WELCOME HOME. From the scene of strife and battle, From the din of cannon's rattle, From the smoke of powder burning, Welcome Home!

To the arms that long have waited, To the hearts with joy full sated, To a country proud returning.
Welcome Home!

When the call to arms was sounded, Our loved banner was surrounded By the eager hosts that offered East and West! Mothers gave their sons unsparing, Whether silk or homespun wearing. And the aid our country proffered Was its best.

Far acros in rolling ocean, In the hars a great devotion, Sped has wittly, bonor seeking, On their way; Our the watching and the watching, Theirs the renching and the marching, Their a tles and the reeking Field of fray.

At dew t mere and dusky even Wen our rayers to highest Heaven That he G d of battles have them In His care; With the and that He might shield them,

Nor ... ck dishonor yield them, And from read disaster save them Everywhere. When the moke of conflict hid them

None in all ant deeds outdid them: When the battle flame swept o'er them On the field Theirs the doing and the dying, Ours the weeping and the sighing, Theirs to crush the foe before them, Nor to yield.

Whether came ye from the Eastland, From the Midland or the Westland, None in gallant deeds outdid you, Be they come From sisterland or motherland, Australian, Cape or otherland; Canada's sons, we bid you Welcome Home.

BY FRANCES HENSHAW BADEN.

"Morning, noon and night-all the time reading and idling about! What a shame- been said. ful, yes, wicked waste of time! Oh, I declare, I shall not be surprised if, one of from such, Annie, gentle, sweet little a month!" these nights, the ghost of some one, or Annie Warner was free. No one ever any girl I ever knew. And I think she said: is really charming But I've seen what a terrible misfortune a lazy wife is to a man, in our own family. Jack's wife has pretty near ruined him. Well, I'm glad to those of the present time? I truly be-I can get over this; but it will come kind lieve Louise Hobart does. If a man of hard; I've spent the evenings so pleasantly with Louise. How well she does pædia, he can buy them-not get a wife talk! Any man might be proud of her. But talking won't make the pot boil. And a poor Government clerk might need a wife wno could help not only to make his pot boil, but to put something in it ture.

Just here Charley Fulton's thoughts and steps were arrested by some one catching hold of him, and exclaiming :

'Stop! Hold on, Fulton! What's up? You are going ahead at such a mad rate, I could hardly catch up to you. Are you trying to escape the Evil One?"

"May be I am," returned Charley, with more meaning in his words than his friend Ned Wilmer knew. "I did not know I was travelling so fast, however." "Yes, I saw you when you came out of Mr. Hobart's. Rather an early call.

Charley?" his friend said, inquiringly. "Yes; I only called to invite Louise to the concert to-night, but she is engaged

"Yes, old fellow, I was before you this time," Ned said, smiling pleasantly; then putting his arm through Charley's, he added: "I have wanted an opportunity to talk to you, Fulton. We have so long of her proving other than a helpmate," been friends, I should regret very much | Charley said, gazing with admiration on that anything should interrupt our kindly intercourse."

"Why, what do you mean? I can imagine no cause-"

"Charley, yes. You like Louise Hobart, I believe?"

"Yes, very much."

"And so do I. More than this, I shall win her, if possible," Ned Wilmer said looking at his friend as though he expectdemonstration.

I shall not feel any the less kindly if you succeed. Indeed you have my best wishes for your success," Charley answered, ex tience to untangle the threads. tending his hand.

Surely, you must have felt differently, or snarled bunches into the fire, saying: why have you been such a constant visitor there?" Ned Wilmer asked.

"I'll tell you just what I was telling myself when you came up 1 do like Louise very much. She is really charm. ing. But, Ned, she is not the girl for either you or me. You know how very idle, yes, and wasteful she is. Think how much time, yes, and money too, is lost so. Poor clerks should choose girls who will help them, not be a burden such as I fear Louise will prove. Now you know just what it is that makes me so calm at the prospect of another winning her." "You are wise, perhaps. I know Louise's failing-I suppose we must call it-but I can't resist the love which increases every hour I am with her. If I can win her I shall. So let me have the | could be no intimacy. coast clear and I will thank you."

