DOMINION NEWS.

MONTREAL, March 2,-As yet there has been no charge of murder brought against Maynard. The coroner's jury are still. investigating the case From the position of the body and the spots of blood all over the house, detectives believed Mrs. Maynard was backed to death while endeavoring to escape from the murderer. A blood-stained axe has been found. Mrs. Maynard, whose maiden name was Lena Pratt, was addicted to drink, and her husband was jealous of her. When he re turned home Thursday night he found a half-emptied bottle of whiskey on the table, and the theory is the husband believed this had been supplied by another man, his wife having no money with which to purchase it, and in a moment of jealous frenzy he committed the marder. It is guite evident to the detectives that Maynard slept in the blood-soaked bed, as for the spirits of the departed to eat or the shoulder of his shirt shows marks of blood. At the coroner's inquest this morning the father of the murdered woman swore that his daughter had come to him several times saying she feared her busband would kill her.

Towns Which Have Become Famous by Odd Circumstances.

About one-third the population of the Flemish city of Gheel are lunatics. Those mentally deranged are sent there from all over the continent, the idea being that the freedom given in this town, which lives on lunatics, will help to cure the patients. Yet the cure is founded on an improbable legend. A king's daughter, having during the middle ages eloped to this city with a forbidden lover, was followed by her father, who, chancing to meet her in a street corner, promptly cut off her head. Two lunatics passing at the time were so shocked by this act that they regained their reason, and the town got its livelihood. The town of Gibraltar, owing to 'its position in regard to Spain, has practically been in a state of siege for over two centuries. At sunset the drawbridges are raised, and at sunrise they are again let down to the tune of the reveille. The whole town is kept under strict military rule, none but Englishmen being allowed to sleep within the town.

The town of Iquitos, in South America, is a seaport situated some 4,000 miles from the sea. Yet it boasts some of the finest dockyards in the world. Ships from every port and of every build, from the tramp steamer to the Atlantic liner, can enter its port by sailing or steaming up the river Amazon.

There is a large city in northern China whose inhabitants, numbering many thousands, never speak to one another, eat or drink. It is a city of graves. The corpses are deposited in earthen urns, and, having left a little rice and opium give as offering to the national dragon, the living relatives hurry away from this town of the dead. But at nightfall from out of hidden caves and even sometimes decorated urns creep lepers and outcasts, who, while they make merry with the viands, laugh at the simple faith of the givers, who suppose in the morning that the gods have devoured them.

There are two cities, many of whose inhabitants have never seen God's sky-Epernay, in France, and Wielicka, in Poland. The former consists of miles upon miles of subterranean streets hewn out of the chalky soil. Wielicka is hawn out of salt-in fact, a great salt mine, so large that the workers in it are also inhabitants. Many families date back three 'or four generations since any of their

MARITIME PROVINCE NOTES.

A man : amed Bo' d M Nu't wis arrest. ed by the I. C. R. p lice at Truro on Thursday on the charge of stealing a horse and appropriating the same to his own use. The case is somewhat complicated. On the 8th of October last McNutt purchased a horse from one Mariing, of Halifax, ostensibly for Angus Mc-Kenzie, to whom the horse was to be shipped. The horse was shipped to Mc-Kenzie, but on its arrival at fruro, Mc-Nutt went to the freight shed and represented to the I. C. R. official in charge that the horse was his and that he merely shipped it to McKenzie for the purpose of prevanting his creditors from seizing it. He obtained possession of the horse and the shipper, in consequence of the horse not being delivered to the consignee, put in a claim against the railway for the price of the horse, viz, $40. The I. C. R, being in error in having allowed the animal to be hauded over to a party other than the man to whom it was shipped, had to make good the loss. Now a charge of theit has been preferred by the I. C. R. against McNutt, who by his ingenious contrivance got a horse very cheaply.

IT DIDN'T BOTHER BLAINE.

He Finished His Speech From a Badly Wrecked Platform.

It happened during one of the stumping tours back in the late seventies or the early eighties Mr. Blaine was addressing an open air meeting in a Massachusetts wretched itching and uneasieness It is town. The speakers' platform, which truely a wonder to all who have used it had been hurriedly erected for the occasion, began to groan under its load of "distinguished citizens" and presently settled gracefully to the ground, tumbling the crowd on it together in an undignified heap, but doing no more serious damage than ruffling their hair and clothing and injuring their feelings.

When the crash was over, Mr. Blaine was the first man on his feet. There chanced to be one solitary plank of the platform still left in position. This was the plank at the side next to the audience, which had been nailed firmly to the upright posts at the corners and therefore had not gone down with the rest of the platform. Upon this plank Mr. Blaine promptly clambered, rose to his feet, calm and dignified as ever, and, stretching forth his hand to command silence, said: "Ladies and gentlemen, no matter what happens, I have found that there is always enough left of the Republican platform to stand on. Such being fortunately the case on the present occasion, I will now go ahead and finish my speech, resuming the argument at the point I had reached when things took a drop."

And as soon as the shouts of laughter and applause had died away the witty statesman calmly proceeded to deliver the rest of his speech, not even forgetting a word of the peroration .- Lippincott's Magazine.

Cooking Steaks.

A hint from the English concerns the way in which steaks and chops are prepared for broiling in that country: They are always warmed before they are broiled, a process that much enhances their flavor. If cold when placed over the coals, they often become charred or scorched on the outside before the meat is cooked through. In an English grillroom they are kept on a warm marble slab until needed. A woman who has lived for several years in England testifies to the superiority of the English steaks and chops and has adopted the method followed there. In lieu of grillroom conveniences she uses the range shelf. Care must be taken that the meat does not become hot, as in that case its juices would be extracted.

A Hustler.

"Plunk a man straight through the heart every time!" exclaimed the apparent tenderfoot, leaning easily against an Arizona bar. "Why, there ain't one in this crowd o' lazy loafers can do it!" The bartender instantly ducked, and two seconds later 26 bullets pierced the stranger's coat. But he never turned a hair.
