Dark Lanterns.

Really, the "dark" or bullseye lantern, which perhaps is most generally associated in the mind with the stealthy burglar wearing a half mask before his eyes, is put to various peaceful and legitimate uses and sometimes gleams upon scenes of hilarity. The "dark" lantern is a common stock article of trade, which may be bought in any store where tinware is sold, and all manufacturers of tin goods make it.

The lanterns are made in three sizes, and there has been very little change in them in many years except in minor details of operation and in the use of better lenses. The dark lantern will throw a bright light about twenty feet, covering at that distance a circle with a radius of four to six feet.

Dark lanterns are sometimes used in the country for carriage lamps and for lighting one's way afoot across country roads. Lanterns of the same style, without slides and red and green lenses instead of white, are to some extent used on small yachts for side lights, but with all these uses it is said that the sale of the historic bullseye is decreasing.—New York Herald.

She Understood Fully.

The teachers in the public schools are prepared for surprises from the children under their care, but occasionally something so entirely unexpected pops up that the surprise is lost in unfeigned astonishment. A teacher in New York is responsible for the following:

"We were studying Longfellow's 'Evangeline,' with which the children seemed especially charmed. Finally, to make sure that all understood what was meant, I asked of a girl of German parentage, 'And what do you understand by the reference to Evangeline's milk white heifer?'"

"With eyes lighting with the consciousness of clear knowledge Barbara said, 'The milk white heifer was her lover, ma'am.'"

Artificial Teeth.

Anyone who may contemplate the loss of all or most of his teeth by extraction, that a plate may be worn, would do well to consider before the opportunity passes whether it is not infinitely preferable to retain teeth provided by nature, rooted as they are a half inch in the jawbone, rather than possess a plate covering the roof of the mouth and with substitutes attached to it at best only set on top of the gums, says a physician. The assertion is all moonshine that the possessor of a plate will masticate food as well as his or her neighbor with sound teeth. One might as well attempt the extraction of sunbeams from cucumbers as to expect it.

A Sluggish, Inactive Liver

When the liver is clogged by the inactivity of the kidneys and bowels, it becomes torpid and fails to filter the bile from the blood, thus producing biliousness and a general impairment of the digestive system.

The tongue is coated, the head aches, digestion is imperfect; there is aching of the limbs and back, feelings of fullness, weight and soreness over the stomach and liver; the eye becomes yellow and jaundiced, and the complexion muddy; the urine is scanty and highly colored, and the bowels irregular, constipation and looseness alternating. There is little use of treating the liver separately, as it can never be set right until the kidneys and bowels are made active in removing the waste matter from the body. It is for this very reason that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have always proved so wonderfully successful in curing the most chronic cases of liver complaint, biliousness and complicated ailments of the kidneys, liver and bowels. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

OLD HOME WEEK OF THE INDIANS IN KENT.

Sons of the Forest Back to The Paternal Wigwam at St. Anne--Gather from the Three Maritime Provinces.

One of the interesting places to which hundreds of people besides Indians pay an annual pilgrimage at this season of the year is the Millicet Indian reservation of St. Anne, at Big Cove, about nine miles from Rexton, Kent county. It is purely how ever an Indian festival so far as the performers are concerned and every 26th July, at the anniversary festival of their saint, an elaborate programme of ceremonies and festivities is begun.

On last Saturday the occasion was no exception to the rule and visitors from St. John who have just returned from a week of observation of these relics of our aboriginal race, tell interesting stories of the curious features of the occurrences. There were present about 500 of the Indians, including braves, squaws and other adherents of the tribe, who came from the four points of the compass, crossing in canoes from P. E. Island, and coasting along shore in similar craft for many days to reach the various points in northern Nova Scotia, others coming by train and still others having walked as far as from the state of Maine directly through the woods for a short cut as did their ancestors in olden times. The greetings of long-lost friends are said to have been typically dignified, but none the less affecting, and the family reunions, the relationship of the members of which is maintained upon record known only to the Indians themselves, are said to have been quite as touching as those of any New England "old home week" ever celebrated.

Of course the priests in charge of the mission dominated the opening religious services which were very impressive and quaint, but the great programme of entertainment which followed included all varieties of secular enjoyment. There is always on such an occasion a three-days programme, and the way in which all the events are actively and enthusiastically participated in, without any printed order is said to reflect great credit upon the methodical system of the Indians. Often the three days are extended and elaborated by events developed from the regular programme. There were this year as usual all sorts of foot races, canoe, swimming and other water events; dances, with a single violin in a big tent, to weird music, and a concert by an elaborate choir imported for the occasion from the United States. At these events the gentlemen of the tribe rejoicing in such nomenclature as Joe Latuejoe, Paul St. Paul, Frank St. Francis, etc., aimed in true sportsman-like style to outdo their brethren of the tribe.

The visitors were not only interested in the events, but in the local establishments of the Millicet which, beside a school house, church and various permanent wigwams, include a fantastic and monster wooden cross of peculiar design. This cross is more than 20 feet high, painted white and the main post surmounted by a sick, cut out of metal, and painted red. Upon the cross arm are various symbols, such as a coil of wire and unique inscriptions, while upon the lower part of the post is engraved a face and a serpent, terribly painted in permanently livid colors. Also from the cross arm are a ladder, a spear, etc. The whole arrangement is maintained within a fenced enclosure and treated with reverential awe by the tribesmen.—Sun.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

WHERE THE INNOCENT SUFFER.

A young man by the name of Potts, of Buctouche, drove into town on Sunday with his father's horse and before he got away he tried his hand at horse trading a speculation that proved rather expensive for his father, who is a man in only moderate circumstances. Young Potts, it is said, indulged in more intoxicating drink than is good for a man trying to drive a shrewd horse swap, and was induced to part with the good looking horse owned by his father for a somewhat broken down steed and $30 to boot. The young man's father got wind of the exchange and his son's conduct and came to Moncton on Tuesday. He looked up the man with whom his son had traded and endeavored to get his horse back by returning the horse his son had and the $30 but was unsuccessful in undoing his son's mistake so easily. After a time, however, a compromise was effected and Mr. Potts got his own horse back on returning the other horse and paying $50, $20 more than his son had received. The speculation, to say the least, was a rather expensive one for the old gentleman for whom considerable sympathy is expressed by those who are aware of the transaction.

Pat's Test.

A good story is told of an Irishman, more patriotic than clever, who enlisted in one of the smart cavalry regiments. The fencing instructor had experienced rather a difficult job in the matter of explaining to him the various ways of using the sword. "Now," he said, "how would you use the sword if your opponent feinted?" "Bedad," said Pat, with gleaming eyes, "I'd just tickle him with the point to see if he was shamming."