"Oh, come, don't banish me se suddenly. Let me drop in occasionally. I cannot resign the pleasure of her society entirely just yet. I must come to it grad-Louise's talk than go to any opera, theatre absorbed in a book, said: or lecture; yes, or eat the best dinner that | ever was cooked. But you know, Ned, that gift is not going to make a home comfortable or happy."

"I only know that I love her," answer-

Just at that moment Charley raised his | news." hat to a lady passing, remarking, when she was out of hearing:

"That girl, I am sure, will make the man happy who may be so fortunate as to win her. At school she was the most industrious little body I ever saw. Even during the recreation hours she was always working at something. She is just my idea of what a woman should be."

"Well, I wonder you have not tried to win the prize," Ned Wilmer said.

"I believe I should, but for- What shall I say? Not the superior attractions of another-nor the brilliancy. But all is not gold that glitters, you know. Well, we part here. Good-morning."

Ned Wilmer's heart was lighter than for many months. He had greatly feared Charley Fulton would win the girl he loved. And now that he had good hope of securing the one, and retaining the friendship of the other, he was in a very happy state of mind.

That night Charley called on Annie Warner, the young girl of whom he had spoken so highly that morning.

Although he found other company. Annie s fingers were as busy as her tongue; indeed, more so; the latter often rested, one brilliant, sparkling, and really gifted; but-well, of her failings, as the young men agreed to term them, enough has danger. Oh, I must get over this indeed! housekeeper; could make the best bread. Such a wife would ruin any man less than nicest and lightest pies, puddings and a millionaire. Thank Heaven, I have not cakes; was the most skilful seamstresscommitted myself; but there is no deny- fact, knew everything except what Charing I do like Louise Hobart better than ley thought was perfectly useless, and he thing."

> "What is the good of a woman knowing all about every book and its author. from the very first that was ever written wants a history, biography, or encyclothat is a combination of all. I pity poor

> During the evening a circumstance occurred which really decided Charley's fuwrapped and securely tied. Handing it Louise answered, with sparkling eyes. to Annie, he said:

"A present for you, daughter."

Her eyes sparkled with pleasure as she thanked him and began to untie the cord. The knots were stubborn, resisting her brother said:

for a look."

be too bad to waste such a nice string; it will do to use again."

picking and pulling, the knots loosened. Annie wound up the cord, secured the use, too, before Annie opened the box.

"That girl is the one for me. No fear Annie, who drew from the box a beautiful sealskin muff and tippet.

this incident, another was remembered sisted he should go to Florida. which proved conclusively to his mind the wasteful disposition of Louise.

One evening, a few weeks previous, could do. while Charley and Ned Wilmer sat listening to a poem Louise was reading, a playful kitten found its way into her worked and was prepared for some ferce basket, and was not discovered until half a dozen skeins of silk and as many spools "All right! Go ahead. My dear boy, of cotton were dragged about the floor, and in such a condition that it would have health. taken some skill and a great deal of pa-

Louise looked at the mass a moment, "What! you are not really in earnest? | then, clipping away the spools, threw the

> "Pshaw! I could read balf a dozen chapters, or spend the time in thinking, which is next best to reading, that it would take to untangle that. I won't waste so many precious moments."

Inwardly Charley congratulated himself on his escape. After one or two more visits to Louise, which strengthened his belief that she would make poor Ned rue the day he married her, if he should do so, Charley devoted himself earnestly to his wooing; Ned Wilmer doing likewise.

At the end of six months both were married to the girls of their choice. Calls were exchanged between the brides, and occasionally, at long intervals, after. But as there was but little congeniality, there to his friend, and would drop in for an hour in the evening, two or three times a year. Thus four years were passed.

Ned Wilmer was very warmly attached

Ned Wilmer came in one evening, and ually. I declare I would sooner listen to after watching Louise, who as usual was

> "I'm just from Fulton's." "Indeed!" Louise said, closing her book and asking, "How are they? Is Mrs. Fulton just such an industrious little body as ever? Come, tell me all about them. I see from your eyes you have lots of

"No, not much news. I found them well, and Mrs. Fulton busily engaged with a new sewing machine. I wonder you have not wanted one, Louise. Charley is very anxious I should purchase one for you."

