DOMINION NEWS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—At a meeting of Patriotic Fund Association yesterday it was decided that the fund should apply to the members of the third contingent just the same as it did to the other contingents with the exception of married men. The wives and children of those who join the contingent will not get any benefits because married men are not supposed to go with the force. The fund will not apply to the constabulary, as that body is entirely on a different footing.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—The Ontario Legislature was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieut. Governor Mowat with the usual ceremonies. The speech from the throne referred to the recent visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to the province, and expressed the hope that it would strengthen the attachment of the people to the empire. He congratulated the people on the prosperity during the past year. He is pleased to learn that the legislation for the encouragement of the beet sugar industry is likely to produce the desired results. The only reference to the liquor traffic is in the following paragraph: "Measures will be submitted concerning the sale of intoxicating liquors, the construction of a railway from North Bay to Lake Temiscamingue, increased representation in the northern districts of the province, the assessment laws, the fisheries and extra provincial corporations."

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—The report that the minister of railways favors a system of pensions for the employes of the Intercolonial Railway is confirmed by inquiry here. If he is in a position to carry through the idea, which is not yet matured, in any definite shape, the scheme will probably be made to apply to all employes' salaries invested to good advantage. But the details would call for a good deal of thought for which Mr. Blair has not yet had the time to spare. He believes the pension or superannuation scheme is one of the best interests of the men, but it will take time to work the thing out in all its phases.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9.—Steamer Collier from Bristol was driven on the rocks off Green Island, Skagway. Seven men including Captain McIntyre, was lost. The vessel was engaged in the coal carrying trade between Vancouver and San Francisco.

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 9.—The vault at St. Mary's Catholic cemetery was broken open last night and three bodies stolen. The iron bars in the western window were broken. Out of 16 coffins three were opened and the remains taken. They represented Mrs. Hughes, mother of John Hughes, of Kingston penitentiary; Mary Crawford, who died at Rockwood asylum, and Mrs. Healy. Medical students are blamed for the robbery.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—Officers of the headquarters staff and the Ottawa brigade hold varied opinions about army dress reform regulations. All admit that a step in the direction of simplifying and reducing the cost of officers uniforms is a step in the right direction, but there is hardly a man who approves of the adoption German staff caps for Canadian officers.

It will be remembered the Imperial authorities are considering a complete reform in military uniforms. The unnecessary decorations worn by officers are to be discarded and the difference between the uniforms of officer and private, will be less marked.

In connection with the cable received by the minister of agriculture, granting permission to use space on board the supply transports for the purpose of shipping Canadian goods to Africa, it has been decided to send an official of the department to South Africa to look after the arrival and distribution of these goods. It is understood that C. T. Whitley, assistant commissioner of agriculture, will leave for Africa within the next couple of weeks on one of the transports, and that he will remain in Africa for at least six months. It has not yet been given out what class of goods will compose the first shipment.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Prof. Coleman, of the School of Practical Science, delivered

TO WEAK WOMEN EVERYWHERE.

Mrs Maxwell Tells How Much Pain and Suffering may be Remedied.

A Very Interesting Statement by an Elora Lady—She Has Found a Panacea for all Female Weakness and Wants Every Woman in Canada to Know of it.

ELORA, Ont., Jan. 13, (Special).—Mrs. Maxwell of this place has written for publication a very strong letter in which she claims that Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured her of Female Weakness after she had tried almost everything else.

This good lady, according to her statement, suffered for a long time with kidney trouble, enduring the greatest pain with a dizziness and headaches that made her very ill. She was passing through what was always a critical period in every woman's life and her troubles were considerably increased by this. Indeed her life was for a time in great danger.

She says she used Dodd's Kidney Pills with the most remarkable results, being almost instantly relieved and in a very short time completely cured and restored to good health.

She is very grateful and in her letter she says: "I cannot find words to express my gratitude to God for my marvellous cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest medicine in the world especially for those of my age."

"I could scarcely move hand or foot I was so dizzy, and violent pains would shoot through my whole system, but now thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills I feel well and smart."

This case and its cure has created quite a sensation and Mrs. Maxwell's full and frank statement of the matter has been the subject of a great deal of comment.

