IF YOU CATCH COLD.

Many things may happen when you catch cold, but the thing that usually happens first is a cough. An inflammation starts up in the bronchial tubes or in the throat, and the discharge of mucus from the head constantly poisons this. Then the very contraction of the throat muscles in the act of coughing helps to irritate so that the more you cough the more you have to cough. It is, of course, beyond question that in many places the irritation started in this way results in lung troubles that are called by serious names. It is in this irritated bronchial tube that the germ of consumption finds lodgment and breeds.

Great numbers of people disregard cough at first, and pay the penalty of neglect. Cough never did any one any good. It should be dispensed with promptly. Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a well known remedy, and it is the surest and quickest cough cure known to-day. It does not deceive by drugging the throat. It soothes the irritated parts and heals them, then the cough stops of its own accord. The action of this medicine is so simple that it seems like nature's own provision for curing a cough. Every druggist has it. 25 cents. Be sure to get the genuine, which has "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown in the bottle.

PIET DEWET IN CAPE TOWN.

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 13.—Piet DeWet, who arrived here yesterday to engage the Afrikaners in the peace movement, has an appointment with Mr. Theoren, president of the Afrikaner bond, who is coming here for the special purpose of discussing peace possibilities. DeWet, on behalf of the Boer peace committee, desires the Afrikaner bond to announce clearly that the invaders can expect no aid from the Cape Dutch and then send a deputation to Steyn and Gen. Dewet to endeavour to prevail upon them to surrender. He says he is confident commandant General Louis Botha will surrender if Steyn and DeWet would do so and the surrender will be practically without conditions.

PEOPLE RECOVERING

From Pneumonia, Typhoid or Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, La Grippe or any Serious Sickness

Require the Nerve Tonic, Blood Enriching, Heart Sustaining Action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

It is well known that after any serious illness the heart and nerves are extremely weak and the blood greatly impoverished. For these conditions there is no remedy equals Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. It restores all the vital forces of the body which disease has impaired and weakened. Mr. T. Barnicot, Aymer, Ont., says:—"About a year ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, and got up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. I had no energy and was in a miserable state of health. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store here, changed me from a condition of misery to good health. They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored brisk circulation of my blood, and made a new man of me. I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe, or any other severe illness."

SAW LINCOLN DIE.

NEW YORK DOCTOR RECALLS THE MURDER OF UNITED STATES PRESIDENT.

Three men who stood at the deathbed of Abraham Lincoln are now living. One of them is a physician, in practice in this city, Dr. Charles A. Leale, of No. 604 Madison avenue. The others are Robert T. Lincoln, the son of the martyred president, and Colonel John Hay, now secretary of state.

Dr. Leale was in 1865 a surgeon in charge of the Army Square Hospital, in Washington. He had just read the remarkable address which the president had made upon his return from Richmond and was determined to obtain a glimpse of the face of the orator.

Dr. Leale, on the night of April 14, 1865, went to Ford's Theatre, where Miss Laura Keane was appearing in the play Our American Cousin. He did not see the fatal shot fired, but, realizing almost instantly that the president had been injured, he rushed forward and was among the first to reach the box.

He at once took charge, at the request of Mrs. Lincoln, and had the president placed on his back on the floor of the box. He then removed the clot from the bullet wound in the back of Mr. Lincoln's head, relieving the pressure on the brain.

Finding the president insensible, Dr. Leale restored him to consciousness by means of artificial respiration.

Miss Keane who had now come to the box, begged the physician to be permitted to hold the president's head upon her lap. The doctor would not permit at first, but finally told the actress how to raise Mr. Lincoln's head in such a way that there might be no shock.

"My first thought," said Dr. Leale yesterday, "was to get the president to a place of safety. All of us thought there was a plot to blow up the theatre and we felt that the mine might be fired at any moment. The first thing I said, and the same words were telegraphed that night all over the earth, was 'this wound is mortal. He cannot recover.'"

"Two other physicians, Dr. Tait and Dr. H. E. A. King, then came to my assistance and the president was carried across the street. Several army officers and soldiers went in advance of us with drawn swords and cleared the way. The president was carried up to the second floor and placed on a bed. On account of his height, for he was six feet four inches, Mr. Lincoln was laid diagonally on the bed.

"On the way over I was twice obliged to relieve the pressure on his brain by removing the clot.

"Mr. Lincoln was shot at half-past ten o'clock and lived until twenty minutes past seven o'clock the next morning. Before his death the cabinet officers had time to assemble, and he died with his family at his bedside. As his spirit passed away I was holding his right hand."—New York Herald.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

It was as follows:

"My lords and gentlemen,—I address you for the first time at a moment of national sorrow, when the whole country is mourning the irreparable loss we have so recently sustained and which has fallen with peculiar severity on myself. My beloved mother, during her long and glorious reign, has set an example before the world of what a monarch should be. It is my earnest desire to walk in her footsteps.

"Amid the public and private grief it is satisfactory to me to be able to assure you that my relations with the other powers continue friendly. The war in South Africa has not yet entirely terminated, but the capitals of the enemy and his principal lines of communication are in my possession and measures have been taken, which will, I trust, enable my troops to deal effectually with the forces by which they are still opposed.

