Notwithstanding the fact that the tax collector is levying the tax for lighting the town, during the dark, wet nights at the new of the moon our streets were practically in darkness, and the sidewalks being in such a precarious condition, travelling by night was extremely dangerous to pedestrians.

Many expressions of regret have been heard on the streets during the week when it was learned that Mrs. McFarlane and family, together with the children of the late Mr. W. W. Short, have decided to leave town as soon as the business of the Estate of W. W. Short can be settled, which will be about the month of September.

Staff Sergeant W. E. Forbes has returned from P. E. I. where he has been participating in the maritime interprovincial rifle match, although New Brunswick was at the bottom, as will be seen by our dispatches, and although our townsman did not do as good work as he usually does, still he tied for second place on the N. B. team.

New Brunswick is a prosperous province with an energetic people, up-to-date, we have made great advance in farming, in our methods of lumbering, in common education, in arts and sciences, in commerce, in dress and fashions, in social life, in our roads, bridges and railways, the time of our forefathers has proved too slow, we have made an advance of twenty odd minutes in our time, we are a go-ahead people.

J. A. Irving of Buctouche, passed through Richibucto on Sunday on his way to Red Bank, Northumberland, where he was married, yesterday, to Miss Annie, eldest daughter of Henry Murray of Buctouche. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. J. D. Murray of Red Bank. They will make their home in the H. H. James' house at Buctouche. THE REVIEW extends its heartiest wishes to the happy couple.

Mr. Philip Bourque, Upper Lutz street, who recently began the collection of foxes for the purpose of starting a fox ranch, has now some fifteen on hand. The animals are kept on a place owned by Mr. Bourque and those with him along the Painsec road. Yesterday Mr. Bourque added to his stock a couple of young foxes purchased from Mr. Dow Jones, of the Salk road. Mr. Jones tracked the wily fox to his lair and made an easy capture.—Times.

Death's Harvest.

The Late David P. Barnard.

On Sunday morning David Peter Barnard died of consumption, deceased was the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barnard, he was twenty years old. Although in failing health for some time, his death was unexpectedly sudden, he was out last Thursday, and went to bed immediately afterward and never left it. He leaves beside his parent, four sisters and two brothers to mourn their loss. His eldest sister, Mrs. Smith Scott of Moncton, only arrived home two hours before his death. He was a member of the C. A great catch of Trout.

Mr. J. P. Caie, who leads the strenuous life of a commercial traveller, was in Bay du Vin on Wednesday, and decided to cast a fly in Horton's Creek. So he rigged up a line, and with Mr. Robert Williston as guide, set out for the stream. His luck was phenomenal. He got a very large basketful of trout, and had a fair-sized string besides. Mr. Caie estimates the weight of his catch at 50 pounds, but that is, of course, fisherman's weight. The scale weight, properly vouched for, would sound much larger than Mr. Caie's estimate. Mr. Caie estimates the weight of some of his catch at three pounds. They are certainly large trout, at least those on top of the basket, the finest we have seen for some time. The news of Mr. Caie's success has probably, before this, sent dozens of people to the stream with nets. If the stream were properly guarded the people in the vicinity would get ten times as much from anglers as they get for the fish they net.—World.
