FISH AS FOOD.

Of springtime, when the glinting drops seem gone Into the first notes of the hinden thrush;

The solemn, dreary beat Of winter rain and s'eet;

The mad, sweet, passionate calling of the showers To the unblossomed hours; The driving, restless, midnight sweep of rain; The fitful sobbing and the smile again Of spring's childhood; the flerce, unpitying pour Of low hung leaden clouds; the evermore Prophetic beauty of the sunset storm, Transfigured into color and to form Across the sky. O wondrous changing rain! Changeful and full of temper as man's life; Impetuous, fierce, unpitying, kind again, Prophetic, beauteous, soothing, full of strife; Through all thy changing passions hear not we now $2.75 Th' eternal note of the unchanging sea. -- Laura Spencer Portor in Atlantic.

A CHIEF DISPATCHER.

One Railroad Official Who Has All Work and No Play.

The chief train dispatcher "handles the power," distributes the cars to the various stations, decides what freight frains shall be run and is in immediate charge of the countless details that arise in the operation of trains. The duties of the superintendent and the trainmaster keep them away from the office about half the time, traveling up and down the line, stopping overnight at important stations and terminals. The chief dispatcher is always at headquarters and is the man of details. He is assisted by a "trick dispatcher" for each dispatching district. Like the sentinels at Gibraltar, the three trick dispatchers never leave their post unguarded. It may happen for a few minutes some Sunday night that there is not a train running, "not a wheel a-turnin on the division," as the men say, but there sits the dispatcher, the ever ready do with the digestibility of fish, as it representative of the official staff, the in- has with that of all other foods. Bollbusiness is heavy and the management is progressive there is a night chief also, who thus renders the position of chief

These chiefs work 12 hours each, as the nervous tension is less than that of a trick dispatcher, who is "glued to the train wire" his entire tour. In the ab- ous. Some fish are poisonous in themsence of a night chief the details are looked after by the trick dispatcher, whose work becomes much more responsible. The chief in such a case usually comes down after supper and maps out the night work and sometimes breaks in later with instructions on the train wire, which ders or skin eruptions. This is notably is "cut in" at his room.

The railroad man is seldom entirely out of touch with his work. The telegraph sounder lulls the tired chief to rest and wakes him in the morning. So trained is his ear that if wanted at night the dispatcher has to "sound" the private call on the wire only a few times to elicit a response from the sleeping chief. On Sundays the chief is on hand most of the day in obedience to the unwritten railroad commandment, "Six days shalt thou labor, and the seventh come down to the office and catch up." In most occupations "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but in railroading it makes him a bright boy, so stimulating and fascinating is the excitement of the work.

Rise of the Mustache.

The custom of wearing mustaches did not prevail in France until the reign of Louis Philippe, when it became obligatory in the whole French army. In England the mustache was worn by hussars after the peace of 1815, and it was not until the close of the Crimean war that English civilians as well as English soldiers in general wore hair on the lip.

Shortly after the mustache came into favor among gentlemen Horace Mayhew was passing through an English country town, and was immediately noted and followed by a small army of children, who pointed to his lip and called out de-

"He's got whiskers under his snout! He's got whiskers under his snout!" For a long time the mustache was the subject of raillery, even after it was becoming common, and the famous caricaturist, Leech, printed in Punch a picture of two old fashioned women who, when they were spoken to by bearded railway guards, fell on their knees and cried out: "Take all we have, gentlemen, but spare our lives!"

A Difference.

"Sir," he said to the manager of the store, "I want to warn you against that clerk at the ribbon counter. I under- ed. stand he has a wife in the east and left her on account of his bad habits, and his character, sir, his character"-The visitor became emphatic and ex-

"I beg your pardon," interrupted the manager. "You were saying something about his character." "Well, sir, they say"-

"Ah, quite a difference, my dear sir; quite a difference. My friend, such people as you may establish a reputation for a man, but you can't touch his character. A man's character is what he is; his reputation is what people say he is. Good day, sir."

And the young man at the ribbon counter just kept on working and didn't feel & breeze.

Instructed as to His Duties.

A young clerk in a wholesale house has been spending a large portion of his salary for the last few days buying cigars for friends who are "on" to a joke that was perpetrated on him. His employer engaged a new boy, and as soon as the boy came to the establishment he was instructed in his duties by our friend, who had been promoted to the position of assistant bookkeeper and given a small office by himself. About an hour after the boy started in the "boss" came around and, seeing him working, asked:

"Has the assistant bookkeeper told you what to do?" "Yes, sir," was the prompt reply; "he told me to wake him up when I saw you coming around."-Albany Journal.

A Judicial Mistake. "'Cordin t' th' statoots," began Judge Wayback as he stood up, "I'll hev t' giv y' ten yeres t' th' pennytenchury." "But," exclaimed the lawyer for the defendant jumping to his feet, "there are extenuating circumstances." "They is?" cried the judge in alarm. "If I thought thet, durned if I wouldn't giv' 'im 15 years."

The Best Kinds to Eat and the Way to Cook Them. Fish constitutes one of the most valnable articles of diet for mankind, although the popular notion that it is a good brain food because of the phosphorus it contains is incorrect. As a matter of fact fish meat in general contains less phosphorus than most kinds of flesh meat. But it is good for the brain indirectly, for it is less stimulating than flesh meat, is usually digested more easily and causes the production in the system of fewer of the waste products which, if not at once eliminated, act injuriously upon the delicate nervous system.

The last mentioned property is one which renders fish of especial value in the diet of persons suffering from Bright's disease and other affections of the kidneys, from the umatism, gout. and all those diseases which many phy sicians regard as the result of excessive formation or retention of uric acid. For convalescents also it is most useful, as it supplies a fair amount of nutritive material in palatable form, with a minimum of tax on the digestive organs.

Among the most nourishing and at the same time digestible fish are blue fish, shad, red snapper, fresh codfish, whitefish, striped bass, hallbut and flounders. And equally nutritious, although perhaps less digestible, are brook trout, lake trout, salmon, mackerel and eels. Roe is not particularly nutritious, but it is agreeable to the taste and fairly digestible.

The mode of preparation has much to cooking than frying.

The chief objection to fish is its proneness to decomposition, even when kept on ice. It may be free from any London, England. taste or odor, and yet it may have undergone changes which make it poisonselves, containing in the natural state some substance which will cause alarm-With some persons fish in any form. does not agree, causing digestive disortrue of lobsters and crabs.

Nervous Headache, Brain Fag, Dyspepsia.

The Sufferings of a Business Man Overcome by Worry and Exhausting Brain Work-Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Cures.

Sick, nervous headache and nervous dyspepsia or indigestion are usuany found together, and have a common cause in an exhausted condition of the nerves. Modern headache powders are simply narcotics that deaden the afflicted nerves. They are harmful and frequently dangerous. The only way to effect a thorough cure is to restore the nerves by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Mr. Joseph Geroux, 22 Metcalf street.

Ottawa, Ont., writes :-"I was nervous, had headache and brain fag. I was rectless at night and could not sleep. My appetite was poor, and I suffered from nervous dyspepsia. Little business cares worried and irritated me. After having used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two months, I can frankly say that I feel like a new man. My appetite is good. I rest and sleep well, and this treatment has strengthened me wonderfully. NOTARY PUBLIC, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due.'
