THE NEW CRUSADE.

BY DR. LOUIS ALBERT BANKS.

Mrs. Nation and the smashing of a lawless liquor joint in Wichita, or a gilded palace of the whiskey devil in Topeka, cannot be judged by itself. There is a story of woe behind it, sad enough to break the heart of any man who has not a heart of stone. Behind that hatchet that smashes the plate-glass window of that den of iniquity there are scenes of sorrow and agony as terrible as anything that African slavery ever knew. Slavery sometimes did horrible things indeed. Occasionally a husband was separated from the wife, and father and mother from their children. And yet that was rare. But is it rare under the oppression of the liquor traffic? No, indeed! For every family broken up and scattered by the auction-block under African slavery, there are a dozen families and more, white as well as black, rich and cultivated as well as poor and ignorant, from the mansion as well as the tenement-house, that are separated and scattered in shame and disgrace by the cruel, devilish work of the liquor saloon.

For centuries the most cruel pressure of the liquor traffic has fallen upon womanhood. No woman has been safe. No woman to-day is so hedged about by wealth or nurturing circumstances that she can say with any just reason, "The liquor traffic cannot reach my fortress; it cannot tear down the citadel of my happiness." Women have been wooed by clear-minded, healthy-bodied, true-hearted young men, and have given them their all of affection and service, have borne them children, only to find at middle age that the allurements of the licensed liquor saloon have clouded the mind and debased the heart and deadened the affections of the husband and father. And at last, after twenty-five years of toil and devotion, bearing and enduring such horrors as only a drunkard's wife and the merciful God in heaven can know, she is turned out to face old age, a poor, broken and wrecked piece of humanity. What do you think such a woman's feelings are about the liquor saloon? Do you wonder that she hates it? Oh, my God, no! I have no wonder of that sort; my only wonder is that there is a saloon left standing in America.

Mrs. Nation says, "Stone me, kill me, if you will, but I represent outraged motherhood and wifehood and womanhood, and if I die, God will raise up multitudes of others to take my place." Suppose they kill her! They boast that they have hired ruffians in every saloon in Topeka to murder her. One shot at her twice the other day, not ten feet distant. Suppose they grow desperate and take her life? I tell you that Carrie Nation dead by the bullet of a saloon keeper will mean a hundred thousand Carrie Nations in Kansas, and there will be such a revival of temperance sentiment in the United States as we have not seen in our generation.

The liquor traffic will not see another hour's peace in this country. Carrie Nation has called an alarm that I believe we have been getting ready to hear. All over this land there has been through all these years, while the tide seemed to be ebbing outward from us, a growing hatred against the liquor saloon. Any railroad man will tell you that every year it gets harder and comes nearer to an impossibility for a man to get employment on the railroads who is known to go inside a liquor saloon. Every year there are added manufacturing plants of every sort and kind, where the fact that a man drinks or goes near a liquor saloon is a bar to employment. In spite of all its pride of power, which has been manifest in the army canteen, and in its boast of control of great politicians and officers of government, there are every year more men and women and children in the United States that hate and abominate and loathe the very idea and name of the liquor saloon!

I pray God that the liquor traffic may be abolished from America without bloodshed, and yet who dares prophesy that it shall be so? There has been a good deal of blood let in these long years by brutal husbands and fathers, who, in drunken frenzy, have murdered wife and children; who knows but God shall call upon those who have been indifferent to it to measure out their own in payment? There have been a great many fortunes made out of the liquor traffic; who knows but God shall call upon these men to pour out their millions to pay the war debt that shall be necessary to exterminate this monster.

There is a tremendous call coming today to the church of Jesus Christ in all denominations to do her duty. I do not believe that these glowing prophecies, which we hear on every hand of a great and far-reaching revival of religion, which God knows we need badly enough, will come to the Christian church until she does her duty in regard to this monster crime of our time. If the church wants a great outpouring of the divine grace that shall save the children and the youth of the land, she must do her duty, and crush out the liquor saloon, the mightiest foe of God and man on the face of the earth.

Even while we sit here the saloon is eating into the vital life and happiness of homes upon every side of us. I never shall forget a young lawyer saying to me not long ago, with tear-wet eyes: "The most heart-breaking thing I ever had to do was to go into the police court to defend my own father for intoxication." A man died the other day, not far off, and a few days afterwards, on being inquired of as to why her house was to be sold, his widow said: "Oh, it has all got to go. Ten years ago my husband had several thousand dollars in the bank; a business worth ten thousand dollars a year, and our beautiful home, elegantly furnished, was all our own. The money has long since gone from the bank; the business is nearly entirely wasted, and the house is mortgaged for more than it is worth." And the listener knew that what added still a bitterer drop to that woman's cup of anguish was the fact that she had two children, one a miserable cripple and the other an idiot, an inheritance from that drunken husband and father. These are the kind of deeds that have stirred Mrs. Nation, and have embittered the hearts of millions of men and women from ocean to ocean against this accursed traffic. In God's name let us rise up to do our duty. Keep your own hands clean of it.—Central Christian Advocate.

SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPE TOWN, April 6.—General French continues to press the Boers at Vryheid, Transvaal Colony. The Boers abandoned a pom-pom, which the British found smashed at the bottom of a precipice.

Lord Kitchener, reporting to the war office the finding of an abandoned and destroyed pom-pom near Vryheid, says: "This accounts for all the enemy's guns known to be in the southeastern district."

CAPE TOWN, April 6.—Five corpses of victims of the bubonic plague were found in Cape Town to-day.

Seven additional cases have been officially reported, six of these being Europeans and one of the latter being a yeoman at Green Point Camp.

JOHANNESBURG, April 5.—Lord Kitchener has personally presented the Red Cross medal to Madame Ferriers, head of the French ambulance detachment, for her services to the British wounded.

LONDON, April 5.—A business letter received from Natal says that the holding up of trains and the capture of mail bags for the Transvaal and Bloemfontein are of such frequent occurrence that important documents are no longer entrusted to the mails, and from Pretoria it is reported that the ravages of horse sickness were very great, and that little could be done to arrest or even check its progress.

This last fact would account for the slackness that has been apparent for some time in the prosecution of the campaign in the Transvaal by the British, and for the circumstance that so much of the work has fallen on the infantry. The Boers must also be suffering from the effects of the horse sickness, though probably in a less degree than the British, whose horses are nearly all foreign.

LONDON, April 6.—Lord Kitchener reports as follows to the war office: "Col. Plumer has advanced 20 miles beyond Nylstroom unopposed, on the way toward Pietersburg."

According to the Pretoria correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, the Boers have shifted their seat of government from Pietersburg to a point 35 miles north-east.

The Kroonstadt correspondent of the Times, wiring Thursday, says that preparations are being generally made by the British forces for winter operations.

JAPAN PREPARING.

LONDON, April 6.—The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Express says: "Japan is taking measures with a view to hostilities with Russia. She has entered into an agreement with Liu Kun Yi, Viceroy of Nankin, who is acting on behalf of the other friendly Viceroy and Governors regarding the course they will pursue in the way of aiding Japan against Russia. It is understood they have promised to place the telegraphic communications and transport facilities at the service of Japan."

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The United States Government has received a communication from the Russian Government bearing on the conditions in China. While there is an entire absence of authoritative information, yet it is understood Russia now takes occasion to give positive assurance of the disinterested statements which have animated her throughout the consideration of the Chinese question. As to Manchuria it is made clear Russia's course never has varied in the purpose to leave that province an integral part of China and to retire Russian troops as rapidly as safety would permit. But as a more signal evidence of Russia's purpose and in harmony with the Czar's aspirations for peace and harmony between nations, the Russian government now gives the assurances of the most definite and satisfactory character as to the execution of this purpose. The extent of these assurances can be best judged, by the impression made in highest official quarters here, that the threatened crisis over Manchuria has been completely averted.

Shattered Nerves and Weakened System, THE AFTER EFFECTS OF LA GRIPPE.

Have You Had La Grippe?

Did it Leave any After Effects?

If it did, read what Mr. F. J. Brophy, of Montreal, Que., has to say of the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did him.

He Writes: I had a very severe attack of la grippe, which left me all run down, very nervous and extremely weak. I could not sleep at night and was troubled with profuse perspiration, which caused me much annoyance. Hearing of the good effects of Milburn's Pills, I began taking them. Much to my gratification they braced me up, invigorated my whole system, and made me feel like a new man. I can recommend them to all suffering as I did.

THE SHIRT WAIST OF 1901.

(Boston Advertiser.)

The shirt waist of the coming season has already become an important subject with many persons, and it is now no longer a visionary thing of the imagination, but a substantial reality of fine lawn and choice gingham. True, it will obtain in greater variety some weeks hence, and a few more novelties may be seen later, but even now the shops are presenting models which may well be considered good authority for what is to come. These forerunners have all a very dainty aspect and one notices first of all their exquisite appropriateness for feminine wear, for as the shirt waist develops it loses the masculine effect, but is all the while adapted to convenience.

Some of the features of the new waist are many tuckings, the narrow cuff and the fullness at the bottom of the sleeve, all points which began to show themselves last fall. In general many of the new models would seem to be quite without change, but there are many variations.

