EASING THE CHEST.

It is the cold on the chest that scares people and makes them sick and sore The cough that accompanies the chest cold is racking. When the cold is a hard one and the cough correspondingly severe, every coughing spell strains the whole We feel sure that if we could only stop coughing for a day or so we could get over the cold, but we try everything we know of or can hear of in the shape of medicine. We take big doses of quinine until the head buzzes and roars; we try to sweat it out; we take big draughts of whiskey, but the thing that has its grip on the chest hangs on, and won't be shaken loose.

If the irritation that makes us cough de id be stopped, we would get better promptly, and it is because Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is so soothing and healing to the inflamed throat that it is so | fully. efficient a remedy for coughs and colds. This really great medicine is a very simple preparation, made of extracts of barks, and gums of trees, and it never deceives. sell Adamson's Balsam, 25 cents. CHICAGO, March 21 .- Jack "Bull" Fla. herty, a local saloon keeper, who is well known in pugilistic circles, last night Patents recently procured through the made an attack on champion fighter, Jim agency of Messrs. Marion & Marion, Jeffries. The encounter took place in front of the Academy of Music. It seems that Flaherty had been brooding over the 70,505-Sidney G. Brown, London, fact that he had lost five hundred dollars on Tom Sharkey in the latter's fight with Jeffries. He had become pretty well re-70,514-William Jennings, Montreal, conciled, however, to the loss of the money up to the time the bill boards an nounced the appearance of the champion at a west side play house. Then it was that Flaherty decided upon what he thought the best way to square things with the man who had humiliated him and incidently whipped Sharkey.

"Just as Jeffries stepped out of the main entrance of the academy, Flaherty stepped in front of him and swung his ponderous right at the jaw of the champion. Surprised into leaving a good opening, Jeffries caught the blow just back of the ear, and it staggered him a bit. Flaherty came back with a hot left, aimed at the same point. Then there was trouble for Flaherty. The champion blocked the second punch and gathered the saloon keeper in his bear-like embrace. When Jeffries arms closed round Flaherty the saloon keeper yelled for help. It came in the form of a policeman, who pried the men apart, but not before Jeffries had punished Flaherty severely.

NEW YORK, March 20 -Adelbert S Hay, United States consul at Pretoria who is on his way to Washington on leave of absence, says thet the termination of hostilities in South Africa, which he believes is close at hand, will be followed by a rush of capitalists and prospectors.

"The war has opened the eyes of the world to the richness of South Africa.' said Mr. Hay. "Among the first things that will be needed are American machinery and agricultural implements. With these introduced and used with American ingenuity, I see no reason why the country should not in a short time take its place among the most prosperous in the

THE DRUNKARD'S LAMENT.

The following poem was written by the late Richard Lyle, one of the brightest members of the New Orleans bar, and is the pathetic story of his own ruined life: I have been to the funeral of all my hopes they were fully conscious of what was said and entombed them one by one. Not a word was said.

Not a tear was shed, When the mournful task was done.

Slowly and sadly I turned me round, And sought my silent room. And there alone By the cold hearthstone I wooed the midnight gloom.

And as the night wind's deepening shade Lowered above my brow, I wept o'er days When manhood's rays Were brighter far than now.

The dying members on the hearth Gave out their flickering light. As if to say This is the way Thy life shall close in night.

wept aloud in anguish sore O'er the blight of prospects fair, While demons laughed And eagerly quaffed My tears like nectar rare.

Through hell's red hall an echo rang, An echo loud and long, As in the bowl I plunged my soul In the might of madness strong.

And there within that sparkling glass I knew the cause to lie, This all men own From zone to zone,

Yet millions drink and die. -New Orleans Times-Democrat.

WHAT'S YOUR BOY WORTH?

I came across a mother in Ohio who loved her boy so that she would not give her husband any rest till he promised to vote for the second amendment. Some people thought she was only a humble, ignorant woman, but she was smart enough to know the value of her boy! swer me this question: What is your boy worth? Make the price high, for he is "bone of your bone, and flesh of your flesh." Ask father if he is worth a ballot next election. Put the question to him with tear-drops trickling down your cheeks, backed up with a prayer of faith. If you can do it with all sincerity, the true value of kis boy will appear, and all other questions sink into insignificance.

