

IF YOU CATCH COLD.

Many things may happen when you catch cold, but the thing that usually happens first is a cough. An inflammation starts up in the bronchial tubes or in the throat, and the discharge of mucus from the head constantly poisons this. Then the very contraction of the throat muscles in the act of coughing helps to irritate so that the more you cough the more you have to cough. It is, of course, beyond question that in many cases the irritation started in this way results in lung troubles that are called by serious names. It is in this irritated bronchial tube that the germ of consumption finds lodgment and breeds.

Great numbers of people disregard cough at first, and pay the penalty of neglect. Cough never did any one any good. It should be dispensed with promptly. Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a well-known remedy, and it is the surest and quickest cough cure known to day. It does not deceive by drugging the throat. It soothes the irritated parts and heals them, then the cough stops of its own accord. The action of this medicine is so simple that it seems like nature's own provision for curing a cough. Every druggist has it. 25 cents. Be sure to get the genuine, which has "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown in the bottle.

James Charest, proprietor of the hotel and Eli, Man., had his head crushed to pulp by the tongue of a gink tank, while trying to stop the runaway horses.

While canoeing on the Winnipeg River on Monday, Miss Evelyn Boucher, of Boucherville, on Rainy River, and Miss Mitchell, sister-in-law of Mr. P. C. Mills, Rat Portage were drowned.

Duck shooting commenced in Manitoba on Monday, and the marshes were filled with sportsmen. Oswald Burton, of Minnedosa, aged seventeen, was drowned in a pond, while swimming for ducks.

The Counties of Kings, Limerick, Longford, Queens, and Westmeath, and the Boroughs of Dublin and Limerick, the scenes of recent Irish League agitations, have been proclaimed subject to the new Crimes Act regarding special venue and summary trial, and the Irish League regards this as the commencement of an attempt to suppress the league.

Mr. Jardine, agent for Canada in South Africa, reports to the Trade and Commerce Department, Ottawa, from Johannesburg under date of Aug. 1 as follows: "Business in all departments here is extremely dull and likely it will be so for several months to come. The scarcity of Kaffir labor, the high wages demanded by the few yet remaining in the Rand and the impossibility of getting miners' supplies brought in by the narrow gauge one track railway, which is still controlled by the military authorities has demoralized commerce generally. Importers and mine companies still have many millions of dollars locked up in supplies awaiting shipment at the coast ports and until these goods arrive little or nothing can be done by either the mine owners or the big dealers of Johannesburg. Famine and war prices still prevail here. It will be a year perhaps before matters right themselves and business commences to boom as assuredly it will." Mr. Jardine will recommend that the goods to be sent to Cape Town exhibition be sent on to Johannesburg to be kept on view.

The Torture of Itching Piles

Mr. John Harvey, Mayor of Arnprior, Ont., states: "Only persons who have experienced the torture of itching piles can form any idea of what I suffered from this horrible disease. I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and can positively say that it has completely cured me. I tried very many so-called cures for piles, and can truthfully say that there is no remedy on the face of the earth like Dr. Chase's Ointment for this purpose. I would not be without it for any amount of money, and can heartily recommend it to all sufferers, as it is the best thing I ever used."

There are several imitations of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but so far it is the only preparation extant which is a positive and certain cure for piles of every form. You can rely on it absolutely, and it is only a waste of time and money to try substitutes. 6c cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Weed of the East Fish.

An English naval officer, writing from Suakin, Red sea country, contributes the following remarkable instance of a plant preying upon one of the vertebrata. The instance noted was observed by him when surveying the Paracel islands, in the south China sea: "As I neared a pool cut off by the tide from the sea I noticed among other submarine plants a very ordinary looking flesh colored weed. Bending to inspect it closer, I noticed numbers of small fish lying helpless in its fronds, apparently with little or no life in them. Putting my hands down to pick one of them up, I found my fingers caught by suckers on the weed, the fronds of which had closed tightly upon them.

