THE COAT OF MAIL.—Just before Napoleon set out for Belgium, he sent to the cleverest artizan of his class in Paris, and demanded of him whether he would engage to make him a coat of mail, to be worn under the ordinary dress, which should be absolutely bullet-proof; and that, if so, he might name his own price for such a work. The man engaged to make the desired object, if allowed proper time, and he named 18,000 francs as the price of it. The bargain was concluded and in due time the work was produced, and its maker honoured with a second audience of the Emperor. 'Now,' said his Imperial Majesty, 'put it on.' The man did so. 'As I am to stake my life on its efficacy, you will, I suppose, have no objections to do the same.' And he took a brace of pistols, and prepared to discharge one of them at the breast of the astonished artist. There was no retreating, however, and, half dead with fear, he stood the fire, and to the infinite credit of his work, with perfect impunity. But the Emperor was not content with one trial; he fired the second pistol at the back of the trembling artist, and afterwards discharged a fowling piece at another part of him with similar effect. 'Well,' said the Emperor, 'you have produced a capital work, undoubtedly—what is to be the price of it?' Eighteen thousand francs were named as the agreed sum. 'There is an order for them,' said the Emperor, 'and here is another, for an equal sum, for the fright that I have given you.'

The following correspondence occurred lately:—Mr. P's compliments to Mr. Q., and thinks it unnecessary his pigs should go through his ground. 'Whereupon Mr. Q. replied thus:—'Mr. Q's compliments to Mr. P., and thinks it unnecessary to spell pigs with his two gees.'—Intelligence.
