THE AGONY OF SLEEPLESSNESS.

Did you ever pass a single night in wakeful misery, tossing and rolling in bed, trying in vain to sleep and longing for morning to come? Can you imagine the torture of spending night after night in this way, each succeeding night growing worse and worse. This is the most distressful symptom of Nervous Exhaustion and Debility. You can be gradually and thoroughly cured of Sleeplessness by the upbuilding influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in nature's way by creating new nerve cells and restoring lost vitality.

to escape by swimming. They endeavored to rescue him by a boat, but could find no oars, and he sank before they could reach him. Jacob Ross and Harry Percival, the sophomores who were with Bond when he jumped into the lake in his attempt to get away, were released from custody by the coroner, who holds the opinion that the drowning was an accident.

For the masses not the classes, BEN-TLEY'S Liniment is the family medicine chest. Price 10 and 25c.

Pain-Killer

For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Cramps, Diarrhoea, All Bowel Complaints

It is a sure, safe and quick remedy. There's only one PAIN-KILLER, PERRY DAVIS'. Two sizes, 25c. and 50c.

The feeling which has existed between the freshman and sophomore classes of the university of Vermont culminated at Plattsburg on Monday in the drowning of Nelson Pease Bond, of Burlington. The freshman had arranged to have their annual banquet at the Cumberland house, and Bond, with four other freshmen, was making final arrangements. Bond, it is alleged, was set upon by two sophs, presumably for the purpose of kidnapping him and keeping him from the banquet. He fled before his pursuers until he reached Wilcox's dock, an out-of-the-way place on the North Lake front. The pursuers claim he jumped into the lake in an effort

Refuse of the Universe.
"It was a Beothuk Indian legend that when God made the world he swept the universe of the refuse and cast it into the sea, and when the white men came from the rising place of the sun they called the heap Newfoundland and chose it for a dwelling place," says Norman Duncan in Ainslie's. "It may be so. In its remoter parts Newfoundland might easily be taken for the leavings and rejected materials of the work of creation, there cast away. It is as fertile as an ash heap, which, moreover, it resembles in that it contains scraps of everything which entered into the making of the world—iron, copper, coal, gold and all other treasures under the ground. The interior is a soggy, rock strewn barren, an interminably vast waste, where not so much as a shrub is to be seen and no man chooses to live. Stunted forests fringe coast, a skinny growth of pine and spruce and birch, through which you may walk miles in vain search for a schooner's spar. The shore line is rock, in some places swept by flood and fire bare of all soil—grim, naked rock. To many a Newfoundlander a sandy beach would be as great a wonder as a horse."

Meerschaum Cost In Making.
A fire in a pipe-maker's shop the other day spoiled the proprietor's stock of meerschaum and incidentally disposed of the idea, common in most smokers' minds, that this commodity is very expensive. Meerschaum itself is not expensive. That used by the manufacturers in this country is imported as raw material from Austria, but most of it is obtained in Asia Minor. Usually there are three or four different grades, running from the rough and mixed to the pure and finely grained article. There is no duty upon it. The chunks, not unlike cancell coal in shape, are packed in oblong boxes, about two feet and a half long, a foot wide and a foot high. The raw material is quite brittle and has to be soaked in water before it is used for modeling. Meerschaum pipes are expensive because much of the material from which the bowls are made has to be thrown away before a piece is found that has no flaws in it. The shavings, however, are never wasted. They are used to make a cheaper grade of pipes which are known as chip meerschaums.

Control Your Temper.
There are three reasons why one ought to control his temper, and the first is self respect. When one loses command of himself and throws the reins upon the neck of passion, he may have for the moment a certain enjoyment in the license, but there must surely come a reaction of regret. When he is calm again and the fit has passed away, every serious person must be ashamed of what he said and what he did, of the manner in which he gave himself away and the exhibition he made of himself. He will recall the amazement on the faces of his friends and the silence which they adopted as a protective measure and the soothing language which they used, as if they were speaking with a baby, and the glances which passed between them. He will not soon hold again with them as strong as he did before this outburst, nor will he have the same claim upon their confidence as a sound and clear headed man. He has acted like a fretful, peevish child and has for the time forfeited his title to manhood and the place of a man.

