of Smiths Falls, Ont.

Mrs. Gilbert and Augustin Daly.

"The pleasantest recollections of my stage life are those connected with the governor," said Mrs. John Gilbert. "We never called him Mr. Daly—that is, we older ones, who knew him well.

"He never bothered much with Jim Lewis and myself. He had more trouble with John Drew and Ada Rehan. They were young and needed looking after, you know.

"He was very set in his ways, and if he took a fancy to a piece of stage furniture he invariably introduced it into every play. He had a pair of large, dark blue majolica vases which were the bane of my life. They were always placed near a doorway in such a manner that you had to have the dreadful things always on your mind or you would run into them.

"I had complained several times to the governor and begged him to put them in the storeroom, but he had taken a fancy to them, and they remained.

"Well, one day I did knock one of them down, and it was smashed to bits. The governor never said a word, but he looked volumes. He was arranging the interior for a new play a few days later, and in one scene I had to faint on a lounge.

"Tom," he said to the stage hand "see that that lounge is good and strong, for Mrs. Gilbert is very gawky, and it would ruin the scene if she smashed it when she fainted."

"That was all, but I knew that he knew how that vase was broken."

Confiscation in Morocco.

It is a custom in Morocco that all the property of an official reverts at death to the crown. The logic which leads to such a result is simple, for the government argues that all fortunes thus accumulated consist of moneys illegally retained by the authorities. A governor when appointed is probably possessed of no considerable fortune. When he dies, he may be a millionaire. Whence came his wealth? Squeezed most certainly from the tribes under his authority and therefore amassed only by the prerogatives of the position in which the sultan had placed him. It has never struck the Moorish government that these great fortunes might more honorably be returned to the people from whom they were stolen. The result is entire confiscation to the crown, including often such private property as his governor may have been possessed of before his appointment and not seldom, too, of the property of his relatives.

When the mighty fall in Morocco, the crash brings down with them their families, even uncles and cousins and all connected with them, and it is not seldom that the sons of great governors, who have been brought up in the luxury of slaves and horses and retinues of mounted men, have to go begging in the streets.

Barbers of Spain.

The barber's business in Spain is peculiar in that he is called upon to ply his shears on donkeys as well as men, for it is an important item in the care of Spanish donkeys that they should be sheared as to the back in order to make a smoother resting place for man or pannier. So, while the master held his animal, one of the barbers plied some enormous clacking shears and littered the ground with mouse colored hair, leaving the beast's belly fur covered below a fixed line and for a small additional price executing a raised pattern of star points around the neck. The tonsorial profession is an indispensable one in a country where shaving the whole face is generally practiced among all the humbler orders, not to mention toreros and ecclesiastics. But the discomfort to which the barber's customers submit is astonishing. Instead of being pampered, soothed, labored at with confidential respectfulness and lulled into luxurious harmony with himself, as happens in America, a man who courts the razor in Spain has to sit upright in a stiff chair and meekly hold under his chin a brass basin full of suds and titting his throat by means of a curved nick at one side.

Cause of Talleyrand's Lameness.

The cause of Talleyrand's lameness has long been a matter of dispute. Some stories have it that the defect was congenital; others that it was occasioned by an accident which befell him in his infancy. The most curious explanation of all is that offered by a writer in The Quarterly Review. "To quote the very words of our informant, an eminently distinguished diplomat," says the writer, "Talleyrand's Vienna colleague, Baron Wessenberg, told me years ago that his lameness was owing to carelessness of his nurse, who laid him down in a field while she flirted with her sweetheart and on coming back to her charge found some pigs dining on the infant's legs. I am sure that Wessenberg told me this as an established fact, and I am all but sure that his authority was Talleyrand himself."

Weak.

"Do you know that Nigster is so weak that he can't stand alone?" asked Browne.

"Good gracious, no!" replied Jones.

"What is the matter with him?"

"Why, I asked him if he could stand a loan of 10 shillings and he said he couldn't."—London Fun.

What a Curio Is.

"What is a curio, father?"

"A curio is a piece of china that your mother has had spared to her through the devastating dynasties of seven or eight cooks."—London King.

