

Mother and Doctor Too

Until the doctor comes, and for minor ills and accidents, the mother must doctor her family. Tens of thousands of mothers have relied upon JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT, and have found it always reliable. It is used both externally and internally and it is the remedy for inflammation from any cause. Used continually for 90 years as a household remedy, its sustained popularity and increasing use every year, are the best possible testimonials to its curative powers.

Johnson's ANODYNE LINIMENT is of greatest value in treating colic, cramps, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, bites, bruises, burns, stings, chafing, colds, coughs, croup, catarrh, bronchitis, la grippe, lameness, muscle soreness and pain and inflammation in any part of the body. Sold in two size bottles, 5c. and 50c. The larger size is more economical. If your dealer hasn't it send us. Ask first.

Mr. Bourassa is writing feverish letters to the press complaining against the criticisms which have been applied to him. This gentleman is the champion of free speech in the House, and it is just like such advocates to see the matter in an entirely different light when personal interests are involved.

ST. NICHOLAS RIVER NOTES.

MAR. 25.—W. C. Robertson has returned from Halifax. He reports the members of the S. A. Constabulary from Richibucto and Kingstons in good health and spirits, also his brother, F. G. Robertson, of this place. The members can visit their homes if not too distant, as the transport does not sail until Saturday, the 30th.

Between Goggles and the Big Cove Reservation, N. P. Nat is apparently quite busy. As you confess you have a limited comprehension of the English vocabulary, Nat, I will be as plain as possible. I think you fairly have misinformed you as to what was said. The member studying zoology is progressing rapidly, as he now says he understands the barking of the dog. You have misplaced the word "cabal." Nat. Ours is not a secret society for plotting, but a "pro patria" society. As "cabal" is in your line of business we will overlook the mistake. Motto, "the marlin spike is not mightier than the pen," but to some it is most appropriate.

Miss E. McDonald, of Mill Creek, is paying a visit to Mrs. J. McNulty.

Miss Maggie Masterton has returned from St. John.

Much sorrow was felt on hearing of the death of Miss Janie Lawson, who was beloved and respected by all who knew her. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the whole community.

THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

The following lines were handed in by our Printers Devil last Wednesday, too late for our last issue. Strange to say the weather turned suddenly mild the next day and a big thaw immediately followed showing that the threat to petition our Council made in the third last line of our P. D.'s production had the desired effect.—Editor.

Richibucto, 20th March, 1901—Snow five feet deep—Railway blocked—Thermometer at zero.

Snow! snow! oh, you beautiful snow! Why don't you liquify, why don't you go? You've exceeded your mission down here below, With hard ice and frost, and glass 'neath zero; Our railway you've blocked with your drifting and blow, And you've blinded our eyes, whirling to and fro. Its unmanly, selfish, your mean and low To bluster, and fluster, and over us crow, In your five congealed feet like a bullying foe; We are short, too, of grub, have a hard row to hoe, And our hopes are near blasted, you melt so slow; Come, depart, so, our streams and brooks can flow, And make room for the flowers and grass to grow, As its shameful so long to annoy us so. Now, if you don't "git," I declare, By Crow, We'll petition our Council and compel you to go; So after this menace of terror and woe, Good-by, old beautiful, till late next No. MAX.

Constipated Bowels.

Constipation, or inactivity of the bowels, is probably the cause of more distress and suffering than any other organic derangement. Once the bowels are constipated, the kidneys become clogged, the liver torpid, and the stomach and whole digestive system completely interfered with.

The head aches, there is dizziness, weakness and dimness of vision, pains in the back, sides and limbs, the accumulation of wind and gas on the stomach, pains and fullness in the region of the stomach and depression and despondency of spirits.

Constipation can never be cured by the use of salts and similar weakening and debilitating purgatives. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills not only cause the natural action of the bowels, but also strengthen and invigorate them as to enable them to regularly perform their functions without the aid of medicines. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

SUFFERING WOMEN.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE TO THE WEAK AND DEPRESSED.

