TO THE POINT.

"Mr. Spudlong," began the youth, hanging his hat on the back of the chair. "I will occupy only a few moments of your time. I have come to ask for your daughter. I—"
"Young man," said the elderly banker, "do you—"
"Yes, sir; I realize fully that she has been tenderly nurtured, and that she is very dear to you; also that her home is one in which she has been surrounded by every luxury. But she is willing to leave it."
"Can you—"
"No, sir, I can't quite maintain her in the style in which she has been accustomed, but I have a good salary and I am ready to chance it. So is she."
"Will you—"
"Yes, sir, I will keep my life insured for a sum sufficient to provide for her if I should be taken away."
"Would you—"
"No, sir, I would not expect to live with the family. I am able to buy and furnish a modest home for her."
"Young man," said Mr. Spudlong, looking at his watch, "I rather like your style. You may have her. Good—"
"Morning, sir."

AT THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

This trying period in woman's life usually comes between the ages of forty and fifty years and is marked by irritability, headache, dizziness, irregular monthlies, fitful appetite, forebodings of evil, palpitation of the heart and constipation. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all a woman's medicine because it helps her safely through this trying period. It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the functions of the feminine organs and tones and invigorates the whole body.

MISSING INFORMATION.

"Oh, Harry, here's a charming summer travel article; it is called 'How to Go—When to Go—Where to Go.'"
Harriet—Doesn't it tell who will send the money?—Detroit Free Press.

IN THE JOKE FACTORY.

"Sir," said the expectant writer, "I have here a little joke on a brand new subject which I would like to sell. I know the public tires of the old, stale jokes, and I have made a new one, entirely original, I assure—"
"What's the joke?"
"Why, a man has insomnia, you know, and he goes to church and hears the preacher and sleep comes over—La, ha! isn't that—"
Of course the city usually takes care of such cases, and the authorities made no demur when the editor rang for the ambulance and sent the poor fellow to the hospital at the public expense.—Denver Times.

Fixing a widow.—"I can never be more than a sister to you," said a buxom widow to an old bachelor who had proposed. "Ah, madam, indeed you can," he replied gallantly; "I am not a man to lose hope. 'But I cannot,' she persisted. 'But,' he said, 'you have daughters; you may yet be my mother-in-law.'"

Four Bears at a Shot.
A number of years ago Mr. Withee was presented with two fine hounds, and, wishing to try their training and their grit, he took them out to do a little bear hunting.
The first morning Withee let the dogs out for a run while he was getting the breakfast, expecting them to be back in a short time. When breakfast was over, the dogs had not returned, so, taking his gun, Mr. Withee started out in the direction they had taken. After traveling about a mile the faint barking of dogs could be heard, and it was then plain why the dogs had not returned. They had scented game and were in pursuit. The sound of the barking led him far up the side of a mountain, and soon he came in sight of the dogs standing around the upturned roots of a tree.
Mr. Withee crept up cautiously until within about 15 feet of a cave that was near by, and then a black, shaggy head could be seen just above the roots. Taking good aim, he fired his .44 caliber and awaited results. After several minutes he went up to the cave, and what he saw there gave him a shock from which he has never recovered. Two bears lay dead, and two more were so stunned that a few quick passes with a knife settled them.
For the four bears Mr. Withee received $20 bounty, $27.50 for their hides and $42 for the bear oil, making $89.50 for one day's hunt.

All For Love.

It was a runaway match. The young couple had nothing to live on but love, and they grew thin on it, for the butcher, baker, etc., heartlessly refused to barter any of the necessities of life for a bit of love, and the lady wouldn't accept even a large slice of it for rent.
At last they were reduced to such extremities that starvation stared them in the face. When starvation does this, it, so to say, "puts you out of countenance."
"Oh, George," wailed the young wife, "what shall we do? I am so hungry."
"Alas, I know not, darling," he sighed fondly but sadly, toying with her luxuriant tresses.
"But I know, George!" she suddenly exclaimed after a pause. "Sell my hair!"
"What!" he almost shouted, with a horror-stricken face. "Sacrifice your lovely golden locks! Ruthlessly cut off the greatest ornament a woman can possess? Never! Never! I will starve first!"
"But, George," she assured him, "it does not require cutting off. See!"
And she detached the glistening 3 guinea switch from her head and laid it in his hand.
That night the young couple supped luxuriously, but still he was not happy.

