THE PROOF.

Then the defiant, militant spirit took possession of the devoted missionary. "You think I'm a pudding!" he cried. "I'll show you I am not."

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," rejoined the savages darkly.—Detroit Free Press.

EASING THE CHEST.

It is the cold on the chest that scares people and makes them sick and sore. The cough that accompanies the chest cold is racking. When the cold is a hard one and the cough correspondingly severe, every coughing spell strains the whole system. We feel sure that if we could only stop coughing for a day or so we could get over the cold, but we try everything we know of or can hear of in the shape of medicine. We take big doses of quinine until the head buzzes and roars; we try to sweat it out; we take big draughts of whiskey, but the thing that has its grip on the chest hangs on, and won't be shaken loose.

If the irritation that makes us cough could be stopped, we would get better promptly, and it is because Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is so soothing and healing to the inflamed throat that it is so efficient a remedy for coughs and colds. This really great medicine is a very simple preparation, made of extracts of barks and gums of trees, and it never deceives. It heals the throat and the desire to cough is gone. When the cough goes the work of cure is almost complete. All druggists sell Adamson's Balsam, 25 cents. Try this famous Balsam for your sore chest and you will find prompt relief.

A GRAVE MISTAKE.

"So the Rev. Mr. Goodley was a failure at that church, eh?"

"Yes, he tried to bring the congregation into harmony with his ideas, instead of bringing his ideas into harmony with the congregation."—Philadelphia Press.

THE IMMENSE PINES OF CANADA furnish the basis for that peerless cough and cold remedy, Pny-Balsam. It cures quickly and certainly. Of all druggists, 25c. Made by proprietors of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The death of Mme. Adele Preveau which occurred last night in a miserable shelter which is called her home ends a career of romance and misery.

She was born near Paris seventy two years ago, and early in life married to Count De Doreau at that time well known and high in official favor. A dispute in a famous Paris club over a gambling debt resulted in a duel and the Count was killed.

The young widow married Henry Preveau, who came to this country to live. The young couple moved in the highest circles in Washington and were received in the diplomatic set. Later Mr. Preveau came to New York. It was here that Mr. Preveau died. His widow inherited from him considerable property, but the fund disappeared and the old lady, driven to the last resort of poverty, made application to a poor house.

From this she was taken by a negro woman and it was in the house of this woman that she died.

"What do you consider the first principles of success?"

"Well, sir, it's not altogether the ability to take money away from other people as it is to hold on to it."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Hare's Fountain of Youth.

Mr. John Hare, the eminent English actor-manager, said that the most delightful compliment he ever received was from Mr. Gladstone. It was a double ended compliment. Whichever way you took it it was satisfactory.

Mr. Hare earned fame playing old men's parts, his character as Mr. Goldby in "A Pair of Spectacles" being a good example. Added to this was a horror of having his picture taken.

Mr. Gladstone had never seen a picture of the actor, but he knew him well behind the scenes as well as before the footlights. The premier's favorite play was "A Pair of Spectacles," and he always went behind the scenes to chat awhile with the actor. The really old man and the made up old man would sit there and talk in the most delightful way for an hour after the show.

One day the Earl of Rosebery had Mr. Gladstone to dinner, and he also invited his friend, John Hare. The actor came in smooth shaven, looking about 25. He was presented to Mr. Gladstone, and the prime minister shook his hand most cordially and said: "My dear sir, I am very, very glad to meet you. I know your father very, very well. Splendid actor! Fine old man!"

It took the whole evening for the earl and Mr. Hare to convince him that this son was really the father

A Pigeon as Valet to a Crow.

"Tom was the name given to a lordly young crow," says Florence M. Kingsley in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Beauty was a snow white pigeon of about the crow's age, with whom he was reared. Just how it came about we never knew, but we soon discovered that Beauty regularly acted as maid of all work to Tom. She fetched and carried morsels of food at his imperious command, and one of her unvarying duties was the preening of her master's feathers. Tom was very much of a dandy. His coal black plumage always appeared perfectly dressed and shining, but the arduous labor of his toilet was performed for him twice every day by the humble and affectionate pigeon.

"Our fine gentleman would come in from a roll in the dust or a dip in the fountain, and seating himself upon a certain railing, utter a short, sharp call. Instantly Beauty would descend to his side and begin her task, fluttering anxiously from side to side as she worked, drawing each shining black feather carefully out to its full length in her pink bill. Tom meanwhile dozing luxuriously, with closed eyes, after the manner of the complacent patron of a skillful barber. If Beauty unfortunately pulled a feather too hard, a squawk and a sudden peck informed her of her mistake."

