Burning, Itching, Stinging Piles

If pople could only realize the virtue of Dr Chase's Ointment they would not suffer lon v v ti piles.

Mi., W. H. Whitehair, a well-known and respected citizen, cf Cobourg, Ont., states :-- "Having used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles, I can testify to its great value. The suffering which I endured from the burning, itching, stinging sensation of piles was something awful, and I can say that there is nothing in this world to equal Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this dreadful disease. I tried a great many remedies and never got more than slight relief from any of them. But while Dr. Cnase's Ointment brought quick relief it went further and made a thorough cure. I cannot say too much in recommendation of this great remedy."

This is the only preparation which is positively guaranteed to cure any form of piles. Ask your neighbors about it. 60c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto,

KISSING THE HAND.

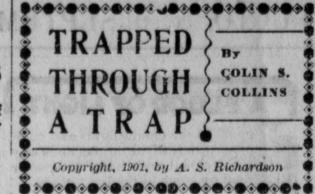

The Practice Was Instituted by the Early Roman Rulers.

The practice of kissing the hands was instituted by the early Roman rulers as a mark of subjection as much as one of respect, and under the first Cæsar the custom was kept up, but only for a time.

These worthies conceived the idea that the proper homage due to their exalted station called for less familiar modes of obeisance, so the privilege of kissing the emperor's hand was reserved as a special mark of condescension or distinction for officers of high rank.

No such restriction, however, was placed on the emperors themselves. who, if they wished to confer signal honor on any of their subjects, kissed either the mouths or the eyes of those they wished specially to favor, the kiss generally intimating some promotion or personal satisfaction for some achievement.

Roman fathers considered the practice of kissing of so delicate a nature that they never kissed their wives in the presence of their daughters. Then, too, only the nearest relatives were allowed to kiss their kindred of the gentler sex on the mouth, for in those days, as now, kissing was not a mere arbitrary sign, but it was the spontaneous language of the affections, especially that of love. Under the Romans if a lover kissed his betrothed before marriage she inherited half of his worldly goods in the event of his death before the marriage ceremony, and if she died her heritage descended to her nearest relatives.

The New York-Boston game was responsible for the quarrel.

Alice Everton, the soubrette of the "Star of the Desert" company, was au enthusiastic "fan" and would have staked the last cent of her salary on the result of the game. Hugh Truscott, business manager of the company, accommodated the young woman to the extent of a small wager and, losing, paid the price, a two pound box of bonbons, without a murmur. Edna Brink, the leading lady, who was Truscott's fiancee, was not interested in baseball and resented the presence or Miss Everton's dressing table of anything sent by her intended.

Without stopping to inquire the motive of the gift she returned Truscott his ring with the following note:

My Dear Mr. Truscott-Since you find it necessary to make gifts to Miss Everton may I suggest that the inclosed may prove useful? It is valueless to me. You need attempt no specious explanations. will read no letter you may send, nor will I listen to you should you be insolent enough to engage me in conversation. EDNA BRINK.

For three days Truscott had made every effort to explain the affair and renew his happy relations with the girl whom he really loved with the strongest emotion of his life, but he had failed ignominiously. And now he stood fingering a telegram from the New York backer of the company or dering him to report to the metropolitan office for the purpose of organizing a No. 2 company. He had twenty minutes to effect a reconciliation with Edna, and he knew that if he left the company without making his peace he need have no hope.

He rushed back on the stage, determined to speak with her at any cost. The curtain had just risen on the third act, showing the encampment of desert robbers. Miss Brink, as their captive, lay at the rear of the stage. For the climax of the act the considian would cut her fetters, and after a stirring scene they would fight their way to liberty. But in the meantime she must lie there, and Truscott stood helpless in the wings. He sought the stage manager. "Ashton," he whispered, "I leave for New York in twenty minutes, and I must speak to Miss Brink." "Don't see how, old man. She's on there now for at least twenty-five minutes." Truscott grasped him by the shoulder. "I tell you I must. Don't say I can't. It means all the world to me."

"Don't hold this miserable misunder standing against me." he urged. "You wouldn't give me a chance to explain. I lost a bet on the New York-Bosto game, and I had to be decent and pay it. Miss Everton will tell you so. Shi is nothing to me."

Polite surprise in Edna's eyes.

"I give you my word," he declared impetuously, "I have cared for no wo man since I met you. Have you had cause to doubt me before?"

The eyes were expressionless again. "As a matter of fac. Miss Evertor is engaged to marry Clark of the Hilson Opera company. It was only o. Clark's account that I was polite to her."

The eyes looked perplexed. Truscot: began to hope.