Dodd's Kidney Pills seem to be an infallible cure for Diseases of Women as well as for Rheumatism, Diabetes, Bright's Disease and all Kidney disorders.

an interesting address at a meeting of the Canadian Club to-night on the geological formation of Canada, and its mineral resources. The dominion now ranks third in the list of gold producing countries, $27,000,000 worth having been produced in 1900. It is a remarkable fact in this connection that 20,000 people in the Yukon district produced $20,000,000 of gold. The total value of Canada's mineral products in 1900 reached more than $63,000,000, or $12 per head of population. Prof. Coleman predicted that in the next 25 years our mineral products would reach $1,000,000,000.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—The writ for the election in Victoria to elect a successor to Col. Prior, unseated by the courts, will be issued to-day. Nomination takes place on 21st inst. and election on 28th.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—A meeting of the cabinet was held this forenoon to dispose of a capital case from British Columbia. Ah Kuong, a Chinaman, killed three of his countrymen and wounded three others with a gun near New Westminster, B. C. There was no motive for the crime. The prisoner did not even know any of them. He simply ran up against them. The doctors have decided that the prisoner is a lunatic and was insane when he killed the strangers. This being the case, there was nothing left for the governor-in-council but to remit the death sentence and to hand the prisoner over to the provincial authorities to be cared for as a lunatic. Ah Kuong was to have been hanged on the 14th of January.

MONTEAL, Jan. 11.—Amy McPherson, daughter of the well known Montreal family of Daniel McPherson, Lusingham St., was burned to death at an early hour this morning. She was feeling ill and got out of bed and lit a lamp and being weak stumbled and fell down stairs, setting fire to her night dress, which soon enveloped her in flames. She was taken to the general hospital and died there three hours afterwards.

3 MISERABLE MONTHS

South American Nerve cured this severe case of a generally upset nervous system which developed into Neuralgia of the stomach. No nervous trouble that it will not cure quickly and permanently.

William Davidson, of Theford, Ont., put in three miserable months of very acute suffering from neuralgia of the stomach and a generally disordered nervous system. Doctors failed to find any treatment that would give me any permanent help. A friend, whom South American Nerve had cured of a very stubborn case of stomach trouble, recommended it for his case. He tried it—one bottle greatly benefited and six bottles effected a permanent cure.

THE NEWBORN BABY.

Wherein and Why it is More Helpless Than a Young Brute.

The newborn child is even inferior to the lower animals of the same age in intelligence and helplessness. A young ape, or, for that matter, a young dog, is far better fitted for his immediate environment than a week old infant. But while the latter struggles onward and upward through a helpless infancy and a weak youth to the perfect man the former never progresses beyond the perfect brute. As Professor J. W. Powell says: "Every child is born destitute of things possessed in manhood which distinguish him from the lower animals. Of all instincts he is lawless, of all languages he is speechless, of all philosophies he is opinionless, of all reasoning he is thoughtless, but arts, institutions, languages, opinions and motivations he acquires as the years go by from childhood to manhood."

"In all these respects the newborn babe is hardly the peer of the newborn beast, but as the years pass ever and ever he exhibits his superiority in all of the great classes of activities until the distance by which he is separated from the brute is so great that his realm of existence is another kingdom of nature."

Science is one great, unending question. First, "Is this so?" then, "Why is it so?" are the words forever on the tongues of her votaries. And so we find Professor Alexander Chamberlain in his book, "The Child, a Study in the Evolution of Man," asking, "What is the meaning of the prolonged helplessness of human infancy?" He finds his answer in the following words of the late John Fiske, to whom he frankly gives full credit for the scientific interpretation of the prolongation of infancy:

"The prolonged helplessness of the offspring must keep the parents together for longer and longer periods in successive epochs, and when at last the association is so long kept up that the older children are growing mature while the younger ones still need protection the family relations begin to become permanent."

"The parents have lived so long in company that to seek new companionships involves some disturbance of ingrained habits, and meanwhile the older sons are more likely to continue their original association than to establish associations with strangers since they have common objects to achieve and common enemies bequeathed and acquired with neighboring families."

"As the parent dies the headship of the family thus established devolves upon the oldest or bravest or most sagacious male remaining. Thus the little group gradually becomes a clan, the members of which are united by ties considerably stronger than those which ally them to members of adjacent clans, with whom they may indeed combine to resist the aggressions of yet further outlying clans or of formidable beasts, but toward whom their feelings are usually those of hostile rivalry."

Ancient Ship Timber.

An English paper says: "Noah's ark is generally supposed to be the earliest ship of which we have record; but, says engineering, there exist paintings of Egyptian vessels immensely older than the date of 2840 B. C., usually assigned to the ark, being, indeed, probably 70 and 80 centuries old."

"Moreover, there are now in existence in Egypt boats which were built about the period the ark was constructed. They are, however, small craft, about 35 feet long, 7 or 8 feet wide and 2 1/2 to 3 feet deep. They were discovered years ago by the eminent French Egyptologist, M. J. de Morgan, in brick vaults near Cairo and were probably funeral boats. They are constructed of three inch acacia and sycamore planks, dovetailed together and fastened with trenails. They have floors, but no ribs, and, though nearly 5,000 years old, they held rigidly together after their supports had been removed."

"These may be considered side by side with the better known but much more modern Viking ship which is now to be seen in a shed at Christiania. This craft was discovered in 1880 and in a funeral mound, so that we owe both these existing examples of extremely ancient ships to funeral customs of countries so dissimilar as Egypt and Norway."