Lighting Up the Coliseum.

The Romans had the hideous habit of periodically lighting the Coliseum during the tourist season with Bengal lights and what is more amazing still, usually succeed in making a financial success of it, although no one was ever known to go twice.
There is the additional abomination in these days of a big brass band and a chorus of 100 voices in an invocation to the Flavian amphitheater. The effect is tremendous, but somewhat stunning to those who are accustomed to their Coliseum empty and flooded with peaceful moonlight, where pictures from the past rise with the clearness of second sight, and no sound is heard but one's own breathing or the song of the nightingale. Contrast with such a scene the red, blue and yellow Bengal lights, the smoke, the confusion, the hundred shrieking throats and the clang of the brazen instruments! Imagination shrinks and curses the Roman of today with whom such a thing is possible. But is it his fault? As I said before, it is a great financial success, and the Italians certainly do not patronize it. Query. Who does?—Rome Letter in Pall Mall Gazette.

How They Broke Up.

An amusing story is related in "Canadian Savage Folk" of the manner in which an adjournment was taken by a mass meeting. A missionary who had started a school among the Indians met with opposition, and the meeting had been called in support of the rival scheme.
There were several speakers who denounced the school in existence. We replied vigorously, showing the efficiency of the school and denouncing in turn the methods adopted by the opposition. An Indian chief produced some specimens of work done at the school, and several speakers supported the work as it was being done. The climax was reached when a gentleman rose and said:
"I move the whole thing bust!"
The chairman put the motion.
"It is moved and seconded that the whole thing bust!"
The audience sprang to their feet and, waving hats, yelled "Busted!" and made for the door. Thus ended the first and last opposition in that matter.

Fide of the Riding Academy.

Rowell—There goes Withers on horseback. He is a living illustration of the saying, "A merciful man is merciful to his beast."
Snaile—In what way?
Rowell—Don't you see? He lets his weight rest on the horse only once in a while. The most of the time he is in the air, going on or coming down.

Some men never amount to much because they get into the habit of frequently beginning life anew.

The world owes every man a living, but doesn't furnish a collector.—Denver Times.

THE WORLD OVER.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 26.—A unique thief whose method of operation is startling original, is Charles Effingham, alias Loring, who is now locked up at Central Station. He is suspected of robberies on the river front. He was released from the pen last March. Early in the nineties Effingham crawled on all fours into a room occupied by four men in two beds. Two of the men were awakened, but in the darkness they faintly saw an object crawling about the floor. The figure crawled under their bed. One man asked the other what the thing was, and received the reply that the figure must be that of his pet dog. He whistled and snapped his fingers to summon the supposed canine. Effingham realized that he had to act promptly, and he licked the hand of the dog's owner as it hung outside of the bed. The man was thus satisfied, and dropped off to sleep.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The Patrie prints a sensational story to the effect that a conflict has broken out between Great Britain and Turkey, saying that three British warships have been ordered to the Persian Gulf to suppress revolts at Toust, in the province of Bagdad, and that the Turkish government has despatched a strong detachment of troops with instructions to oppose the landing of the British force. Russia, Germany and France, the paper says, have agreed to support Turkey.

TANASTOTA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Chief of Police Stimson has arrested James Dunham after receiving information from James E. Kelley, a sailor, that the prisoner is the man wanted in California for the murder of his wife, child, mother-in-law and others. Kelley says he knew the man in California. He met him in Canastota and began to buy drinks until Dunham was drunk. Kelly himself showed the effects of drink, and he was also locked up.

The chief of police wired to San Francisco and received the following telegram: "I want J. C. Dunham for murder. State offers $1,000 reward. Send description by mail."