A Grateful Woman Tells of Her Release From the Agonies That Afflict Her Sex After Three Doctors Had Failed to Help Her

The amount of suffering borne by women throughout the country can never be estimated. Silently, almost hopelessly they endure from day to day afflictions that can only fall to the lot of women. The following story of the suffering and release of Mrs. Charles Hoeg, of Southampton, N. S., ought to bring hope and health and happiness to other sufferers. Mrs. Hoeg says:—"For nine out of thirty-two years of my life I have suffered as no woman, unless she has been similarly afflicted, can imagine I could suffer and yet have lived. Three weeks out of four I would be unable to move about, and, indeed, at no time was really fit to attend to my household duties. I consulted physicians—three of the most skillful doctors in the county of Cumberland, at different times had charge of my case. These all agreed in their diagnosis, but the treatment varied; and while at times I would experience some relief, at no time was there any hope given me of a permanent cure. Many a night when I went to bed I would have been glad if death had come before morning. I never had such faith in proprietary medicines, but at one time I took a half dozen bottles of a blood-making compound that was highly recommended. This, like everything else, failed to help me. There seemed to be not a particle of blood in my body. My face was absolutely colorless, and my appetite almost entirely deserted me. I often saw in the newspapers letters testifying to the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but nine years of suffering and discouragement had made me too sceptical to see any hope of relief, when doctors had failed to effect a cure. But at last I came across the story of a cure near home—that of Mr. Moses Boss, of Rodney. I knew that at one time he had been regarded as a hopeless consumptive, and his cure through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, determined me to try them. I had not taken two boxes before I began to feel better, and grew confident of a cure. I kept on taking the pills, all the time feeling new blood in my veins, activity returning to my limbs, and the feeling of depression gradually wearing away. To many women it may seem incredible that the mere making of new blood in my veins could restore to a healthy condition misplaced internal organs, but this has been my happy experience. My pains have all left me, and I am now as healthy a woman as there is in this place. This health I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have rescued me from a life of suffering, if not from the grave."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and eradicate those troubles which make the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Palpitation of the heart, nervous headache and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine. These pills are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An officer from the Inland Revenue Dept. called at Campbellton a few months ago, and while here collected samples of milk from the regular milk dealers. Nothing had been heard of the result till a few days ago one of the dealers was notified by the Dept. that he was fined eight dollars, because his sample of milk was adulterated. Judging from the complaints we hear, more is likely to follow. Some of the dealers perhaps are not aware that skimmed milk is adulterated, under the meaning of the act.—Campbellton Events.

OTTAWA LETTER.

OTTAWA, 22nd March.—The debate on the Budget has continued throughout the week, and what would otherwise have been intolerably monotonous has been relieved by an amendment brought forward by the leader of the Opposition. This amendment is ostensibly a declaration of policy by the Conservative party; but apart from an implied adhesion to protection there is nothing in it but a condemnation of the present preferential tariff towards Great Britain. The resolution declares that the policy of the Government in this regard is one-sided and ineffective.

This amendment is utterly barren of novelty. It is along precisely the same lines that Mr. Foster moved last year, and is practically identical with Sir Charles Tupper's speeches during the campaign. To that extent it has the merit of consistency. But these ideas did not cut any ice during the election. The Tories have persistently clung to the view that England should get nothing from us unless she was willing to give far more than she got, and in season and out they have hammered away along these lines. The one feature which attracted public notice was the fact that while railing against the preference to Great Britain they were claiming an absolute monopoly of all the loyalty and pro-British sentiment in the country.