As a Last Resort.

The new minister of a small town in Inverness-shire was walking home from morning service recently when he chanced to overtake one of his parishioners, an old shoemaker. "Good morning, Mr. Bain," said the minister. "How is it your good wife is not out today?" "She's no' but poorly," was the reply. "It's nae wink of sleep she's had for the last three nights." The minister was sorry to hear such a poor account of Mrs. Bain's health and expressed a wish for a speedy improvement. "I'm thinking if she could get a good sleep," said the shoemaker, "she'd soon be on the mend. Maybe if ye're passing the hoose tomorrow ye'll no' object to ca' in an just give her frae 'lastly' to the end of your discourse this morning. I'm no' saying it wadna be very helpful."—Scottish American.

Startling Equine Sagacity.

A startling story of equine sagacity comes from the provinces. A horse was standing in the shafts of a carriage just outside the local theater. It had a weary look, as of one that desired repose. Suddenly it brightened up, and before it could be stopped it made a dash for the box office. The reasons for this unexpected behavior gave rise to much discussion till at last one of the crowd, more observant than the others, pointed out that the legend "To the Stalls" was written in large letters over the box office window.

The Wrong Horn.

Colonel Corkright—The blamed bellboy in this hotel is enough to give a man a spasm. Guess what he did when I told him to bring me a "horn" before I dressed.

Major Nash—What, suh? Colonel Corkright—He brought me a shoe horn.

So Say We All.

McJigger—You don't mean to say you believe in divorce? Thingumbob—Well, I do in the case of the man who is wedded to his opinions.

Lots of men who preach charity wait for other men to practice it.

A Startling Sermon.

Once when Father Honore, a celebrated Capuchin of the seventeenth century, was preaching on the vanity of the world he suddenly produced a skull, which he held up to view. "Speak!" he cried. "Were you not perhaps the head of a magistrate? Silence gives consent." Then, clapping upon the skull the cap of a judge, he continued: "Ah, ha! Hast thou never been snoring many times during a hearing, etc.? How many magistrates have sat under the feurs-de-lis only to put virtue at a disadvantage?"

Casting aside the skull, he held up another, which in like manner he addressed. "Wast thou not perhaps the skull of one of those beautiful ladies who occupy themselves only with caressing hearts by the manner of bird catching?" Then, arraying it in a headdress, he continued: "Ah, ha, Empty head! Where are those lovely eyes which cast such fascinating glances, that pretty mouth which shaped such gracious smiles, that made so many unhappy ones to weep in hell? Where are those teeth which chattered upon so many hearts only to make them more tender for the devil's eating?" and so on, bringing forth skull after skull and appropriately decking them to receive his reproofs.

Europe's Ice Supply.

Few perhaps among the tourists who visit Norway for the pleasures of its scenery are aware that here they are at the headquarters of Europe's ice supply. To the mountain lakes of that country the continent looks for ice. The ice is of the finest quality, for the lakes are of crystal clear water, high up in the mountains, and are surrounded by very tall pines. The ice supply is controlled by syndicates.

After having been cut into great squares by plows the blocks of ice are sent down the mountainside on slides. On the way they acquire amazing velocity and plunge into an inclosed pool beyond which are the ice ships awaiting their frozen cargo.

It sometimes happens that through delay in the starting of the vessels or the cutting of unusual quantities from the lakes to supply exceptional demands the supply runs short. Then it is that ice becomes dear and even in winter time is a luxury that must be indulged in sparingly. But ice is used in Europe far less commonly than in America, and a deficient supply does not occasion the sense of loss that it would cause in this country.

Gilbert Islands Tiptoe.

Neither tea nor coffee is drunk in the Gilbert Islands, but liquor named karafee, or toddy. It is the juice of the coconut tree, from which it is drawn daily at sunrise and sunset. To obtain it the natives climb up the tall trees and while extracting it keep up a constant yelling to let those below know that they are at work. The sap when fresh is a harmless and delicious beverage, but after it has been kept a day or two fermentation sets in, and it becomes intoxicating. Karafee does not, however, fly to the head, but a man who drinks it to excess loses the control of his legs. However, when this befalls a native he has sense enough to remain indoors and shows his face to no one, for if his chief should ever hear of it he would be tried and sentenced to hard labor and a heavy fine.

In former days a native found intoxicated was tied to a tree and received a hundred lashes, the blood fairly streaming down his back. Besides this, all his lands were confiscated to the king forever.

Witty Barrymore.

Talking of Maurice Barrymore recently, a man who knew him well told this story of him:

Once a wine agent intruded upon a party of which Barrymore was one. The agent told Barrymore he was a man of good taste, and all that, and wound up by saying:

"When you want a bottle of wine in future, will you not gratify me by asking for my wine?"

