Scrofula

What is commonly inherited is not scrofula but the scrofulous disposition. This is generally and chiefly indicated by cutaneous eruptions; sometimes by paler ness, nervousness and general debility. The disease afflicted Mrs. K. T. Snyder, Union St., Troy, Ohio, when she was eighteen years old, manifesting itself by a bunch in her neck, which caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore.

It afflicted the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind., when 13 years old, and developed so rapidly that when she was 18 she had eleven running sores on her These sufferers were not benefited by neck and about her ears. professional treatment, but, as they voluntarily say, were completely cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla This peculiar medicine positively corrects the scrofulous disposition and radically and permanently cures the disease.

HUMORS OF BANKING. J.

UNNY INCIDENTS RELATED BY MEN IN THE BUSINESS.

A Farmer Who Was Glad That He Didn't Want to Borrow For Ten Instead of Five Years-A Draft That Queerly Went Astray.

"One of the best bank stories I ever heard or read," said the assistant cashier of the Capital National bank. "was related by Governor J. Hoge Tyler of Virginia in an address of welcome made to the American Bankers' association in an annual convention at Richmond, Va., Oct. 2, 1900. As I remember it, the story went about like this: Soon after the war, when banking rates, or discount rates, were high, an old country friend in one of the southwest courties a farmer, went to the bank to secure a loan of $1,000 for five years. Of course this made the man behind the grating open his eyes and look at him with wonder and astonishment, and the farmer was told that they could not make provision for such a loan as that unless they had the most satisfactory collateral that could be obtained.

"The old fellow asked. 'Collot what?' "'Collateral,' the banker answered.

"'Well, what is that?' the farmer ask-"The banker went on to describe the stocks and bonds and securities that are meant by the term collateral. The old farmer said: 'Well, if I had those things wouldn't want any money. They are better than money,' he said.

"'Well,' said the baiker, 'you can't get the money unless you succeed in getting some of those collaterals, and then we might discount your note.' "Well, the farmer succeeded in getting some collateral and in getting some personal indorsements, and also in getting his own name upon the paper and his wife's as well, and obtained mortgages on everything he had. He came and dumped his collateral down on the banker's desk. They were satisfactory, and the cashier made out his note for him for $1,000 and told him to sign it, which the farmer did. After signing the note be passed it over. Then the cashier counted him out $287.52. The old farmer ejaculated, 'Come on.' " 'No. sir,' said the cashier; 'that is all you can get on a note of $1,000 for five years at our present rate of discount.'

"'Dis what?' said the farmer. "'Discount,' said the cashier. 'That is all you can get.' "'What do you mean?' said the

"'Why,' said the cashier. 'we take off the discount for the first four months and the next four months, and so on, and then at the end of five years your note will only make $287.52." "'I am glad I did not ask you to lend me that money for ten years,' ejaculated the farmer, 'or you would have had me in debt, and I would have to pay you something for asking you to lend it to

"When I was banking in Sullivan, Ind., some years ago," said the president of a national bank, "I had a singular experience. I always locate my stories on the banks of the Wabash so that people can't tell whether I am 'stretching it' or not. One day a rustic looking fellow came into the bank and handed me a draft on New York made out, we will say, to John Bell. I was not exactly certain that I knew the man, but his appearance was in his favor, and I cashed the draft. He could not write, so I had him make his mark. The draft was forwarded to New York for collection, and in about a week or ten days it came back to us with the statement that the indorsement on the back was a forgery. The letter from the New York bank that accompanied the draft said 'John Bell, the man for whom this draft was intended, is a traveling representative for a local patent medicine house, and, while he admits that he was in the town of Sullivan on the day the draft was cashed, he declares that he did not get the money. Bell further says that he can read and write very well." "I sent for the farmer, whose name was John Bell also, to come to the bank,' continued Mr. Wilson, "and when he came I showed him the draft and the letter from the New York bank and asked him how it came about that he cashed that draft, which was intended for another man of the same vame. 'Well,' he said, 'I'll tell you how it was. There was a feller in our neighborhood a couple of weeks ago selling tickets in a lottery for a dollar apiece, and I bought one of them tickets. When I came to town the other day, I went to the postoffice to get my mail and they handed me a letter with that there draft in it. I jest supposed it was returns from my lottery ticket, and so I brought the draft to you and got the money on it.' "I could tell by the old man's face and manner that he was telling the truth, and I took his note for the amount of the time, and fixed the matter up that way.

He paid the note, too, eventually." "When I used to work in the Meridian National bank, which was afterward absorbed by the Merchants'." said another bank official, "I relieved Albert Kopp, the paying teller, one day during the noon hour while he went to lunch. An old farmer came up to the counter with a check for a hundred and some odd dollars that be had received in payment for some hogs he had brought to the city and sold. I looked at the name of the payee written on the face of the check and then at the man before me and said, 'I don't know you, my friend; you will have to be identified." He gave me an innocent stare of surprise and, reaching into his pocket, said, 'How much will

"Way back in 1876, when the civil war revenue tax was still in force," said a bank official, "a country depositor came into our bank at Sullivan and asked me for some stamps, saying he expected to have use for them pretty soon. 'What denomination?' I asked. 'Waal,' he replied, 'I am a Methodist now, but my family's all Baptists.' He had evidently never heard the word denomination used in any connection other than religious."