"Show me you forgive me," he plead ed. "We were so happy. Don't you remember the night you promised to be my wife? You said you'd never misjudge me."

The eyes were reminiscent.

"Don't send me away with malice in your heart. Haven't we both suffered enough in the past three days? Let me sleep on the train tonight, happy in the knowledge that you still love me."

There were tears in the eyes now. "If you forgive me, close your right eve.'

Slowly the lid drooped. A tiny smile crept round her mouth.

"If you love me very much, close both eyes," he murmured. Both blue eyes were now shrouded by the lids. Truscott sighed happily. "After that," he declared, "I must kiss you. My time is almost up. Quick -if you can, roll over the trap."

Edua glanced at the stage manager. His back was turned. The audience saw the captive roll over, apparently to ease her strained position, but to the man beneath the trap the move had a different meaning. He stood on tiptoe, and for one brief instant their lips met in a kiss of reconciliation.

"I will leave the ring for Ashton to give you, and God bless you, sweetheart." he whispered. One more kiss, and the trap was closed. Two minutes later Truscott was on the stage.

"Ashton, give this package to Miss Brink when she comes off and tell her I'll wire from New York."

"Sure, old man, but how did you manage it?"

Truscott's eyes were dancing with happiness and triumph.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

the Medicine That Has Made Thousands of Country Toilers Well and Strong. 641

There are thousands of farmers in our land who are rich in broad acres and gold. yet lack that true wealth known as good health.

It is a melancholy fact that men and women in the country districts, breathing the purest air and drinking from God's this morning. He immediately gave bubbling fountains and limpid springs, are liable to the same diseases and ailments that come thick and fast to city people. We find rheumatism, neuralgia, An official note issued at Vienna today debility, dyspepsia, kidney and liver prounces that the Hungarian govern troubles and blood diseases almost as common in the farmer's family as they are in city homes.

Paine's Celery Compound, Heaven's hest blessing to the farming community has done more for the banishment of dread disease and the building up of health than all other combined medicines. Mr. G. J. Smye, a well known farmer of Sheffield, Ont., says :

"It is with great pleasure that I testify to the value of your great medicine, Henry have been formally proposed for Paine's Celery Compound. For nearly honorary membership in the New York two years I suffered from indigescom, kidney and liver troubles. After troing several medicines that did not effort a cure, I decided to try your Compound. Before using it I was so low in health that I could not eat or sleep. I could not lie in bed owing to pain in my back; it was only by resting on elbows and knees I was enabled to obtain a slight degree of ease. Beføre I had fully taken one bottle of your médicine I began to improve. I have now taken in all fourteen bottles ments, or to any of my neighbors around Sheffield, where I am well known. I am Milwaukee and St. Louis are bidding for a living witness to the worth of Paine's Celery Compound."

A PANTHER'S DEN.

Clean and Bright, In Decided Contrast to the Popular Idea.

It was my good fortune to discover the newly abandoned lair of a cougar family and further and to me new evidence of that fastidious cleanliness which is a marked characteristic of the animal. This retreat was not at all the typical "panther's den" of tradition, but a bush grown harborage under the edge of a rock with just enough of shelf to keep off the rain. I should not have found this breeding place but for a certain well gnawed array of bones scattered over a little smooth bench above a creek channel. From this boneyard there was a very traceable path leading through grass and brush to the retreat where the dam had housed her young. The evidence here told plainly of the cougar's long immunity from annoyance and attack and of a thoroughly cleanly habit of life. There was no bone or other sign of feasting about the lair. The dam had carried her kill to the creek bench in every instance, and the children had been called to the dining room. As bones which would have been crunched or eaten by grown animals had been perfectly cleaned by the kits I was able to judge of their summer's diet. This had consisted mostly of minor game, rabbits, marmots, grouse and the like, with an occasional small deer. At least one whole family of badgers, old and young, had been served, pussy having probably lain for them at their hole until they were all in.-Franklin Welles Calkins in Outing.

TRUSCOTT MOUNTED THE TABLE AND LOW. ERED THE TRAPDOOR.

Ashton had heard of the broken engagement. He was sympathetic, but not resourceful.

"Can't I go on as an Arab and get speech with her?" pleaded Truscott. "And break up the scene? Not on your life. Look out, there's my cue!" And away hurried Ashton.

Truscott groaned. Three minutes of the precious twenty had already been wasted. A stage hand, seeing the troubled look, asked if there was anything he could do. Truscott grasped at this straw of hope.

"I want to speak immediately with Miss Brink. Can you figure out any way?"

The stage hand shook his head, then suddenly grinned.

