ONCE PRONOUNCED LEGALLY DEAD.

JAMES MORROW RETURNS AFTER AN ABSENCE OF NEARLY THIRTY YEARS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—After being thought dead for over a quarter of a century James Morrow, nephew of "Billy" McMahon, who owned the Haymarket during the days of the Tweed regime has claimed a share of his uncle's estate, worth, it is said, $400,000.

Last summer Samuel H. Morrow, his son by the woman whom he left in this city nearly thirty years ago, was given a share of the estate by Justice Gillyroy, of the Supreme court, who decided that James Morrow was legally dead. Now father and son are opposed to each other in a legal fight. Neither has ever seen the other, the father leaving the city before the birth of the child.

Morrow is said to have commenced the suit in the interest of his five children by a second wife, whom he married after being thought dead by his first wife. The latter got a divorce from him on the ground of abandonment, believing at the time he was dead, she too married again.

Some time after Morrow went west his first wife received a letter in his handwriting and signed with his name saying that he was in a hospital at Orange, Texas, that he had been shot in a saloon and would probably never leave the hospital alive. He begged her forgiveness for his long silence. Soon after William Findlay, of Newark, received a letter from a friend saying James Morrow had died in the Texas hospital.

A couple of months ago James Morrow heard of his uncle's death and the fact that he had been declared legally dead. Friends had told him in the late seventies of the divorce obtained by his wife, and in 1880 he married a girl in Brazil, Ind.

A referee will be appointed to take testimony in the case. Morrow has returned to Illinois. He did not visit his former wife or the son he has never seen.

If a child eats ravenously, grinds the teeth at night and picks its nose, you may almost be certain it has worms and should administer without delay Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup, this remedy contains its own cathartic.

Petitioner, in his own experience, is not well for man to see, and seeing an inviting opportunity to superlunally ameliorate his fortunes by a second nuptial venture, he finds himself circumsvalled by an insurmountable obstacle, which your honor has power to remove.

His days rapidly verging on the serene and yellow leaf, the fruits and flowers of old age, the worm, the canker and the grief in sight, with no one to love and none to cherish him, petitioner feels an insupportable yearning, longing and craving to plunge his adventurous spirit once more into the wexed waters of the sea of Comubiality. Wherefore other refuge having none and wholly trusting to the tender benignity and sovereign discretion of your honor, petitioner humbly prays that in view of the accompanying facts of a great cloud of reputable citizens, giving him a phenomenally good name and fair fame, you will have compassion on him and relieve him of the insupportable burden under which his existence has become a burden by awarding him the like privilege of marrying again, thus granting him a happy issue out of the Red sea of troubles into which a pitiless fate has whelmed him. For, comforting as the velvety touch of an angel's palm to the fever racked brow, and soothing as the strains of an aolian harp when swept by the fingers of the night wind, and dear as those ruddy drops that visit these sad hearts of ours, and sweet as sacramental wine to dying lips, it is when life's fitful fever is ebbing to its close to pillow one's aching head on some fond wife's bosom and breathe his life out gently there.

And in duty bound to attain the possibility of compassing such a measureless benediction, petitioner will pray without ceasing, in accents as loud and earnest as ever issued from celestial lips.

SAMUEL RICE, Petitioner.

STRENGTH OF PAPER.

The Great Weight Borne by a Cushion of Rice Paper.

A party of brokers were talking in the course of the tensile strength of paper. A mullage bottle had been overturned on a sheet of ordinary writing paper and a heavy paperweight had become fastened to the sheet. One of the men picked the paper up and dangled the weight from it. Then, in a spirit of curiosity, he piled other weights on the edge of the one fastened to the sheet to see how much the paper would hold. Forty-two pounds were hung on the slender sheet before it gave way.

The experiments attracted the attention of a half dozen or so of men. In the group was an importer of Japanese articles, and he said he had an article made of tissue paper that would bear the weight of any two men who could jump on it, and he wagered lunches for the crowd that they would not break it.

The wager was taken up, and then he drew from his coat pocket what seemed to be a bundle of brown paper. It was easily concealed in the palm of his hand. But he placed his lips to a brass nipple and soon the bundle assumed the shape of a large doughnut. Fastening the stopper, Mr. Van Dusen threw the thing on the floor and told his companions to go ahead and jump.

