Hospital Treatment

FAILED TO BENEFIT MRS. JOHN POTTER, OF WELLANDPORT.

But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Unred Her, and she is Now Enjoying the Best of Health

It is no uncommon occurrence for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to restore sufferers to health after doctors, and even the best of hospital treatment, have failed to benefit them. Among those who have been bene fitted in this way is Mrs. John Potter, a Wellandport, Ont. Speaking about her illness to a reporter, Mrs. Potter said: "About three years ago I was greatly run down. My appetite was poor; I suffered from severe headaches and palpitation of the heart, I was very weak and had a constant feeling of weariness which no amount of sleep could overcome. At night I perspired freely and would wake up in the morning in a very enfeebled condition. To make matters worse my trouble became aggravated with those ailments so common to my sex I was afflicted with ulcers, and so bad were they that although at different times I had treatment from five doctors they failed to cure me. I then went to the hospital in Hamilton, and although I received the best treatment that could be given there, I was not benefitted. I returned home very much discouraged, and it was then that I decided that I would try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. 1 got a supply and began taking them, and to my great gratification they soon began to help me, and under their continued use my appetite returned, and headaches and violent palpitation of the heart disappeared, my weight increased, and all the troubles that had made my life so miserable vanished. It will give me great pleasure if my experience will lead some other sufferer to try these pills, as I am sure they will be benefitted." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally valuable to both men and women. They cure rheumatism, sciatica kidney trouble, neuralgia, consumption, heart ailments, female weakness, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. There are many imitations of this great medicine and the purchaser should always see that the full name, "Dr. Williams" Pink Pills for Pale People," is on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail post paid at 50c, a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The master of an elementary school sent a circular to the parents of some of the pupils under his charge stating that judicious corporal punishment often had a beneficial effect on backward boys, and asking if they would approve of such a course when he considered it necessary.

Weber's house was connected with the astronomical and magnetic observatories by a line over two miles in length. The signals were made by the deviations of the needle of a galvanometer to the right and left and were interpreted according to a conventional alphabet. A HONEYMOON CLOUD.

Why the Bride Feared Her Rusband Did Not Love Her.

"It was pretty hard to have the honeymoon clouded before we had been married two hours," complained a newly married man. "Fact is, though, the excitement of the wedding day took away the little sense I had remaining.

"We were married at noon and, after dodging the customary rice and old shoes, left for the station. We had barely time to catch our train, and I rushed up to the ticket window at once. Then, once more, we had to run the gauntlet of friends, who think it smart to throw rice down one's collar and have it sift down into one's shoes.

"We got into the train at last, and when it started I heaved a sigh of relief. When the collector came round for tickets, I handed mine over. After looking at it for a moment he asked me if the lady was traveling with me.

"'That is what I am trying to do," he answered coolly. 'One more ticket,

"That was the last straw, and I snapped out for him to mind his own

"Then it flashed upon me that in the hurry and excitement of the moment I had forgotten I had a wife. I paid the other fare and tried to laugh it off, but the look that my wife gave me will linger with me as long as I live. It took me two hours to argue her out of the impression that I didn't love her any more, and she isn't fully satisfied

The Habits of the Robin.

Let us hide behind that clump of blackberry bushes and watch the parent birds as they come to feed their young. There comes the father robin now. You can distinguish him from the mother by his darker plumage. You will notice that in coming with the food he alights on a particular twig, hops along a particular branch and alights on a particular side of the nest. If you watched him for a week. you would probably see him approach the nest in precisely the same way each time. Now here comes the mother, a lighter colored bird, with gray on the back of her head. You see that she reaches the nest by quite a different route and alights upon the other side of it, and she will do this over and over again. Like men and women, birds acquire habits which they rigidly adhere to unless something happens to prevent them .- Ernest Harold Baynes in Woman's Home Com-

Honest Mistake. The story is told of a little New England girl the workings of whose Puritan conscience involved her in difficulties on one occasion. She was studying mental arithmetic at school and took po pleasure in it. One day she told her mother, with much depression of spirit, that she had "failed again in mental arithmetic," and on being asked what problem had proved her undoing she sorrowfully mentioned the request for the addition of "nine and four."

