DESTRUCTION BY FIRES.

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 10 - One of the most stubborn fir's that has visited Salem in years broke out in the Central House block, 159 185 Weshington street, this morning about 2 o'clock and it was found necessary to summon assistance from Beverley. About $15,000 damage was done the maj rity of the losers being protected by insurance. About 2 o'clock, the patroleman on du vi Town House square saw a sheet of firms shoot out of the roof of the Central as a 31 story wooden building, and he fire department had hardly arrived tor a general alarm was piece of appara

PITTSBURG, Pa, Feb. 9 - The five story brick building at 23rd street and Alle gheny Valley allway, occupied by Armstrong Bros.' cork factory, was complete- he died. He leaves a wife and three ly destroyed by fire to-day. The loss will reach almost $750,000 with insurance covering the amount ful ly. The flames from the main building of the Armstrong factory, where the fire originated, spread with astonishing rapidity and five alarms were sounded in quick succession, calling all the engines in the lower city to the scene. Great excitement prevailed, because 1,500 employes in the cork factory were all at work. The flames jumped across the street and ate their way into the Totten and Hogg foundry and laid waste the foundry and machine shop before they could be check. ed. The Armstrong cork factory was the largest plant of the kind in the country. All of the valuable machinery was des troyed, but the books and papers in the office were saved.

Mr. Samuel Orr, Bocabec, Charlotte county, has received word from Eureka, Cal., of the death by accident in the lumber woods of his brother, William Jas. Orr.

Steamer Queen City arrived from the West Coast at Victoria, B. C., the other day. She reports that Lighthouse Keep er Daykin had picked up a piece of teak apparently the back part of a ship's boat, in which were cut the letters "Andrada" (as before reported.) The piece was found turned in. bringen. mit very available by Mr. Daykin on Bonilla Point, and is evidently from one of the boats of the missing vessels. (Bark Andrada, Capt. How to Quiet a Child.

A little girl frequently fancied she mw bears and tigers whenever she happened to awake in the night. Presumably she dreamed of some danger, may be on account of having eaten too much for supper or having eaten the wrong kind of food. At any rate, she frequent-ly awoke crying in the night, and in her fear interpreted the dim outlines of a dress or a curtain as a fearful beast that was about to attack her. The best thing to do is to deal tenderly with such fancies and remove the child as far as possible from the object that has caused her excitement.

Then, if you can do so without disturbing the other children, light the lamp and let the light fall full on the thing that has given rise to her fear. Be slow. and express your opinion first as a kind of preliminary assumption that the bear may after all be mamma's skirt or the curtain moving in the draft, and when this comforting probability is understood follow up your advantage and declare it to be a good joke that a harmless piece of cloth should look like a fearful animal. Make the child smile at the incongruity of her fancy, and her laugh will cure the horror of the dream and dispel the nightmare as sunshine dissolves the mist. - Arena.

Luxury, Right or Wrong.

Discussing the right or wrong of luxury in The North American Review. Professor F Spencer Baldwin, a Boston university authority on economics. comes to these conclusions

"There are justifiable and there are unjustifiable luxuries.

"In general it may be laid down that a luxury which contributes to the efficiency of the individual in the widest sense and which does not impose on society for the satisfaction of its demands an unwholesome and degrading form of labor is perfectly justifiable.

"This sanction of luxury is not to be stretched to cover unlimited self indulgence. The part played by rational self sacrifice in the development of character is not to be overlooked. Constant self indulgence is demoralizing.

"But in general a man has a right to spend money for anything that enriches and diversifies his life, and thus aids in the developing and rounding out of his personality. provided the labor that is required for the production of the arti-

FROM WEDDING TO DEATH.

A double wedding with a tragic end was that of the two brothers Franz and Anton Palotay, who married two sisters named Anna and Marie Benczy, in the Marmaros comitate, in Hungary, says a Buda-Pest letter of Jan. 12th. Atter the couples had been united in Wedlock at the church they started in a sleigh on a visiting trip to old and feeble relations living in the neighbouring villages before again joining their gueste at the wedding breakfast. This is the custom, and the happy couples wished to make no except ion.

On approaching the forest of Borgotwei the sleigh was attacked by two wolves. The driver, relying on the speed of his horses, wanted to get away, but one of the bridegrooms drew his revolver and shot one of the brutes Instantly a herd of wolves, which, exasperated by the cold weather, had advanced to the border of the forest, attacked the party. The driver escaped to the top of a tree, but the two couples became the prev of the infuriated beasts.

A search party of the wedding guests, who had tired of waiting, found the driver almost frozen to death on the tree, and discovered part of the remains of the four victims.

children. An interesting scene was witnessed at the Fox Creek, West. Co., school on Fri day, Feb. 1st, when the Canadian ensign was raised for the first time over the school building. The children having decided to have a flag ready for the occasion of the Queen's funeral, a committee of four of them was appointed and subscriptions taken up for the purpose. While the flag was being raised the children with the two teachers stood in front of the school and sang "Raise the flag." "God saved our Queen." and "God save the King." This we believe, is the first Acadian school in the county which has a flag, and the action of the children is to be commended.

Elephant Hunting In Nubia. When the elephant is pursued on foot, it is invariably sought in the depths of the forest, where it has retired for shelter from the noonday sun and also for the short repose it takes during the 24 hours. The hunter, having tracked his quarry to its retreat, is obliged to use the utmost stealth in approaching it. the elephant being a very light sleeper and awakened by the slightest unusual sound.

The difficulty of moving through a dense, thorny jungle without making any sound dissimilar to those which might be produced by nature, such as the stirring of the branches by a light breeze or the occasional falling of a dead leaf, is greater than can be realized by any one who has not tried it.

On getting within arm's length of his game the swordsman slowly raises himself to an erect position and deals a slashing cut on the back sinews of the nearest foot abcut ten inches from the ground, at the same time leaping nimbly back to avoid a blow from the animal's trunk. The cut, if properly delivered, bites sheer to the bone, severing the large arteries, and in a short time death ensues from hemorrhage. --Harper's Weekly

A Sister Lost.

At one time, when two Cheyennes got to gambling, one lost, and luck seemed to be against him After he had lost every piece of property he had, in des peration he put up his sister and lost her This aroused great indignation through the tribe, but no one intimated that the unfortunate girl should not go and live as the wife of the man who had won her in a game of cards.

Over 20 years ago the writer was superintendent of the Arapahoe Indian school at Darlington during a period of five years During this time not less than four young Indian women came to the school, asking admittance and protection from marriage that was about to be forced upon them The protection was given. and the young women afterward married according to their own choice Since then these tribes have been gradually breaking away from their original customs until now they are married with the lawful marriage rites.-Southern Workman and Hampton School Record.

The Halifax Electric Tram Co. that operates street railway and furnished electric light and power to the city, received a black eye from the City Council Friday night. The Council decided not to renew the contract for the city lighting and to erect a civic plant for that purpose. The estimated cost of the plant will be $100, 000. The sum paid annually for its ser vice in street lighting is about $20,000. Not only will the plant be large enough to do the municipal lighting but it will be apable of producing light for commercial imposes, thus entering into competition with the Company.