The fallacy which underlies the Tory view on this subject of the British preference grows out of the fact that our imports from the United States have increased more rapidly than our imports from Great Britain, and the man who does not stop to think and analyse is apt to be misled by this comparison. It is true that our purchases from the Americans have been larger since the preference than before; but they have been almost wholly of articles not affected by the tariff. The increase is more than represented by articles on the free list, which Great Britain does not supply—such as coal, cotton in the raw state, tobacco, corn and exotic fruits. On the other hand, our imports from Great Britain have increased by 50 per cent since the preference was given, and this increase has applied to articles which could be brought from the United States. It is, therefore, a useless thing to argue as the Conservatives have been doing.

The debate has lacked snap and vigor. There are men on the Opposition side who can talk; but there isn't a man among them who can hold the attention of the House as did Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster. These men had their faults; but they could talk so as to make the other side jump and wince and hit back, and that is what gives life to a debate. No one seems to care particularly what is now said by any of the men on the front benches of the Opposition side, and a distinct loss has been sustained by Parliament through the removal of the two debaters to whom allusion has just been made.

It is not surprising that the Conservatives should harp back upon their old policy of protection. It is about all they have to go upon. The people, however, have carefully measured the situation and have rendered a deliberate judgment in favour of the present condition of things. That is to say, they prefer the present tariff, based upon the revenue needs of the country and stable in its character, to the high scale of duties which prevailed under the Tory regime, subject as they were to constant alterations either up or down. The country has made marvellous progress under the policy of the Liberal party, and nothing that can be said by the Opposition in the way of criticism can possibly alter this fact. That is what counts in public judgment.

In his budget speech the other day, Mr. Fielding announced that within a year or two he expected the iron bounties payable by Government would exceed $1,000,000 annually. If this view should be sustained it will mean much for Canada. It will mean that the bright anticipations attaching to the development of our iron resources at Sydney and Sault Ste Marie have been realized. At both these centres marvellous activity is just now being manifested. Immense furnaces are in full blast and iron is being turned out in large quantities. In the course of another year, or even less time, both industries expect to be producing steel in various forms. At Sydney they hope to turn out steel plates and bars, while at Sault Ste Marie steel rails are to be made a feature.

During the past week an incident occurred which strongly supports the hopeful view above alluded to. The Dominion Iron & Steel Company placed upon the market preferred stock to the value of $3,000,000. The price asked was 85 cents on the dollar, and the offers for the stock exceeded $9,000,000. Much the larger proportion of these offers came from American capitalists, and one of the immediate results was a rapid advance in the stock market. Some investors held back on the assumption that the throwing upon the market of such a large amount of additional stock would depress the price; but the day following the closing of the subscriptions the price went up ten points.

Speaking of iron, Mr. Andrew Carnegie the great millionaire founder of Pittsburgh, has recently donated $100,000 to Ottawa and $25,000 to Vancouver for the purposes of establishing public libraries at these points. In the same week he gave away more than $9,000,000 for similar purposes in the United States, and just before sailing for Scotland he announced that he had only begun to make gifts. He is still a very wealthy man with an income of something like $10,000,000 a year, but declares that it is a disgrace to die rich. He has created an immense endowment fund for his old employees, and has been doing a lot of good in many directions.

Mr. Mulock, the Post Master General, who is to be Canada's delegate to Australia, seems to have had quite an exciting time on his way to England. A lot of actors and sporting people organized themselves into what they called the Sponge Club, which virtually took charge of the ship during the voyage. One of the chief features of their ceremonies was to fill a large bowl with champagne, saturate a sponge with the effervescent beverage, and pass it around for absorption. Mr. Mulock and another passenger protested against these disgusting proceedings and were assaulted. It is not likely he was injured in any way.

The Duke of York and Cornwall will visit Canada in September next. He will be here for a period of about six weeks and a large appropriation is being made by Parliament for the purpose of defraying the cost of his entertainment. The plan of his movements has not yet been made out; but it is understood that he will visit at least one centre in each Province, and as far as possible within the time at his disposal will be afforded an idea of the resources and general characteristics of the Dominion. It will be at a time of the year when all classes will be at leisure. Nothing of this character has occurred since the visit to Canada of the Prince of Wales in 1860.