For the front the tucking which runs half way down and then gives fullness to the belt is the usual mark of the spring garment. The fullness allowed by these tucks varies, as does also the length of stitching, and thus the style is adapted to the becomingness of the weather. Sometimes there is no stitching, only plaits, and again the tucking extends to the waist with the box front effect, which was new and smart last year.

The back appears much the same, being frequently plain, but as that is not generally becoming the tucks or sets of tucks are perhaps more often used. Two sets of two or more are used, and sometimes three sets of fine ones. The sleeves are nearly always full just before the cuff, and sometimes cut full all the way and tucked until a few inches before reaching the cuff. This is a very neat model, and in the pretty striped gingham it has good style.

The cuff is a soft wristband quite plain and straight and it fastens with buttons, generally two, but sometimes a single tiny one. The tiny buttons of pearl are much used on the shirt waists just as the we gold and silk ones have been lately on the silk and flannel garments of the winter. On the cotton waist a close row may be seen on the box plait which fastens with a fly. They form a slight trimming, which is quite a fashionable effect with a smart shirt.

In the finer waists some quite elaborate designs appear, and an all-over tucked design is usually made of the madras or lawn which is thus woven. But to talk of the material of which waists are being made it were as yet a bit early to predict. In these models the finest gingham is most used, and a profusion of white, which indicates a continued popularity of that style, is mostly in pique and lawn, and the latter is more attractive than ever in these dainty models.

The sheer white waist with its fine needle work is made with the same perfection of detail as baby-clothes. The front of embroidery is the smart design, and this is exquisite even to the pattern worked on the tucks. There is much feather stitching, and hem-stitching is the popular effect on all waists, both white and colored.

The straps with the large pearl buttons are much seen as a fashion for buttoning over the front, and the same effect is shown at the wrist, which in this style has no cuff, but is tucked to the hand, and finished with scallops. The uneven line here is a pretty novelty, and sometimes the cuff shows a coquettish point, which is a pleasant variation from the plain wrist band.

DOMINION NEWS.

TORONTO, April 3.—Premier Ross introduced into the legislature last night a bill to grant two and a half million acres of land, but no cash, to the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, which will connect Sudbury, in Algoma district, with Meaford, on Georgian Bay, cutting across Manitoulin Island.

The road, which will be constructed by Clergue at an estimated cost of $6,000,000 will shorten the route from the Northwest by 80 miles. The arrangement provides that the company shall grant running privileges to any other railways and that the government shall have control of rates, with power to purchase the road within fifteen years. The company also is required to locate $1,000 settlers a year for 10 years on its lands.

WINNIPEG, April 3.—After a trial lasting nearly a week, Daniel Todd, charged with murdering John Gordon of this city, in October, 1899, was to-day found guilty of manslaughter. Todd and Gordon were rivals for the affections of a girl, Gordon being the favourite. This, together with robbery, was held to be the motive of the crime. Todd claimed that he killed Gordon in self-defense, during a row over the girl, while both were intoxicated. Sentence was deferred.

CHATHAM, Ont., April 3.—A horse driven by Mrs. George Arnold ran away yesterday and jumped over a bridge forty feet high to the ground below, carrying Mrs. Arnold and two children with it. The mother was killed, but the children aged two and ten years respectively, escaped.

OTTAWA, April 4.—Recruiting the Halifax garrison is proceeding slowly but are now about six hundred on roll. The militia department is quite satisfied that the regiment will hold its own. There are a few vacancies among the officers.

MONTREAL, April 4.—The wife and five children of Alfred Terrien of Tadoussac, were drowned in Saguenay river yesterday near Tadoussac, while the family were coming down in a boat from the place above Saguenay where it had passed the winter. The father of the family had a narrow escape.

OTTAWA, April 4.—It is reported today that Joseph Godbout member for Bruce, will get the senatorship in Quebec, become vacant through the death of Paquet. It is said this may be settled at today's Cabinet meeting.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 4.—The house of Alexander McGinnis, farm laborer, of Southwold township, was destroyed by fire yesterday, and his twin babies, aged seven months, who were alone in the building, perished in the flames.

TILSONBURG, Ont., April 4.—Elder Mason, an aged Baptist minister, died suddenly last evening at the residence of Mr. Travis, a couple of miles from Stratherville, as he was about to perform the marriage ceremony for Leon Dancy and Miss Travis. He was in the act of placing the couple in position when he dropped dead.

A SURPRISE TO EVERYBODY

The promptness with which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate and invigorate the action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, is a surprise to everybody. They are the people's favourite cure for kidney disease, liver complaints, indigestion and constipation. The sale of this great prescription is simply enormous. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers.