His Spelling System.

Dobbs met his friend Turner in the tram. They were both going to Birmingham and stopped at the same hotel. Turner registered his name "E. K. Phthologyrrrh."

Dobbs, noticing it, exclaimed, "Here, what are you using such a foreign, outlandish name for?"

"I am not assuming any foreign name," replied Turner.

"What kind of a name is it, then?"

"That is my identical old name, and it is English too—pronounced 'Turner.'"

"I can't see how you make 'Turner' out of those 13 letters; besides, what is your object in spelling that way?" asked Dobbs.

"Well, you see, nobody ever noticed my name on the register when I wrote it 'Turner,' the latter explained, "but since I commenced writing it 'Phthologyrrrh' I set them all guessing. It is, as I said before, English spelling. 'Phth' is the sound of 't' in 'ptithis,' 'olo' is the sound of 'u' in 'colonel,' 'gn' there is the 'n' in 'gnat,' 'yrrrh' is the sound of 'er' in 'myrrh.' Now, if that doesn't spell 'Turner' what does it spell?"—London Standard.

Optimism.

When the optimist was dispossessed and thrown, along with his household impedimenta, into the cold street, he chuckled furiously.

"Why do you laugh, my friend?" inquired a passerby.

"Because I have just now been emancipated from toil," replied the optimist. "For years my life has been one long struggle to keep the wolf from the door. But now that I no longer am compelled to toil, sweet, indeed, are the uses of adversity!"

Then the optimist walked off, whistling gayly, into the sunshine.

A Task.

To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend less, to make, upon the whole, a family happier by his presence, to renounce where that shall be necessary and not to be imbibed, to keep a few friends, but these with- out capitulation; above all, on the same grim conditions to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.

An Ounce of Prevention.

"As you went out," whispered the observing boarder, "I saw you pick up something from the floor, tear it in a dozen pieces and throw it in the range. Was it a love letter?"

"No," responded the practical boarder, "it was a little booklet telling how to prepare prunes in 99 different ways. I was afraid it might fall into the hands of the landlady."

Most Curious Thing.

Mrs. Quizzer (who wants to know everything)—Now, what do you consider to be the most curious thing you ever saw, professor?

Professor Trotter—A woman, madam.—Harlem Life.

BITTER FEELING BETWEEN ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

LONDON PAPERS ARRANGING THE LATTER COUNTRY.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—A rebuke administered to Mr. Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary, by Count Von Buelow in the Reichstag at Berlin yesterday as a result of the former's reference in his speech at Edinburgh Oct. 25 last, to the conduct of the German army in the war with France, 1870-71, has markedly increased the bitterness of English German discord.

The St. James Gazette, which calls Count Von Buelow a "swaggering Pharisee," says: "His offensive speech has brought the growing irritation between the two countries into a dangerous sphere. Even if Von Buelow had been the head of a Republican ministry, dependent for its life on a fickle popular opinion, there would have been little excuse for his gross perversion of facts and breach of international comity."

The Gazette concludes with expressing the belief that the Pharisaical impertinence from the German press is profoundly distasteful to the Kaiser, who is manfully trying to stem the torrent which is bearing his empire towards the Niagara of disaster," and it warns Germany that "both eastward and westward of her there is a menace which holds her armed to the teeth in sleepless vigilance, and when the expected catastrophe in southeastern Europe leaves her alone between the upper and nether millstones [she may bitterly regret the loss of the good will of this country, which she is now flinging away with both hands."

"Von Buelow's words cannot fail to be hailed throughout Europe as a snub to Great Britain," says the Pall Mall Gazette in an editorial headed "The Retort Dis courteous."

The Globe accuses Von Buelow of "deliberately pandering to the lowest and most ill-informed elements of public opinion in Germany." The Globe then lectures Emperor William for not "checking the stream of foul lies and obscene caricatures in the German press."

The Westminster Gazette alone deprecates regarding Count Von Buelow's speech as a cause for further disturbing the relations between Great Britain and Germany.