Woodworms Can't Stand Benzine.
Woodworms can be destroyed in oaks and woodwork by benzine. Books are locked up in a cupboard with a saucer of benzine. The insects, as well as their larvae and eggs, soon die off. Furniture and carvings are similarly placed in a room with a dish of benzine and kept closed up for several weeks, the time required for the complete destruction of the insects varying according to the thickness of the wood. New woodwork can be protected against their entry by a coating of glue, as, living on vegetable substances, they do not touch animal products.

Amusing Superstitions.
If you count warts, you will increase their number, or to handle a toad will cause warts. If two persons wash in the same water or dry their hands on the same towel, they will shortly quarrel. To bore a hole in the door frame and put in it the hair of a colored person is supposed to cure whooping cough. The rattle of a rattlesnake, if carried in the pocket, will prevent rheumatism or, if placed in the bureau drawer, will keep away moths.

The Shrew.
The shrew was originally the shrew mouse, which, when her young were helpless, would fight desperately in their defense, and so well known was the courage of this little animal, which would even go out of its way to seek an enemy at times when the nest needed protection, that the word became applied to a woman who was ever ready to seek a quarrel.

He Objected.
"No, sub. Mistab Doctahman," objected the gentleman of color—"no, sub; doan' yob go ahead en vacuumate dat ole 'ooman er mine. Doan' yob do hit. Des plunk dat air stuff in my bofe arms. but doan' fix huh so she gwine hab er so'e arm en caln' ten' ter de white folks' washin'. kase of yob do i'ze 'pintedly got ter go ter wuk!"

BUCKINGHAM WAS TAKEN.

Had Him Suse Before Curtain and Actor Went Down.
During the first year of my travels as an actor I joined a troupe that was presenting Shakespearean tragedy. We senting Shakespearean tragedy. We were playing in one of the provincial cities of England when a new actor, an inexperienced amateur, joined the company and was assigned the role of Catesby in which to make his debut in the play of "Richard the Third." During the progress of the piece one of his new lines is after a quick entrance addressed to King Richard, and he says: "My lord, the Duke of Buckingham is taken!" I can remember that on the night of his first appearance he was frightfully nervous and was anxious to proclaim the fact that the Duke of Buckingham was taken, as he had been practicing and studying it for several weeks. The result was that he got the wrong cue and made his entrance before time, crying out: "My lord, the Duke of Buckingham is taken!" Richard turned to him and in an undertone said: "Get off! Get off! You're too soon."

The actor left the stage mortified and more "rattled" than ever, so that scarcely was he in the wings before he again made the same mistake and again proclaimed that the Duke of Buckingham was taken. Richard turned upon him for the second time and told him to leave the stage. He also whispered, "Somebody take care of that idiot and tell him when to make his entrance." The prompter grabbed the actor by the hand and when the proper time came said: "Now is your time. Tell Richard he's taken." The actor rushed upon the stage, hesitated, looked at Richard and then in a wild tone of voice exclaimed: "We have him, by heaven, and we have him sure!" I believe the curtain went down, and if I remember rightly, the curtain was not the only thing that went down.—J. H. Stoddard in Saturday Evening Post

THE LOST CHILD.
A Dramatic Incident at an Ocean Grove Experience Meeting.

It had been an experience meeting. Ten thousand people were assembled in the great auditorium by the sea. There had been the handshake, the waving of handkerchiefs, the hymn, the prayer, the word which told the spiritual history of many a soul. The bishop stood upon the platform in the act of pronouncing the benediction. Emotion was at its height. It seemed as if a spiritual wave had swept over the multitude, wrapping it in a divine caress. At that moment a little child was passed up to the platform, and the bishop took it in his arms. "Lost child," were the whispered words. The baby put its dimpled arms about the bishop's neck and laid its head upon his shoulder, its yellow curls mingling with his gray hair.