"The fish had been caught in every conceivable way—by the head, the tail, sides, etc.—and some of them had been held until the skin was completely macerated. Those of the fish that were still living had evidently been caught at different times, they appearing in all stages of exhaustion. I regret being unable to name either the plant or the fish, but that the botanical cannibal really preyed upon the finny denizens of the deep there isn't the least doubt."

When Reptiles Ruled a World.

There was a time "in the wide revolving shades of centuries past" when our globe was wholly in the possession of walking, swimming and flying reptiles. Being the dominant type, they divided naturally into three great classes. In the oceans they became gigantic paddling enaliosaurians; on dry land, or rather, wet land, for the whole face of the globe was doubtless a quagmire at that time, they became monstrous, erect dinosaurians, some of which had legs fifteen feet or more in length; those which inhabited the regions of the air were the terrible flying pterodactyls.

For a vast but unknown length of time these awful creatures literally ruled the earth. Finally after they had "seen their day" they began to grow less and less. One by one they died out in the face of the younger and more vigorous fauna until at the present time only a few miniature alligators and crocodiles and a few toy snakes remain as reminders of skulking lizards and geckos and of the enormous reptilian types that once crowded land and sea.

Simple Indeed.

It seems as if the acme of frugality had been reached by a French officer who explained with many appropriate gestures his system of sustaining life on a pension of five francs a week. "It is simple, verve, verve simple," he said to the friend who had expressed amazement at his feat. "Sunday I go to ze house of a good friend, and zere I dine so extraordinaire and eat so verve much zat I need no more till Wednesday. "On zat day I have at my restaurant one large, verve large, dish of tripe and some onion. I abhor ze tripe—yes, and ze onion also—and togezzer zey make me so seek as I have no more any appetite till Sunday. You see, it is verve simple."

The Holland Primrose.

There is a plant in Holland, known as the evening primrose, which grows to a height of five or six feet and bears a profusion of large yellow flowers so brilliant that they attract immediate attention, even at a great distance, but the chief peculiarity about the plant is the fact that the flowers, which open just before sunset, burst into bloom so suddenly that they give one the impression of some magical agency. A man who has seen this sudden blooming says it is just as if some one had touched the land with a wand and thus covered it all at once with a golden sheet.

The Man in the Moon.

Life, whether vegetable or animal as we know it, certainly cannot exist under lunar conditions, says the London Mail. The alternations of a long day of considerably over 300 hours' duration, with a night of similar length, accompanied by changes from excessive heat to its antipodes of cold, would alone render all earthly life impossible, but experience has taught even here the adaptability of life to most extreme conditions, and it may be believed that, after all, organic life may have found a congenial home in our "lamp of night."

Money Talks.

Parvenu—I was raised as genteel as you was, an' I'll bet you a hundred on it. Come on now; money talks. Kestique—If your money talked the way you do, you'd be bankrupt pretty soon. "What do you mean?" "It would give itself away."

Stumbled on a Fact.

A minister went recently to preach in a chapel unfamiliar to him. "You must do your best to keep your voice up, sir," said the chapel keeper, "for our church is very unfortunate in its 'agnostic' effects." Whether he meant it or not, it was quite true.

Her Reward.

Blond Bridesmaid—The ushers haven't seated your Aunt Maria with the family. Other Bridesmaid (sister to the bride)—No; she sent only a pickle fork.

A New Theory.

"Papa, were we descended from monkeys?" "Not all of us, my boy. Some were ascended."

Enthusiasm gives life to what is invisible and interest to what has no immediate action on our comfort in this world.—Mme. de Staël.

SLEEPING HEROES.

Mighty Men of the Past That Are Expected to Return.

Is there any race that has not its sleeping hero? A correspondent recently pointed out that the time for the fulfillment of the prophecy that the tenth of Krishna will restore to India her independence is near at hand, and every nation has some such savior to whom the people look. West country rustics still believe that Arthur did not die, but sleeps in Avalon, and that in the hour of Britain's need he will awake, deliver the land and restore the golden age. In Germany it is a popular belief that Charles V. will some day wake from his enchanted sleep to reign over Germany, Spain, Portugal, Denmark, Belgium and Holland. Thousands of French peasants hold that Napoleon is only sleeping and that at some future time he will reappear and rule. And Mr. Newbolt has enshrined the Devon legend that Drake is only listening for the drum.