"Why, of course," answered Barrymore most graciously. "I shall be delighted to ask for your wine. But, heavens! Suppose they should have it!"

Tommy's Mistake.

Father—Come, young man, get your jacket off and come with me.

Tommy—You're not going to lick me, are you, dad?

Father—Certainly. Didn't I tell you this morning that I should settle with you for your bad behavior?

Tommy—Yes, but I thought it was only a joke, like when you told the grocer you was going to settle with him.—Tit-Bits.

Pinched on the House.

Jack—I just saw your wife, old man. She was simply stunning. By the way, you're looking rather miserable yourself. What's up?

Tom—Don't get enough nourishment; that's all. You see, I arranged with my wife a month ago to give her a certain amount each week, out of which she was to pay household expenses and buy her clothes.

The Play.

Henry J. Byron, one of the wittiest of English playwrights of a score of years ago, remarked on one occasion: "A play is like a cigar. If it's good, everybody wants a box; if it's bad, all the puffing in the world won't make it go."

Sarcastic.

"Why did you leave your last place?" "Master was too sarcastic."

"How was that?"

"Well, I told him I seen a snail on the garden path, and he says to me, 'You must have met it.'—Moonshine.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthening and Health-Giving is the Best Mid-Winter Medicine.

This is The Season When the System Should be Fortified and the Blood Made Pure.

At this time when thousands are confined for hours each day and night in badly ventilated homes, offices, stores and workshops, the system should be fortified and the blood thoroughly cleansed so that disease may be successfully resisted.

Paine's Celery Compound is the best mid-winter medicine for all ailing, weak and rundown men and women. It is the world's great disease banisher and system builder. It quickly furnishes nutriment for the innumerable nerve fibres; it arouses the organs of digestion to brisker action; it enables the wasted body to build up flesh and muscle, and dissipates the seeds of deadly disease. To all who have hollow faces, hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, betokening ill health, we say use Paine's Celery Compound and you will find a new and happier existence. New blood, fresh vim, energy and activity gained in January and February will give you a solid foundation of health for the coming spring time. Mrs. Hopper, Thornhill, Ont., says: "With very great pleasure and satisfaction I wish to add my testimony to what has already been said in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. For a very long time I suffered from general debility and rundown system. Having heard of Paine's Celery Compound, I determined to give it a trial, and I am happy to say it has done for me more good than I can express. For ten years I doctored with other medicines without any good results; but, after using Paine's Celery Compound, I am perfectly restored to health, can eat well, digestion is good, and a sleep is sweet and sound. Altogether, I am a new woman. I always recommend Paine's Celery Compound to my friends."

THE WORLD OVER.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Jan. 9.—The Rick-cyte Non-explosive Company's mill here was destroyed by fire to-day. Two men were burned to death, a third will die from his injuries and two others were seriously burned, but it is thought will recover.

The dead: John C. Stewart, Roy Smith, Injured: G. D. Roseberry, will die, James Blacker; F. K. Senkner.

It is supposed an explosion preceded the fire, Stewart's body was found in the ruins of the burned building, the limbs having been burned from the body.

The other four men escaped from the mill with their clothing burning. They ran into the river nearby to extinguish the flames and when persons attracted by the fire arrived at the scene, the men were found on the river bank suffering from their burns, Smith died a few hours later and Roseberry, it is thought, cannot recover.

The five men were employed in the mill and were the only persons in the place when the fire broke out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The surgeon at Bell-vue hospital said to-day that Thomas P. Murphy, whose leg was amputated last night as a result of injuries received in Wednesday's tunnel accident, had rallied from the operation and had good chances of recovery. Murphy's nerve in telling the rescuers not to release him from the wreck if so doing would endanger others, attracted much attention to him, and he has been, in a way, one of the most remarkable patients the hospital has ever seen. His cheerfulness under the terrible injuries he received astounded every one at the hospital. Many messages of inquiry concerning him were received yesterday and to-day and members of his family and a committee of the Knights of Columbia remained all night at the hospital to hear how he was progressing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The North German Lloyds steamer Kaiserin Maria Theresa arrived from Bremen Southampton and Cherbourg and reports an exceedingly stormy passage. The winds were from N. W. W., and S. W., with heavy gales, snow and hail, sometimes the gale would increase to hurricane force with violent gusts which, with the enormous seas, would stagger the steamer. The captain said he was obliged to proceed at reduced speed in order to ease the steamer.

The seventh day out two stowaways crawled out on deck, and in almost an exhausted condition. They had stowed away in the hold and after their provisions were gone they were driven by hunger to the deck. They will be turned over to the immigration authorities.

SOMETHING ABOUT FAITH CURES.

What a great variety of faith cures there must be, some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people who have faith in them.
