AT THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

This trying period in woman's life usually comes between the ages of forty and fifty years and is marked by irritability, headache, dizziness, irregular monthlies, fitful appetite, forebodings of evil, palpitation of the heart and constipation. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all a woman's medicine because it helps her safely through this trying period. It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the functions of the feminine organs and tones and invigorates the whole body.

St. John Sun: The death occurred at a late hour Friday night of Robert Ritchie, the well known grocer, who for many years has carried on a successful business at the corner of Germain and Queen streets. Deceased had enjoyed excellent health until a week ago, when he was stricken with congestion of the brain. Mr. Ritchie leaves two sons and one daughter.

AN APPRECIATIVE PATRON.

"Did you annoy my predecessor on the bench as much as you have annoyed me?" inquired the judge of the frequent offender.
"No, judge," said the tough one, "I always thought so much of you that just as soon as I heard you was elected I made up my mind to give you all my legal business, and I've done it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Red Hot Season

During the hot summer season the blood gets over heated, the brain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

The Sydney Record says of Glace Bay:

—The snake fad still continues among our fashionable young people. It is a matter of common occurrence to find now a young man entering a store and while looking for change in making a small purchase, pull out of his pocket a hand full of snakes, allow them to roam over the counter, pick them up and go his way. A large box of these crawlers was brought from Mira a few days ago by a young man, and he kindly distributed them among his friends. If a young gentleman does not now carry with him a live snake he is ostracised from society.

The True Poker Flat.
In 1852 Poker Flat produced $700,000 in gold bullion in a single month and celebrated the event with a triple hanging. Then came the public spasm of virtue which caused the John Oakhursts and the "outcasts of Poker Flat" to depart from thence and die of cold and starvation on the snow bound road to Sandy Bar. There are no "Oakhursts" nor "Uncle Billys" in Poker Flat today, and when the stranger makes the slow descent and suddenly by a sharp turn in the trail comes upon the famous camp he finds in that huddle of cabins little to remind him of the Poker Flat of 1852.

The famous slope presents almost a picture of utter ruin. There are but eight persons living in the old town, while a hundred dead ones sleep in the cemetery. Some of the graves are marked with wooden headboards, some with stakes, but many have nothing above them. Nearly all of them were laid to rest without religious rites save a Bible reading by old Charlie Pond, who, though a professional gambler, was selected for the religious office owing to his excellent voice and oratorical ability.

In 1853 and 1854 there were 2,000 souls in Poker Flat and 15 stores, 5 hotels, 3 dance halls and 7 gambling houses. There is but one man left today of that original company. He is an old and grizzled veteran, who delights to tell how in 1856 a circus came to town and sold 1,500 tickets of admission at $20 each.—W. M. Clemens in Bookman.

A Day Dream of Tennyson.

In the "Life of Tennyson" occurs the following:

"A kind of waking trance I have frequently had, up from boyhood, when I have been all alone. This has generally come upon me through repeating my own name two or three times to myself silently, till all at once, as it were out of the intensity of the consciousness of individuality, the individuality itself seemed to dissolve and fade away into boundless being, and this not in a confused state, but the clearest of the clearest, the surest of the surest, the weirdest of the weirdest, utterly beyond words, where death was an almost laughable impossibility, the loss of personality (if so it were) seeming no extinction but the only true life. This might be the state which St. Paul describes, 'whether in the body I cannot tell, or whether out of the body I cannot tell.' I am ashamed of my feeble description. Have I not said the state is utterly beyond words? But in a moment when I come back to my normal state of 'sanity' I am ready to fight for main fishes' lch and hold that it will last for moons and moons."

The New Rabbit.

"Why, where did you come from, Uncle Jasper?" I said to the old darkey who had sent the house girl in to tell me that he wanted to see me.
"I come 'um Decatur, Miss Alice," he said. "I got to Atlanta 'bout two hours ago, but I didn't 'low you was ready to see nobody."
"Did you come on the train?" I asked.
"No, ma'am; dat I didn't. I come in on de rabbit."
"On what?"
"On de rabbit. You sholy done heerd er de new rabbit dey's got."
"Oh," I said, "you mean the rapid transit?"
"Yessum, de rabbit trahnsit. Dat's what I tol' you. She ain't de color er no rabbit"—bursting into a laugh—"but she sho do git ober de groun' lak one."

A Slander.

Greene—They say that Senator Keener is on the make. They even go so far as to say that that new house of his was given him in payment for his vote.

Gray—It puts me all out of temper to hear such slanders! It is as far as possible from the truth! I know all about it. It was this way: Some people who were interested in a certain bill bet him that house that he would vote against the bill, and he didn't and won the house. That was all there was about it. The idea of Keener's being open to bribery!

Adjourned Unanimously.

Correspondent (approaching Irish sergeant)—I am told, sergeant, that you had a skirmish with the enemy this morning.

Sergeant—We did that, sor.
Correspondent—And did you come off with flying colors?

Sergeant—Floyd colors, is it? Be-dad, it wasn't ovinly the colors that was foyin, but ivery mother's son of us in the bargain.

The Sun.

Astronomers tell us that refractory elements like iron, silicon and carbon, perhaps dissociated into simpler substances, are present as vapors in the atmosphere of the sun and that many others of our well known elements, including hydrogen, are also present in this glowing atmosphere, while the heat of the sun's surface and that of the hotter stars is vastly higher than that of the electric furnace.

