ALMOST MIRACULOUS CURE OF MR. THOS. WARREN, BY

Paine's Celery Compound

A POPULAR DRUGGIST INDORSES THE LETTER.

The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited. Dear Sirs,—Ten years ago I was laid up with a bad cold contracted at the time of the big flood here. The cold developed into inflammatory rheumatism, and I was laid aside for nearly six months. I recovered, and was able to work for a time, when I was again seized with the terrible disease. I kept getting worse, and suffered the most intense agony. My elbows were partially drawn out of place, and my knees were swollen to nearly double their natural size.

INCIDENT OF REAL LIFE.

The man was indignant. "Why," he asked the leader of the street band, "do you always stop in front of my house? Have I ever encouraged you?" The leader shook his head. "I've never given you any money, have I?" persisted the man. "Never," replied the leader. "That's why we always stop here."—Chicago Post.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that will cure Diabetes. Like Bright's Disease this disease is incurable until Dodd's Kidney Pills cured it. Doctors themselves confess that without Dodd's Kidney Pills they are powerless against Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the first medicine that ever cured Diabetes. Imitations—box, name and pill, are advertised to do so, but the medicine that does cure

Diabetes is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are fifty cents a box at all druggists.

STRUGGLING AGAINST APPETITE.

BY GRACE P. TRALL.

"My darling, oh, my darling, say that it is not your husband's cruelty and brutality that is killing you! Speak, Marie, darling, if it is but to condemn me." In a neat little room, of a neat little cottage, in the suburbs of the city of Y—, was a grief-stricken group gathered around the couch of a dying woman, who lay back pale and exhausted among the pillows. Her brown hair, threaded with gray, fell in rich waves over her shoulders, and her white lids, fringed with brown, covered the most beautiful of brown eyes. At her side sat the speaker, her husband, with his head bowed upon one of her white hands, which he clasped in his own. By the opposite side knelt their son, a youth of some fifteen summers, his face buried in the covers, and at the head of the couch, with her head near her mother's on the pillow, leaned a little girl of twelve. The last rays of the setting sun, lingering on the cottage, came in through the window and shed a quiet radiance on the little group. Now the dark lashes are raised, and the brown eyes, resting for an instant with a look of peace upon the golden sunlight, turn to her husband, and assume a wearied, troubled look.

His Spelling System.

Dobbs met his friend Turner in the tram. They were both going to Birmingham and stopped at the same hotel. Turner registered his name "E. K. Phthologyrrh." Dobbs, noticing it, exclaimed, "Here, what are you using such a foreign, outlandish name for?" "I am not assuming any foreign name," replied Turner. "What kind of a name is it, then?" "That is my identical old name, and it is English too—pronounced 'Turner'." "I can't see how you make 'Turner' out of those 13 letters; besides, what is your object in spelling that way?" asked Dobbs. "Well, you see, nobody ever noticed my name on the register when I wrote it 'Turner,'" the latter explained, "but since I commenced writing it 'Phthologyrrh' I set them all guessing. It is, as I said before, English spelling. 'Phth' is the sound of 't' in 'ptithis,' 'olo' is the sound of 'r' in 'colonel,' 'gn' there is the 'n' in 'gnat,' 'yrrh' is the sound of 'er' in 'myrrh.' Now, if that doesn't spell 'Turner' what does it spell?"—London Standard.

Optimism.

When the optimist was dispossessed and thrown, along with his household impediments, into the cold street, he chuckled furiously. "Why do you laugh, my friend?" inquired a passerby. "Because I have just now been emancipated from toil," replied the optimist. "For years my life has been one long struggle to keep the wolf from the door. But now that I have been deprived of the door I no longer am compelled to toil. Sweet, indeed, are the uses of adversity!" Then the optimist walked off, whistling gayly, into the sunshine.

A Task.

To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend less, to make, upon the whole, a family happier by his presence, to renounce where that shall be necessary and not to be embittered, to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same grim conditions to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.

An Ounce of Prevention.

"As you went out," whispered the observing boarder, "I saw you pick up something from the floor, tear it in a dozen pieces and throw it in the range. Was it a love letter?" "No," responded the practical boarder. "It was a little booklet telling how to prepare prunes in 99 different ways. I was afraid it might fall into the hands of the landlady."

Most Curious Thing.

Mrs. Quizzer (who wants to know everything)—Now, what do you consider to be the most curious thing you ever saw, professor? Professor Trotter—A woman, madam.—Harlem Life.

Mr. Hare's Fountain of Youth.

Mr. John Hare, the eminent English actor-manager, said that the most delightful compliment he ever received was from Mr. Gladstone. It was a double ended compliment. Whichever way you took it it was satisfactory.

Mr. Hare earned fame playing old men's parts, his character as Mr. Goldby in "A Pair of Spectacles" being a good example. Added to this was a horror of having his picture taken.

Mr. Gladstone had never seen a picture of the actor, but he knew him well behind the scenes as well as before the footlights. The premier's favorite play was "A Pair of Spectacles," and he always went behind the scenes to chat awhile with the actor. The really old man and the made up old man would sit there and talk in the most delightful way for an hour after the show.

One day the Earl of Rosebery had Mr. Gladstone to dinner, and he also invited his friend, John Hare. The actor came in smooth shaven, looking about 35. He was presented to Mr. Gladstone, and the prime minister shook his hand most cordially and said: "My dear sir, I am very, very glad to meet you. I know your father very, very well. Splendid actor! Fine old man!" It took the whole evening for the earl and Mr. Hare to convince him that this son was really the father.