First one man stood on the cushion, for that is what it was, then two men. Next the two men jumped on it, and then three men. The men tried to break the bag with their heels. The importer watched the endeavor to make his cushion collapse for awhile, then said he guessed he had won the bet.

This was agreed to, and a new test of the strength of the inflated bag was made. A board was propped up and placed over the cushion on a bench. Five men sat on the board, and the bag collapsed with a report that sounded through the building like an explosion. An examination of the broken bag showed it to be made of rice paper coated with a paint that resembled roofing fluid. The paper tears easily, and the brokers marveled at its strength. The weight of the cushion was less than an ounce, and when deflated could be tucked away in a vest pocket.

The Owl In History.

The owl was in former times generally regarded as an omen of misfortune or death; but as the Egyptians represented Minerva under the form of an owl the Athenians, who were under the care of this goddess, looked upon the appearance of the owl as a favorable omen. It therefore formed upon the ancient coins referred to the symbol of Athens and her foreign possessions. The Chinese and the Tartars have also held the owl in high esteem. The first named used to wear owl's feathers in their caps, and some Tartar tribes still worship idols made like owls.

Quill Pens.

Quill pens are said by some authorities to have been used in the year 553 and by others not until 625. Quills had a long reign for the steel pen does not seem to have been introduced until 1803. Improvements on the steel pen were made by Mr. Gillott of Birmingham, England, in 1822. The gold pen came next.

Force of Habit.

"Why do Mr. Paintrous and his wife promenade in single file?" "They've got to ride a tandem, and they can't get over the tandem habit."

The oldest public building in New York is St. Paul's chapel, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street. It was built in 1766, ten years before the Declaration of Independence.

THE WORLD OVER.

KALISPELL, Mont., Jan. 1.—Patrick Sullivan, a miner of Jennings, Mont., shot his wife, grand child and himself last night, with fatal results to himself and the child, while his wife is in a dangerous condition. The cause of the shooting is not known.

The citizens sent to Kalispell for medical aid and a special train was sent with two physicians and the coroner. Just west of Lucerne, the engine jumped the track, killing Engineer Heron, and seriously injuring Fireman Wilcox. The caboose did not leave the track, and the doctors proceeded to Jennings, while the dead and injured were brought to Kalispell.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 1.—Three people were killed and two wounded last night at Robbins, N. C., in a fight which occurred during a party given at the residence of Jesse Griffin. The participants in the fight were white people and well known in this part of the country. The dead: Geor. Dunbar, Harry Dunbar, Fletcher Bennet. The wounded: Mrs. Geo. Dunbar, Arthur Dunbar.

A "watch party" was given at the residence of Jesse Griffin and during the evening William Cobb became involved in a dispute. Cobb later left the house. After his departure the quarrel was taken up by Fletcher Bennet and Dunbar drew his pistol. Griffin, the host, interfered, taking Dunbar's pistol from him. Fletcher Bennet suddenly seized the weapon and shot George Dunbar, killing him instantly. The latter's son, Harry, came to the defense, but was also killed by Bennet. Arthur Dunbar, another son, also joined in the fight and shot Bennet. The shooting became general and Bennet received a second shot which killed him, and Arthur Dunbar received a wound which will prove fatal. Mrs. Dunbar was also shot, but it is believed she will recover.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—G. F. Donovan, who attempted highway robbery last night and who was shot and killed by his intended victim, Eugene Hector, finance editor of a Chicago newspaper, is thought to be the son of respectable parents in Springfield, Mass. In his pocket was found a letter addressed "Dear Mother," and signed "Will," dated Manila, Aug. 13, 1901, and referred to domestic affairs at Springfield. It indicated the writer to be a stenographer in the employ of the United States Philippine commission. Another letter, dated Boston, 1899, recommended George F. Donovan as a faithful man who had been employed in Trinity court, Boston.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The Morton house and Keith's theatre at Union square and Fourteenth street were threatened with destruction by fire early this morning.

One hundred frightened patrons of the hotel were forced by the smoke to make hasty exits from their rooms and a great deal of excitement was caused in the neighborhood by fear that the fire would spread.

Twenty-two firemen were overcome by smoke and the fire department worked three hours before the flames were under control. The loss was estimated at $30,000.

The fire was discovered by the night engineer of the Morton house. An alarm was turned in by him without waiting to warn the guests of the hotel, who, when they were awakened, found the hallways full of smoke. None of them waited to dress, but gathered up their valuables and hurried to the ground floor where they found a restaurant that was free from smoke.