"Lost child," said the bishop in his deep, sympathetic voice. "Does any one in the audience know this baby or to whom it belongs? Will the father or mother come and claim it?" There was silence, and the baby nestled closer, and the women who sat near said, "Oh!" Then a man was seen making his way to the altar. It was the baby's father. Instantly the child stretched out its arms to go to him. Then as he gave it up the bishop said: "There are 10,000 lost souls in Ocean Grove. The Father's arms are waiting to receive them. So go to your Father's outstretched arms as has this little child."

Old Time Foods.
An old writer comments in the following quaint manner on the superiority of English food over that of the poor people in France: "They ate no bread that beans in were, but of cockle or clermatyn or else of clean wheat—ne no piece of bacon, but if it be fresh flesh; other, fish fried, other, bake." But, for all that, the impossibility of obtaining fresh fish daily forced the ordinary layman to fall back upon the salted article, and the consumption of badly salted fish has since been pointed out as one of the chief causes of the medieval scourge of leprosy.—London Chronicle.

Young Doctor's Need of Haste.
"Yes," said the old doctor; "you should try to have your own carriage, by all means, because when you want to get to a patient quickly!" "Oh," interrupted the young M. D. "I don't think any patient who sent for me would be likely to die before I reached him." "No, but he might recover before you got there."

Careless Parents.
"Why don't you make a name for yourself?" asked the serious person. "I only wish I had had the chance," said the pale young man, "but my parents thought they knew it all, and they made up one of their own, and that's why I am compelled to struggle against fate under the handicap of Reginald Claude de Vere Smithers."

His Way.
Sabbath School Teacher—When very angry, what should you do? Johnny Thicket—Knock the other fellow down, sit on his head and then count 200. That's the only safe way, ma'am.

Severely Ill.
"It's sick you're been, Mrs. McGibnt say?" "Sick, is it? I was that sick that I'd be a dead woman now if I hadn't a lived."

Was Pale, Weak And Very Nervous

Mrs. Benj. Hatfield, 77 Hillyard St., St. John, N.B., writes:—"For three years I was a sufferer from extreme nervousness and female weakness. I was pale and weak, had no appetite and would sometimes faint two or three times a day. I underwent a very painful operation and for seven weeks was under the doctor's care but he seemed unable to help me. Despairing of recovery, I took the advice of a friend who told me that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would build me up and make me strong and well again. I continued this treatment, using in all sixteen boxes, and believe that I am as strong and well as ever in my life. As a result I cannot say too much for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The testimonial I see for it are not half strong enough." 50c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. On every box of the genuine will be found portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase.

The Shatuick immigration bill has passed the house of representatives at Washington. Among the more important changes are those increasing the head tax on aliens coming into the United States by land transportation from $1 to $1.50; adding to the excluded classes epileptics, persons who have been insane within five years, anarchists, or persons who advocate the overthrow of government by force, prostitutes and procurers (whose importation is now a felony, but whose entry is not prohibited), broadening the word "contract" in the contract labor law to include "offer, solicitation or promise," providing for the fine of steamship companies which receive at the port of departure aliens afflicted with leathsome or contagious disease, instead of providing as now for their deportation on arrival in the U. S.; extending time within which an alien who becomes a public charge may be deported from one to two years, and providing that immigrants over fifteen years of age should be able to read in some language.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE CONSTIPATION.

The British Columbia Legislature had an all day and night session last week. Mr. Tatlow, of Vancouver, accused Premier Dunsmuir of trying to steal two million dollars in connection with the Canadian Northern Railway scheme. The premier in return is reported to have called Tatlow a liar and a cur. The session ended in an uproar.
