

DOMINION NEWS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—Wm. Maxwell, an elderly resident of Hull, was struck and fatally injured by a C. P. R. train a mile east of that city last evening. He died while being removed to the Union Station. The unfortunate man was unconscious and could give no account of the affair. He was about seventy years of age and leaves a grown up family.

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Inspector of Detectives Stark, left this morning for Montreal to join Lieut. Col. Sherwood, chief of the Division in police, and Silas H. Carpenter, chief detective of Montreal. These three experienced detectives will travel with and guard the royal party during their Canadian visit. This trio of detectives, with national reputation and wide experience, are men who know every Canadian and many American criminals and have a good knowledge of the movements of all persons with anarchistic leanings.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—The general talk in official circles here to-day is what action the government will take in connection with the death of President McKinley and how it will affect the tour of their Royal Highnesses through Canada. The idea is that the Premier, who is now in Quebec along with His Excellency the Governor General, will send a letter of condolence and that two or more members of the Canadian cabinet will attend the funeral.

While the death of the President will not postpone the trip of their Royal Highnesses, there is no doubt but it will change some parts of the programme. Whatever may appear to partake of too much gaiety will probably be cut out at some points. In this connection the question is being asked to-day if the drawing room in the Senate will not be dispensed with.

All the ministers of the crown except Sir Richard Cartwright will be in Quebec to receive their Royal Highnesses. Dr. Borden left this morning and Messrs. Sifton, Blair and Mills in the afternoon. Mr. Scott goes to-night or in the morning, and Mr. Mulock has already left. Mr. Tarte and Mr. Bernier left last night.

The flag was at half mast on Parliament hill to-day.

DON'T BECOME AN OBJECT

Of Aversion and Pity. Cure Your Catarrh. Purify Your Lymph and Stop the Offensive Discharge.

Dr. Bochner, of Buffalo, says: "My wife and I were both troubled with distressing Catarrh, but we have enjoyed freedom from this annoying malady since the day we first used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder." Its action was instantaneous, giving the most grateful relief within ten minutes after first application. 50 cents.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept.—The fire which broke out here yesterday morning on the south side of St. John's, resulting in a loss of about $500,000, lasted the greater part of the day and was extinguished last night with the help of the crew of the British warship Alert. The bodies of the two men who were killed during the fire were buried to-day. The buildings destroyed include eight dwelling houses. The losses were fully covered by insurance.

GOOD OPINIONS FROM EVERYWHERE

South American Nervine cures that hackneyed speech. "A trial will convince you." Carries with it no deception when applied to this greatest of Nerve treatments.

An influential gentleman recently wrote: "I join with the thousands who have been benefited by South American Nervine in their good opinions of it. It was recommended to me by one who had been cured by it. I tried it and am cured, and I heartily praise the good word along—it's a wonder-worker to shattered nerves, and an excellent tonic." 30

ANDOVER N. B., Sept. 14.—Arthur Kirke, a stone mason of St. Stephen, met with a serious accident while working on the new bridge at Andover, caused by a large stone falling while unloading a car, crushing the ankle badly. The doctor hardly thinks amputation is necessary.

"PUT OUT THE FIRE"

Dr. Agnew's Ointment will relieve and cure any skin disease just as surely as it cured this soldier's Erysipelas—the first application kills the "sting."

Lieut. Buchanan, National Soldiers' Home, in Grant County, Indiana, had a very acute attack of Erysipelas. His face and head were in torment with burning and itching sensations. A druggist recommended Dr. Agnew's Ointment as the quickest relief and cure. He bought a box and found it as good as it promised, and a few applications, to use his own words, "put out the fire and less than a box entirely cured me." Price 25 cts.

STRUCK OIL

"What on earth ails you Montmorency?" asked one New Jersey mosquito of another who was lying on his back and breathing heavily.