His Age.

Being asked his age, a colored citizen in a Billville district replied:
"Well, suh, I some older dan dat pine tree yander, I'll bit younger dan dat live oak by de gate en not quite so ol' ez de house whar I livin at. I ain't much on fingers mysef, but you kin count 'em on see!"

The Nearest He Ever Came to It.

"Colonel," she asked, "have you ever been up in a balloon?"
"No," he answered, "but I got to talking art to a Boston lady once, and she had me away up in the air inside of two minutes."

The Lazy, Stupid Shag.

"The shag is the laziest and most stupid form of life to be found anywhere on the globe. It is an aquatic fowl, with big, clumsy looking beak and with a form something like the dodo, now extinct," said a western man. "I have spent much time in watching this fowl, which is found in some of the shallow lakes, and the chief point of interest to me was the startling stupidity displayed. They generally squat on stumps or logs in the lake and watch for the smaller fish that play around the surface of the water. They are fairly clever in catching what they want, and they throw out their bill with considerable precision when they gig for game. But they never get to eat what they catch until they have fed at least one and maybe more than one member of another kind of water fowl."

"Whenever a shag begins to catch fish, a long legged, long necked water hen will take a place immediately behind him. When the shag lands a fish, the water hen simply reaches over and gets it. Without any show of resentment and without turning around, the shag will continue its watch for fish, and this is kept up until the water hen has finished a meal, and then, if no other enterprising member of the same tribe comes along, the shag is permitted to enjoy the product of its own sleepy efforts.

"I have on one occasion seen one shag feed as many as three water hens before eating a single fish. It is certainly a singular display of stupidity, and after having watched the performance a number of times I am convinced that the shag is actually too dull to even know that the water hen stands behind him to steal the fish out of his mouth."

English Robbers.

Speaking of the early Plantagenet period, Mr. Henry, in his "History of Great Britain," remarks that the number of robbers was so great that the judges could not prevail upon the juries to find any of them guilty.

Even under the most rigorous administration of Edward III a numerous band of them assailed the town of Boston in 1275 at the time of the fair, set it on fire and carried off an immense booty in money and goods. Their leader, one Robert Chamberlain, a gentleman of great power and wealth, was taken, tried and executed, but he could not be prevailed upon to discover any of his accomplices. As the other robbers of this period were very numerous, so some of them were very cruel, and the character which one of their chiefs wore embroidered upon his coat in letters of silver might be applied to many others—"I am Captain Wanger, commander of a troop of robbers, an enemy to God, without pity and without remorse." Henry's "History of Great Britain," book 4, chapter 7.—Gentleman's Magazine.

HIVE AND BEE.

Be sure that each colony has plenty of food.
See that every colony has a good laying queen.

Drones can be reared out of season by stimulating the colony by heavy feeding.

The drones appear to be entirely exempt from labor and their existence depends upon the colony.

If hives become clogged up with propolis, lift out the frames, place them in a new hive and clean out the old one.

If you find a colony that is being robbed, you may decide at once that something is wrong. Generally it is because the colony has become queenless.

Drones can be retained by feeding colonies that contain such as are desired to breed from. They can also be retained almost any length of time by keeping them in queenless colonies.

Tarantulas Are Enemies.

Tarantulas are considered deadly foes to each other and are seldom found in company. When imprisoned together, there is a fight, one succumbs and is eaten by the victor. Nature has done a service in making the tarantula so hideous and formidable looking an object. Indeed, it is owing to this repulsiveness that no greater number of persons are stung. The sight of the great, hairy spider crawling near by will cause a cold, creeping sensation down the back of almost any one.

A Victim's Argument.

"You have no nerve at all," said the disgusted dentist to the patient who was making a frightful fuss.

"Now listen to that," returned the patient warmly—"blaming me for lack of nerve when you told me not five minutes ago that you'd extracted most of it and intended to kill what was left."

A Day of Rest.

How thankful we should be for one day's rest in seven. All we have to do on the Sabbath is—split the wood, light the fire, dress the children, feed the mule, read the paper, figure up how much we've lost during the past week and then go cheerfully to meeting.—Atlanta Constitution.

Going by Contraries.

"When a lady says 'No,' she means 'Yes,'" observed the philosopher of the boarding house, "and when her papa throws you down the front steps and swears at you until you have disappeared in the gloom there seems to be something contrary about him too."

A Real Need.

"Why, oh, why," wailed the woman, picking up the watch at her feet and holding it to her ear, "doesn't somebody invent a watch that you can drop without its stopping?"—New York Sun.

Oliver Wilson, Macedon, wrist cut by glass.

Two and probably more of the above will probably die during the night.

The train was running at nearly 40 miles an hour. Approaching the station at Fairville, there is a curve and gravel pit. For some unknown reason the engine jumped the track while passing the gravel pit. The force of the impact turned the engine completely around, throwing the five cars on their sides. The train load of some 150 passengers was thrown into the ditch. The steam pipes running under the cars were broken in several places. This accounts for the large number of people scalded.

Word was sent to Sodus and Newark for physicians and a special with five doctors left Newark at 6 45 o'clock. Upon its arrival the Newark passengers were placed aboard and hastened to New York. Rev. Dr. Burgess, one of the injured, is 73 years old and it is doubtful whether he recovers. His right leg is broken and he is badly scalded. Mrs. Burgess is also among the seriously injured.
