

FROM DEATH'S DOOR.

THE TIMELY RESCUE OF A BRIGHT LITTLE GIRL.

Was on the Verge of Complete Nervous Prostration and her Parents Thought Death Would Claim Her.

When growing girls or boys are ailing, too many parents experiment with doubtful medicines, which only touch upon the symptoms of the trouble, leaving it to return later in a more aggravated form.

When given a fair trial, that they have the largest sale of any medicine in the world. They are not an experiment—most other medicines are.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure all troubles that arise from poverty of the blood or weak nerves. Among such troubles may be named anaemia, headache, neuralgia, erysipelas, rheumatism, heart ailments, dyspepsia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, and the ailments that render miserable the lives of so many women.

Ex-Mayor Prefontaine, of Montreal, says of the Yukon, which he has just visited, that there will be three or four million dollars less taken out this year than last on account of the scarcity of water, a matter to which Mr. Ross will devote his attention as soon as possible.

Six hundred lady school teachers under the control of the Roman Catholic Committee of Public Instruction, are attending a convention at Quebec.

Six catches of muskellunge, weighing from 17 to 40 pounds, have been made in the waters of the St. Lawrence at Brockville, Ont. since Saturday.

A Pipeful of "AMBER" Plug Smoking Tobacco will burn 75 minutes.

Bleeding Piles

In Nov., 1901, Mr. Sherwood Walker, a fireman on the Canada Atlantic Railway, living at Madawaska, Ont., wrote:—"I am a great sufferer from bleeding piles. Sometimes the protruding piles come down, causing much misery and uneasiness, and at other times I am subject to bleeding piles, and they bleed to such an extent as to make me quite weak. If Dr. Chase's Ointment will cure this awful ailment you will have my everlasting gratitude."

On March 1, 1902, he wrote:—"According to my promise, I now take pleasure in writing to you. If you remember, you sent me a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment for bleeding piles some three months ago. I used it faithfully, and can say that it proved a Godsend, for it has entirely cured me of bleeding piles."

Military Crimes.

Hardship and privations do not improve the temper, and insubordination easily supervenes, while the temptation of drink, if it is to be had, is too often irresistible to weak but well meaning men long deprived of such dissipation.

Another fruitful source of transgression which, if we are to trust vague reports, became at times epidemic was the almost natural surrender to physical exhaustion, says Major Arthur Griffiths in The Fortnightly Review. To sleep on sentry is one of the most serious of military crimes. It is inexcusable from the military point of view, for the safety of thousands may hang upon the vigilance of one man, yet the strain of some wearisome, long protracted march or fatiguing operations will sometimes explain what cannot be defended.

Nor can we shut our eyes to possible guilt of a more contemptible, if not more flagrant, kind. Misbehavior before the enemy—cowardice, in plain English—is not absolutely unknown in our or any other army. It is wiser, perhaps, to draw a veil over its exhibition and the punishment that must follow, yet we cannot shut our eyes to the certainty of its occasional occurrence.

The Divinity of Justice.

The one divine work, the one ordered sacrifice, is to do justice, and it is the last we are ever inclined to do. Anything rather than that; as much charity as you choose, but no justice. "Nay," you will say, "charity is greater than justice." Yes, it is greater; it is the summit of justice; it is the temple of which justice is the foundation. But you can't have the top without the bottom; you cannot build upon charity.

You must build upon justice for this main reason—that you have not at first charity to build with. It is the last reward of good work. Do justice to your brother—you can do that whether you love him or not—and you will come to love him. It is all very fine to think you can build upon charity to begin with, but you will find all you have got to begin with begins at home and is essentially love of yourself.

The Thoughtful Stork.

On a tree close to a house, within a short distance of the river or canal, there was a stork's nest, with young ones. The roof of the house caught fire one day, and, though the flames did not actually reach the tree, the heat became scorching. So the mother stork flew down to the water, got into it and drenched her breast; then, returning to her young, she spread the mass of cool, wet feathers all over them. This she repeated over and over again, flying to the river, going down into the water and returning, her plumage drenched with wet. And thus the nest was saved, and the tender nestlings were preserved alive until the fire had been got under and all was safe. The truth of this remarkable story was vouched for by more than one eyewitness.

Hard on the Parson.

The village clergyman went away for his holiday, and a neighbor took his Sunday duties.

After the substitute had preached his first sermon he remarked to the clerk in the vestry:

"I am sorry, John, that I gave you such a short discourse, but the reason is that the dog got into my study and tore up several leaves of my sermon."

The clerk gazed wistfully upon the speaker and said:

"Oh, sir, do you think you could spare our parson a pup?"

What Weeping Means.

Tears are the result of a nervous storm in the central nervous system, under which there is such a change in the vascular terminals of the tear-secreting glands that the excretion of water from the glands is profuse. Some excretion is always in progress in order that the surface of the eye may be lavaged and cleared of foreign matters which may come in contact with it, but the controlling center is at a distance.

Better Than a Sermon.