"You can convince a woman that the earth isn't round," said the breakfast cynic, "but you can't convince her that the druggist doesn't make 50 per cent profit on postage stamps."—Philadelphia Record.

A COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER'S STORY

Interview with Mr. J. H. Ireland one of the Old Time Knights of the Grip.

His Flight on a Recent Occasion in the Maritime Provinces—How Dodd's Kidney Pills Came to His Help—High Words of Praise for that Remedy

TORONTO, June 17, (Special).—Mr. J. H. Ireland, the well-known traveller for hats and caps, left for the Maritime Provinces one day last week. Handily packed in Mr. Ireland's private grip was a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the medicine famous throughout Canada as a specific for all troubles of the kidneys. When asked about his experience with this remedy Mr. Ireland grew quite enthusiastic.

"I never go out on a trip of any length without a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills," he asserted.

"Are you afflicted with Kidney Trouble a great deal then," Mr. Ireland was asked. "Not a great deal now, no," replied Mr. Ireland, "I take Dodd's Kidney Pills more as a preventive than anything else. But in the winter of ninety-eight I was, I can tell you. I was down in Nova Scotia when I first used Dodd's Kidney Pills. I don't know whether it was the water down there, the climate, riding so much in the train or what, but certainly my kidneys were on the point of a complete break down. Backache! It was one continual misery. It spoiled my business, broke my rest and wore me down until the life was taken right out of me."

"And you used Dodd's Kidney Pills?"

"I used the only remedy I knew of that was a specific for the kidneys," answered Mr. Ireland. "The first dose of Dodd's Kidney Pills seemed to go right to the spot. In a few days I was feeling as well as ever I did in my life. They are a splendid medicine. I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to scores of men on the road like myself and none of them but have the warmest praise for the medicine being just exactly what we need in our walk of life, a safe reliable strengthening stimulant for the kidneys."

TRIED FOR AER LIFE IN THE WOODS.

WOMAN, HER FATHER AND HER TWO BROTHERS, CHARGED WITH MURDER, FACE 2,000 PEOPLE.

GALENA, Mo., June 14.—Justice is being administered here amid extraordinary surroundings. The roof of court is the loftiest, the sky; the walls, a grove of trees. The two judges sit at a table, and surrounding them are two thousand people, tramping the young grass.

The prisoners at this rural, remote bar are Mrs. John Stallion, her father, James Crabtree, and his two sons, Frank and Charles, accused all, of the murder of the woman's stepdaughter, Alice Stallion, a pretty girl of fifteen years.

The scene is better fitted for a prayer meeting. But the thousands of people here assembled, so far from being prayerful, are vengeful. No railroad runs to Galena, hundreds of these people have trudged along, dusty miles, to be present at this strange trial, preliminary though it be. There presence is more than significant; it is dangerous.

As yet the auditors have attempted no overt act. But the country officials have heard their threats against Mrs. Stallion and the Crabtrees and are taking every precaution to protect the prisoners.

The officials fear lest the quiet grove be a scene of a lynching—already threatened—where the people will take the law into their hands and put to death the prisoners, white like themselves.

The man on trial and his sons are dogged, silent, as they hear the testimony, which cannot be printed, but which the 2,000 people eagerly listen to, seeking in it their justification for the dead they undoubtedly meditate.

The woman on trial is full of fears. As she looks around she knows she has jeopardized her own and the men's lives. For she has made a partial confession, pleading her innocence, then acknowledging that she held the struggling daughter while the men brutally took her life.

Already the woman and three men have narrowly escaped lynching. They fled after Alice Stallion's death; an angry mob pursued them, and raced with the sheriff and his deputies to seize the fugitives.

The false report spread from mouth to mouth that the lynchers had won the race and was sent out over the country.

For Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Cramp, Colic, Diarrhoea, Dysentery and Summer Complaint, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is a prompt, safe and sure cure that has been a popular favorite for nearly 50 years.

AROUSING PAPA'S FEARS.

"Mr. Jones, did you hear about the kidnapping up at your place?"

"What is it?"

"Your boy Tommy?"

"What of him?"

"He's asleep in the hammock."