R. J. LANGFORD, Sheriff."

On the night of May 27, 1896, in San Jose, a James C. Dunham murdered his wife Hattie Dunham; Robert T. McGhinney and Mrs. McGhinney his wife's parents; the servant girl, Minnie Schlessler; Robert Briscoe, an employe, and James Wells, a son of Mrs. McGhinney. The crime was committed on the McGhinney ranch. Dunham took to the hills on a horse and though the police were on his trail within two hours, no trace of him has ever been found unless the man now in custody is found to be he. Two boys walking by the jail in which Kelley and Dunham are confined overheard one of the inmates say to the other in loud tones:
"You squealed on me just to get that $1,000 reward."

PARIS, Sept. 26.—Two babies met horrible deaths under curious circumstances. One, a boy, eight months old, was killed in his cradle by rats in a foundling asylum in Paris. The affair is causing intense public indignation. The director of the asylum says the like never happened before. The child was attacked by big rodents which invaded the asylum from a sewer broken during the night. The other victim was a girl four months old. The mother, a peasant, while busy harvesting grapes, placed the baby on the grass under a tree. Soon the child began to cry but the vineyard workers thought it simply wanted its mother, and let it cry on, saying it would soon tire and be quiet. When picked up two hours later the child was lying from the bites of big ants. The baby died the same evening.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26.—Jessie Morrison, who was sent to prison for killing Mrs. Castle, her rival, was released from the Kansas State penitentiary at Lansing after a stay of two months and three days. The Supreme Court of Kansas granted her a new trial and she was released on bail.

Miss Morrison left the penitentiary in cheerful humor. All her belongings were given to her as if the officials never expected to see her return. While at the penitentiary she earned $1.84. The pay was at the rate of 3½ cents a day. When Warden Jewett handed Miss Morrison the money, she said:

"What is this for?"
"You earned it while you were here," replied the Warden.
"Well, I am surprised, but I expect to always keep this money. I'll never forget the way I earned it," said Miss Morrison.

Miss Morrison gained in flesh while in the penitentiary and looks well. She appeared in good spirits, and chatted easily on subjects not directly connected with the case in which she has been so prominently connected.

"What are you going to do now that you are released?" asked a reporter.
"I am going to visit my brother, J. H. Morrison, an insurance agent, and my sister, Mrs. G. P. Hawley, at Excelsior Springs."

New York, Sept. 27.—Six men, possibly seven, were killed and seven injured by the explosion yesterday of an oil tank of the Essex and Hudson Gas Co. at Newark, N. J. Many witnesses say there is a body in the river. They saw it hurled high in the air toward that direction. The tank, which exploded, was one of a number of immense steel reservoirs which was undergoing its periodical cleaning, having been emptied of its oil in the morning. Kirch and Meyer entered through the anohle without taking the precaution of having ropes tied about him. They were immediately overcome in the fumes. Foreman Newman started down after them, and he, too, collapsed in the tank.

New York, Sept. 27.—Guise E. Nostz, 60 years old, of Astoria, L. I., killed herself and her grandson, Willie Collette, six years old, some time during Wednesday night and the bodies were found last night. She had stuffed the key holes and other apertures in the room with papers and turned on the gas. Four year ago her husband committed suicide, and this may have affected her mind. Mrs. Nostz was quite wealthy.

SHEFFIELD, Sept. 24.—The case of C. W. McBeath, vs. Jordan, in the parish of Sheffield civil court yesterday, had rather a sensational ending.

This was an action in which the plaintiff, Charles W. McBeath, sought to recover the sum of $23.94 for goods delivered to the defendant's daughter, on promise of marriage, which promise the plaintiff claims was not kept. The jury allowed the full bill, with costs.

As soon as the verdict was announced McBeath was placed under arrest by provincial constable Warren Day on a warrant sworn out by the girl, charging him with criminal assault of a serious nature. He was remanded to jail.

A number of witnesses have been summoned.