"And didn't you know the answer,

dear?" asked her mother. "Yes'm," said the little maid; "but, you know, we are to write the answers on our slates, and before I thought I made four marks and counted up. 'Ten, 'leven, twelve, thirteen,' and then, of course, I knew that wasn't mental, so I wrote twelve for the answer to be

Hate In Church.

"Time was," says the London Chronicle, "when men wore their hats in church, and Pepys evidently considered it an unnecessary piece of strictness to insist on the bare head in church. In his diary for Nov. 17, 1661, he has the entry, 'To church and heard a simple fellow upon the praise of church musique and exclaiming against men's wearing their hats on in church.'

"On Sept. 28 following he went to the French church at the Savoy, where 'the minister do preach with his hat off, I suppose in further conformity with our church.'

"Probably it was about this date that the custom of removing hats in the church began."

Glad There Was Something. "There are not a few people who take a pitiable and morbid delight in believing that they are assailed by an incurable disease which must shortly close their careers," observed a doctor. "I am sure there is something the matter with my lungs. Please tell me the truth," said a very anxious old lady to her physician the other day. The latter made a careful examination and replied, "I find that your lungs are in a normal condition." The patient, with a deep sigh of resignation, asked, "And about how long can I expect to live with them in that condition?"

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS: Gentlemen : - Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost ny hearing in this ear entirely. underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidemally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours.

CAPITOL RED TAPE.

The Building of a Stone Wall and the Stopping Thereof. H. L. Nelson, in "Making Laws at Washington," says in The Century: The work of preparing all measures is done in secret, and no one person or leader and no party is responsible for what is done or left undone. The country does not know why this item is inserted in an appropriation bill, why that economy has been practiced or what is the reason for some bit of extravagance. Sometimes the committee demonstrates that even it might be enlightened by discussion and criticism, and perhaps the letting in of light would show that advantage might follow if congress and its committees should leave to the discretion of executive and administrative officers some of the details of expenditure. I have been told of a "breast high stone wall" at West Point, for example. Years waxed and waned while superintendents pleaded for $20,000 for the construction of a "breast high stone wall" on the road leading from the whart to the plain, the road running along the edge of a precipice. At last congress moved, and the twenty thousand dollar wall was built. Having moved, it was now impossible for it to stop, so it went on year after year appropriating $20,-000 each year for a "breast high stone wall" until "breast high stone walls" became a drug at the Military academy. They ran around the post and threatened to choke it up. Superintend-

The orthodox Icelander believes that the earth has an opening through it from pole to pole-in other words, that it is the exact counterpart of a gigantic bead. According to their idea all waters which flow to the north are drawn thitherward by a suction created by the oceans tumbling downward through the hollow, which they firmly believe exists. Their authority for the curious belief is the "Utama Saga," a semisacred work written early in the fourteenth century.

If the ancient volume is to be relied upon, one Bjorn Liefson, a fisherman who was driven northward by a flerce gale about the year 1291, is the only buman being who has ever seen the spot where the waters of all oceans plunge downward and are not seen again until they have passed entirely through the earth and again appear bubbling and frothing like a mammoth spring at the south pole.

A Valuable Secret. There is only one genuine brand of eau de cologne in the whole wide world, and its composition is a family secret and has been so for nearly 200 years past.

It was in 1706 or thereabouts that the manufacture of the famous perfume was first established by one Giovanni Maria Farina in the city whence it takes its name. There are now in Cologne and its immediate neighborhood some fifty factories for its preparation, over forty of them being in the hands of persons bearing the name of Farina. The others are conducted by kinsmen and kinswomen, mostly relations by marriage. It has been estimated that from first to last the monopoly has brought into the coffers of the clan the enormous sum of $750,-000,000, and probably this estimate is under rather than over the mark.

An English peer can demand a private audience with the sovereign to represent his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he can demand to be tried by his peers; he cannot be outlawed in any civil action, nor can he be arrested unless for an indictable offense, and he is exempt from serving on juries. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should he be liable to the last penalty of the law he can demand a silken inspead of a hempen rope.