Mammy—Bless mah heart, if de chile ain't cuttin' his eyetooth! Little Rastus (in alarm)—What's an eyetooth, mammy?

Mammy—Why, de eyetooth, chile, watches ebry word dat yo' tongue utters, an' ebry time yo' says a bad word it'll pain dat good eyetooth so much dat it'll ache fo' two hours!—Puck.

The Norway Oath.

Probably the most curious European oath is administered in Norway. The witness raises his thumb, his forefinger and his middle finger. These signify the Trinity, while the larger of the up-lifted fingers is supposed to represent the soul of the witness and the smaller to indicate his body.

Mean.

He—I am really surprised at Dr. White. After being our family doctor for years and treating me for all sorts of things, and to think of all the money we've paid him too!

She—What has he done?

He—He wouldn't pass me for the life insurance company!

The Captive.

"They tell me Maude Burlocks is going to be married."

"You're misinformed. Miss Burlocks is going to marry the man who is going to be married. Your difficulty is that you don't know Miss Burlocks."

Bound to Explain It.

"Say, pa," asked Willie sweetly, "what does a chopping sea chop?"

"I guess," answered his father thoughtfully, "it must be the sea-board."—Philadelphia Record.

How Victor Hugo Worked.

Victor Hugo always wrote standing at a high desk especially constructed for him, throwing off sheet after sheet as fast as he filled it till he would be quite snowed up in leaves of foolscap. He often rose in the middle of the night to note down an idea or a verse. He got up for the day usually at 6 o'clock and would devote from six to eight hours per diem to his work. He made but few corrections, his poems being thought out complete in his brain before he put pen to paper. It is a well known fact that he indulged in the arduous task of composition while traversing the streets of Paris on the top of an omnibus. When working out some great conception, he would spend hours in this way.

The Khedive and the Rasool.

Even to the adventurers and downright swindlers who hung about his court at Cairo and afterward pursued his wanderings Ismail extended a good natured, half contemptuous patronage. He liked a rogue far better than a fool. Once, when he had formally forbidden his door to a flagrant offender, the man, who knew his character, got a ladder and climbed into the viceroys' room, remarking, "I have obeyed your highness' commands and have crossed your threshold by the window and not by the door." The humor of the thing at once appealed to Ismail, and the offender was reinstated in his favor.

The Kodiak Bear.

The largest known living carnivorous animal is the Kodiak bear. Although the biggest creature in the western continent, the Kodiak bear has the most limited habitat of any animal in the world. The island of Kodiak, just off the western coast of Alaska, is the only place where it is found. The largest one killed by a white man measured fifteen feet in length and was six feet high at the shoulders. Standing upon his hind legs, this monster would tower nearly twenty feet in the air.

Saving His Mate.

On one occasion at a crowded performance at the Royal theater in Sydney, N. S. W., a number of years ago a couple of sailors who had been drinking were seated in the gallery. One lost his balance and fell into the stalls. The other immediately cried, "Man overboard!" and dived after his companion. With the proverbial luck of drunken sailors the first escaped with a broken leg and the second without a scratch.

Where the Shoe Pinched.

Valet—Doctor, don't you find that master is growing terribly thin?

Doctor—No harm in that, friend. He is getting too fat. He will be much better in health when he is thinner.

Valet (sighing)—Very likely, only I can't be able to wear his clothes."

Be Lenient.

"You shouldn't judge a man by the cigars he gives you," remarked the philosopher. "Some one may have given them to him."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Sun as a Timepiece.

In a Georgia justice court a colored witness was asked to name the time a difficulty occurred.

"It wuz in fodder pullin' time, sub," he replied.

"You don't understand me," said the judge. "I mean what time was it by the clock?"

"Dey warn't no clock dar, sub," said the witness.

"Well, by the sun, then?"

"Now," exclaimed the witness triumphantly, "sence you hez come right down ter business I'll tell you plain. Ef de sun had been a-shinin' hit would er been 'bout two hours in a half by sun, but ez de sun didn't show his face 'tall dat day I couldn't say fer sartin des what time hit wuz!"

Wrists and Temperature.

Actors and actresses say that if one of their number faints cold water is poured on the wrists. The result is always immediate recovery. Athletes engaged in feats of endurance understand the importance of keeping the wrists cool in summer and warm in winter, but the general public goes on wearing tight gloves and heavy cuffs during the dog days and then wonders why it is hot. Taking off one's gloves, especially in church, makes quite a surprising difference in one's temperature. Tight sleeves, above all things, make the wearer hot in oppressive weather.

The Curious Crowd.

"They're raising a safe into the tenth story next door."

"Yes?"

"Yes, and there are a lot of people down below who don't seem to realize that the safe side of the street is the side directly opposite to the safe's side."

Energy.

Strong impulses are but another name for energy. Energy may be turned to bad uses, but more good may always be made of an energetic nature than of an indolent and impulsive one.

A June Bride.

Mrs. Dearborn—Was your wedding in June?

Mrs. Wabash—Yes: three of them were.