"I don't want it. I detest them. I don't care a snap for ruffles, tucks, puffs, and such fixings, for myself; and I'm not going to get the children up in that style. I want to cultivate their taste for something higher than the latest fashions-"

"But I should think it would be a source of amusement," interrupted Ned "No, indeed, I'm not going to spend my leisure hours over a sewing machine. After the necessary work is done, your wants and the children's attended to, you know-I always have near me the best amusement in the world, I think," Louise answered, holding up her book.

"Yes, dear, I know. But what does your reading profit your family?" Louise's face flushed quickly, and her husband hastened to add: "I am perfectly satisfied, dear. You do all I care to have you, as long as I keep my office and good health. But both are uncertain. Now Charley tells me his the former never, even when entertaining | wife makes sufficient to dress herself and the children by her machine-stitching are indisputable. Never were girls more dissimilar than for a few friends. She can easily make Louise Hobart and Annie Warner; the twenty dollars a month just by working a few hours in the evening."

Louise's lip curled as she repeated:

"Twenty dollars! Working away health and strength that should be saved Well assured was Charley Fulton that for her children's sake, for twenty dollars

"Louise, I would not consent to have every one, of my industrious, hard-work- found her idling her time over old books, you do so. But, dear, suppose Charley ing ancestors come to warn me of my or new ones. She was the tidiest little and I both should lose our offices, which family would likely suffer the least?"

"I don't know anything about what Charley Fulton's family would do; but 1 do know yours would not suffer for any-

"How could it be otherwise?" Ned

"I would not let either you or yours," Louise answered, her face glowing bright-

"You, child! What could you do, except to love us with your whole heart, and read and talk? Or, if either of those would pay, would we be rich, love?" Ned

"Yes, good reading does pay, just as well as good feeding. It has improved Annie's father came in, bringing a box | my mind, and I can write books myself,"

"You write, Louise! Well, perhaps you might, if you would try-" "Might!" she said, interrupting him. "I have written stories, and they have been published, and paid for, too. I have never told you this, because I know many Charley pulled out his knife, and her gentlemen have a horror of literary women. Since my marriage my time has "Oh, cut it, Annie. We are all eager been devoted to you and our little ones. I have seen no necessity for my using this "So am I," she answered. "But it will gift or talent, therefore have husbanded my strength for use when the time comes. Now, sir, if the test comes, you shall see After at least five minutes spent in if you have such a good-for-nothing

Ned was too surprised to say anything end, and laid it aside. Then the paper for a few moments; but he did look at his was taken off and nicely folded, for future | wife, and with admiration quite sufficient to satisfy her.

It was not long before the test came. Charley lost his position by a change in the administration; and Ned Wilmer, after an attack of pneumonia, was left with a bronchial affection, which was con-As Charley's mind reverted again to sidered so serious that his physician in-

> Then Louise went to work-then her husband and the world knew what she

> After the leave granted him by the department expired, Louise insisted upon his resigning and remaining South. In a few months she went with the children to join him, and stayed for two years, until Ned was fully restored to his usual good

> Bravely Charley Fulton's wife worked, too doing no less than her husband had believed she could and would. But Louise! Charley Fulton could scarcely credit his eyes and ears. To do him justice, he would not have exchanged his own devoted and loving little wife for any other woman; yet he could not help the thought frequently entering his mind, when he so often heard Louise's praises, "Was he wise?"

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

L .- Did the old gentleman leave much when he died? B .- He left everything.