"I greatly regret the loss of life and expenditure of treasure, due to the fruitless guerilla warfare maintained by Boer partisans in the former territories of the two republics. Their early submission is much to be desired in their own interests, as until it takes place it will be impossible for me to establish in those colonies the institutions which will secure the equal rights of all the white inhabitants and protection and justice for the native population.

"The capture of Pekin by the allied forces and the happy release of those who were besieged in the legations, results to which my Indian troops and my naval forces largely contributed, have been followed by the submission of the Chinese government to the demands insisted on by the powers. Negotiations are proceeding regarding the manner in which compliance with these demands is to be effected.

"The establishment of the Australian Commonwealth was proclaimed at Sydney January 11, with many manifestations of popular enthusiasm and rejoicing. My deeply beloved and lamented mother had assented to the visit of the Duke of Cornwall and York to open the first parliament of the new Commonwealth in her name. A separation from my son, especially at such a moment, cannot be otherwise than deeply painful, but I still desire to give effect to her late majesty's wishes, and as evidence of her interest as well as my own in all that concerns the welfare of my subjects beyond the seas, I have decided that the visit to Australia shall not be abandoned and shall be extended to New Zealand and the Dominion of Canada.

"The prolongation of the hostilities in South Africa has led me to make a further call on the patriotism and devotion of Canada and Australia. I rejoice that my request has met with a prompt and loyal response and large additional contingents from these colonies will embark for the seat of war at an early date.

"The expedition organized for the suppression of the rebellion in Ashanti was crowned with signal success. The endurance and gallantry of native troops, ably commanded by Sir James Willecks and led by British officers, have overcome both the stubborn resistance of the most warlike tribes of West Africa and the exceptional difficulties of the climate and season of the country in which the operations were conducted. The garrison of Coomassie, which was besieged by the enemy, has been relieved after a long and gallant defence. The principal kings have surrendered and the chief impediment to the progress of the development of this rich portion of my West African possessions has now, I hope, been finally removed.

"The sufferings and mortality caused by the prolonged drought in a large portion of my Indian empire have been greatly alleviated by a seasonable rainfall, but I regret that in parts of the Bombay presidency distress of a serious character still continues, which my officers are using every endeavor to mitigate.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons: The estimates for the year will be laid before you. Every care has been taken to limit their amount, but the naval and military requirements of the country, and especially the outlay consequent upon the South African war, have involved an increase.

"The demise of the Crown renders it necessary that renewed provisions shall be made for the civil list. I place unreservedly at your disposal those hereditary revenues which were so placed by my predecessor, and I have commanded that the papers necessary for full consideration of the subject shall be laid before you.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

"Proposals will be submitted to your judgment for increasing the efficiency of my military forces.

"Certain changes in the construction of the court of final appeal are rendered necessary in consequence of the increased resort to it which has resulted from the expansion of the empire during the last two generations."

"Legislation will be proposed to you for the amendment of the law relating to education.

"Legislation has been prepared, and if the time at your disposal proves to be adequate it will be laid before you for the purpose of regulating the voluntary sale of landlords to occupying tenants in Ireland for amending and consolidating the workshop acts; for the better administration of the law regarding lunatics; for amending the public health acts in regard to water supply; for the prevention of drunkenness in licensed houses and public places, and for amending the law of literary copyright.

"I pray that Almighty God may continue to guide you in the conduct of your deliberations and that He may bless them with success."

After reading his speech his majesty turned to the queen, helped her to rise and led her out of the chamber, preceded by the procession through the royal gallery again and into the robing room, whence, within a few minutes, they emerged, entered the state carriage and drove away, amid a tumult of cheers, to Buckingham Palace.

No Excuse For People Who Wear Rusty or Faded Clothes.

DIAMOND DYES

Will Make The Old Things

Look as Good as New.

If the majority of people cannot afford to buy new dresses, jackets, capes, waists or suits of clothes every three or six months, the use of Diamond Dyes will enable them to renew at trifling cost their faded or rusty garments, making them as handsome as new ones. Mrs. W. L. Woodward, of Cresswell, Ont., says:

"I have always used Diamond Dyes with the best results, but my last trial of them has exceeded all previous efforts. I have just dyed a dress of the very finest brown Henrietta Cloth with Diamond Dye Fast Black for Wool, making it look as well as new goods from the store. There is no excuse for anyone wearing old clothes while Diamond Dyes are sold."

MEDALS FROM THE KING TO THE STRATHCONAS.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—King Edward, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, this morning inspected from Buckingham Palace the officers and men of the Strathcona Horse. His Majesty presented the regiment with the king's colors and gave medals to the men. A detachment of guards held the lawn of the west terrace, and the Canadians were drawn up in front of the terrace. The company present included Lord Roberts in full uniform, Gen. Buller, the Duke of Connaught, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, Lord Strathcona, who organized Strathcona's Horse, and many of the army and court officers. The royal standard was hoisted over the palace, as the King, wearing a field marshal's uniform, and the Queen in deep mourning appeared on the terrace, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Argyll.

A Warning.

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another.

Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too—and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once.