"Come on!" and he drew Truscott down the dark stairway leading under the stage. Presently they paused directly under the center of the stage. Truscott could hear the scuffling of the stage robbers' steps overhead. The stage hand was pushing a small table

"That was easy. I trapped her through-a trap."

The Elephant In Ancient History. The word used both in Assyrian and in Hebrew' for the elephant is habba, which survives to the present day in the vernacular of the Malabar coast and of Ceylon as the name of the Indian elephant. This is usually regarded as conclusively showing that Solomon must have traded with India. but the curious fact remains that the Egyptian name of the elephant is ab or abu, which appears to be the same word. In like manner the Hebrew word for the apes which Solomon's traders brought from the east, is koph, which has been compared with the Tamil name for the monkey. It also occurs in the Sanskrit as kapi, and was adopted by the Greeks as kepos or kebos and by the Latins as cepus, but here also we are confronted by the fact that the Egyptian word for ape is similar.

Possibly the African elephant was not known till later times in Egypt and hence received an Asiatic name, as did the horse and the camel. To the Assyrians both the two humped Bactrian and the single humped Arab camel were well known, and the former may have already been used by traders in Asia Minor, where it still is found.

A List of Animals.

Here is a list that ought to be in your scrapbook. It tells you how many years certain animals live under ordinary conditions:

The elephant, 100 years and upward; rhinoceros, 20; camel, 100; lion, 25 to 50; tiger, leopard, jaguar and hyena (in confinement) about 25; beaver, 50; deer, 20; wolf, 20; fox, 14 to 16; llama, 15; chamois, 25; monkey and baboon, 16 to 19; hare, 8; squirrel, 7; rabbit, 7; swine, 25; stag, under 50; horse, 30; ass, 30; sheep, under 10; cow, 20; ox, 30; swan, parrot and raven, 200; eagle, 100; goose, 80; hen and pigeon, 10 to 16; hawk, 30 to 40; crane, 24; blackbird, 10 to 12; peacock, 20; pelican, 40 to 50; thrush, 1 to 10; wren, 2 to 3; nightingale, 15; blackcap, 15; linnet, 14 to 23; goldfinch, 20 to 24; redbreast, 10 to 12; skylark, 10 to 30; titlark, 5 to 6; chaffinch, 20 to 24; starling, 10 to 12; carp, 70 to 150; pike, 30 to 40; salmon, 16; codfish, 14 to 17; eel, 10; crocodile, 100; tortoise, 100 to 200; whale, estimated, 1,000; queen been live 4 years; drones, 4 months; worker bees, 6 months.

A Mediæval Survival.

The inhabitants of a faraway village in Surrey have been enjoying a quaint mediæval survival in the sale by auction of a local meadow. Long ago when the world was not so busy as it is today, the landlord of the White Brown meadow at Borune bequeathed the meadow subject to an auction sale which every now and again adds to the gayety of this rural population. At each bid a boy sets out to run to a given point, and the White Brown meadow is let to the bidder whose offer is unchallenged when the last boy returns.

HOW IS YOUR MOWER?

It does'nt pay to use an old worn out one. It does'nt pay to buy an inferior new one. It pays to buy the best. The best is the McCormick Vertical Lift. With it you can raise your cut terbar perpindicular ni a moment without getting off your seat and in doing so you throw your mower out of gear automatical. ly. No other mower possesses this feature, no other mower has so strong, simple and serviceable a foot-lift. No other mower has a draft-rod pulling so directly from the inside shoe. No other mower has so strong a frame. No other mower has such perfectgears. No other mower is so easily handled by mau and team. No other mower runs in the same class. "There," he said, "is the trapdoor they used for 'Faust' last week. Drop it carefully, and you'll be looking almost into Miss Brink's face. She'll hear what you say all right; only for the love of heaven and my job don't show your head above the hole." The stage hand slipped away, fingering a crisp bill. Very gently Truscott mounted the rickety table and lowered the trapdoor. Edna turned slightly at the sound, and her eyes expressed great displeasure as they met his pleading gaze. More than this she could not do. She faced the audience. "Edna," he whispered. "I must leave here in ten minutes for New York. The governor's sent for me. Write me at the Criterion. Tell me you're not an-KTY."

The face so tantalizingly near his own was that of the sphing.

Equally curious is the candlelight auction at Wharton, in Warwickshire, where the right of grazing upon the roadside and the common lands is sold each year to the man who bids highest before the last flicker of a candle dies away. As the tallow, candle burns away bidding begins, and the road surveyor, who acts as auctioneer, encourages the bidders with such phrases as "Get on, gentlemen, please; the light's burning."-St. James Gazette.