A Pigeon as Valet to a Crow.

"Tom was the name given to a lordly young crow," says Florence M. Kingsley in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Beauty was a snow white pigeon of about the crow's age, with whom he was reared. Just how it came about we never knew, but we soon discovered that Beauty regularly acted as maid of all work to Tom: She fetched and carried morsels of food at his imperious command, and one of her unvarying duties was the preening of her master's feathers. Tom was very much of a dandy. His coal black plumage always appeared perfectly dressed and shining, but the arduous labor of his toilet was performed for him twice every day by the humble and affectionate pigeon.

"Our fine gentleman would come in from a roll in the dust or a dip in the fountain and, seating himself upon a certain railing, utter a short, sharp call. Instantly Beauty would descend to his side and begin her task, fluttering anxiously from side to side as she worked, drawing each shining black feather carefully out to its full length in her pink bill, Tom meanwhile dozing luxuriously, with closed eyes, after the manner of the complacent patron of a skillful barber. If Beauty unfortunately pulled a feather too hard, a squawk and a sudden peck informed her of her mistake."

Statistics of vessels lost, condemned etc., in 1900 have been published by Lloyds Register.

According to these figures, the gross reduction in the effective mercantile marine of the world during the year amounted to 848 vessels of 677,182 tons, excluding all vessels of less than 100 tons. Of this total 296 vessels of 386,304 tons were steamers and 552 of 290,878 tons were sailing vessels. Stranding and kindred casualties which are comprised under the term "wrecked" are much the most prolific cause of disaster. To such casualties are attributable 47 per cent. of the losses of steamers and 45 per cent. of the losses of sailing vessels. The next most common termination of a vessel's career is by condemnation, breaking up, etc.; about 17 per cent of the vessels removed from the merchant fleets of the world are accounted for in this manner. Of the remaining causes of loss collision is the most general for steamers, about 12 per cent., while for sailing vessels cases of abandonment at sea come next in order of frequency, also about 12 per cent. Cases of abandonment, foundered and missing vessels taken collectively, comprehend 19 per cent. of the losses of steamers and 28 per cent. of the losses of sailing vessels.

Cure Constipation, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Dizziness, Lassitude, Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite and all troubles arising from liver disorder. 40 pills 10 cts.; 100 pills 25 cts.

SMITH FALLS, Ont., Sept. 20.—The committee of trial in the case of Rev. D. C. Sanderson and Rev. Foster McAmmond, Methodist ministers, whose unhappy experience in Syracuse recently brought them much notoriety, finished its labors and made a report last night. The report recommended Rev. Mr. Sanderson be suspended until conference and Rev. Mr. McAmmond be reproved by the chairman. The suspension of Mr. Sanderson is the limit of the committee's powers, and it now remains for the conference to deal with him. The whole evidence in his case will be submitted to the Montreal conference of the Methodist church next June, to be finally dealt with. In the meantime Mr. Sanderson is relieved of all ministerial work.

CARE-LINED FACES

Are not always the sign of mental worry, for many a person goes silently along day in and day out, suffering almost beyond telling from bodily pain, and the only sign that betrays it is the care-lined face. Stomach out of order? Indigestion with its cutting acids making every breath you draw a dagger pain? Dyspepsia gnawing at almost the point of distraction? Can't sleep? Nervous? You needn't suffer—South American Nervine puts "all things to rights," chases the scums from the brow, and instead of the care lines there'll be the glow of health. First bottle helps; a few bottles cure.

BRITISH TROOP OIL LINIMENT FOR Sprains, Strains, Cuts, Wounds, Ulcers, Open Sores, Bruises, Stiff Joints, Itches and Stings of Insects, Coughs, Colds, Contracted Cords, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Bronchitis, Croup, Sore Throat, Quinsy, Whooping Cough and all Painful Swellings. A LARGE BOTTLE, 25c.

MARITIME PROVINCE NOTES.

Mr. Hugh Spence, sr., a native of Grand Lake, Queens County, died on the 5th inst., at Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Spence was well and favorably known in St. John and Queens county, although he went West at the age of 23 and has lived there over forty years. Threatened with consumption here, the change of climate gave him good health and he lived a long and successful life, respected by all who knew him. He leaves a wife, one son and a daughter, his wife being also a native of this province, Miss Mary Springer, of Jemseg, Queens county. He was ill about a year, and at the time of his death and for some months previous had been at a hospital undergoing treatment for tuberculosis of the spine and other complications, which resulted fatally. The remains were taken to his home in Herman, Grant county, for interment.

The wedding took place on Thursday afternoon at the residence of John Wood, Chandler street, Amherst, his daughter, Margaret being married to William E. Harding. Rev. D. A. Steele, D. D., assisted by Rev. W. E. Bates, performed the ceremony. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Scott, wife of S. D. Scott, of the St. John Sun. The wedding trip will be through Prince Edward Island.

TRURO, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Stephen Hollis, apparently of Swedish nationality, was arrested here last night, charged with stealing $750 from her husband at Sydney and "skipping." The telegraph wires were used immediately after her departure from Sydney was known, but, despite rigid search on the train en route she was not discovered until beyond Truro. Just out of Truro on the way to Halifax, a call for tickets came again. Mrs. Hollis presented a ticket from Sydney to Boston and said she must go into Halifax. Suspicion was aroused and the woman was put off the train at Stewiacke. The authorities were notified and Mrs. Hollis, on return to Truro, was detained. The sum of $425 was found on her person. She had a child with her. She would not talk further than to say her husband was crazy. She was taken back to Sydney today in custody.