NEVET DISAPPOINTS

cured." M. L. Petit, Lyons, Ont. great that I took a second bottle and was advice and the benefit I received was so try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I followed this of besirbs saw bas boold bad bas sliod Boils-" I was greatly troubled with invigorates the whole system. which purifies the blood, cures disease, and and keep it by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a priceless possession. You can secure it der what you already possess. Health is you need and might have as it is to squan-It is as quasicful not to secure what

Makes Woeful Want. " Wilful Waste

ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

London, March 21.-In the commons to-day the foreign secretary, Lord Landsdown, announced that Russia and Great Britain had agreed to withdraw their troops from the disputed territory at Tien Tsin and reserve the question of title and proprietary rights for subsequent exam-

BERLIN, March 31 .- - The correspondent of the Associated Press has learned from good authority that Count Von Waldersee during his brief stay in Tien Tsin yesterday succeeded in his mission, which consisted merely in preventing bloodshed among the Russian and British troops. According to Russian accounts, which have reached Berlin, the question is not controversal, and the Russian claims to the territory where the trouble occurred

Besides the Russian flag, it is said, Russian boundary marks were exhibited which the British soldiers did not respect

Old and Faded Garments

Made to Look as Good as New By Use of DYES.

Mrs. William Surgent, Petrolia, Ont .. says: "Your Diamond Dyes are the best I have ever used, and they have done splendid work for me. In a short time Diamond Dyes saved me ten dollars, so that think they deserve a good word. My friends, to whom I have shown my dyed goods, say that Diamond Dyes make old things look like new. The richest woman said, raising her face and kissing the pout- in our town, after seeing my work, has become a user of your Dyer. I thank you for such valuable money-savers as Diamond Dves."

> Mrs. Thos. Ayndman, Masham, Que., says: "I have been using Diamond Dyes for many years and find them most satisfactory in renewing the colors of my children's clothes. For brilliancy and fastness, Diamond Dyes cannot be excelled."

> This dollar that I hold in my hand he said, reminds me of a deep, dark, scandalous secret. Oh, George, his wife exclaim ed, dropping her hands in her lap and bending forward eagerly, tell me about it. Yes, he went on, it reminds me of a secret of that kind because it's so hard to keep. Then she refused to speak to him for three hours, and began to suspect that he was concealing something from her.

Nerviline Cures

Rheumatism. The remarkable strength and marvellous soothing property of Nerviline-nerve pain cure-renders it almost infallible in Rheumatism. Five times stronger than any other its penetrating power enables it to reach the source of pain and drive out the disease. Nerviline is more penetrating, stronger, and more highly pain-subduing in its action than any medicine heretofore devised for the relief of man's infirmities. Druggists sell it everywhere.

Teacher-And why should we endeavor to rise by our own efforts?

Johnnie Wise-Cause there's no telling when the alarm clock will go wrong. 'I couldn't withstand his final argu-

'What was it?' 'A big diamond ring.'

As every man who has purchased Page Fencing nows he has the best Fence on the market.

and if you are in the market for fencing like to have you consider the merits of the "Page' Fence. Coiled Wire, made in our own Wire Mill woven by ourselves. Shipped already to put up. The PAGE WARE FENCE CO. (Ltd.).

WALKERVILLE, OUT.

J. & T. Jardine.

DIRECT SIMPORTERS OF BRITISH AND FOREIGN GOODS.

-AND-

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS

-IN-

FLOUR, CORNMEAL, OATMEAL, COFFEE.

TEA, SUGAR, TOBACCO. COARSE SALT, in bulk and bags, DAIRY SALT, Molasses, Biscuits, Cheese.

PORK AND BEEF. HAMS, OATS, BRAN AND SHORTS.

HARDWARE, CROCKERYWARE, GLASSWARE BOOTS AND SHOES

DRYGOODS.

Ready-Made Clothing.

Scotch Horse Collars.

IRON, CHAIN, ANCHORS, ROPE,

NAILS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION LINE.

Engish House Coal.

Blacksmith's Coal

SHINGLES, DEALS, BOARDS AND SCANTLING,

PITCH-PINE, HARDWOOD, LATHS, etc.

Kingston, Kent County, N. B.

Cut this out and return it to us with a year's subscription to THE REVIEW.

The Review, RICHIBUCTO, N. B.

Enclosed find $1.00 for which send me for one year THE REVIEW.

POST OFFICE ADDRESS.....

ADDRESS:

THE REVIEW Richibucto, N. B.

RICHARD SULLIVAN & CO.

Wine and Spirit Merchants.

-WHOLESALE-

-IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN -TEAS, TOBACCOS and CIGARS. 44 & 46 DOCK STREET ST. JOHN N. B.

Bonded Warehouse No. &