"I've—spasmodic!" gasped the victim. And after a few spasmodic fans with his sentence he was gone.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The Lazy, Stupid Shag. "The shag is the laziest and most stupid form of life to be found anywhere on the globe. It is an aquatic fowl, with big, clumsy looking beak and with a form something like the dodo, now extinct," said a western man. "I have spent much time in watching this fowl, which is found in some of the shallow lakes, and the chief point of interest to me was the startling stupidity displayed. They generally squat on stumps or logs in the lake and watch for the smaller fish that play around the surface of the water. They are fairly clever in catching what they want, and they throw out their bill with considerable precision when they get a fish. But they never get to eat what they catch until they have fed at least one and maybe more than one member of another kind of water fowl.

"Whenever a shag begins to catch fish, a long legged, long necked water hen will take a place immediately behind him. When the shag lands a fish, the water hen simply reaches over and gets it. Without any show of resentment and without turning around, the shag will continue its watch for fish, and this is kept up until the water hen has finished a meal, and then, if no other enterprising member of the same tribe comes along, the shag is permitted to enjoy the product of its own sleepy efforts.

"I have on one occasion seen one shag feed as many as three water hens before eating a single fish. It is certainly a singular display of stupidity, and after having watched the performance a number of times I am convinced that the shag is actually too dull to even know that the water hen stands behind him to steal the fish out of his mouth."

English Robbers.

Speaking of the early Plantagenet period, Mr. Henry, in his "History of Great Britain," remarks that the number of robbers was so great that the judges could not prevail upon the juries to find any of them guilty.

Even under the most rigorous administration of Edward III a numerous band of robbers assailed the town of Boston in 1275 at the time of the fair, set it on fire and carried off an immense booty in money and goods. Their leader, one Robert Chamberlain, a gentleman of great power and wealth, was taken, tried and executed, but he could not be prevailed upon to discover any of his accomplices. As the other robbers of this period were very numerous, so some of them were very cruel, and the character which one of their chiefs wore embroidered upon his coat in letters of silver might be applied to many others—"I am Captain Warner, commander of a troop of robbers, an enemy to God, without pity and without remorse." (Henry's "History of Great Britain," book 4, chapter 7.)—Gentleman's Magazine.

HIVE AND BEE.

Be sure that each colony has plenty of food.

See that every colony has a good laying queen.

Drones can be reared out of season by stimulating the colony by heavy feeding.

The drones appear to be entirely exempt from labor, and their existence depends upon the colony.

If hives become daubed up with propolis, lift out the frames, place them in a new hive and clean out the old one.

If you find a colony that is being robbed, you may decide at once that something is wrong. Generally it is because the colony has become queenless.

Drones can be retained by feeding colonies that contain such as are desired to breed from. They can also be retained almost any length of time by keeping them in queenless colonies.

Tarantulas Are Enemies.

Tarantulas are considered deadly foes to each other and are seldom found in company. When imprisoned together, there is a fight, one succumbs and is eaten by the victor. Nature has done a service in making the tarantula so hideous and formidable looking an object. Indeed, it is owing to this repulsiveness that no greater number of persons are stung. The sight of the great, hairy spider crawling near by will cause a cold, creeping sensation down the back of almost any one.

A Victim's Argument.

"You have no nerve at all," said the disgusted dentist to the patient who was making a frightful fuss.

"Now listen to that," returned the patient warmly—"blaming me for lack of nerve when you told me not five minutes ago that you'd extracted most of it and intended to kill what was left."

A Day of Rest.

How thankful we should be for one day's rest in seven. All we have to do on the Sabbath is—split the wood, light the fire, dress the children, feed the mule, read the paper, figure up how much we've lost during the past week and then go cheerfully to meeting.—Atlanta Constitution.

Going by Contraries.

"When a lady says 'No, she means 'Yes,'" observed the philosopher of the boarding house, "and when her papa throws you down the front steps and swears at you until you have disappeared in the gloom there seems to be something contrary about him too."

A Real Need.

"Why, oh, why," wailed the woman, picking up the watch at her feet and holding it to her ear, "doesn't somebody invent a watch that you can drop without its stopping?"—New York Sun.

Athletic Appetites.