The Irish peasantry steadfastly refuse to believe that Mr. Parnell is really dead. They assert that his death was a ruse, that he was an interested spectator of his own funeral and that when the time comes he will emerge from retirement to give Ireland her independence. Every true Moslem believes that when antichrist appears Mohammed Mohadi will awake and conquer him. A Moorish legend declares that Bobadil el Chico sleeps spellbound near the Alhambra and that one day he will awake to re-establish the Moors as rulers of Granada. The Servians look to King Lager, slain by the Turks in 1389, as their final hope, and should Switzerland be again threatened by tyrants Swiss folklore declares that the three members of the Tell family who are sleeping at Rutili, near the Vierwald-Staaten-See, will rise from their enchanted slumber and maintain the freedom of the land.—London Chronicle.

The Time Honored Spanker.

Once my sister Floy was sent on an errand for some things for my mother. There was a traveling man there who was selling carpet spankers, and he asked her: "Has your mother got one of these spankers?" "No, sir," she replied. "What does she use?" he asked. "Her hand," was the prompt reply.

Made His Mark.

"Hivens, Molke, th' eye av ye! Phat's the matter?" "I struck a n'zn yesterday an' he gave me a receipt for it."

His Favorite Remedy.

"Mamma," said Tommy, "does sugar ever cure anybody of anything?" "Why do you ask, my boy?" "I thought I'd like to catch it," said Tommy.

A Way She Has.

Inquisitive Neighbor—I hear that your sister is engaged. Is that true? Small Boy—I dare say. She generally is.

Music's Power.

Grimes—Yes, I'm fond of music. There's Tinnerman, for instance—Brady—You don't call his horn blowing music?

Grimes—It has been very enjoyable to me. I got Tinnerman to keep at it night and day, and the result was that I bought the house next door for a thousand dollars less than the man who lived in it asked a week or two before.

Two Sinners.

"It is very wrong to tell a falsehood," said his mother to little Jimmie, who had caught him in one. "Then we're both offul sinners, ain't we, ma?" queried Jimmie. "Both! What do you mean?" "Why, you told Missus Smith yesterday that you hoped she'd call again, an' after she wuz gone you said you wished she'd never come again."

A Money Saver.

"But you are taking considerable risk in letting your young men owe two or three weeks' board." "Yes, there is some risk," answered the boarding house keeper. "But then, you see, they worry over it so that they lose their appetites, so I save money in the long run."

Earned.

She—He was desperately in love with her. Why, he sent her costly flowers and presents nearly every day for two years. He—Did he finally win her? She—No; he earned her.

The Truth Too Much.

"Judge," said the colored prisoner, "is I expected ter tell de truth?" "Of course you are." "Well, then, des go ahead an sentence me fast."

The Horse Is Useful Even if Dead.

The whale can be put to a great number of uses when dead, as can also the horse, the various parts of which are utilized as follows: Hair of mane and tail for haircloth, stuffing mattresses and making bags for crushing seed in oil mills, etc.; hide and skin tanned for leather for covering tables, etc.; tendons used for glue and gelatin; flesh for food for dogs, poultry and man; fat used for lamps, etc.; intestines used for covering sausages, making gut strings, etc.; heart and tongue for food; hoofs for gelatin, prussiate, fancy snuffboxes, etc.; bones for knife handles, phosphorus, superphosphate of lime and manure; blood for manure and shoes for reuse or for old iron.

In Suspense.

"So you don't know whether you want to go to work or not?" "Well, sul," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "I'd like de refusal ob de job a little while." "But I need somebody right away." "In dat case I'll have to let it go by. I've jes' bought a policy ticket, an' I'll haffer wait till affah de drawin' to see whether I've gwine to work at all or not."