Such comments as these quoted above are bound to further inflame the public, already angered in consequence of the snub administered by Emperor William a few days ago in the North German Gazette, chief mouthpiece of the government, in which a note appeared saying that the statement in the English press to the effect that the German Emperor had pressed the Prince of Wales to attend his birthday celebration was untrue, and explaining that King Edward had suggested the visit and that Emperor William had sent an invitation.

In the Reichstag yesterday, after Count Von Tolberg, Weinger had denounced recent references of the British colonial secretary to the German army, Count Von Buelow made a speech. He said: "The last speaker alluded to a reference an English minister recently made to the German army's conduct in the Franco-German war. Should he, however, wish to adduce examples from abroad, it is advisable that he should proceed with caution, as otherwise he may incur the risk of not only being misunderstood, but also of hurting foreign feelings, even though, as I am ready to assume, there was in the case of the present instance no intention of so doing. It is quite comprehensible that a people which has become so thoroughly part and parcel of its glorious army as in Germany, should revolt at any appearance in the history of our glorious struggle for national unity being misrepresented. Such a critic, in the words of Frederic the Great concerning traducers of himself and the German army, is 'simply biting on granite.'"

A CHOICE OF EVILS.

"I told you," said the teacher apologetically to Tommy, "that I should whip you if you did not tell your father you had run away from school, didn't I?"

"That's all right," responded Thomas. "I didn't tell him. One of your lickin's—a picnic by the side of one of dad's."

PEOPLE RECOVERING

From Pneumonia, Typhoid or Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, La Grippe or any Serious Sickness

Require the Nerve Toning, Blood Enriching, Heart Sustaining Action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

It is well known that after any serious illness the heart and nerves are extremely weak and the blood greatly impoverished. For these conditions there is no remedy equals Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. It restores all the vital forces of the body which disease has impaired and weakened.

Mr. T. Barnicot, Aylmer, Ont., says:—"About a year ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, and got up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

"I had no energy and was in a miserable state of health.

"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store here, changed me from a condition of misery to good health. They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored brisk circulation of my blood, and made a new man of me.

"I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe or any other severe illness."

CHATHAM'S NEW SCHOOL.

HANDSOME STRUCTURE DESIGNED BY R. C. J. DUNN OPENED ON TUESDAY.

The Chatham World refers to the new public school building opened at Chatham on Tuesday as follows:—

The building stands at the top of a slope and is the most striking architectural feature of Chatham. It is built of freestone from Fish's French Fort Cove quarries, and the ridge of gable roof that crosses the centre of the building, give it a beautiful and striking skyline effect, especially when it is viewed diagonally from a distance. The sanitary arrangements, heating apparatus, wood storage room and janitor's apartments, are in the basement, with room to spare. On the first and second floors are ten schoolrooms 26x32 ft. each with a cloak room, and on the second floor a large assembly room. The halls are so spacious that there is no possibility of their ever becoming blocked by a crowd of frightened pupils in case of a fire alarm. An experienced teacher says he would narrow them for the purpose of giving an additional cloak room to each school, so that boys and girls might have separate rooms. This might be an improvement, but boys and girls are not allowed to crowd into the dressing rooms at the close of schools in Chatham, monitors fetching their wraps out for them. There are electric lights throughout the building, each schoolroom being lighted for the convenience of the janitor. It is heated by hot water, the boilers being of the Snowball pattern, with wood as fuel. There are wash basins and taps in halls and dressing rooms. The sanitary arrangements in the basement are the newest and best to be had. Those for the boys are in one end of the building, and those for the girls in the other end. The rooms are large and airy. The flushing arrangements are automatic. The floors of these rooms and of the passages leading to them are covered with concrete. The upper story may be used as a gymnasium and for other purposes. School opened in the building Tuesday morning, eight of the ten rooms being occupied. The teachers are Dr. Cox, Mr. McIntosh, Mr. Alsard, Mr. Wallace, Miss Mowatt, Miss Haviland, Miss Smith and Miss Lawler. The building has cost $42,000. Mr. R. C. John Dunn is the architect.

WOMAN IS AS OLD AS SHE LOOKS.

It is not age but disease, weakness and ill-health that makes women look old, care-worn and wrinkled. You cannot look your best unless you feel well, strong and vigorous, with pure, rich blood and steady nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food makes good looks because it makes good health, restores the healthful glow to the complexion, rounds out the form and gives elasticity to every motion of the body.

"What elegant language your husband always uses, Mrs. Flipperleigh."

"Yes, when he talks out loud. But he frequently thinks in golf."—Chicago Record Herald.