What is your boy worth. 1st. He is worth asking to sign the total abstinence pleage.

2nd. He is of sufficient value to be sent to a Band of Hope meeting to be instructed as to the effects of alcohol upon the human system.

3rd. He is of sufficient importance for you to know where he spends his evenings and who his associates are.

4th. He is of more value than any household pets, and is entitled to more of your time and attention.

5th. To say nothing of the value of your boy's good character, he has cost you for food, raiment and education more than the average saloon-keeper's pay for his license.

6th. "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined." It will be of great importance to you whether your boy is a valuable citizen or a curse to you and the neighborhood in which you reside. If he turns out good, he will be worth his weight in gold; if otherwise, better he had never been born.

7th. Being immortal he is worth a life's work to prepare him for a happy

America to at least set enough value on their boys to yearly drop into the ballotbox a piece of paper that voice the sentiment of this journal. - "We demand the prohibition of the liquor traffic?" What's vour answer?-New York Witness.

THE BREWER'S DOG.

While walking one evening along one of the streets of the North End, Boston, we saw two men supporting a third, who appeared unable to walk. "What is the matter?" we inquired. "Why," was the reply, "this poor man has been badly bitten by the brewer's dog." "Indeed," we said, feeling somewhat concerned at the disaster. "Yes, sir, and he is not the first by a good many that has been thus. bitten." "Why do they not kill the dog?" "An, sir, he ought to have been made all Headaches, Dizziness, Boils, Pimples, away with long ago, but the law won't allow it. It is the strong drink, sirthat is the brewer's dog."- National Temperance Advocate.

PREMATURE BURIALS.

AN IMPORTANT LAW FOR MASSACHUSETTS. On the testimony of eminent physicians and many others both in Europe and this country, nothing can be more certain than that large numbers [and perhaps multitudes] of persons have been buried alive -and that many, after having been pronounced dead, have shown signs of life in time to save themselves from such burial, and have declared that while unable to move and done about them. My own father barely escaped such burial, being declared by his physician dead. I have many times called attention to this subject in Our Dumb Animals and elsewhere-and have, in behalf of our American Humane Education Society, petitioned the Legislatures of each of our United States, and written the President of every Senate and Speaker of every House of Representatives, urging more stringent laws on the subject.

I am now glad to see that a bill is before our Massachusetts Legislature which, describing various tests of death, declares that in cases of supposed death these tests shall be made by two competent physicians at the expense of the cities or towns, and that in every city and town shall be provided rooms and suitable apparatus for carrying out these tests.

This is all good so far as it goes. But it is vouched for by many eminent physicians in Europe and this country [including our own] that in ordinary cases there is no absolute certainty of death until the beginning of decay.

Now there are in Boston alone many thousands of persons living in hotels and boarding houses where, whenever death is declared, every effort will be made to send the body of the supposed deceased, at the earliest possible moment, to the undertaker, the crematory or the grave. In not one case in a hundred will the body be permitted to remain in the hotel or boarding-house until the beginning of de-

Now what is the remedy? I answer-I have seen in Europe "mortuary" buildings to which the bodies of the supposed dead are taken and carefully cared for under the best medical inspection until death is absolutely certain.

Now [in my own case], if such a building could be established in Boston, should be glad to pay a hundred dollars for myself and each of my near friends to be insured that my own body and theirs shall be thus carefully cared for after supposed death, and also agree to pay another hundred dollars or more in case that after being carried to the mortuary consciousness shall return, and I think there are thousands of people in Boston alone who would be glad to do the same. I am quite sure that if any responsible Life Insurance Company or Crematory Company or corporation organized for the purpose will undertake to thus insure against premature burial or cremation, it will not only do a great work for humanity, but be largely rewarded by a great financial success.

PAYNE, Ohio, March 23. - Samuel Hogerty, a prosperous and wealthy farmer living in south of town, committed suicide yesterday in a most shocking menner. He took a quantity of dynamite and went to the field announcing his intention to blast stumps. Later a violent explosion Is it too much to ask the fathers of alarmed the neighbors and on investigation they found a few scattered remnants of the despondent man. An inquest developed the fact that the deceased had placed the explosive in a large stump, sat thereon and deliberately lighted the fuse. Despondency over the loss of his wife i thought to be the cause.
