

ted fund, in the shape of loan or otherwise, to those clergymen to whom those arrears were due, they would not object.

It was confidently asserted last night, about the houses, that the second reading of the reform bill will be carried in the House of Lords by a majority of FIFTEEN, without a creation of new peers.

Mr Richard Lander, the traveller, who has succeeded in tracing the termination of the River Niger, has been to Liverpool this week, to make arrangements with the Liverpool merchants trading to the coast of Africa, preparatory to his projected journey to Timbuctoo.

The Gazette of last night announces that Earl Mulgrave is appointed Governor of Jamaica.

One remarkable appearance was observed by Dr. Yates, in the eye of those who died of cholera in the Isle of Ely, which is a black mark under the cornea.

THE REVENUE.—An account of the deficiency in the Revenue for the present quarter (probably in some degree exaggerated) is quoted from a Sunday paper in the last page. The Courier says that the falling off has "been chiefly, if not entirely, caused by the stagnation of trade arising from the delay in the discussion on the Reform Bill, and the restrictive regulations attending the cholera. It is the opinion of persons best acquainted with the subject, that if the Reform Bill should pass there will be great improvements in the Revenue for the coming Quarter, and a still greater for the next."

The intelligence from Germany bespeaks an agitated state of society. At Cassel and Carlsruhe the Press was exciting great attention. At the former place it was resolved that the censorship should be continued; at the latter the freedom of the Press was announced amid great rejoicings. It was generally thought at Paris, from present indications, that the period was not very distant when a great experiment would be made by the liberals for the achievement of the entire liberty of the Press, and other free institutions.

The Dutch papers, extracts from which, to the 10th instant, we subjoin bear a peaceful aspect. All accounts concur in rendering more probable the King's acquiescence with the treaty with Belgium.—The German Papers confirm the report given in those of France of the discomfiture of Ibrahim before St. Jean d'Acre, and the now undoubted triumph of the Sultan. Great uneasiness was felt at Alexandria for the dreaded effects of the Sultan's vengeance, as every thing tended to show that he would immediately set about making reprisals.

It has been arranged that both the Austrians and French are to evacuate the Papal States. They are to be replaced by 6000 Swiss troops now in the pay of Naples, and which the Pope is to receive into his own service. Considerable ameliorations are to be made in the institutions of the Papal States.—Courier 14th.

Florence, Feb. 27.—The only topic of conversation in this place is the landing of the French on our shores; every one is elated by the banner of liberty.

The following is the proclamation of General Cubieres to the inhabitants of Ancona:—

"Citizens,—French soldiers are come to your city. The mission of peace and guarantee which they must accomplish is entirely in the interest of your country and of your sovereign. Accomplished with loyalty it will serve to tie anew the bonds of friendship that have long united the Papal states and France. The soldiers whom Louis Philippe, King of the French, has entrusted to my command, will follow the traditions of honour, of duty, and esteem, the French army has left among you: they will lend their assistance to the laws and to the magistrates charged with their execution. The only conquest they now claim is your esteem, and they will endeavour to merit it by their discipline, as well as by their courage if necessary."

DON PEDRO'S EXPEDITION.—The Superb steamer sailed on Friday morning, with Portuguese emigrants from Falmouth, to join the expedition of Don Pedro at Terceira. As the Superb left the harbour a tri-coloured balloon was sent off with the following inscription:—"The Portuguese emigrants at Falmouth, leave the shores of sweet England with true feelings of gratitude." Some rockets were also set off, amid the vivas of the Portuguese and their friends.—Falmouth Packet.

KING LEOPOLD'S MARRIAGE.—Orders have recently been received from King Leopold, for the purchase of several articles in this country, which are, it is supposed, intended for his marriage. The increased allowance which the King receives from the state, with the fortune of his intended bride, would enable him to restore the brilliancy of the court at Brussels, and to distribute largely in charity. We have seen an authentic letter from Brussels, in which it is stated that Leopold has since his arrival in Belgium, given upwards of £15,000 to public and private charities.

A Gazette Extraordinary has been published, containing the detailed accounts of the slave insurrection at Jamaica, which occupy 18 pages, and comprise the correspondence of officers and others employed in the rebellious districts. Whilst the serious character of the insurrection is sufficiently proved, and the easy defeat and suppression of the Insurgents fully stated there is no certain cause assigned for the origin of the disturbance, beyond a belief entertained by the slaves that orders had been sent out from England to make them free, which had not been complied with by their masters. It is also said the Missionaries have indirectly encouraged the negroes to rise against their superiors, but this is highly improbable: the accusation is made against the Baptists only, and seems to rest more on supposition than facts adduced. The Wesleyans are totally free from all imputation. Whatever might have caused the disturbances, the effects have been most lamentable, for according to the general statement One Hundred plantations and settlements were already (Jan. 3) in ashes! This is indeed, a terrible calamity and no small portion of the evil is, that the unmitigated ruin which thence befalls the owners of such a number of estates (many of them, we understand, of the first class of West India properties) must re-act infallibly upon the condition of the negroes themselves, and by condemning them to increased labour, and to aggravated privation, must go to swell the general magazine of discontent, and eagerness for outrage against the laws.

THE BEST POLICY.—Let his Majesty's present Ministers steadily pursue their straightforward line of policy—let them in honesty and good faith, give the right hand of fellowship to that great nation, whose valour, whose intelligence, whose civilization, whose freedom, and whose proximity, render her the most fit ally of this great country. Let them in the conduct of affairs, avoid that which all generous minds abhor in private life, the making friends and companions of the unworthy. In this manly spirit, let them cultivate the friendship and familiar alliance of France; let them rejoice over the restoration of liberty in Portugal; and while they place themselves in line with those countries whose institutions most accord with their own, let them at the same time honourably maintain their relations with all states, and discountenance every attempt at a proselyting spirit of liberalization. And then, when the friends of the holy alliance taunt them with truckling to France, they will tell them that England is too proud to be afraid to make any country, however powerful, her friend.—Edinburgh Review.