"The actual amount of good roast beef that a table of athletes will consume," writes Walter Camp in the Century, "is something appalling to the uninitiated. Three members of a Yale football team once went to Cambridge to watch a match between Harvard and some other team. These three men stopped at a hotel for their luncheon. Among other things the spokesman of the party ordered three portions of cold roast beef. 'But, sir,' said the waiter, 'two portions will be a great plenty for all three of you.' The giant of the party looked up blandly at the servant and said, 'You bring the three portions and then watch us eat it.'

"When the writer was captain of the team, long before the days of special method in management, the eleven were to play at Cambridge and, leaving New Haven the afternoon of the day preceding the match, went to a Boston hotel for dinner and the night. Most of the men were readily collected at one or two large tables, but a certain rusher, being late, had seated himself at a table in a distant part of the dining room, and he was told by the manager to order his own dinner. That boy's dinner, and it is needless to say that it was without wine, came to the extraordinary total of $13.85! He was quite able to play the next day, however."

The Joke on the Snake Charmer.

Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans when a young officer was on the Indian station in the man-of-war Delaware. With several others he set up a bungalow on shore. He tells in "A Sailor's Log," published by the Appletons, what happened to a snake charmer that came along:

"The unfortunate thought came to one of our men that it would be a good idea to get the Mohammedan drunk to see what he would do. So he prepared a dose for him that was very effective. He poured a good stiff drink of brandy into a beer glass and then filled it with gin instead of water. The charmer took kindly to the drink and in a short time rolled out of his chair on to the floor very drunk and was soon fast asleep.

"The bag of snakes had not been thought of up to this time, but it also fell, and the inhabitants quickly spread over the floor. In the meantime five American officers took to the table and, drawing their feet up, carefully remained there until the snake charmer slept off his dose. He snored quietly while the snakes crawled over and around him, but it was a long time before he finally came to himself, secured his pets and took them away. We did not repeat that experiment."

Clocks With "Wheels."

"Clocks are certainly queer things," said the man who was tinkering at the hall clock in a suburban house the other day. "They get cranky spells just like people. Sometimes they really act as though they were bewitched. A friend of mine had a little clock that had behaved itself and kept good time for years. One day it took a notion to lay off for awhile, and they couldn't get it started again. My friend's wife was cleaning the room several days afterward, and she took the clock and laid it down flat on its back on a chair. It started to go at once and ticked away at a great rate, but as soon as she placed it on end it stopped again. Well, they set it, and for a time it acted all right as long as it remained on its back. But it soon got cranky again and refused to go. The other day, just for fun, they turned it upside down, and, would you believe it, that crazy clock started off again. Now it only runs when it is standing on its head, and they are wondering what new foolishness it will develop next."

Sleeping Car Ethics.

It seems that there is an unwritten code of sleeping car ethics which has its fine distinctions. The International says: "The seasoned traveler enters the Pullman as if it were a room in a club with which he is familiar, but which he has not visited for some time. He stows away his belongings, according to his habit, puts on his traveling cap and a pair of light shoes or slippers and overgaiters, gets out his newspapers and book and, not forgetting his smoking outfit, is ready to be comfortable. Be it remembered that if slippers be donned they must always be accompanied by overgaiters, for without these latter the slipped foot is not permissible under the unwritten law of sleeping car travel."

When California Was Unknown.

In an old geography printed in 1815 appears the following: "California is a wild and almost unknown land. Throughout the year it is covered with dense fogs, as damp as unhealthful. In the interior are volcanoes and vast plains of shifting snows, which sometimes shoot columns to great heights. This would seem nearly incredible were it not for the well authenticated accounts of travelers."

Not Satisfactory.

"Mose," said Mr. Subbubs, "I want you to clean out my cellar tonight." "Deed, sah," Mose protested, "I kaint do no wuck laik dat at night, sah, dat would be satisfactory to yo', sah." "Why, not? You've often cleaned out my chicken coop at night." "Yes, sah; but I reck on dat wuz satisfactory to yo', sah."
