Every Mother A Doctor

It is an anxious time for mothers when the little ones get their feet cold and wet, and come home hcarse a .3 coughing, or awaken in the night viztims of deadly croup. Then it is that mothers turn gratefully to Dr. Chase. who, through his great Recipe Book and famous family remedies, has time an again saved the little ones and older ones, too, from suffering and death

It is truly surprising how promotly Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brings relief when the throat is sore and irritated, when the cold is tight in the chest, and the cough painful and distressing. It allays the inflammation, heals the sore and torn membranes, soothes the nerves and clears the air passages.

People who know of the singular virtues of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine do not think of accepting the cheap substitutes which many druggists offer in its place : 25 cents.

MOLUS RIVER NOTES.

(Too late for last issue.)

We had a visit last week from Al Coch rane, of Moncton, one of G. A. Lounsbury & Co's agents. Al is doing quite a business here this winter.

Ed. Powell also paid us a visit from Moncton last week, in the horse trading business He took away a valuable animal from St. Charles.

Councillor Roach, of Main River, paid Molus River friends a visit last week His friends were pleased to see him, also glad to see him looking so well just after the meeting of the Council board.

Mrs. Daniel Ward is improving after ber severe illness.

Richard Warman has been poorly near. ly all winter but he is improving in health.

George and Alden Warman were cutting wood last week at Bass River with their wood cutter.

Albani and Gye. The story of Mme. Albani's first London engagement is as follows: Colonel Mapleson heard of her singing at a theater at Malta, and, thinking that she would be successful, he made her an offer, through an agent, of a contract to sing in Her Majesty's theater. She agreed to it and went to London; but, on arriving there, she told the cabman to drive her to the Italian opera house. He, instead of going to Her Majesty's, took her to Covent Garden, which was also devoted to Italian opera.

She was shown up to the manager's office and stated that she had come to sign the contract which Mr. Mapleson had offered her. Mr. Gye, thinking to play a joke on his rival, Mapleson, made out a contract, and Albani signed it. Mr. Gye then told her that he was not Colonel Mapleson, but that he could do much better by her. He offered to tear up the contract if she liked, but told her that Nilsson was singing at Her Majesty's and would brook no rival.

Albani decided to let the contract stand and thus became one of the stars of Covent Garden, eventually marrying the son of Mr. Gye.

A Short National Anthem.

Japan has perhaps the shortest of all national anthems. It is called "Kimi Ga Yo." from its first three words, and consists of thirty-two syllables, which count in poetry, however, as thirty-one. The exceeding brevity is due to the national fondness for conciseness of phrase and for economy of expression in all forms of art.

The patriotic song is what the Japanese call a "tanka," or verse of five lines, the first and third being of five decorated with ferns and flowers for the and the others of seven syllables. Below is given the anthem in Japanese, with an English translation:

I underweat a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a numer of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would hen cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours. F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

THE MARCH DELINEATOR.

During the past year The Delineator's facilities for obtaining the first information of what is being done in the centres of fashion have been greatly extended. and it now commands resources that, perhaps, are not possible to any other magazine. Some of these results are shown in the March number, where is presented the first intimation of the Spring modes in garments of all kinds and millinerythe work of some of the most noted de signers of Paris, London, Vienna and New York, The literary features of the March number possess high quality and great interest. The first paper on Pictorial Photography, by J. C. Abel, shows the possibilities of the camera in a series of beautiful landscapes, the work of wellknown leaders in the photographic world. Dr. W. L. Savage, the noted physical director, contributes an article on Gymnasium Work for Women, with remarkable pictures taken from life. In the Stories of Authors' Loves, Miss Laughlin tells the story of George Eliot with the greatest charm and delicacy; while another essentially literary paper is Dr. Elliott's Recollections of Maria White (Mrs James Russell Lowell). A novelette by Arabella Kenealy, with pictures by E. M. Ashe. and a delightful pastoral by Shan F. Bullock, comprise the fiction for grown-ups, while the children will enjoy the further adventures of Dimple-Cheek and the Musical Brownies. The household department includes house furnishing, illustrated cookery, and new and economical recipes, domestic science, etc.

THE "DROP-OFF" HEART Doctors didn't give Mrs. James long to live-but Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart foiled them and cured her.

For fifteen years Mrs. John-A. James, of Wiarton, Ont., was a great sufferer from Heart Disease. For days at a time she was confined to bed, and it seemed as though every breath might be her last. Her physicians said that she might "drop off" any minute. With woman's tenacity in suffering, and believing that "while there's life there's hope," she started using Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. Three bottles cured her. This remedy relieves in thirty minutes. 75

YOUR CHANCE

Stephen Ward's friends are pleased to have him moving around among them this winter which is quite unusual for him in the winter season:

ST. ANNE. (Too late for last issue.)

It is so seldom we see news from our little village in your paper 1 will try and write a few of the latest happenings.

A very quiet wedding took place on Monday morning at 8.30 when Jos. Me lanson, of St. Mary's and Miss Leonie Richard, of St Anne, were married by the Rev. Father Robichaud, of St Anne. Intimate friends only were invited. The happy couple left Tuesday morning for St. Mary's where they will take up their abode.

Nearly all the young men of St. Anne are away in the Nova Scotia lumber WUUCS.

Mr. Jes. Warren is doing a rushing lumber business here this winter. He has kept his mill sawing all winter and expects to saw until May when it is said he will move to some other place where he will have better facilities for shipping his umber.

Sailors' Rations.

A recent writer has this to say of sailors' rations: "A sailor has dishes, and loves them, that are little appreciated ashore. He likes 'Fanny Adams' and has a great fancy for 'plum duff,' which consists of suet pudding with raisins in it. Vegetables, though they are in the official harbor menu, are not served out to the messes every day, but on certain days some groups of men get all and the others none, on a system of which Jack quite approves.

"The messes whose turn it is to have vegetables indulge in a 'pot mess,' as It is styled, perhaps not inappropriately. The messes in their turn receive the shins, scrag ends, neck pieces and other odds and ends of the meat ration -some sailors aver that every animal has at least six shins-and this miscellaneous assortment of remnants is thrown into a pot with as many vegetables as can be got. The result is a 'pot mess.'

"Any landlubber who desires to try a real naval dish will have no difficulty in getting the dish prepared, and if he eats it on a table with uneven legs which lunges up and down he can imagine he is at sea."

the highest bidder. On the death of Pertinax in 193 the Prætorian guards put up the empire for sale by auction, and, after an animated competition between Sulpician and Julian, it was knocked down to the latter for 6,250 drachmas. The Romans held auctions of various kinds, the proceedings being much the same in all cases. The Perhaps!

How many people when they marry carefully put aside their joint love letters as one of the most cherished possessions of their future life, and in how many cases afterward do they ever take them out and look at them? Now, why is this? Partly perhaps because the time of romance is over the year and are assessed for it should be and practical, everyday life has begun; partly, also, we will hope, because now they can say so many nice things to each other, and there is no need to read over the past nice things they have written.

what rare disease, whose most prominent symptom is irresistible attacks of sleep. These may come on suddenly at any time and place, and the patient is absolutely unable to stay awake. The eleep, however, is usually of short duration, from ten to thirty minutes.

The disease was described and named by Gelineau, a French physician, in 1880. It is thought by some specialists to be closely allied to epilepsy. But as the attacks resemble healthy sleepthe muscles are relaxed, the heart and respiration are slowed down, the patient on awakening is refreshed as after an ordinary nap, and there is none of the lassitude and sense of exhaustion which follows the epileptic fitit is certainly very different in origin from the latter.