NOT A LOVE KNOT.

Embarrassing Experience of a Woman In a Street Car.

A handsomely dressed lady riding recently in a crowded Amsterdam avenue car was fortunate enough to have a seat, but when nearing her destination she noticed that the lacing of her shoe was unfastened. It was the work of a moment, but a very trying moment, to stoop down and knot it securely. When this was accomplished, her, hat veil readjusted and her gloves once more carefully put on, it was time to signal the conductor. This she did and after two vain attempts to rise looked around indignantly to find the cause of her retarded movements. She came face to face with a very irate gentleman who had been sitting next

"Madam, madam, where are you trying to take me?" he demanded.

"I-you!" she stammered. "Yes. Look there!" He pointed to the floor, and in an instant she had grasped the situation. By mistake in groping she had found the lacing of his shoe, which she had taken for the other end of her own, and had fastened them so carefully together that it took the gentleman quite five minutes to effect a release, under the amused glances of the other occupants of the car, which had traveled twice that number of blocks before the lady was ready to give another signal.

A Chinese Proverb. An attache of one of the legations in Peking at the time when two continents were in a high state of tension was a guest at the Army and Navy club in New York a few evenings since, says Leslie's Weekly. "I had occasion," he said, "to meet Li Hung Chang, who, despite the heavy suspense overhanging his country, seemed to be, to us, painfully cheerful. One of the party present, a man in authority, referred to La's merriment.

"The interpreter mentioned it to his master, who requested him to make the most beautiful reply I ever heard. 'Tell him,' said the interpreter, quoting his master, 'that the Chinese have a proverb which I commend to all in all conditions: You cannot prevent birds of sorrow flying over your head, but you can keep them from stopping and building wests in your bair.

American "Prudishness." In the face of foreign criticism and in the face of one's own dismay at existing conditions with regard to divorce, we still sympathize with the retort administered to an alien critic of our people who had declared in private conversation that America seemed to be afflicted with the disease of prudishness. The answer was somewhat in these words (the incident occurred several years ago): "Yes, probably it is true that Americans are prudish; but, considering the revelations that have recently taken place concerning certain circles in London and considering the condition of a good part of the Parisian stage and of French literature, I, for one, am willing that we should pay that price for the knowledge that, on the whole. Americans are the decentest people in regard to the relations of the sexes on the face of the globe."

STOCKTON'S KIND HEART.

The Author's Profound Respect For the Feelings of Others. In the old days when Frank R.

Stockton was my associate in editing Hearth and Home he invented or created a Marcus Aurelius of his own in the person of an imaginary office boy. Every week he would fill a column or two with a grotesque account of the doings and sayings of his fictitious Marcus Aurelius. At last the worm turned. Our actual office boy, a youth of unusual seriousness, requested him to stop the Marcus Aurelius humor.

asked Mr. Stockton. "Well, you see, all my friends laugh at me about it, and it hurts," answered

"So you have taken it seriously?"

the office boy. "I am sorry," said Mr. Stockton. "You are a good, honest and faithful office boy. I had no thought of hurting your feelings, and I shall write no more about Marcus Aurelius."

Here was an indication of the rare character of the man. His respect for the feelings of others was profound. His tenderness toward them was a most lovable characteristic of the man. It ran through all his conduct. He never willingly or knowingly hurt the feelings of any human being, for the reason that his soul was filled with an abounding charity and love for all his fellow men.-George Cary Eggleston in Collier's Weekly.

The Effects of Artillery. It has long been a commonplace that the effects of artillery are mainly "moral," but for all that the introduction of new explosives, lyddite especially, and of quicker firing guns had insensibly revived the belief in the great material value of artillery. It lery has had a great downfall in general estimation-among those who have always taken a sane view of its uses we do not think it has-but we may fairly say that relatively to artillery the rifle has gained in reputation. We know now that lyddite, although it may make short work of a mahdi's tomb, is of little use against earthworks, especially when it falls on very soft ground, and that the stories of men whose senses left them and whose teeth shook in their heads because they happened to be within a quarter of a mile of an explosion of lyddite were mere moonshine