The death occurred suddenly at Truro, Thursday night of Susanna, widow of William Warwick, Lawrence town, at Annapolis. Pneumonia was the cause. She had reached the advanced age of 74 years. Deceased was the mother of O. H. Warwick, crockeryware merchant of St. John and Mrs. Will Linton, of Truro. The funeral was held from her late residence, Queen street, Friday afternoon, Rev. A. D. Morton, Methodist, of whose church deceased was a consistent member, officiated. The remains were sent to St. John for interment. Mr. Warwick was summoned to Truro by telegraph and returned to St. John with the remains. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from the choir of the Methodist church, of which deceased's daughter is a leading soprano.

"A Stock Holder"

For holding stock the "Page" is the only reliable kind. It is used on the Largest Stock Farms in Canada; equally suitable for small or large stock. We now make our own wire. Could not get good enough before. It is twice as strong as that in other fences and better galvanized. Our Fencing is shipped from our factory ready-made, and our local representative can put up a string of it for you in short order. Prices lower this year.

IN BED THREE YEARS

The Happy Ending of a Very Serious and Painful Case.

Mrs. Hughes was very ill—Bleeding and in Constant Misery. She Suffered for Four Years, before she used Dodd's Kidney Pills—She is now Well and Happy.

MORLEY, Ont., Apr. 8, (Special).—Nelson Leffar, Justice of the Peace of this place, vouches for the truth of the following interesting story, told by Mrs. Thos. Hughes.

Verification, however, will not be necessary to those who know Mrs. Hughes, as that lady is one of the most highly respected residents of Grey County. Mrs. Hughes says:—

"I was a great sufferer for four years. I was treated by four doctors, and a specialist from the United States. I tried nearly every kind of medicine I could hear of, but none seemed to do me any good.

"I was in bed for nearly three years. I had pains up my spinal column, in my head, over my eyes, across my back, through my left side, and occasionally in my right side.

"For three nights at a time, I would never close my eyes in sleep. I was terribly bloated, so that I could not sit up or walk. My age was forty-one when I was taken sick.

"I have taken in all fourteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and now I am strong, and able to do as good a day's work, as I have ever been. The doctors said I had Rheumatism. They said that nothing could be done for me.

"I was not able to eat anything, only corn starch or soup of some kind. My weight had increased from 112 to 147 pounds. I am now down to my normal weight again. I can never say enough for Dodd's Kidney Pills, for I am satisfied that they saved my life."

There are many ladies suffering as Mrs. Hughes did, although but few may be as low as she was.

Deranged Kidneys are responsible for almost all the trouble that come to women in middle life, and no woman can afford to be careless, when her kidneys are in any way threatened.

What cured Mrs. Hughes of this very bad case, will cure any case.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only remedy that ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes, or Dropsy, and they have never failed.

MRS. NATION'S RULE.

CONCORD, Neb., April 5.—For the next year this town will be conducted under the direct advice of Mrs. Carrie Nation. This was the issue here, and the Carrie Nation ticket received nearly a unanimous vote. The temperance people put a nomination for Mayor Judge R. C. Mitchellree and a full city council ticket. They signed the following pledge before being nominated:

"We pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to secure the services of Mrs. Carrie Nation as our sole adviser in our official duties, if elected, and to adopt no ordinance or measure of importance relative to the town's government without receiving Mrs. Nation's approval."

The saloons in the town began packing up their furniture when it was ascertained that Mrs. Nation would run the town after the election. They were afraid she would wire instructions and get their furniture destroyed before they could remove it from the city. The mayor-elect has written to Mrs. Nation telling her of the vote of the people. An appropriation will be made to pay for her services. She is asked to come to Concord as soon as possible for a conference. It is said here by some admirers of Mrs. Nation that they propose to have an ordinance passed prohibiting smoking on the public streets and preventing any theatrical performances in the city. Drunkenness will be made a misdemeanor and punished by ducking or public whipping. The greatest curiosity prevails as to the result of the novel situation. Concord is a village of 1,110.

SPRING MEDICINE.

As a spring medicine Burdock Blood Bitters has no equal. It tones up the system and removes all impurities from the blood and takes away that tired weary feeling so prevalent in the spring.

A young son of Abner Neily, of Belle Isle, N. S., was instantly killed last Wednesday morning by being kicked by a horse he was leading to water. The boy was about twelve years old, and the only person who saw the occurrence was a boy of six, who is unable to describe the affair any more than to say that while young Neily was leading the horse along he fell. He was dead when picked up. He was a nephew of Norman Neily, of Meadowvale, who was recently so severely kicked by his trotter Fearon.