The hotel and the theatre are in the same building. The fire was confined to the lower part of the hotel. The theatre was not damaged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—Five of the general prisoners at the military prison in Alcatraz Island drank a beverage of which wood alcohol formed the principal part. Two have since died, and the other three are in the hospital. The two who died are Edward L. Canfield and Wm Mitchell. The officers in charge of the island military post made efforts to keep the fact of the death of the prisoners from becoming public, but the story became known through the gossip of soldier guards at the prison. Hospital attendants say that one of these in the hospital is so affected by the poison that he is now blind. The other two are reported to be recovering. The five men who drank the stuff were prison "Trustees" and employed as cooks for the prison. Captain Fuller, the commandant at the post, has not yet been able to learn where the prisoners obtained the alcohol.

GLASGOW, Jan. 2.—The British Admiralty has invited the Clyde shipyards to tender bids for the construction of two battleships each of 16,500 tons; five armored first class cruisers and two protected cruisers. The officials ask for promptitude. Work on twenty warships now in course of construction may be expedited. The new battleships will have greater gun powder than any vessels now in the navy.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Two hundred thousand pounds have been placed at King Edward's disposal for charitable or utilitarian purposes, according to the Daily Mail, by Sir Ernest Cassel, a merchant and financier, who was prominent in Egyptian finance and who was made a knight com-

Business Men's Backs.

Too much rush and bustle, work and worry fall to the lot of the average business man. Kidneys can't stand it; they fail to filter the poisons from the blood properly. Urinary trouble, general languor and pain in the back are the natural result. A man can't attend to business properly if his back aches—no use trying.

Only one sure remedy that never fails—

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Take a hint from business men who have used them: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at the Medical Hall here, for rheumatism and pains in the small of my back, with which I have been afflicted for the past six years. They did me so much good that I heartily recommend them as an excellent medicine for rheumatic troubles and backache." CHARLES C. THURX, dealer in agricultural implements, Orilla, Ont.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache, lame or weak back, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, gravel, sediment in the urine, too frequent risings at night, rheumatism, and weakness of the kidneys in children and old people. Remember the name, Doan's, and refuse all others. The Doan Kidney Pills Co., Toronto, Ont.

mander of St. Michael and St. George for his services in that field. King Edward has decided to devote this gift to a sanitarium which will accommodate 100 patients. Twelve beds are to be reserved for wealthy sufferers, while the remainder will be for those who are able to afford only a small fee. King Edward has appointed an advisory committee. Three prizes of £500, £200 and £100 have been offered for the best essays and plans for the construction of the sanitarium and the advisory committee will be guided by the result of this competition in the execution of his majesty's wishes. The competition is open to medical men of all nationalities.

Sir William Henry Broadbent explained that it was intended to employ the open air treatment for consumptives, the success of which, he said, was now absolutely established. He was unable to give details but said he believed the sanitarium would be within easy distance of London.

The papers all publish editorials applauding King Edward's purpose and the noble gift which has enabled his majesty to carry out the idea which he has so much at heart.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—The steamship Wallawalla, from San Francisco for Puget Sound ports, carrying 26 first class and 28 second class passengers and a crew of 80 men collided with an unknown vessel on Thursday at 4 10 a. m., sinking the Wallawalla. All the passengers and crew of the steamer were asleep except the few on the watch but were aroused by the crash. The steerage quarters were in the bow. It is believed some of the steerage passengers and crew were crushed to death. A big hole was made in the steamer's bow and she sank in thirty-five minutes. The officers and crew maintained strict discipline, and boat and life rafts were lowered. All who were not killed in the collision got off except Capt. Hall, who went down with his ship but was picked up later by one of the boats. A choppy sea was running and small boats could not land on the shore a few miles distant. They drifted about all day and finally 65 people were picked up by the steamer Dispatch and taken to Eureka. At ten o'clock tonight it is impossible to determine the names of lost and missing, owing to the confusing list of survivors received from Eureka. According to compilations of the Pacific coast Steamship Co., all but 27 have been accounted for.

For Cuts, Wounds, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Burns, Scalds, Bites of Insects, Croup, Coughs, Colds, Hygard's Yellow Oil will be found an excellent remedy. Price 25 cents. All dealers.
