

which his Grace was riding was surrounded by the police, and a number of men who said they had fought with the Duke at Waterloo, and would die in his defence. At the South entrance of Carey-street, the police after letting the Duke pass made an attempt to block up the entrance of the street, and prevent the mob from following, but they succeeded in heading the Duke again, by running through the other streets, and the one man actually laid hands upon his Grace, with the intention of pulling him off his horse, but he was immediately taken away by the police. His Grace was then escorted by Mr Thomas and the police under his direction, as far as St. James's-street, when they were joined by a large number of the police who escorted the Duke to Apsley House.

UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK.—Total cases on the 21st, 311; deaths 104—22nd, cases 239; deaths 90—23rd, cases 234, deaths 73—24th, cases, 226, deaths 96—25th, cases 157, deaths 61—26th, cases 141, deaths 55—27th, cases 122, deaths 46.

1. The Reports of the Board of Health give a very imperfect view of the extent of the mortality in the city by malignant cholera. This is evident, from a comparison of their reports with the City Inspector's report of interments. The Board of Health report only 586 deaths by malignant cholera, during the week ending the 21st instant, while the City Inspector reports 716 interments for the same period, under the same head. We doubt whether even the City Inspector's report gives a full view of the mortality which may be fairly ascribed to the pestilence, as many of the deaths which are set down under other heads, doubtless owe their fatal termination to the cause, (whatever it is) which produces malignant cholera. If we consider 110 as the mortality from ordinary causes, (and for the reasons which we assigned last week, we consider this an ample allowance), we may set down 777 of the deaths last week to the score of the pestilence. Proceeding upon the same principle, we make the deaths, from pestilence, during the first days of the present week, 612; and the total number, between the 4th and 26th instant, 1855.

2. The plague reached its climax on Sunday last, and is now rapidly declining. This is evident from the reports of interments for the last eleven days, which we give below:

Monday the 16th	89	Sunday the 22nd	176
Tuesday the 17th	134	Monday the 13rd	135
Wednesday the 18th	125	Tuesday the 24th	140
Thursday the 19th	120	Wednesday 25th	135
Friday the 20th	149	Thursday the 26th	106
Saturday the 21st	140

These numbers give the total interments for each day. About 16, on an average, may be deducted for deaths from ordinary causes, and the rest must go to the account of pestilence. When the plague was at its height, probably 160 perished in one day; and on Thursday, perhaps only 90, being an abatement of nearly one half in four days.

3. The mortality continues almost exclusively in the haunts of the vicious and the filthy. The exceptions can be traced in almost every case to great imprudence especially in the neglect of the premonitory symptoms of the disease.

The City Inspector reports the deaths of 887 persons during the week ending on Saturday, July 21:—Under 1 year of age, 60; between 20 to 30 years, 143; between 30 and 40 years, 214; between 40 and 50, 142; 50 to 60, 80; 60 to 70, 58; 70 to 80, 28; 80 to 90, 7; 90 to 100, 2; 100 and upwards 1.—Died of cholera morbus, 6; cholera malignant, 716; diarrhoea, 6; fevers, 8.—There were buried in Potter's Field, 534; St. Patrick's Cathedral, 134; Trinity Church, 29.—Of the 887 deaths, 395 were men, 307 women, 111 boys, 84 girls.

The number of interments in this city, during the week ending 21st inst. (Saturday) was eight hundred and eighty-seven—of which seven hundred and sixteen were by malignant cholera. The number of deaths is more than four times as great as ever occurred here before, in any one week, except the week ending 14th inst. when the number of interments was 510. The whole number carried off by the yellow fever in 1822, was less than have died within the last three days. The whole number of deaths during that year (3,231) was less than four times as many as have died during the past week. It should be observed, however, that the population was then much smaller than it is at the present.—Journal of Commerce lities. Miss M. died at a boarding school in Broadway.

A Distressing Case.—Mr Albert Bogert, silversmith, 25 Madison-street, was taken sick with the cholera and died yesterday morning, and this morning the corpses of four other persons of his family, three children and a servant girl, were lain out for burial. The situation of Mrs B. who is suffering from grief and fatigue, may be better imagined than described. We understand that the family was quite respectable.
